

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. You can search through the full text of this book on the web at http://books.google.com/

NOTES IN SEASON,

HENRY HOLT & Co. have now ready Prof. Simon Newcombe's "Algebra," in his new mathematical series. They have in preparation M. Taine's "Jacobin Conquest," the second volume of his history of the origines of contemporary France.

G P. PUTNAM'S Sons have now ready W. H. Ma lock's long-promised "Romance of the Nineteenth Century," already described in these columns; and "Habitual Mouth Breathing: its Causes, Effects and Treatment," by Clinton Wagner, M.D.

PRESLEY BLAKISTON, Philadelphia, has now ready the new, third edition of Holden's "Landmarks, Medical and Surgical;" "A Guide to the Use of the Laryngoscope in General Practice," by Gordon Holmes, L.R.C.P.E., containing fifteen engravings; and "Indigestion: What it Is; What it Leads to; and a New Method of treating it," by John Beadnell Gill,—the second revised and enlarged edition.

HENRY C. LEA'S SON & Co., have now ready "A Practical Treatise on Impotence, Sterlity, and Allied Disorders of the Male Sexual Organs," by Samuel W. Gross, A. M., M. D. The book is octavo in form, and contains sixteen illustrations. The author's aim, as stated in his preface, has been to supply in a compact form practical and strictly scientific information in regard to a class of common and grave disorders, upon the correction of which so much of human happiness depends.

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish immediately "The Letters of Madame de Rémusat," translated by Mrs. Cashel Hoey and Mr. John Lillie. These letters, which have just appeared in Paris, are described as being full of news and courtgossip, and consequently serve as a suitable pendant to the famous Memoirs of that lady. Messrs. Appleton will shortly begin a series of English Classics, in small volumes, elegantly printed. The opening volumes of the series will be "English Odes," selected by Edward W. Gosse; Tennyson's "In Memoriam" and "The Princess;" "Of the Imitation of Christ," by Thomas à Kempis; "Selections from Shelley's Poems," etc.

Cassell, Petter, Galpin & Co. have just issued an important volume for sportsmen and military men, entitled "The Gun and its Development," by W. W. Greener. The work describes all the leading improvements and recent inventions relating to breach mechanisms of sporting and military arms, and gives a comprehensive history of firearms, gunpowder, projectiles and cartridges, from the date of their introduction to the present day. The science of gunmaking is fully entered into, and details given of the manufacture of guns, explosives, and cartridges. The notes on shooting include the results of target experiments, hints on handling guns, history of pigeon shooting, a synopsis of the hunting grounds of the world, with hints as to the favored localities, the best means of obtaining game, full instructions respecting outlits required by sportsmen abroad, and the customs' regulations and tariff upon sporting goods. The volume contains five hundred illustrations. In their Popular Library they have lately issued "The Rev. Rowland Hill, Preacher and Wit," by Edward W. Brown, with an introduction by the Rev. Dr. John Stoughton. They announce as nearly ready in the Popular Library "Domestic Folklore," by Rev. T. F. BUSINESS NOTES.

Boston.—A second meeting of the creditors of A. K. Loring was held June 28, and the committee appointed at first meeting reported, through Mr. Shepard, that the gross liabilities are $28,514.75, the gross assets $19,304.36. In the latter the stereotype plates are valued at $10,230 (a sum far larger than they would probably bring). The liabilities include $3000 due on copyright.

RUTLAND, VT.—On account of the large increase in the wholesale book and paper business of Tuttle & Co., they have now leased the entire basement in D. L. Morgan's block, 92x20, adjoining the Herald building, for additional storage. They built a large addition to the Herald building a year ago, but have now outgrown that, and are compelled to seek more room in addition to keep up with the demands of their business.

Scene laid in the upper circles of aristocratic society in France; the story of a fashionable marriage; the author's aim is to show how an accomplished, beautiful, and amiable girl may be transformed, by being wedded to a worthless, cynical and depraved husband, into a kind of moral monster, capable of anything and believing in nothing.

"In Contrasts' the author gives first a fair description of a quiet, narrow, pious Massachusetts village, and of a family consisting of a widow and two orphan granddaughters. born of a runaway marriage between the pretty country girl, and a handsome, wild young Southerner. After the grandmother's death, the children are taken by their Southern grandparents, and the contrasts in every way are marked; the Northern and the Southern virtues flower in different fashion. The Southern country life is very pleasant, and the next contrast comes when the beautiful sister Maggie visits Baltimore and becomes the belle of a fist and fashionable set there. Then come the temptations to trifle with affection, and to win a moment's pleasure or triumph at any cost."—Boston Advertiser.

Haley, Rev. J: W. The hereafter of sin: what it will be; with answers to certain questions and objections. Andover, Warren F. Dra-

In this work the author has endeavored to set forth, "in a plain and intelligible manner, that theory of future punishment which he believes to be deducible from the Scriptures, and to accord with sound philosophy." He hopes to relieve the minds of a large class of persons who recognize the doctrine of endless misery as taught in the Bible, and yet find it difficult or impossible to reconcile that doctrine with their own ideas and feelings, by calling attention to the fact "that the punishment which awaits the finally impenitent is not an arbitrary infliction, but is simply the legitimate result of transgression, the outcome of the moral laws of the universe."

Henderson, P: Hand-book of plants. N. Y., P: Henderson & Co., 1881. 411 p. O. cl., $3. This work is designed to fill a want that many amateur and professional horticulturists have often felt—the need of a, concise yet comprehensive dictionary of plants. The scope of the work embraces the botanical name, derivation, Lineman and natural orders of botany of all the leading gapers of oresmental and useful plants, up to the present time, with concise instructions for propagation and culture. A valuable feature of the book, particularly to amateurs, is the great care that has been given to obtaining all known local or common names, and a comprehensive glossary of botanical and technical terms is also given, which will be found of great value even to the experienced horticulturist. As a book of reference it will take the place, for all practical purposes, of the expensive and voluminous European works of this kind, as it has been written with a view to meet the wants of those engaged in horticulture in this country. Instructions for the culture of many important plants have been given at length.

JULY 2, 1881.

The trade are invited to send "Communications" to the editor on any topic of interest to the trade, and as to which an interchange of opinion is desirable. Also, matter for "Notes and Queries." Notes from librarians will also be gratefully received.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

In presenting to our readers the report of the Board of Trustees of the Booksellers' and Stationers' Provident Association, together with an account of the second annual meeting, we again desire to direct the attention of the whole trade to the existence of the association, and to repeat the hope so frequently recorded in these columns that the interest in the association and direct participation in its labors may become more general among the entire trade. The demand made upon its members is small; the results that may be attained are most beneficial.

THE CONDITION OF THE BOOK TRADE.

From the Boston Journal, June 17.

At the Convention of Booksellers and Stationers held at Chicago, last week, resolutions were adopted with reference to the abuses which have demoralized the book trade of late years, and urging the imperative necessity of reform. People who remember the attempt which was made several years ago to check the evils which then as now were clearly recognized by publishers and booksellers, and the dreary failure which followed, will not be sanguine as to any enduring results of the Chicago meeting. Nevertheless, it would seem that the mere instinct of self-preservation would compel the trade to arrange some concert of action and adhere to it. The bookseller is essential to the success of the publisher, and he cannot i prudently be displaced by the book agent or by any system of direct dealing by mail and express between publisher and buyer. bookstore, with its opportunities for the leisurely inspection of books, and with the suggestions as to editions, styles, bindings and prices which the intelligent bookseller is able to make, should be the medium through which publishers should reach the book-buying public. But the bookseller's prosperity has been assailed from so many different quarters of late years that he is in a fair way to be eliminated from the trade unless something is shortly done in his behalf. He cannot carry a stock large enough to secure and retain custom unless he has a margin sufficient to secure him against loss. There prevails in some minds an impressiom that there is less hazard in carrying a stock of books than in dealing in most other commodities. This is an error. There are fashions in books as in other things. The bookseller's stock is not perishable in the same sense that a fruiterer's is. but the books are few which make a "hit," and fewer still which take a place as permanent literature, and the dealer who carries over any considerable supply of one season's books to the next, unless they are tolerably good editions of standard books, is as badly overloaded as a dry goods dealer who is burdened with last year's patterns.

These are the ordinary contingencies of the trade, which the prudent dealer would have to provide against if he were given a fair chance. But in order to have a fair chance, especially if his place of business be out of the large cities, and his book-buying constituency be not a large one, the ordinary trade discounts are not too great to give him a living prospect. Here the publisher steps in with the advertised offer to send to any buyer, postage paid, and at the regular retail price, any book on his list. The buyer has little reason to go to the bookstore when he can deal direct with the publisher on the same terms. But this is not the worst of it. The publishers have an easy code by which they admit to the privileges of full trade discounts a good many large buyers, and some who are not large buyers, and the booksellers are few, probably, who have not had some customer leave them in a rage because they could not give him as good terms as he had been in the habit of getting from the publishers. When a bookseller discovers that the man to whom he is trying to sell books can actually buy at better terms than he can, he might be pardoned for putting up his shutters and going out to drown himself. The result of the attempted combination in the trade a few years ago was a positive pledge all around not to sell to any customer at more than twenty per cent. discount. There were two consequences to this agreement; the first, that every buyer, small or large, promptly claimed the twenty per cent. discount; and the second, that the "book-butchers" went on a-butchering, selling at any price they pleased, and had no difficulty in getting all the books and all the credit they wanted, notwithstanding the fact that all the reputable publishers had pledged themselves to have no dealings with undersellers.

Even this is not the sum of the bookseller's woes. He is cut off from the handling of textbooks by the net-price system and the dealings of publishers with committees through salaried agents. The quickest-selling books, to a large extent, are taken from him altogether, and sold by agents on the subscription system. Then he is exposed to the competition of every dealer in notions who feels like adding a "book-counter" to his other attractions; and, finally, the system of trade sales unsettles prices, stocks up the book-butchers, and knocks off a certain per cent from the value of the books which the bookseller is carrying. Taking all these things into consideration, it is clear that the lot of the average bookseller is quite far from being a happy one. The traditional bookseller of the past, intelligent, courteous, with a genuine love for books and an extensive acquaintance with their contents, is fast becoming only a tradition, or if he lingers, it is to find himself crowded to the wall by the practitioners of the new order of things. It is a pity to see the honorable traditions of a trade so respected and so essential to the best interests of literature, fast passing away, and although it seems like hoping against hope, we cannot but wish that a way may be found out of the existing practices to a better and more secure system.

makes the following remarks:

There are certain growing grievances con-nected with the business of the bookseller which, if not dealt with in time, must result in driving him to other fields for the employment of his capital. It is only when some of the most common practices of the trade, thus characterized, are viewed from the standpoint of other departments that their inconsistency is most The wholesale grocer who sells a obvious, pound of tea, the sugar refiner who sells a few pounds of sugar, the manufacturerer who sells a pair of shoes, a yard of cotton or woollen cloth to consumers at large, anomalous as this may seem, would be doing nothing more injurious to his trade customers than does the publisher who sells a single volume to every caller, or who offers to "send by mail, postage free," any of his publications on receipt of the price at which his retail customer must sell the same. But the publisher evidently does not feel himself bound by the usual restrictions and regulations of trade, for after, and even while, stocking the shelves of his larger customer, he does not for a moment hesitate to enter into active competition with him.

Among the grievances under which the Canadian formerly labored, not least was the advantage which the purchaser of single books direct from the publisher enjoyed as compared with the retailer. The latter was compelled to pay duty on his goods, besides the harassing delays incident to customs regulations, while the former could get his books duty free, the post office sufficing as his shipping agent, freight carrier, Custom House, and Custom House broker. This injustice was happily done away with by the present tariff regulations, but not till after repeated representations on the part of the leading dealers.

BOOKSELLERS' AND STATIONERS' PROVIDENT ASSOCIATION.

The second annual meeting of the Association was held at the Trade Sale Rooms of Messrs. Geo. A. Leavitt & Co., Clinton Hall,

In their first annual report the Board urged upon you the necessity of your giving your individual assistance and support to the work of increasing our membership. Have you done so? This is a question for each member to answer for himself, and if he finds that the answer is in the negative, now is the time for him to mend his ways and take hold earnestly of this work. No association of the nature of ours can succeed without this individual work on the part of its members.

Twenty-two members were elected at the April and May meetings of the Board, showing a disposition in the trade at this time to join the Association if encouraged. The universal prosperity with which the country is now favored, and the wise legislation at Albany, encourages us to believe that we can with proper exertion increase our membership one hundred per cent the present year.

Respectfully submitted for the Board of Trustees.

CHARLES T. DILLINGHAM, Persident.

CONTINENTAL CORRESPONDENCE.

PARIS, May 31st.

Max of talents who hold a gifted pen may confidently bide their time, sure that a little sooner or a little later, full justice will be done them. We have had a striking example of this truth. G. Pallain has just given us the "Correspondence Inédite du Prince de Talleyrand el du Roi Louis XVIII., pendant le Congrés de Vienne," 8vo, 28+532 p. It has an exceltent preface, and valuable notes. Taileyrand's reputation has increased immensely by this publication, which shows him to have been a man of uncommon ability, and exhibits the characteristics of his great talent. Strange to say (for here we are on intellect's most delicate domain) universal suffrage proves to be a better judge than men of eminent talents.

terre," 10th vol., 18mo, 32t p., of letters which first appeared in Le Temps and afterwards in 8vo; A. Bouche Leclercq's "Histoire de la Divination dans l'antiquité," etc., 8vo, 430 p. (this third volume gives a history of oracles of the gods, of heroes, of the eminent dead, of foreign oracles domesticated in Greece); M. Pegot-Ogier's" Histoire des îles de la Manche, (Jersey, Guernesy, Alderney, Sark, and Herm), 8vo, 22+560 p.; and. T. Zeller's "Diplomatie Française vers le milieu du XVI. Siècle, 8vo. 13+416 p. (the correspondence of G. Pellicier, Francis L's ambassador to Venice).

In archæology we have C. Clermont Ganneau's " Etudes d'Archéologie Orientale," Bvo, 39 + 156 p. (the first part of the work's first vol., It is a dissertation, illustrated with 8 pl., of the " Palestrina Phenician Cup "); and the first number of G. Perrot and C. Chippiex's "Histoire de l'Art dans l'Antiquité," (the first volume will treat of art in Egypt, and will be illustrated by 600 engravings ; the work will be in five or six volumes, and will trace art's course in Assyria, Persia, Asia Minor, Greece, Etruria, and Rome). The fortnight has produced only one book of travels: Abbé L. Vigneron's " Deux Ans au Se-Tchouan," 18mo, 10 + 299 p., with wood-cuts and a map of that province of Central Asia: and only one biography: M. A. Mignaty's "Corège," 8vo, 8+455 p., and 2 photos. (an introduction on the development of Italian Culture, and on the genius of the revival, followed by a life and critical examination of the works of this great Italian painter).

In miscellaneous works, the first place belongs to the " Annuaire de la Société des Amis des Livres," beautifully printed by Motteroz, on vellum paper; it is a small 8vo, of 180 p., with one etching, and four copies by chemical processes of engravings; 250 copies have been printed, only 150 of them have been put on mle. I may next mention P. Pradier-Fodéré's "Cours de Droit Diplomatique," 8vo, 2 vois., 15+1217 p. These are the lighter works : Mark Twain's "Esquisses Américaines," done into French by E. Blémont (five copies are printed on China paper, five on Dutch paper, for biliophiles); G. de Maupassant's "Maison Tellier," 18mo, 316 p., V. de Montepin's "Son Altesse l'Amour," vois. 3 and 4, 18mo, 659 p. I ought to have added to the miscellaneous publicacations, E. Zola's " Nos Auteurs Dramatiques," 18mo, 422 p. (a republication in book form of his dramatic reports to the newspapers); and A. Theuriet's "Enchantments de la Forêt," 8vo, 228 p. (he is a sort of French John Burroughs).

These are the sales of works. H. Greville's " Maison de Maurèze," has found 11,000 buyers ; Mortimer Ternaux's six volumes, "Histoire de la Terreur," 3000; Mme, de Pressensé's "Journal de Thérèse," 6000, O Feuillet's "Histoire d'une Parisienne," 16,000, and still sells at the rate of 300 a day; Mme. de Rémusat's "Memoirs," 16,000 (though the price is $4.50); H. Rochefort's "Mile. Bismarck," 13.000, and "De Nouméa en Europe," 8000;
J. Richepin's "La Glu," 5000, and "Mme.
André, '7000; A. Silvestre's "Farces de Mon Ami Jacques," 5000.

The third part of the library of the late Am-Thiers and Vaulabelle gave us wrong impres-sions of these letters. Our other histories are: It is in nowise inferior to the first and second. L. Blanc's "Dix Aus de l'Histoire d'Angle- | parts.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A New edition of J. S. C. Abbott's "History of Christianity" will be published by D. Lothrop & Co.

LEE & SHEPARD have in press for summer reading "My Sister Kitty," a novel by "Beulah," whose friends know her as Miss Fanny D. Bates.

A. WILLIAMS & Co., will publish shortly a story of "Cape Cod Folks," which will be exceedingly racy and entertaining if it does anything like justice to the subject.

JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co., will bring out very shortly Mr. Howell's novellette "A Fearful Responsibility," coupling with it two of Mr. Howell's short stories, "Tonelli's Marriage," and "At the Sign of the Savage." It is easy to foretell a large demand for this book.

ORANGE JUDD Co. have nearly ready "Riding and Training Saddle Horses," by George E. Warring, Jr., and Edward L. Anderson; and a new revised and enlarged edition of A.S. Fuller's "Small Fruit Culturist." Both volumes are fully illustrated.

E. P. DUTTON & Co., in addition to the books already announced, will publish for the Christmas holidays, "The Children's Kettledrum," with original colored illustrations by a celebrated English artist; "Pinafore Pictures and Rhymes," with original colored illustrations by Miss Vaughan. These books were manufactured abroad, and printed by the first color printers of England, under the supervision of their Mr. Swayne. Nothing has been left undone that will fail to make these "gems of art" both attractive and instructive for children.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in preparation a new volume by the author of "Manch," entitled "Wild Work: based on Incidents which occurred in the Red River Region of Louisiana;" and, in the International Science series, "Illusions: a Psychological Study," by James Sully. An enlarged edition of their "New York Illustrated" may be looked for shortly. The work contains double the number of pages and some sixty or seventy additional illustrations.

THOMAS WHITTAKER has in preparation Canon Luckock's "Four Epochs of Worship in the Church of England," by the author of "After Death;" a new edition of Grant's "Church Seasons historically and poetically illustrated;" a memoir of the late Bishop McIlvaine, by his intimate friend Canon Carns, of England; and a new church history entitled "Ecclesia Anglicana, a History of the Church of Christ in England, from the earliest to the present times," by Arthur Charles Jennings, M. A., of Jesus College, Cambridge.

A Thrilling Russian Novel.

A NIHILIST PRINCESS.

From the French of M. L. Gagneur. 12mo. Price, $1 25.

This powerful novel, recently issued in Paris, has created a prefound impression. It is timely in the extreme, and evidently founded on realities both as to characters and incidents. Its plot is of the most exciting nature. One thrilling incident crowds closely upon another, and we are hursed breathlessly from the Court of the Crar to the secret tendervous of the conspirators, and from the bouldoir of the Princess Wanda to the military fortress, or the peasant's hut. Statesmen, nobles, courtiers, brilliant men and fascinating women pass before us in dazzling succession. Although a Nihilistic novel, its scenes he almost entirely in the highest circles of Russian society. The author throws a strong and larid light upon the wrongs, the outtages and the oppressions that have produced the present dangerous state of affairs in Russia, and no one who begins to read it will be likely to lay it down until finished. It will not be doubted that the author has had access to the scenes which he describes.

SHADOWS OF SHASTA.

By JOAQUIN MILLER. Price, $1.

The Boston Courier says "This little story is worth all the poetry Joaquin Miller ever penned." The Cincinnati Times says. "This is a story with a purpose, and few books of the same character have a nobler one. The poet of the Sierras lifts his voice in behalf of the Indian. He relates the wrongs of the race with indignation, subdued as much as possible, and with the graphic eloquence of an accomplished writer whose heart is in his subject."

SEWER-GAS AND ITS DANGERS.

By G. P. Brown, With 21 Illustrations. Price, $1.35.

This book for the times will be found to be of great interest and importance to every one whose health depends in any degree upon plumbing and sewerage. It will open the eyes of every householder and tenant, and lead them to seek for the invisible and insidious enemy-sewer-gas. It will enable the house-owner or agent to see where poor work has been given them, and to detect how under cover of earth and wood-work and masonry they have been deceived. It will enable the architects to give their employers more perfect houses. It will show faithless plumbers and newer-builders that their ways, which have been heretofore "past finding out," are now revealed.

"It appears to be one of the most carefully prepared and intelligent of its class. It everywhere shows signs of diligence, of good judgment, and of a pure taste. In many or its characteristics it is unlike any book of its kind in the language, and we use no mere phrase of compliment when we say that it well supplies a want long felt by teachers of the young."—Tribune, New York.

WOOD MAGIC.

A Fable. By RICHARD JEFFERIES, author of "The Gamekeeper at Home," etc., etc. 508 pages, 12mo, cloth, $1.75.

The London Athenicum says of this book: "'Wood Magic' is very charming. The interest of actuality is interwoven with romance; imagination is superadded to observation; and instead of a more or less readable report, we are presented with a pleasant piece of art. The facts are the same, but the manner of their presentation is other than it was; and they seem more novel, more striking, and more attractive for the change."

"When at last I held in my hand the volume of poems which I had chosen from Wordsworth, and began to turn over its pages, there arose in me almost immediately the desire to see beside it, as a companion volume, a like collection of the best poetry of Byron. Alone amongst our poets of the earlier part of this century, Byron and Wordsworth not only furnish material enough for a volume of this kind, but also, as it seems to me, they both of them gain considerably by being thus exhibited."—Preface.

Cable, G: W. Madame Delphine. N. Y., C: Scribner's Sons, 1881. 6+125 p. sq. D. cl., 75 c.

By the author of "The Grandissimes," and "Old Creole days;" in his new story, Mr. Cable again takes us into the enchanted region of "Old Creole days," and introduces us to a new set of acquaintances, no less fascinating than our old friends, the Nancanous and Grandissimes. The period is a little later than that of "The Grandissimes," but the conditions are the same. Madame Delphine Carraze and her daughter Olive, Père Jerome, Captain Ursin Lemaitre, and the rest, all move in the same quaint, half Oriental New Orleans of other days.

"Early in the year 1863, when I first visited England, Emerson gave me a letter of introduction to Thomas Carlyle, which at once secured for me a gracious reception and kindly entertainment from the author and his wife at Chelsea. It was their custom to receive their friends in the evening, and I was invited to join their circle as often as it might be convenient to me. . . This little book, which I now send out to the world, was veritably written by Carlyle himself. However inadequately transcribed and conveyed, these pages do faithfully follow impressions made by his own word and spirit upon my mind during an intercourse of many years. Nothing has been imported into them from other publications which have appeared since his death. I have written out my notes and my memories with the man still vividly before me, and, as i were, still speaking."—[Extract from Preface.]

The trade are invited to send "Communications" to the editor on any topic of interest to the trade, and as to which an interchange of opinion is desirable. Also, matter for "Notes and Queries." Notes from librarians will also be gratefully received.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be immediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." New catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

THE PUBLISHERS' TRADE-LIST ANNUAL.

THE TRADE-LIST ANNUAL FOR 1881 can appear "on time." To make this possible, however, requires the prompt co-operation of contributing publishers. All the facilities of this office will be employed to secure its early publication, but without the lists themselves all such efforts will be in vain. If contributors will but heed this request and make early returns, a gain of at least a month can be secured and the trade realize its pleasing effect in the prompter receipt of orders for fall stock. Will not publishers bear this request in mind, and, remembering that the interests of the book trade really demand an early issue of the volume, help the publisher of THE ANNUAL by the contribution of their catalogues at once ? In thus meeting the wishes of the trade they will likewise serve their own best interests. Lists must all be in not later than August 6.

It is assuredly unnecessary to speak here of the importance of THE TRADE-LIST ANNUAL as a trade tool, or of the unwisdom manifested by the absence of any list from its pages. But on this point the following extract from Tribener's Record may not be out of place. Noticing THE TRADE-LIST ANNUAL for 1880, it adds:

"We note some publishers habitually exclude themselves from this reference list. We should think such a policy penny wise and pound foolish," as since the publication of reference lists very few persons take the trouble to file separate catalogues; those publishers who do not insert their catalogues must reessarily injure their own trade, besides interessarily injure their own trade, besides interessarily injure their wares in the unwilling to advertise their wares in the looked for, should retire from business. Temind us of the decayed gentlewoman who called 'water-cresses,' and hoped no one would hear her."

A correspondent of The Bookseller, of London, referring to a similar absence of prominent firms from Whitaker's Reference Catalogue, writes:

"I feel constrained to write thus publicly a word of remonstrance to the publishing houses who are conspicuous by their absence from the new Reference Catalogue. I cannot think that they are aware of its value, not only to us, the country retail booksellers, but to the private purchaser. Day after day do some of us turn to its pages and index for the information we need, and it is a matter of great disappointment and annoyance that a work compiled with so much trouble and care is not thoroughly reliable, simply because some leading houses do not see it to be to their interest, as it most certainly is, to make the small outlay involved in order to have their lists included."

And in much the same strain one of our American booksellers writes of the annoyance and absolute loss which is occasioned by the failure to find the lists of certain publishers in the TRADE-LIST ANNUAL. He says:

"Of late years, since the issue of the Annuals, I have not been so particular about my files. I presume other dealers get 'vexed' from the same cause, and believing that united action would induce the publishers to see that it is for their interest as well as ours to have their lists in the Annual every year, I venture to suggest to you to editorially ask every subscriber to make a personal appeal to such publishers as in their use of the Annual they find do not have their lists inserted.

"If they will all do this, and I for one shall do so in future, I think it must accomplish the desired object. The pressure will be too great for them to resist."

In view of the assurances, so frequently repeated, of the great value of the ANNUAL to the trade, it is to be hoped that no publisher will hesitate to be represented in a volume which is issued as much in his own interest as in the interest of those who purchase and consult it.

THE Committee of Arrangements of the Chicago Stationers' Board of Trade request us to state that the invitations and programmes for the banquet recently held at Chicago, were gotten up by Brown, Pettibone & Kelly, of that city, not by Culver, Page & Hoyne, as given in the report printed by us June 18.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE

From the Nation, June 30.

Messrs. Leypoldt and Jones are to be congratulated on the completion of their "American Catalogue." The second volume has appeared, and our literature now has a bibliographical record of which it need not be ashamed. Of what we had before, the less said the better. Roorbach belongs to what might be called the shabby age of American bibliog-Kelly was an improvement in outward looks. But Roorbach and Kelly were only lists of authors, and Kelly is now ten years old, whereas the "American Catalogue" comes down to the present time, and includes an alphabet of subjects. In the latter respect we are put on a par with other nations, and have the advantage over some. England has only Watt, equally valuable and difficult to use, and the two subject-volumes of Low's "Enga lish Catalogue," extending merely from 1837 to 1858; and a few—very few—special bibliogra-Germany has the subject-volume of phies. Kayser, published in 1838, and covering eightytwo years, from 1750 to 1832; besides Hoppe's "Katalog" and Schwab and Klüpsel's "Wegweiser," which is a careful selection of books published during the nineteenth century, to say nothing of a host of special bibliographies on every conceivable subject, continually brought down to date by supplements or new editions. For France there is the subject-volume of Brunet, general in name but prevailingly French in contents, and the excellent volumes of Lorenz' "Table des matières," 1840-75. For Norway there is Botten-Hansen's "Norwège littéraire." But there the list ends. Bertocci in Italy and Bruun in Denmark have only begun. Hidalgo in Spain gives only a dictionary of titles with an index of authors, and in Portugal Da Silva's work, valuable as it is, is only a list of authors and their works. The Slavic nations have, so far as we know, no classed bibliographies covering a series of years, though Mezhoff's excellent catalogues offer a substitute in Russia. Dutch literature has a complete author-list; but Van der Meulen's "Register" extends only from 1850 to 1875, and the classed bibliography projected by Muller remains a project.

The "American Catalogue," to be sure, does not profess to be a complete national bibliography, but only a list of the books remaining "in print" at a certain date; but with this limitation, it is the peer of the works which we have enumerated above. It has been prepared in a conscientious manner that leaves little to be It is excellently printed on good paper, with broad, perhaps too broad, margins. The titles are as exact as a good deal of care and a lively distrust of the publishers' own lists could make them. Though their fulness is far from what is called "bibliographical" it is sufficient for most purposes. Mr. Jones, in a neatly written preface, explains how the work is arranged and what will be found there, and what not. The title-page only promises all works for sale July 1, 1876; but a supplement adds the more recent books of most of the leading publishers. The preface is followed by an admirable list of "bibliographical aids," compiled by Mr. Leypoldt, and introduced with some words of apology which are entirely unnecessary, for it is the most valuable contribution ever made to the bibliography of English bibliography. It is a curious indication of the extent and complexity of our literature and of the hurry of the present age that works of this kind—bibliography, as it were, raised to the second power—should have become necessary and even be multiplying. "Handy Book about Books" had not got out: of print when Sabin prepared a new and Americanized edition. Petzholdt's "Bibliotheca Bibliographica" is so useful that we are anxiously expecting a supplement exhibiting the publications of the last fifteen years. A member of the Paris Geographical Society who is collecting the titles of bibliographies of geography and travels alone has already found over eleven hundred. The present list, of thirteen quarto. pages, is arranged dictionary-fashion under specific subject-headings, with copious crossreferences. As the compiler asks for additions. and corrections, we may suggest a crossreference from Guatemala to Mexico for one. of the titles under the latter treats of both countries.

The body of the work follows. We will not be so bold as to say that there are no mistakes in distributing the titles under their proper heads. We can only assert that in poring over the pages for some time and with some care. we have found none. The headings seem to have been selected with good judgment. The inevitable difficulty of choosing among synonyms and antonyms is rendered of little account by a liberal supply of cross-references. One thing we object to decidedly—keeping the (subject) "Index to the Appendix" of vol. i. in. a separate alphabet from the rest of the work... It was unnecessary, for the whole of vol. i. was. printed before the greater part of vol. ii. Nearly all these titles could have been incorporated in. the main body of vol. ii., and the nuisance (it is not too strong a word) of two alphabets avoided.* We have examined the comparative number of the entries under the different classes of headings to see if any conclusions could be drawn from them as to the reading of the American public. We have not reached any startling result. Americans appear to distribute their attention with great impartiality through. the classes of theology, history and its related sciences, art, science and the arts, and literature. It may be noted that the proportion of theology to all publications is larger than the percentage of theology reported by public libraries as borrowed from them. But it is uncertain whether the reason why the people donot take out more theology is precisely that they have so much of their own—just as nobody takes Shakespeare or the Bible from a public library—or that the classes who buy most theology are not the classes who use public libraries. Our personal observation would lead

The section containing works about the Bible is noteworthy for two reasons: first, for its length (twenty-one double-columned quarto pages), and, secondly, for a novelty in arrangement. In all catalogues which we can remember the books of the Bible have been arranged in the order in which they came in the English us to the latter conclusion.

^{*} This separation was rendered necessary for the reason that the lists in the appendix were voluntarily contributed by publishers who were promised at the time of contributing separate indexing.—ED, version; here they are arranged alphabetically, which produces a queer effect in its mixture of ·Old and New Testament names, but is, no ·doubt, a necessary concession to the diminished familiarity of the present generation with the Scriptures. The works about the "Whole Bible" are thrown into thirty classes. We miss .a class, "The Bible and Science," which certainly should have been made for a half-dozen works now lost with a hundred others under the rubric "Miscellaneous." The new Dante Society will find only three works about Dante published as yet in America, and two of them reprints. Shakespeare is usually an important rubric, and we are surprised to see so little ander it here—only a column and a half. Perhaps it is a healthy sign that our people are more inclined to read Shakespeare than to read or write about him. Such a work as this must we should think, increase the sale of the books recorded. We have noted half a dozen books in as many minutes on subjects in which we are interested and which we should like to buy. To booksellers, of course, it is indispensable; but it is almost equally needful to careful bookbuyers. It will take its place at once as a most valuable assistant of the book-committee in every library whose purchases extend beyond the merest current literature, or where any attempt is made to fill up particular branches; and it may even be found useful as a supplement and corrective of the classed catalogue, or perhaps as a substitute for one in those unhappy libraries which are too poor to have a guide of their own.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

London, June 21, 1881.

The subject of Carlyle's "Reminiscences" is by no means exhausted. Sir Henry Taylor, author of "Philip Van Artevelde," etc., whom a long acquaintance with Carlyle entitles to a respectful hearing on the subject, contributes to the "Nineteenth Century," for June, an article on them. The "Reminiscences" have, it is said, produced for the niece, Mrs. Alexander Carlyle, as her share, £1100, which, I hear, she has refused to accept from Mr. Froude. There is also reason to believe that a publication of Carlyle's letters may follow the issue of his "Reminiscences" very shortly.

Longmans & Co. have nearly ready a new work on rural life, entitled "Country Pleasures; the Chronicle of a Year, chiefly in a Garden," by George Milner.

A continuation, under the title of "Legends of My Bungalow," of Mr. Frederick Boyle's series of stories and adventures published successively under the titles of "Camp Notes" and "Chronicles of No-Man's Land," will shortly be published by Chapman & Hall.

Elliot Stock announces for immediate publication a new work on Waltham Abbey, co-piously illustrated with engravings.

"My Garden Wild, and What I Grew There,"
Is the title of a new volume by Mr. Francis George Heath, author of "The Fern World," T. to be published very soon by Chatto & Windus. It will include descriptions of upwards of two hundred British wild flowers and Jerns, and explain their position and arrangement in the "wild" garden whose establishment and history form the subject of Mr. Heath's forthcoming book, the especial object of which is to show how much pleasure and what a delightful occupation may be afforded by the growth in gardens of the "commonest" of wild flowers and ferns.

Mr. Sydney Calvin's "Life of Walter Savage Landor," announced to appear in Macmillan & Co's. English Men of Letters series is in press, and will probably be published at the end of the month.

The long-announced translation of "Thucy-dides," by Professor Jowett has just appeared from the Clarendon Press. It is contained in two handsome volumes of about 1350 pages in all. Volume I. comprises the English text, with a marginal analysis, and volume II. the notes, to which are prefixed a long and elaborate essay on inscriptions of the age of Thucydides, and some shorter dissertations. Both volumes are supplied with full and well-arranged indices. The book is intended for the English reader as well as for the scholar.

Mr. Charles Marvin, whose recent books on Central Asia give exhaustive accounts of the Russian wars with the Turcomans up to 1880, intends completing the series with a history of General Skobeleff's recent campaign against the Tekkes of Akhal. This will be called "The Russians beyond the Caspian," and will contain a complete narrative of the twenty-four days' siege of Geok Tepé, by Russian officers engaged in the operations. Numerous illustrations of the war and maps of the conquered region will appear in the volume.

An illustrated edition of "John Ploughman's Talk," by the Rev. C. H. Spurgeon will be published very shortly. The sale has already reached a total of 300,000.

Mr. Stanley Jevons is at work upon a treatise on political economy, to be entitled "The Principles of Economics." Mr. Jevons intends to supplement this treatise by a kind of historical introduction to the study of the science, in the form of a student's edition of Adam Smith's "Wealth of Nations." Macmillan & Co. are to be the publishers.

"A Lost Cause; Story of the Polish Rebellion," is the title of a new work, by W. W. Aldred, to be published in a few days by W. H.

Allen & Co.

Mrs. Cowden Clarke has nearly ready a new and revised edition of her Concordance to Shakespeare's works.

Alexander Gardner, of Paisley, so well-known for his Scottish publications, has in press a reprint of the articles that appeared in Blackwood's Magazine ten years ago, entitled "The Poetry and Humour of the Scottish Language," the authorship of which is now for the first time avowed, and belongs to Dr. Charles Mackay.

Arthur Sidgwick will publish immediately a new edition of the Agameninon of Æschylus, with notes suited to boys in the sixth form and undergraduates at the universities.

The Rev. J. Cave-Browne, Vicar of Detling, Kent, is preparing for publication a work on Lambeth Palace and its associations, with an introduction by the Archbishop of Canterbury. The work will contain personal sketches of the Lambeth prelates and a brief account of other palaces and manor-houses belonging to the See. The work will be published by W. Blackwood & Sons.

Tinsley Brothers have nearly ready new works of fiction, by "Rita," author of "My Lady Coquette," entitled, "A Sinless Secret," and "Young Collebs," by Percy Fitzgerald, author of "The Life of George IV.," etc. Besides these F. V. White & Co., successors to Samuel Tinsley & Co., will publish shortly a new novel by Florence Marryat, called "My Sister the Actress.'

THE LIBRARY JOURNAL PRIZE QUESTION

THE Library Journal prize question, referred to in our issue of May 14, is now open for competition, and the invitation to the subscribers to the WEEKLY to participate, is herewith repeated. The modification of the rules, partly made by suggestion, are such, it is thought, as will meet with general approval.

RULES FOR COMPETITORS.

 The object of the present prize question. is to obtain a list of books (other than poetry, fiction, juveniles, and such as are enumerated under 4) which a majority of the competitors agree should be found in every library for general readers.

2. $100 will be awarded in four prizes for the best lists, as follows . for the best list, $50; for the second, $25; for the third and fourth, $15 and $10, respectively.

3. Every subscriber to the Library Journal or to the Publishers' Weekly is at liberty to compete, either personally or by substitute.

4 The answer shall consist of a list of Too individual works (independent of the number of volumes) selected with the restrictions as speci-

["Individual," not collective. For instance, if Macaulay's works were admitted and chosen, they should not be given in one number as works, but enumerated, "Hestory of England," "Essays," etc., each work occupying a number; on the other hand, the "individual work" should not be carried to the extreme of enumerating his essays.]

Excluded from competition:

a Works not properly belonging to the present century.

A. Poetry, fiction, and juveniles (reserved for a future prize question)

c. Encylopadias, dictionaries, gazetteers, atlases, epitomes of authors, selections (even if accompanied by introductions or sketches of authors) and periodicals.

d. Technical and professional works , dogmatic theology; elementary text-books. [It is impossible to draw a definite line under this rule While the "technical" is clearly intended to exclude the industrial arts, manufactures and trades, military and naval science, etc.; the "professional," law and medicine, the "dogmatic," theological treatises; the "elementary," the school-book proper, it must be lett to the judgment of the competitor, in fact it is the very task set by the question, to what extent it is desirable to draw, say, on the natural sciences, fine arts, positical and social science, mental and moral philosophy, religious or Christian and educational literature, etc. Clearly it is not intended to rule these out. question was asked whether a cookery-book can be admitted. Certainly, but at the risk of the competitor No lists will be excluded from competition which include works that are not, by the letter, ruled out. Only the competitor should remember that the chances will be poor indeed should be venture too much on the borderland. When in doubt it always is a safer method to choose what is less doubtful. It was asked, too, whether regard should be paid to cost. That will not be a winning list which bristles with rare and coatly books, yet no rule excludes them]

J. The works of Bancroft, Carlyle, Darwin, De Quincey, Emerson, Freeman, Froude, Goethe, Green (J. R.), Grote, Hallam, Hawthorne, Hood, Humboldt (A. v.), Hunt (Leigh), Huzley, Irving, Jameson (Mrs.), Lamb, Macaulay, Mill (John S.), Milman, Motley, Parkman, Prescott, Ruskin, Schiller, Spencer (Herbert), Strickland (Mrs.), Taylor (Bayard), Thackeray, Thiers, Tocqueville Tyndall.

f. Such series as Classics for English readers, English men of letters, English philosophers, Epochs of history, Great artists and musicians, Philosophical classics, Plutarch series, etc.

Works in foreign languages (translations, however, are admitted)

5. The lists must be written legibly in ink, with short titles and names of authors preceding titles and numbered consecutively; the first twenty arranged in accordance with the estimation in which they are held by the competitor. They must be presented in two forms): (1) on a single sheet (each book beginning a new line; (2)on single slips, each containing title of only one book and its number. This will greatly reduce the labor of determining the result of the vote.

Each sheet (not each slip) must be signed. with the full name and address of the competitor. (Only the names of the successful competitors will be published.)

7. While no restrictions are placed in the way of information or consultation, it is against. the spirit of the Prize Question to present the same votes by mutual agreement among competitors themselves. Identic lists or list which plainly show co-operation must therefore berejected.

8. The prizes will be awarded to those lists which aggregate the greatest number of votes. The vote on each book is determined by the number of lists (or slips) which contain it. Thus if a book is found on ten lists it counts

9. Answers are due September 1. to. Inquiries and lists should be addressed to-

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE American Art Review increases in excellence with each succeeding number. The publishers, Messrs. Estes & Lauriat, richly deserve success in their undertaking to furnish America with an art publication which shall be second to none in every respect. Each issue contains one or more etchings, and a large number of full-page and smaller engravings. The literary portion is fully equal to the artistic; besides leading articles on ancient and modern art,. biographies of artists and their works, the Review gives a survey of the whole field of art and matters relating to it. THE

AMERICAN EDUCATIONAL CATALOGUE

For 1881 [Twelfth Year].

COMPILED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

The Educational Catalogue has been found so valuable to the Trade, not only as a finding list, but for circulation among educational customers, for the purpose of soliciting orders and saving at the same time much troublesome correspondence, that its permanent continuance is recognized as a necessity.

The catalogue this year follows the alphabetical system adopted last year, and pronounced by the experience of the trade the most satisfactory for practical use. It includes a price-list arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject, so that the advantages of both a finding-list for the trade and a class catalogue for the use of schools are combined. The list has been entirely reset, to include the new books in their proper alphabetical order, and also to embody all the corrections of prices, omissions, or other errors in last year's catalogue. For this purpose, sheets of last year's entries have been sent to each publisher for his revision, that this official catalogue may be as accurate as a catalogue can possibly be made.

Publisher's prices are in all cases given—retail, if retail (in first column); "net," if "net" [in second column]; where a "mailing" percentage is specified by the publisher, the "mailing price" is given in the retail column marked with an asterisk [*], in addition to the wholesale price. A carefully-drawn explanation in the heading, to private buyers, adapts the catalogue to the use of the retail trade.

The Educational Catalogue in its present shape has been found to serve thoroughly the purposes of those dealers who wish to keep as much of the educational trade as possible in their own hands, and work up more, by sending such a list out to schools and teachers. This catalogue is acknowledged the most complete and accurate in the market, and especially in its new shape, will be found by far the most convenient and satisfactory.

In making up special orders for the Educational Catalogue, booksellers should bear in mind that it possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS.

With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5; per 1000 copies, $40.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5 the page, or $1 if plate is sent.

 Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.

The regular Educational Number of "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY" will be supplied at 25 cents per copy, or five for $1, postpaid.

"This is a pleasant little book, made up of graphic sketches of famous places visited in a European journey. The author has not only the happy faculty of telling well what she sees, but the rarer faculty of seeing well. Her sketches make beautiful pictures of the charming spots she describes, while the people move in and out in workday and holiday attire, giving to all a living reality. It is thus that the Roman carnival, descriptions of Paris, and the easy, careless life of the people living in the open air, the pompous and impressive Parliament day, etc., are as pleasant pen pictures as one often sees. It is a capital book for the pocket or satchel of summer tourists, not only for its interest, but from the convenience of its small, compact form," says the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

[PUBLISHERS' PRICES.]

NOTICE.—In this Catalogue only prices made by publishers themselves are given—retail if retail, in first column; "net" (wholesale), if "net," in second column; where a "mailing" percentage is specified by the publisher, the "mailing price" is given in the retail column marked with an asterisk (), in addition to the wholesale price. When price-columns are left blank, the publisher failed, on application, to furnish price. A double asterisk () in price-columns designates books forthcoming. New books, issued since the publication of the Catalogue of 1880, are designated by a single asterisk () before title.

In comparing prices or ordering at retail, private buyers should bear in mind that a percentage must be added to prices quoted at wholesale, to cover freight, handling, delivering, etc. Discounts on quantities to schools vary on different lines, according to the kind of prices adopted by the respective publishers.

For subject classification (and for collective references to classic authors entered here under separate editors), see the second part of the Catalogue, following this main alphabet.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HARPER & BROS. will issue shortly Anthony Trollope's new novel, "Ayala's Angel," and "The Comedy of Errors," in Mr. Rolff's excellent Shakespeare series.

ESTES & LAURIAT are able to meet the demand for their "Young Folks' History of America," and so publish it in an edition 6000 strong. That is a very promising beginning, certainly.

- A. WILLIAMS & Co. have just issued "Alexander Hamilton Vinton," a memorial sermon preached at Emmanuel Church, Boston, and at the Church of the Holy Trinity, Philadelphia, by Dr. Phillips Brooks.
- J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. have now ready Part IX. of Duhring's Atlas, which completes the series. It contains four large and finely colored plates, and the text is complete. The whole work will be issued in one volume, quarto.

PHILLIPS & HUNT have just issued a volume by Dr. Daniel Dorchester, entitled "The Problem of Religious Progress," which discusses the growth of Protestantism, the present moral condition of the country, and the prospective growth of religious societies in the future.

Porter & Coares have in press a new story for girls, entitled "Dr. Gilbert's Daughters," by Margaret H. Mathews. They report that they have only now reached the point when they can fill orders for their comparative edition of the New Testament on the day they are received.

GEORGE W. HARLAN has just issued "The Skeleton in the House," one of the latest of Friederich Spielhagen's novelettes, translated by M. J. Safford, who rendered into the English "Geier-Wally," "By his own Might," etc. He has also just ready "Lorimer and Wife," an interesting character study, by Margaret Lee.

LOCKWOOD, BROOKS & Co. publish in a very tasteful pamphlet Governor Long's remarkable Decoration Day address, and Col. T. W. Higginson's admirable ode read by George Riddle. The heroism and patriotism of the soldiers for the Union have never been more strikingly and felicitously celebrated than in these two productions.

- H. C. BAIRD & Co., Philadelphia, have now ready Frankel's book on manufacture of Starch, Starch-Sugar, Glucose, and Dextrine, which was announced in the Weekly some time since. As then stated, it is the only book of the kind in the English language, and, it has been specially edited and adapted by Robert Hutter, an experienced Philadelphia chemist. It is fully illustrated.
- A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. have just issued Volumes 6 and 7 of the "Biblical Museum," by James C. Gray; the sixth volume contains the Book of Psalms, and the seventh volume contains the Proverbs, Ecclesiastes, and Song of Solomon. They have also issued, in a neat ribbon-bound volume, "Comfort for the Mothers of Angels," compiled by the author of "Heartsease," etc.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE AMERICAN, of Philadelphia, beginning July 6, will be published semi-weekiy. Appearing each Wednesday and Saturday in an issue of eight pages. The subscription price has been reduced to $3 per annum.

THE Art Interchange for July 7 is the Midsummer number, and one of unusual attraction. A finely drawn and well-printed crayon portrait and a design for tapestry painting form the supplements, besides which there are other engravings and designs, and the usual amount of reading matter. The cover is a neat design of butterflies printed in green.

THE Midsummer Holiday Scribner—the regular August number—which appears under the new administration of the Century Company, will have an essay on "Poetry in America," by Mr. Stedman, which cannot lack for interest, and the first instalment of a new story by the author of "An Earnest Trifler," treating of a Philadelphia girl and a New England watering-place, under the title of "The Daughter of Henry Sage Rittenhouse." Uncle Remus' "Rainy Day" will close in this number. Mr. Albert Stickney will present another paper in his series of civil service articles. Mr. Boyesen commences his new novelette, "Queen Titania," and other contributions of corresponding merit and the usual wealth of illustration will make the Midsummer number welcome and attractive.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

In this list, the titles in brevier are direct transcriptions from books actually received, according to the rule of the American Library Association; those in nonpareil are from the best information available, and will be repeated in brevier when the book is received for registry.

Anderson, J. J. A complete course in history: new manual of general history, with particular attention to ancient and modern civilization; for the use of colleges, high schools, academies, etc. Pt. 1: Ancient history. N. Y., Clark & Maynard, 1881. 302 p. maps and il. D. cl., 85 c.

This is not intended to supersede the "Manual of general history," now so much used, but to supply a somewhat more extended course of history; the expansion of the narrative is chiefly in the direction of the civil and social condition of the people, rather than in the political and military history, so as to show clearly and prominently the prevailing state and degrees of civilization at different epochs of the world's history.

"Baby Rue" is the daughter of the noble family of the Leszinksky, one of the oldest houses of Poland, whose descendants fought through the French and American revolutions; her life and story begin in 1842; when still a child she is captured by the Indians, and her sojourn among them serves as an excuse for many thrilling scenes of Indian and camp life, and information regarding the Pawnees, Seminoles and Comanches, Phil. Black, W: The beautiful wretch: a Brighton story. N. Y., Harper, 1881. 60 p. il. Q. (Franklin sq. lib., no. 195.) pap., 20 c.

Judging from the title, one might think this the story of an adventuress, but it is quite the reverse; the heroine is a pretty, delicate English girl, with a quaint sense of the humorous; she is loved by a manly young fellow, a captain in H.M.'s service; their love is the motive of the story, but there are some bright chapters of travel in Switzerland, and graphic descriptions of the downs around Brighton, and Brighton in the winter season.

Blunders of a bashful man, by the author of "A bad boy's diary;" [also] A load of fun. N. Y., J. S. Ogilvie & Co., 1881. 30 p. Q. (People's lib., no. 41.) pap., 10 c.

Butterworth, Hezekiah, ed. Young folks' history of America. Bost., Estes & Lauriat, 1881. 535 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

By the author of the "Zigzag" books; the author acknowledges his indebtedness chiefly for his text to McKenzie's "History of the United States," which he has enlarged, revised and edited, interpolating many stories, and adding an opening and closing chapter on "The mysterious races" and the "Dominion of Canada." Handsomely gotten up, and fully illustrated with one hundred and fiftythree illustrations, eighty-six of which are full-page. A chronological table, census returns and full index follow the Cape Cod folks: a novel. Bost., A. Williams & Co., 1881. 8+327 p. 1 il. D. cl., $1.50.

This novel takes the reader into an entirely new locality, and describes life as it is in the "pot-hook," as the Cape Cod people call their territory, from its resemblance in form to this familiar household article; with this explanation the strange device on the title-page will be more readily understood. The story records how a bright, pretty young girl went one winter to teach school at "Cedarswamp;" she seems to have had a keen eye for the ridiculous, for she succeeds, while relating her experience, in giving numerous humorous sketches of the quaint natives, and their equally quaint customs and dialects; a fresh and original love story runs through the book. Take the story altogether, it is quite out of the common track, and deals with scenes and characters altogether new in fiction.

"A fearful responsibility" is Mr. Howells' latest story; it was first presented to readers through Scribner's Monthly; it is again the story of an American girl in Europe, the scene this time being Venice, and the time at the opening of our late war; Prof. Elmore is writing a history of Venice, when his calm is disturbed by the arrival of a beautiful American girl, consigned to his and his wife's care; the girl's conquests right and left open his eyes to the fearful responsibility" he has assumed. The other stories are "At the sign of the savage" and "Tonelli's marriage." Huntington, Rev. G: P., and Metcalf, Rev. H:

The 1st v of this work was usued in 1878-the author there defined the scope of it, or at least the scope of this part of it, for although "The French revolution" is an independent work, it is a part of the grand philosophical study planned by Taine of "The origins of contemporary France;" he says again in the preface: "In thus volume, as in those preceding it and in those to come, there will be found only the history of public powers. Other historians will write that of diplomacy, of war, of the finances, of the church -my subject is a limited one. To my great regret, however, this new part (The Jacobin conquest') fills an entire volume; and the last part, on the revolutionary government, will be as long."

OFFICIAL OR FICTITIOUS.

Ix evidence of our earnest desire to meet the wishes of the Chicago Convention, we publish herewith the circular-letter which was addressed to the principal houses whose schedules of prices differ from those of the retail-price publishers, or which quote for their mailing or retail prices a smaller percentage than twenty per cent above the wholesale prices:

GENTLEMEN: The Chicago Convention has appointed a committee to confer with the educational publishers, concerning the issue of a retail price-list of school-books, based on the addition of twenty per cent to the wholesale prices quoted in the publishers' price-lists.

As it is not desirable that the public be still more confused by a third schedule of prices, I should be glad—provided a majority of educational publishers will not raise any serious objection—to adopt the twenty per cent addition in the forthcoming "American Educational Catalogue," which chiefly is used and circulated by the retail trade.

The lateness of the season not permitting any delay that possibly may be caused by the consulting committee, I am obliged to appeal directly to the publishers for an expression of opinion.

The question is simply: Is the "American Educational Catalogue," as an official price-list, justified in adopting, in accordance with the wishes of the Convention, the twenty per cent addition?

A prompt answer will greatly oblige Yours, etc.

With one exception, all the educational publishers addressed had the courtesy to answer. reunited interests.

Unfortunately, the result of the answers was not such as would justify the Publishers' WEEKLY in adopting throughout the twenty per. cent basis. There were only two houses which unconditionally agreed to do so; some others, indeed, did not seriously object to our adopting these prices, but would not commit themselves to sanction them by their own adoption, while among the rest the opinion strongly prevailed that, until uniformity of action could be obtained, no change of the present system was desirable. Plainly, the Publishers' Weekly, if it wished to sustain its official character, was bound to respect the desire of those who have a right to stand by their prices, and who, should their established prices be disregarded, could by their public protest soon discredit the Educational Catalogue as well as those who handled it for circulation. At a time when the public mind, from causes so often discussed and lamented in these columns, is fast losing faith in honest prices, so far as books are concerned, it is of utmost importance that there be one official list which can be consulted with confidence by the public, as well as by the trade. The discovery of discrepancies (showing against the interests of the public), in a list published in a representative journal, would not only reflect injuriously on both the dealer who would quote it, and the journal which would be held responsible, but also do injury to those publishers whose quoted retail prices are bond fide. It would, indeed, injure and discourage those who have made their prices in accordance with the wishes of the retail booksellers. it should not be overlooked, as the bright side of the case, that each year a few more have returned to the retail-price system, and that the indications now are that a little more patience and perseverance on the part of the booksellers may, at a time not very distant, secure that compromise between themselves and the publishers which will solve the problem satisfactorily to all concerned. The very tone of the letters before us leads us to believe that among the publishers themselves there is gaining ground a more amicable disposition toward each other, together with a more favorable inclination to consider the interests of the bookseller than was possible during the fierce battles of books of the past few years. Possibly the committee of the Convention may secure that concert of action to which the way seems so well prepared, but without which both the publisher and bookseller will only be more and more mistrusted by an already bewildered public. We have reason to hope that the next Educational Catalogue will initiate a new epoch in the history of the American school-book trade—an epoch of

JOHN ADAMS APPLETON.

An honorable life is its own best eulogy. Integrity in business is integrity in life, and devotion to one trust implies faithfulness to all. In the death of John A. Appleton, the lesson that comes directly home to the trade of which he was an honored member is found in the sturdy uprightness of the man, that tampered with no opportunity for mere policy's sake, but asking in every matter, what is just, what is right, what is "business," did simply that, and took the chances on the result. The plodding book clerk who envies the proud position of the head of a great publishing house, and sees no chance for such a goal in his own fortunes, needs but to consider the patient attention to details, the never-absent remembrance of business duties that marked the life of the man whose death has made another great gap in an illustrious house, and to read there a lesson of conscientious devotion to trusts which cannot but be of some service even in his contracted sphere. Misunderstood by many but respected by all, undemonstrative but also unimpeachable, always cool and "slow to wrath," of few words but of many kindnesses, judicious, helpful, generous, and just, John A. Appleton stands in memory to-day as a model business man, a worthy representative of the great craft to which he belonged, and which, now that he has gone, can best honor him by its emulation of his unswerving integrity, and by its lasting remembrance of his unblemished name.

During the fifty-six years which have elapsed since the house of D. Appleton & Co. was established, death has visited it three times. The first to go was its founder, Daniel Appleton, who died in 1849, within a few months after his retirement from the business it had been the labor of his life to build up. Nearly thirty years later he was followed by George S., the fourth of the five brothers (and one of the last of them to enter the firm) who continued and still further developed the business left them by their father. And now we have to chronicle the death of another of the sons, John A., who died at his home at Clifton, Staten Island, early on Wednesday, the 13th instant, in the sixty-fifth year of his age.

Born in Boston January 9, 1817, he received his education at Andover, going thence at an early age to Michigan to enter a banking house. After a short stay West, he returned to enter as clerk in his father's book-store, then just removed from Clinton Hall (where the Times and World offices are now) to 200 Broadway, in the very year that his eldest brother, William H., entered into a partnership with his father (1838). Ten years later he, with his next younger brother, Daniel S., became members of the firm on the retirement of their father from the business, and ultimately the two remaining brothers, rge S. and Frank, also entered the house.

John A. Appleton for many years was practically the business manager of the firm. He was, very attentive to business, scarcely missing a day until he was confined to the house by his last illness. For many years he lived with his family—consisting of his wife, four sons and one daughter—in Richmond Avenue, Clifton, where he had a costly house and pleasant surroundings. He was a member of the Episcopal Church, and was largely instrumental in building St. John's Church, at Clifton. For many years he was a member of the Century Club. About seven years ago he was thrown from a carriage while riding on Staten Island, and suffered a dislocation of one of his legs from which he never fully recovered. Though constitutionally a very robust man, this accident so enfeebled him as to induce the firm to relinquish their retail business (which had been under his charge), upon their removal a few years since to their present quarters in Bond Street. From that time he has been able to give less attention to business, his increasing feebleness confining him more and more to his home.

Mr. Appleton's thorough knowledge of the detail of the business, and the perfect integrity of his life, won the respect of all brought into personal contact with him, or who had dealings with the house, a respect which was enhanced to those who knew him intimately by a knowledge of the charity and benevolence of his private life.

On the afternoon of July 14th there was a large gathering of the attachés and employés of the house of D. Appleton & Co., at the offices of the firm, to take action on the death of Mr. John A. Appleton. Judge W. J. Tenney took the chair. There were present Prof. Youmans, editor of the Popular Science Monthly, O. B. Bunce, editor of Appletons' Journal, Mr. Metcalf, acting editor of the North American Review, Mr. Teall, and Mr. Rossiter Johnson, of the editorial staff of the revised Cyclopædia, Mr. J. C. Derby, Mr. Cummings, Mr. Pritchard, Mr. Davis, Mr. Wm. Matthews, head of the bindery, Mr. Richard Dunne, head of the pressroom, and Mr. Edward Werrey, head of the composing-room. All the departments were fully represented. Mr. Matthews made a very feeling address. He had known Mr. John A. Appleton for thirty-five years, and could bear repeated testimony to the purity and beauty of his character. He had seen in an obituary notice three words which expressed his life and character admirably—they were that Mr. Appleton had devoted his life to his business, to his home, and to his church. Mr. Matthews dwelt upon Mr. Appleton's faithfulness to his business duties, on the charm of his home, which so enlisted his affection, and his devotion to his church. No formal resolution was framed, but the following minute was adopted and addressed to the family of Mr. Appleton:

"It is almost impossible for us to express in fitting terms our sense of the great bereavement that has befallen the family, the friends, and the associates of Mr. John A. Appleton.

Appleton.

"Mr. Appleton was endeared to all who knew him by many acts of kindness, by the evidence continually given of his sympathy with all related to him, by the consciousness that there flowed a well of tenderness in the depths of his nature, whose springs were charity, good-will and Christian love. We know from long association with him that he was a man of generous impulses, restrained only by a sense of duty; that his affections were deeper and stronger than was outwardly betokened; that suffering, anxiety or misfortune always found in him kindly sympathy and the helping word.

THE LATE JOHN ADAMS APPLETON.

(From Harper's Weekly.)

that his heart was pure and utterly without gulle; that his desire was for the good of all men; that his affections were calm and steady, but profound; that he was faithful and just in all things; that he lived in the sweetness of charity, in the screnity of peace, and the assurance of faith. His life was uneventful, but it was a noble career—in the true sense of the word—noble in its openness, its purity, its devotion to duty, its affections, its charities, in the good that it bestowed, and in the example that it set.

"We have been told that, as the evening approached on his last day on earth, he asked that the windows might be opened and his bed adjusted so that he could look upon the sunset once more. He watched the sun descend amid all its pomp and splender, but a similar halo, the glory of a pure, well-spent life, encircled his brow as he looked and shed its spiritual radiance. And as the sun went down to rise again, so did his spirit soon after enter the region of momentary darkoess to rise in a celestial morn,

"We beg his brothers and others of his kindred to believe that we realize their irreparable loss and feel for their sorrow; and we desire in the fulness of our hearts the privilege of offering to his afflicted family our most earnest sympathy for their great bereavement. We would be glad, indeed, if we could in any way mitigate their grief, but we need not direct them for consolation to the only Power that can bestow it, for their Christian faith teaches them where to look for solace. We know the great worth of their departed guide and counsellor, and beg to assure them that his memory is endeared to us, and will be cherished to the end of our days.

"W. J. TENNEY, Chairman.

" C. L. YOUMANS, "WM MATTHEWS,"

It was subsequently determined, if it met the approval of the family and the sanction of the vestry, to erect a memorial tablet in St. John's Church, Clifton, Staten Island—the church which had been built under Mr. Appleton's personal supervision as senior warden of the parish, and to which he had largely contributed.

CONTINENTAL CORRESPONDENCE.

PARIS, June 15, 1881.

I HAVE an unusually interesting list of publications to send you. In history I note, B. Aubé's "Les Chrétiens dans l'Empire Romain," a history of Christians from the end of Antonines; to the middle of the third century (220-249); L. Sciout's "Histoire de la Constitution Civile du Clergé " (1790-1801), a history of the French Roman Catholic Church during the Reign of Terror and the Directory. "Correspondance Diplomatique du Baron de Staël-Holstein, Ambassadeur de Suède en France et de son successeur comme Chargé d'Affaires le Baron Brinkman," this is the official correspondence of these diplomatists during the earlier period of the French Revolution (1783-99), which L. Léouzon Le Duc (who has spent the greater part of his life in Norway, Sweden and Russia, and has written several interesting books on those countries) has found in the royal archives of Sweden, Baron de Staël-Holstein was in an excellent position to hear everything, for he was Necker's son-in-law, husband of the authoress Who has made his name tamous. In theology, we have the 4th volume of Bishop Freppel of Angers' works. "Œuvres Pastorales et Oratoires " Abbé Gondrand's "Les Beatitudes Evangeliques," sermons preached during Lent in several French cities. L. Guerrier's "Mme. Guyon, sa vie, sa doctrine et son influence d'après les ecrits originaux et des documents inédits," though this is also a thesis-it must however, be remembered that some of our most important works made their first appearance in the shape of a thesis, for example, Taine's works | Diderot, Grimm, d'Alembert, de Sartine, d'Holon Livy and Lafontaine—the interest of the subject warrants its mention, for it covers the fierce fight of Bossuet and Fénélon on Quietism; besides, Cowper translated her autoblo-graphy and says. "She will be found to have conversed familiarly with God;" the author of this thesis is a professor in the Lycee at Orleans Abbé Bezaudun: "Dieu Cache, ou anéantissements mystiques des noms personnels de Jesus Christ dans sa vie mortelle et eucharistique " Abbé A. Blanc's "Mois de Marie," sermons preached in St. Epvre Church at Nancy (1880) Fr. Morgott's "La Doctrine sur la Vierge Marie, ou Marialogie de St. Thomas d'Aquin," translated by Prof. L. C. Bourguard. I have seen in philosophy, Dr. Robinet's "La Philosophie Positive, Auguste Comte et M. Pierre Laffitte;" the author has written a life of Comte; he, Laffitte, and Dr, Semerie declare themselves to be the only real disciples of Comte, and say that Littré and Wyrbrouff never understood the first word of Comte's teachings! These are the biographies of the fortuight; Abbé F. Baudry's "Vie de Mgr. J. Chauveau, Bishop of Sebastapolia." "Vie de M. Etienne," fourteenth Superior-General of the congregation of the Mission and of the company of the Filles de la Charité, by a priest of the Mission. Our new novels are: A. Assoliant's "La Mort de Rolland." C. Deslys' "Les Compères du Roy " G. Ferry's "Les Aventures d'un Français au pays des Caciques." J. Vallès' "Jacques Vingtras," 18mo, 440 p. (his autobiography) and a new edition of "Les Refractaires;" both of these works are curious pictures of French life; Valles, after taking an active share in the Commune and coming within an ace of losing his life, managed to escape in the garb of a priest; an admirer of his works bequeathed him $10,-000, on the interest of which and on the sale of his books he now lives quite comfortably; he has taken leave of political ambition. 👃 Cladier's "Lia Margot, moeurs parisiennes." D. Darc's "Le Peché d'une Vierge." E. With's " Les Aventures d'un Jeune Ingenieur," an excellent novel in Jules Verne's manner which initiates the reader into the mysteries of engineering and takes him travelling to foreignlands. We have in poetry. V. Gasztowit's "Le Poet Polonais J. Slowacki "(1809-49), a biographical and literary monograph, followed by a metrical translation of "Agamemnon's Tomb," "In Switzerland," and "The Plague in the Desert." V. Hugo's "Les Quatre Vents de l'Esprit," 2 vols.; 17,600 copies have already been sold; 30 copies were printed on Holland paper, price $4 a vol., 10 on China, $6 a vol.; 10 on Whatman, $8 a vol; 10 on Japan, $10 a vol.; nearly all of these 30 copies have been sold. A. Theuriet's " Poésies." These are the miscellaneous works: F. Clement and Latousse's "Dictionnaire des Operas" (dictionnaire lytique), containing an analysis and list of all operas and comedy-operas played in France and abroad, from the origin of these sorts of works down to present time, completed by periodical supplements which keep this work current with the day; price, 201. A.de La Rue, de Cherville and E. Bellecroix's "Les Chiens d'Arrêt Français et Anglais," with woodcuts, red and black title, tinted paper. Abbé-F. Galiani's "Correspondance avec Mmes. d'Espinay, Necker, Geoffrin, etc., Messrs.

bach, etc.;" this is a new edition of this sprightly Italian's letters, which have long been hard to get; the text has been collated carefully with the original, all of the suppressed passages have been restored, a great many unpublished letters have been added, and the volume has been enriched by an essay on Galiani's life and works by the editors, L. Percy and G. Maugras. Sainte-Beuve has an interesting article on Galiani's "Mémoires de l'institut National de France" (Academie des Inscriptions et Belles Lettres). A. Salières's "Le Patriotisme, son origine, son vraie caractère, etc." A. de Sauvenière's "Le Levrier et son sport," with 12 etchings. C. Desmaze's "Le Crime et la Débauche à Paris, le Divorce." Dubose de Pesquidoux's "L'Art au XIXe Siècle—l'Art dans les Deux Mondes, Peinture et Sculpture" (1878); vol. 1: (France, Belgique, Hollande, Espagne, Italie, Grèce); vol. 2: (Allemagne, Suisse, Autriche-Hongrie, Suède-et-Norvège, Danemark, Grande-Bretagne et Irlande, Etats-Unis, Etats de l'Amerique Centrale et Meridionale). E. Cavailhon's "Les Sportsmen pendant la Guerre" (episodes of the Franco-German war of 1870-71; written to show that "frivolous sport" well suits men to play their part in war). A. Lessun's "Les Polynesiens," their origin, migrations, and language, edited by L. Martinet, with a map (to be in 4 vols. at 15 f. each).

These are the sales of books: E. Caro's "La Fin du XVIIIe Siècle (pr. 7 f.) 2000 copies; Mrs. A. Craven's "Anne Severin," 19,000; A. Daudet's "Les Aventures Prodigieuses de Tartarin," 15,000; H. Greville's "L'Expiation de Saveli," 5000; her "Les Marier sa Fille," 18,000; H. Taine's "Les Origines de la France Contemporaine, vol. I. (7 f. 50.), 9000; V. Tissot's "Voyage au Pays des Tziganes," 14,000; Mme. de Rémusat's "Lettres" (2 vols. 15 f.), 3000; Vast-Ricouard's "La Vieille Garde," 18,000; A. Delpit's "Le Père de Martial," 10,000; A. Silvestre's "Les Farces de Mon Ami Jacques," 6000; H. D. Lacordaire's "Lettres à un Jeune Homme sur la Vie Crétienne," 6000; J. Claretie's "Les Amours d'un Interne," 9000, and his "Maitresse," 8000.

The third sale of the library of Ambroise Firmin Didot has just been concluded in Paris. These were some of the prices fetched: "Orosius (Paulus): Chronica; Eutropius and Paulus Diaconus: De Gestis Romanorum, with Eginhard's Vie de Charlemagne," etc., a vellum Ms. of the 12th century, $680; a vellum MS. of the close of the 13th century, containing a summary of Virgil's Æneid, $460; "Chroniques de Flandres et de Bourgogne, poesies de Jehan Molinet," archivist and historiographer of the house of Burgundy, paper Ms. of 1820-26, 3 vols. 4to, $600; Josephus's (Flavius) "Antiquitatis Judaïcæ," 4to, 2 col., bound in 2 vols., miniature and ornamented letters, vellum Ms. of 1150 or earlier, $2200; Boèce's "La Consolation de Philosophie" translated into prose and verse by Jehan de Meung, vellum Ms. adorned with 5 miniatures, of 1450 to 1495, $1400; "Privilèges Octroyes aux Clercs," etc., vellum M.S. of 1550 with storied borders attributed to Jean Cousin, $1600; "Histoire universelle jusqu'à la mort de Jules César," 4to, M.S. with miniatures, belonged to Connétable Louis de Luxemburg, to Count de St. Paul, to the House of Clèves, $2600. The sum total fetched by this sale was $49,200. Illustrated catalogues of the sale of the first part of this library (1878, price 30 f.) and of its second part (1879, price 40 f.) have been published; one of the third part has been published, price, 30 f.; tables of author's names and prices fetched at each sale have also been published, 7 f. 50 for the three tables printed on ordinary paper, 12 f. on Holland paper.

POSTAL MATTERS.

DECISIONS AFFECTING PUBLISHERS FROM

MAY 20 TO JUNE 20.

[From U. S. Official Guide, July.]

517. An advertisement of a periodical inserted therein, containing an order for subscription and a request to "tear out, fill up, and forward with the money for the subscription," subjects the publication to third-class postage.

518. Books are third-class matter, whether wholly in print or not. Any writing therein, not permitted by Order No. 45, page 10, March, 1881, Guide, subjects them to letter postage.

520. A contract by a publisher to give an advertiser a specified circulation, in excess of his regular subscription, by means of sample copies, will, when any doubt exists as to the character of the publication, be regarded as evidence that the publication so circulated is subject to third-class rates.

521. To write "please forward" upon a package of third or fourth class matter will subject the same to letter postage.

522. The law does not permit the terms of subscription to be printed upon the wrapper of second-class matter.

525. Copies of publications sent by postmasters to the Department for ruling should always be inclosed in penalty envelopes, and addressed to "First Assistant Postmaster-General," indorsed "Construction of P.L.& R."

529. When only a single copy of a reproduction by any other process than ordinary type, plate, and lithographic printing is offered for mailing, and the subject-matter is essentially personal to the individual addressed, the parcel is subject to letter rates of postage.

531. The date permitted to be written in a circular is the date of the mailing and not the date upon which something is acknowledged in the circular to have been received. In other words, the date cannot be used to communicate a fact in addition to the date of mailing without subjecting the matter to letter postage. The same rule applies as to the name of the sender when written to acknowledge the receipt of money at the end of a printed receipt. In such a case the signature subjects the matter to letter postage.

535. A paper must be entered at the office of publication and a copy submitted to the Department and sufficient reasons assigned before permission will be given to mail it at another office.

536. The term "club" cannot be applied to parties who receive papers through a news agent.

537. A postmaster has no right to open a newsdealer's packages and distribute part of the papers therein to subscribers through the post-office free. If a newsdealer wishes to serve his subscribers through the post-office he must mail them regularly, paying second-class postage thereon.

538. Ruling 483, page 29, May, 1881, Guide, has been so modified as to permit supplements containing legal advertisements, such as tax sales, to be printed at another office than that of the paper with which they are mailed

539. Publishers desiring to send out supplements should file with the postmaster the following affidavit required by ruling No. 493, U. S. Official Guide for June, 1881 :-

The undersigned, publisher of the hereby makes took that acither he nor any other proprietor, clerk, agent, or employé within his knowledge, will send, or cause or persuit to be sent through the made at the SECOND-CLASS (pound) rate, any supplement containing any advertisements whatever, except such advertisements are paid for at the same rate as those in the body of the paper telf.
Sworn and subscribed before me this day of 18

[Signature and title,] When such an affidavit has been filed it will not be necessary to repeat it, except when the Publication changes hands.

541. Coin may be sent in the mails as fourthclass matter.

COMMUNICATIONS.

HALF BINDINGS.

Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

I READ, with great interest, the obituary notice in your columns of Mr. Sabin, but I thought he was mistaken in what he said about half-calf and half-Turkey bindings being known in the United States prior to 1848. Dida't think it worth while, however, to say anything about it. In WEEKLY for June 25, I see that "E. C. A." makes a correction, and to this I will add that I have in my possession books bound to my order in half-calf and half-Turkey as early as 1844, by James Linen (of Fulton street, I think), New York, and this binding is at least equal in style and finish to any work of the kind I have ever seen since. I have also full Turkey bindings of Mr. Linen's work, which I would like to see equalled or surpassed by the bookbinders of 1881. Linen bound the best work for the old (now deinact) firm of Stanford & Swords, and others. And as a job binder I think he had no equal in those days in New York. Mr. Linen was a Scotchman; something of a poet; and author of a published volume of poems, etc. W.P.

Prof. Newcomb is one of the three or four mathematicians of the first class that America has produced. He is also known as an eminent periodical writer on general subjects, thus combining in the highest degree the two sets of abilities—scientific and expository—required in the production of a text-book.

The best way to simplify a subject is to get at the bottom of it. The publishers confidently expect that these books will show that the author has done just that thing more frequently than it has been done in any other text-books on the subject.

PRACTICAL LESSONS IN ENGLISH

Made brief by the omission of non-essentials. By J. M. B. SILL, Supt. of Public Schools Detroit, Mich. This volume deals with the language as it is, and not, as nearly all grammantans have done, as though it were the more systematic and orderly Latin or Greek. By conscientious abstinence from finely drawn distinctions which are at best purely matters of curios ty, the author is the first to confine this study to its proper function of inculcating the correct of speech. Price, 60 cents.

Specimen pages of our new publications forwarded free of cost to any address. plete copies ordered for examination may be returned at our cost, if not approved, and the pride paid will be refunded. Descriptive Catalogue free.

WILL PUBLISH, EARLY IN SEPTEMBER,

A NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION OF MILMAN'S WORKS,

COMPRISING

THE HISTORY OF THE JEWS, -		-	-	-	•	-	-	2 Vols.
THE HISTORY OF CHRISTIANITY, -	•	-	-	-	-	-	-	2 Vols
HISTORY OF LATIN CHRISTIANITY,		-	-	-	•	-	•	4 Vols.

This New Issue, thoroughly revised and corrected, is printed from large, clear type on toned paper.

Dr. MILMAN has won lasting popularity as a historian by his three great works, History of the Jews, History of Christianity, and History of Latin Christianity. These works link on to each other, and bring the narrative down from the beginning of all history to the middle period of the modern era. They are the work of the scholar, a conscientious student, and a Christian philosopher. Dr. MILMAN prepared this new edition so as to give it the benefit of the results of more recent research. In the notes, and in detached appendices to the chapters, a variety of very important questions are critically discussed.

The author is noted for his calm and rigid impartiality, his fearless exposure of the bad and appreciation of the good, both in institutions and men, and his aim throughout, to utter the truth always in charity. The best authorities on all events narrated have been studiously sifted and their results given in a style remarkable for its clearness, force, and animation.

MILMAN'S WORKS HAVE TAKEN THEIR PLACE AMONG THE APPROVED CLASSICS OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE. The general accuracy of his statements, the candor of his criticisms and the breadth of his charity are everywhere apparent in his writings. His search at all times seems to have been for truth, and that which he finds he states with simple clearness and with fearless honesty. HIS WORKS ARE IN THEIR DEPARTMENT OF HISTORY AS VALUABLE AS THE VOLUMES OF GIBBON ARE IN SECULAR HISTORY. THEY DESERVE A PLACE IN EVERY LIBRARY IN THE LAND. THIS NEW AND COMPLETE EDITION OF MILMAN'S WORKS in 8 vols. contains AN AVERAGE OF OVER 900 PAGES per volume. PRICE, $12 PER SET. (Formerly published in 14 vols., at $24.50.)

NOTES IN SEASON.

A. WILLIAMS & Co. publish in a pamphlet the memorial sermon of Dr. Phillips Brooks on Dr. Alexander H. Vinton, the distinguished Episcopal clergyman.

HENRY HOLT & Co. issue in the Leisure Hour series "The Lutaniste of St. Jacobis," by Catherine Drew, which is endorsed by the London Spectator as a "sound, sweet, tender, and whole-some book."

LEE & SHEPARD issue in a handsome pamphlet Wendell Phillips' recent Phi Beta Kappa address at Harvard on "The Scholar in a Republic," which has caused so much discussion. It has been carefully revised by Mr. Phillips.

ROBERTS BROTHERS have just published in a tanteful 16mo volume the poems of Oscar Wilde, the most conspicuous of the English "asthetes," who have furnished such excellent material for Du Maurier's witty pencil. Mr. Wilde is supposed to be Punch's "Postle-thwaite," and his poems will naturally attract no lide interest.

George A. Bates has issued in his Naturalins' handy-series "The Botanical Collector's Hand-book," by Prof. W. Whitman Bailey, of Brown University. The work contains chapters on herborizing, field work, collecting and preserving fungi, closet work, the herbarium, and Public herbaria. There is also a bibliography and a number of blank pages for memoranda. JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co. publish this week the fourth novel in their Round-Robin series, entitled "Patty's Perversities." The preceding volumes have proved so popular that a large sale is anticipated for this, as well as a fusillade of conjectures in regard to the authorship.

Fords, Howard & Hulbert issue this week a bright little novelette, entitled "Surf: A Summer Pilgrimage," It details the trip of four wide-awake newspaper men (" Washington correspondents") down the Potomac to Old Point Comfort, and into Virginia and North Carolina, and weaves in a merry little romance by the way. This is published in paper covers as one of four "Hammock Stories," bearing as motto, "The pastime of a drowsy summer day. The other three are new editions of Raymond's "Camp and Cabin: Life and Luck in the Sierras;" Miss Campbell's "Patty Pearson's Boy: A Tale of Two Generations," and "Ploughed Under: The Story of a Prairie Flower," all in attractive paper covers. They are also all ın cloth.

S. C. Gatogs & Co. will publish, August 6, a new edition, thoroughly revised and much enlarged, of Dr. Zur Brücke's "German without Grammar or Dictionary." The work has been printed from entirely new plates. On the 20th of August they will have ready "The Foreigner in China," a history of the contact of Christian civilization with the Chinese, by Dr. L. N. Wheeler, who was nearly eight years resident in China, and had exceptional facilities for acquiring knowledge of the facts he relates. Early in September they will issue "Isms Old and New," a volume of Sunday evening discourses delivered during last winter by Rev. Geo. C. Lorimer.

Lockwood, Brooks & Co. issue "Aunt Mary's New England Cook-Book" which, in seventy-two pages, contains a variety of "useful and economical cooking receipts, all of which have been practically tested by a New England mother." It is a temperance cook-book, no receipts being given which require any spirituous liquors. They have also just ready a new edition of "Helps to Devout Living," a book of 238 pages filled with admirable selections from the best religious writers of all ages. The book was prepared by Miss J. Dewey, sister of Rev. Dr. Orville Dewey, and is unusually rich in sentences that touch and uplift the heart like a tender and cheering voice from the skies.

A. C. Armstrong & Son, and in arrangement with them T. Y. Crowell & Co., will publish early in September a new and handsome library edition of Milman's complete works, comprising "The History of the Jews," two volumes, "The History of Christianity," two volumes, and "History of Latin Christianity," Milman's works have taken four volumes. their place among the approved classics of the English language. His works are in their department of history as valuable as the volumes of Gibbon are in secular history, and the publishers deserve all credit for bringing this hitherto expensive work within the reach of all readers. This work, as were their cheap editions of Lamb, Hallam, etc., was printed at the University Press, from large type, on laid tinted paper, and contains full indexes.

"In 'Ayala's angel 'Mr. Trollope introduces his readers to a new set of people. . . . The main story—that of Ayala—includes several others, all more or less alike, inasmuch as money troubles in each case are the difficulty which makes a story possible. In Ayala's own case there is something more. She has an ideal. That is the explanation of the title of the book. She has formed an idea of perfection, an angel of light, as Mr. Trollope calls him over and over again in his well-known and very pleasant manner. A sort of point and a dash of humor are given to the story by the nature of the man who is ultimately successful."-London Athenæum.

Wilde, Oscar. Poems. Bost., Roberts Bros., 1881. 8+230 p. D. cl., $1.25.

The author of this volume of poems enjoys the distinction in London of being the leader of the new school of "zesthetes;" he is known both as a literary man and a society man, and has obtained a world-wide celebrity through the caricatures made of his eccentric dress and ways in the columns of Punch, where, under the name of "Maudle," he became a familiar figure, while his style is admitted to be affected and bizarre, his admirers claim for him genius, and compare him to Swinburne, Rosetti, and others of that school. The first division of the book is entitled "Eleutheria," and is a collection of political poems, "To liberty," "Ave Imperatrix," "To Milton," "Louis Napoleon," etc. The second division, "Rosa Mystica," consists of 14 verses, which a critic describes "as far too passionate to be reverential, although they are apparently meant to be exceedingly devout." "The burthen of Itys." "Charmides," Panthea" and "Humanitad," etc., are the chief poems in the remaining division, of which the same critic says: "It is not easy to find a stanza than can be quoted in a family newspaper, although some of them are almost perfect in their way.

We are informed that, "owing to the absence from the city of the Standing Committee, and also of many members of the book trade, at the time of the death of Mr. John Appleton, no official notice was taken of the death of the estimable gentleman. Due notice will be given of the time and place of meeting."

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY office has now in active preparation the long-promised enclosure catalogue of general literature, which will be sold in editions to booksellers. This will be followed by a novelty in the form of a "Reading Diary," intended for noting down what has been read as well as what should be read. It will embrace a carefully selected list of such works as should be read by every person of culture and found in every library, and will be provided with blanks for noting, dating, checking, etc.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

LONDON, July 12, 1881.

The great interest attached to the late Thomas Carlyle by the publication of his now celebrated "Reminiscences" is still unabated. In addition to the number of articles on the book by eminent writers, such as Sir Henry Taylor, Mr. James Cotter Morrison, Mr. R. H. Hutton, Mrs. Oliphant. and Miss Julia Wedgwood, which have already appeared in our leading magazines, Mr. J. A. Froude contributes to the new number of the Nineteenth Century an article on "The Early Life of Thomas Carlyle," consisting chiefly of letters addressed to him during his student days by his father, mother, and brothers, and by Edward Irving, together with one or two letters from Carlyle himself. The present number of the British Quarterly Review also contains an interesting article of fifty-six-pages, entitled, "Carlyle and Mrs. Carlyle: a Ten Years' Reminiscence," from the pen of Mr. Henry Larkin, the author of "The Mystery of Creation," etc.

Hurst & Blackett will shortly publish "A Man's Mistake," a new novel by the author of "St. Olave's," and "Wanted, an Heir," another novel, by Mrs. Pirkis, author of "A Very Opal."

Macmillan & Co. will publish almost immediately a new volume of poems by Mrs. Augusta Webster, to be called "A Book of Rhyme." In the autumn the same firm are to publish the first volume of a series of Foreign School Classics, under the general direction of M. Eugène Fasnacht, who will himself undertake editions of Corneille's "Le Cid," Molière's "Les Femmes Savantes" and "Le Médecin Malgré Lui," Voltaire's "Charles XII.," selections from Uhland's "Ballads," and from German historians.

Longmans & Co. are preparing for publication an elaborate edition of the novels and tales of the late Earl of Beaconsfield, from "Vivian Grey" to "Endymion," to be called the Hughenden edition. It will comprise eleven volumes and will contain Maclise's portrait of the author of "Vivian Grey," a later portrait specially engraved on steel for this edition from a recent photograph, and a vignette to each volume, embodying a series of views of Hughenden Manor and its surroundings. To the last volume, "Endymion," will be appended a brief memoir of the life and political career of the Earl of Beaconsfield. The same firm have nearly ready "The Wit and Wisdom of Benjamin Disraeli, Earl of Beaconsfield," collected from his "Writings and Speeches."

Apropos of the foregoing, Messrs. Christie are to sell in a few days, by public auction, the autograph manuscripts of some of Lord Beaconfield's novels, including "The Young Duke," "Venetia," "Contarini Fleming," "Alroy," "The Rise of Iskander," and "Ixion in Heaven." They will also sell at the same time the stereotype plates and copyright of Lord Beaconsfield's edition of the works of Isaac Disraeli and the life of Lord George Bentinck, comprising the "Curiosities of Literature," "Amenities of Literature," "Calamities and Quarrels of Authors," and "Literary Character," and including the valuable copyright of the memoir and notes which were first added to this edition.

John Murray will undertake the publication of Mr. Whymper's book on his travels among the Great Andes of the Equator.

Among the forthcoming publications of Sampson Low & Co. will be Nordenskiöld's "Voyage Round Asia," by Lieut. Howgard, of the Danish navy; "The Cruise of the Walnutshell;" "The Cornet of Horse," by G. A. CUES TO TIMELY TOPICS.

MATTHEW ARNOLD.—The Literary World of June 18th contains a bibliography of Matthew Arnold's writings.

Modern History.—The St. Louis Public School Library Bulletin, No. 13, prints a list of books recommended by Cornell University for a course in modern history.

Special Reference Lists.—Mr. Foster's Monthly Reference Lists for July contain reading courses of the following topics "Comets," Deep Sea Phenomena," and "The French in Tunis."

Bisliographical Aids.—Perhaps the most complete reference list of recent bibliographical reference lists is prefixed to the second volume of the American Catalogue (subject entries) just published by A. C. Armstrong & Son, New York.

VENTILATION.—Dr. Corfield, in his excellent work on "Health," just published by the Appletons, gives, says the Nation, "the best popular account of the subject, in space as bn-1, that we have seen. The half-dozen continuances described (pp. 224-230) for the ventilation, without draught, of rooms are simple and practicable, and should be more widely known than they are."

GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS. — The PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY has made arrangements for fiving a regular record of the new documents and other publications of the United States. A ms of the publications received at the Smith-some Institution from October, 1880, to March, 1881, has been issued separately and can be had on receipt of stamp from the office of Publishers' Werkly.

CORRECTIONS.

THE wholesale price of Holmes' Third Reader, published by the University Publishing Co., is incorrectly given as 39 cents. The price is 36 cents.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co., inform us that the price of Worcester's Academic Dictionary has been changed from $1.55, as quoted in the Educational Catalogue, to $1.50.

CHARLES DESILVER & SONS request us to state that the price of their Interlinear Greek series in their advertisement on page 107 of our last issue was inadvertently quoted at $2.75. The price of each is $2.25, as given in the Educational Catalogue.

By an unfortunate oversight in preparing the key to abbreviations used in the Educational Catalogue in our issue of the 23d, the name of C. W. Bardeen was omitted. Our readers should note that publications in the Educacational Catalogue accredited to Bard. are issued by C. W. Bardeen, Syracuse, N. Y.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have become the American agents of the Oxford House of Jas. Parker & Co.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. announce a volume of "Swiss Letters," by the late Miss F. R. Havergal.

THE Sentine! Co. of Milwaukee, have issued a translation by Garritt Droppers and C. A. P. Dachsel of five essays of Arthur Schopenhauer. A biographical sketch of Schopenhauer is prefixed.

MARCUS WARD & Co. are in the field with their patterns of Christmas and New Year cards and calendars for 1881. There are upward of 400 designs in the collection, and in novelty, as also in quality of execution, they surpass any thing ever before issued by them.

MR. H. DAYTON, who is so well known among the Western trade, having been for many years connected with the Leavitt & Allen firm, and more recently with Mr. James Miller, has just concluded an arrangement with the Arundel Book Co. to represent them on an extended trip throughout the West.

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS will soon have a translation of Gustave Droz' "Monsieur, Madame, and the Baby." The work is announced as a "French 'Helen's Babies,' and is said to be very popular in France, on account of its spicy and entertaining character.

E. P. DUTION & Co. announce another holiday book, to be entitled "Grandma's Attic Treasures," a dialect poem, that is promised to be a very fine specimen of woodcut printing. The book has been prepared under the supervision of Mr. Geo. T. Andrew, the well-known wood engraver of Boston, and printed at the University Press, Cambridge.

WILLIAM WOOD & Co. have prepared a handsome catalogue for distribution among the delegates to the International Medical Congress, to be held in London next month. The catalogue, printed on tinted paper, with red line borders, and bound in a delicate shade of blue silk, contains a provisional daily programme of the International Medical Congress, an historical sketch of the house of William Wood & Co., a full catalogue of their publications, and a number of pages of blue writing-paper for memoranda.

A. C. Armstrong & Son will issue, early in September, "Shakespearian Tales in Verse," comprising four of Shakespeare's plays set to rhyme for young people, by Mrs. Valentine. The volume will be an elegant quarto, with nearly one hundred full pages of colored and other illustrations from original drawings by R. Andre, engraved by Emrik & Binger. Early in October they will issue, uniform with "Afternoon Tea," a handsomely illustrated quarto, entitled "The May Blossom; or, The Princess and Her People." Messrs. Armstrong announce that they have arranged by contract with the London publishers for the "exclusive sale and publication in the United States" of these two volumes.

"THE Peninsular Campaign of General Mc-Clellan in 1862," which will be published soon by James R. Osgood & Co., will contain six papers, as follows: "General McClellan's Plans for the Campaign of 1862 and the Alleged Interference of the Government with Them," by John C. Ropes; "The Siege of Yorktown," by Brevet Brigadier-General John C. Palfrey, United States Army; "The Period which Elapsed between the Fall of Yorktown and the Beginning of the Seven-Day Battles," by Brevet Brigadier-General F. W. Palfrey, United States Volunteers; "The Seven-Day Battles" and "The Battle of Malvern Hill," by the same officer; and "Comments on the Peninsular Campaign," by Brevet Brigadier-General Chas. A. Whittier, United States Volunteers.

JOHN E. POTTER & Co., of Philadelphia, announce a "French Syntax, on the Basis of Edouard Mätzner," by James A. Harrison, Professor of Modern Languages, Washington and Lee University. They will also shortly issue new editions of "The Personal Life of David Livingstone, LL.D., D.C.L., chiefly from his unpublished journals and correspondence in the possession of his family," by Dr. William Garden Blaikie; "History of the War between the United States and Mexico," by John S. Jenkins; "The Life of Rev. Adoniram Judson, the heroic pioneer missionary to the Tropics of the Orient," by J. Clement; "The Young Woman's Book of Health," by William A. Alcott, M.D.; "Twelve Years a Slave," a personal narrative, by S. Northup.

"Authors on both sides of the Atlantic," says the London Athenaum of July 16, "have special reason for being thankful that President Garfield is making rapid progress toward recovery. The overtures for the conclusion of an international copyright treaty between his country and ours, which were originated by his predecessor, have been continued by Mr. Secretary Blaine, at his personal instigation and with his warm sympathy for the object to be attained. He is one of the most cultivated presidents who have sat in the seat of Washington. His collection of the works of Horace is said to be the most complete in his country, and his appreciation of the great Roman classic is genuine and thorough. Should he be spared to remove from the United States the stigma of alien authors being treated with as great disregard of natural rights as negroes once were, he will acquire a fresh title to the admiration and gratitude of posterity."

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S Sons, early in the fall, will make noteworthy additions to their list of juvenile books. Mr. Rossiter Johnson will make a contribution of the first importance; what it is, the readers of St. Nicholas are able to make a good guess. Mr. William O. Stoddard, whose "Dab Kinzer" proved so popular, both as a serial and in book-form, has ready for publication a sequel to that story which gives Dab a good education and a wife. Mr. Stockton's name alone is enough to make the announcement of his new collection of stories bring a smile of glad anticipation to the faces of those who have laughed over his "Rudder Grange" and "Jolly Fellowship," and with his new book will be issued new editions of "Roundabout Rambles" and "Tales out of School." The series of Boy's classics of History and Legend which Mr. Sidney Lanier has begun so auspiciously with his "Boy's Froissart" and "Boy's King Arthur," is to have an addition in the "Boy's Mabinogion," a companion to the last-named volume. being the Welsh legends of King Arthur and his knights. This series is to receive still further and very important accessions hereafter. Jules Verne's "Exploration of the World" will be completed by the issue of the third part, "The Explorers of the Nineteenth Century."

For 1881 (Ninth Year)

Will contain over 2000 octavo pages, and include:

- 1. The Latest Trade-Lists of the publications of American publishers arranged alphabetically.
- 2. The Annual Reference-List, 1880-81. This list, forming the fifth provisional Supplement to the American Catalogue, and embracing all the books recorded in The Publishers' Weekly from July 1, 1880, to June 30, 1881, with additional titles, corrections, changes of price and publisher, etc., is compiled on what is known as the "dictionary plan," by which any book can be found, whether it is looked for under author, or title, or subject.
- 3. The Educational Catalogue for 1881 (twelfth year). This Catalogue, which is used by the entire trade and educational interest as the most reliable reference-list of School-Books, presents two essential improvements, viz.: (1) arrangement on the "dictionary plan," combining a Finding-List for the trade and a Subject Catalogue for the use of schools; (2) Trade-list or wholesale price, and mailing or retail price, in parallel columns.
- 4. The Annual Class-List, 1880-81. While in the regular Reference-list individual books are found under author, title, or subject, the Annual Class-List, on the plan of the monthly Class Synopsis in The Publishers' Weekly, gives references under such collective headings as Arts and Sciences, Biography, Education, Fiction, Juvenile, Law, Medicine, Poetry, Religion, Travel, etc., to all books of the year published in these departments.
- 5. The Order-List for 1881. This list, on the plan of the weekly Order-List of The Publishers' Weekly, presents, under the alphabetically-arranged names of the publishers, all the books (stating price) issued in 1881 by those publishing houses which are represented in the Annual. The practical object of this list, which will be compiled and printed at the very last moment, is twofold: (1) To save booksellers, as well as librarians, time and labor, in preparing their fall orders for the books of the season; (2) To give publishers who supply their lists at an early date an opportunity for adding any books issued later and not mentioned in their own list.

The above Lists, all requiring unusual labor and expense, present in their combination so perfect a working tool as has never been presented to the trade of any other country. It may be justly claimed that these special trade helps alone will make the Annual indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase and sale of books.

What say the publishers and retailers? Shall something of the kind be done?

SINCERITY. July 6, 1881.

In connection with the above, very appropriate, and suggestive of practical measures, is the following account of the new reform movement in the German book trade, reprinted from the last issue of the London Bookseller (July):

THE Fifty-second Annual Meeting of the Association of German Booksellers has come and gone. The campaign of Germany against Leipzig has progressed a further stage, and what may be called the "political" condition of the German book trade becomes more and more one of acute tension and expectancy. A few words of explanation are required to put the English reader au fait of the situation. In England and in France the book trade gravitated inevitably to the political and social centre; no other towns could contest the paramount claims of London and Paris. It was otherwise in Germany. The political and social features of the country brought into existence a number of small centres of well-nigh equal importance the one with the other. In times when communication and transport were both difficult and costly, the want of a common centre, where lated the appearance of the paper were proposed causes which cannot be briefly set forth, Leipzig 'debate they were carried by fair majorities. represented at Leipzig by an agent. Of the larger agents there are about thirty, some of sis ed only of Leipzigers; for a right of appeal whom have over three hundred clients. The from the decisions of this council to the General agents keep the stock of their publisher clients. collect and transmit the orders of the retailers, and settle the accounts of the trade by a system analogous to that which obtains in the London bank clearing house. Formerly by far the greater part of the whole German book trade was transacted in this way, the Leipzig agent being the connecting link between, say, the Stuttgart publisher and the Breslau retailer, and enabling the one to supply the other at a was the business of the General Meeting, which minimum of cost and time. So things went on until the great cheapening of postal communication and of transport in general which the last fifteen years have brought about. The elaborate organization which had come into being under very different conditions was now assailed from two sides. The provincial retailer found it as quick and as cheap to order, and to have sent to him direct, from the publisher without resorting to the Leipzig agent. On the other hand, a few enterprising men in Leipzig were not slow to perceive the tremendous advantage their position gave them; they had no agents, no transport or postal charges; they had the whole stock of the German trade within half an hour's reach; they could and they did systematically undersell the provincial retailer.

At first the latter contented himself with complaints, and a fierce and angry paper war was waged for three or four years. But the competition became more and more deadly, and the provincial retailers felt they must take energetic measures in self-defence. An organization was created, able leaders came to the front, and a determined attack was made upon the evils which were ruining the organization of the trade. For it was in the name of this organization that the provincials asserted themselves. By it, contended they, the smallest German town had been enabled to boast a retail business of standing and repute; by it the German scholar, no matter where living, had been enabled to have the intellectual treasures of the Fatherland spread out before him without trouble or expense to himself. They protested against their admirable and specifically German creation being ruined by the grasping selfishness of a few favored firms.

The campaign was opened with vigor. A change in the statute by which voting by delegation, instead of as heretofore in propria persona, was allowed, gave an assured and constant majority to the provincial trade, provided it voted solid. Pressure was brought to bear upon the publishers, who were at length induced to stop the account of firms guilty of specified malpractices; finally a vigorous system of local associations was organized to carry into effect the measures passed by the General Meeting. year the contest centred around the Börsenblatt, the official trade organ, the property of the Association of German Booksellers. Three amendments to the organic statute which regubusiness could be transacted with as little delay | by a provincial retailer, supported in the main and as much economy as possible, was keenly | by the Berlin and provincial trade, and opposed By virtue of its position, and from other 'chiefly by the Leipzig trade. After an energetic came to be that common centre and the seat of | The amendments themselves were not of much the most perfect organization that any trade, importance, except the last one. They provided perhaps, has ever possessed—perfect, and at the ' for a representation of the provincial trade upon same time simple. Every German bookseller the council charged with settling any dispute of importance, be he publisher or retailer, is between the editor of the paper and any member of the Association, which heretofore had con-Council of the Association; and they withdrew the Börsenblatt from the list of papers which may be sent through the post, and to which, in Germany, subscriptions may be handed in at every post-office. In support of the latter proposal it was urged that in the existing state of affairs the Börsenblatt, a purely trade paper, circulates unchecked among the general public. to the great detriment of the retail trade. Such was attended by about 450 booksellers from all parts of Germany, in addition, that is, to passing the report of the outgoing council for the preceding year; to auditing the statement of the treasurer (which showed an income of £2140 against an expenditure of £2000), and to ratifying the election of the new council. latter, as had been anticipated, was strongly representative of the wishes and interests of the provincial trade, the new president, Mr. Morgensten, of Breslau, having from the first taken a leading part in the "reform movement," as, on the incus a non lucendo principle, considering its essentially conservative character, it is known in the German trade. Whether the party will succeed or not it is impossible to say. To an outsider the present state of the trade seems due to causes which cannot possibly be controlled; the economic changes resulting from the increased and cheapened facilities of communication and transport approve themselves as inevitable. It must be a bitter reflection to the provincial retailer that the more perfect the Leipzig organization is, the greater are the facilities offered to the Leipzig underseller; and yet he is forced to uphold that organization, and can only seek a remedy in arbitrary and, probably, useless trade rules. One reason, which will for some time insure to Leipzig its position as centre, is the fact of its being the bank of the trade. The smaller retailers live upon the credit allowed the Leipzig agents, and if that credit were once withdrawn a crisis would follow.

But with whatever feelings from a pure business point of view the present movement in the German book trade be considered, whether it be looked upon as progression or degeneracy, socially any change in the existing organization is much to be deprecated. Nowhere else does the same cordial and genial spirit animate the relations of booksellers toward each other, during one week of the year at any rate; no where else are the opportunities so many for turning a mere business connection into a personal friendship.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT.

THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, in view of the present importance of the copyright question, will publish immediately, in instalments, a bibliography of books and articles relating to literary property, copyright, international copyright, etc., preceded by a complete index to all the articles and notes on the subject which have appeared in the nineteen volumes of the Publishers' Weekly. For both catalogue and index we are indebted to our indefatigable friend, Mr. Thorvald Solberg, of the Library of Congress.

From the Critic.

THE new English minister, Mr. Sackville West, comes to this country thoroughly instructed by the British government on the question of international copyright. Since Mr. Lowell has shown the legality of a treaty on the subject, it has been decided to settle the question in that way. Mr. Sackville West will be accompanied by Mr. Daldy (late of Daldy, Isbister, & Co.), who is sent out by the British government, and who, it is understood, also represents the publishers' interests. There is every reason to believe that the knotty question of international copyright will be settled very soon.

PAINTING ON THE EDGES OF BOOKS.

From Paper and Printing Trades Journal.

It seems there is to be a revival of the beautiful and now almost forgotten art of decorating the edges of books with water-color paintings. Though most of our readers may have heard of books thus embellished, probably few have seen examples or understand the process; many fine and valuable specimens of which are in existence in the collections of the wealthy. A book thus treated bears no outward token of its extra decoration, the edges are always gilt and it is only when the book is open and each leaf is slightly separated in a slanting position that the pictures are discovered. The decoration is generally, but inaccurately, described as being painted under the gilding, whereas it is in reality painted on the extreme edges of the leaves. Before the artist commences, the book—which is strongly sewn and the edges made perfectly smooth—is bent back so as to expose one side of the extreme outer edge of each leaf to view, and in this position, the volume being firmly secured by a vice between two boards, the artist begins and completes his work, taking great care to prevent the colors used getting under the edges of the leaves into the book itself, which they are apt to do if too moist or if laid on too heavily. The edges are finally gilt in the usual manner, the painting being only visible when the book is open and the leaves are bent back. Large sums of money have at various times been given for books thus treated, and we learn that several talented lady artists have lately turned their attention to this profitable and novel class of decorative art.

H. G. BOHN ON BOOKBINDING.

HENRY GEORGE BOHN, the veteran English publisher, in a recent sketch of his father, who began life as German bookbinder, gives many particulars of interest, some of which we quote from the London Bookseller: "He (his father, John Henry Bohn) had acquired especial celebrity for his hollow or spring backs, which, when books are suitably forwarded, throw them up so as to open thoroughly flat, a process for which, many years later, Mr. Williams, the account bookbinder, took out a patent, and then threatened my father with an injunction, but failed, as the previous use of spring backs was distinctly proved. My father was also the inventor of the improved diamond-graining on the sides of calf books, which for many years continued much in vogue, but is now exploded. This process, though a very simple one—contrived by brass wires fastened diagonally on toxwood, and reversed in working, was kept secret for a long time by working it with confidential workmen in after-hours, or on Sundays. Other bookbinders performed the same kind of graining by means of carved boxwood, but this in comparison had a coarse and clumsy appearance. He was also distinguished for his skill in the so-called tree-marbling on the sides of books bound in calf, which required peculiar management, and was always performed by himself alone; and he was in especial repute for gilding on the silk linings or fly leaves of expensively bound books, usually morocco, which, like the aforenamed processes, was kept secret; and for this, as well as the graining on call, he was somewhat largely and profitably employed by other bookbinders. In my early days, being at every spare moment by the side of my father, I became familiar with all these processes, and by the time I was ten years old could perform them, as well as bind, gild, and letter a book perfectly. In later life the knowdedge of the peculiar dressing used for gilding on silk enabled me to communicate to Mr. Leighton, of the firm of Leighton & Ecles, bookbinders, the means of getting cloth prepared so as to take gilding by heated machinery at the rolling or stamping press, which a leading trade firm said was impracticable. The process, however, after a few weeks' experiments, conducted by the late Mr. James Leonard Wilson, was successfully accomplished, and Mr. Leighton thereupon wrote to me triumphantly announcing the fact, and undertaking in consequence to bind in gilt cloth several thousand volumes at half the price I should previously have had to pay, on account of the necessity of having to add leather backs for taking the gold by hand tooling. The book was Martin & Westall's "Bible Points," which I bought in 1832—now so scarce that I cannot get sight of a copy. What to me, at the time, seemed an accomplishment of but little moment, has now become of such importance to cloth binders that could the discovery have been patented it would have yielded a considerable income.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

WARD & DRUMMOND have just issued a new work on blackboard teaching entitled "Plain Uses of the Blackboard," by Rev. W. F. Crasts, A.M.

H. A. SUMNER & Co. will issue at once "Pioneer Life in the West," by J. B. Walker, author of "Philosophy of the Plan of Salvation."

ELIOT RYDER, of Notre Dame University, Indiana, will publish this fall a new anthology of poetry, entitled "The Household Library of Catholic Poets."

PORTER & COATES have just received the medal for "First Award," which was given them at the "International Exhibition" held at Sydney, New South Wales.

JAMES MILLER is making a new edition of his Handy-volume Shakespeare, with twenty new illustrations. He has just issued a new edition of Captain Mayne Reid's books, with new back and side-stamps.

D. LOTHROP & Co. are preparing for Holiday use "Five Little Peppers," with a cover showing the said five Peppers peppering; and 'So as by Fire," an unusually good Sunday-school book, by Margaret Sidney.

I. K. Funk & Co. are preparing a teacher's edition of the "Revised New Testament," of which the chief feature is the printing in full in the margin of the parallel passages only referred to in the Bagster and other Bibles.

BAXTER PERRY SMITH, who wrote the careful "History of Dartmouth College," is writing an additional chapter bringing the history down to the present, and therefore including an account of the recent troubles between the president and the other members of the faculty.

R. Worthington is printing a new octavo Shakespeare, in nonpareil type, with Alexander Dyce's life, to be known as the Dyce edition. This is announced the only American edition with Dyce's life, which is now to be found only in the expensive nine-volume edition of Chapman & Hall.

THE Catholic Publication Society Co. have published "Christian Truths," a Series of Eleven Lectures by Right Rev. Dr. Chatard, and "On the Sunrise Slope," Poems by Katherine E. Conway. The same publishers have in press "Leaves from the Annals of the Sisters of Mercy."

CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN & Co. have a unique book entitled "The Three Wise Old Couples." It is a comical poem, with illustrations by Hopkins. The volume is gotten up in showy style, and though it will pass for a juvenile, it will serve to entertain the grown children as well as the little ones.

"PRIVATE theatricals," says the N. Y. Tribune, "will be made somewhat easier by the lexicon of acting plays which is being prepared by Mr. Samuel French. Its aim is to analyze the incidents and characters of each play, and to indicate a fitness or unfitness for amateur representation."

THE Acme Stationery and Paper Company have recently issued a novelty in composition-books for children, entitled "Pretty Stories." They are made of the best manila paper, bound in heavy covers with round corners. At the top of each page is a picture of some animal or other simple subject for the child to write about.

MISS JOSEPHINE E. HODGDON, who prepared the "Longfellow Leaflets," is preparing similar Leaflets from Holmes, Whiter, Wordsworth, Tennyson and other authors. They promise to be exceedingly popular in schools, and useful in promoting love of good reading among children, many of whom might otherwise never know anything of the best writers.

ADMIRERS of Dean Stanley will be glad to know that the Messrs. Macmillan have a small volume of his addresses and sermons, delivered while in this country two years ago, with a fine portrait. It is a beautiful memorial volume, which should be highly prized by his friends and admirers, of whom there are thousands in this country in all denominations.

MR. GEORGE HOUGHTON, author of "The Legend of St. Olas's Kirk," is writing another narrative poem sounded upon his studies in Icelandic literature. "Six Flights of the Dragons" will be the title, and the story will embrace the legends which describe the discovery and occupancy of the New England coast by the Northmen several centuries before the voyage of Columbus.

THE Universalist Publishing House has decided to publish a memoir of the late Rev. E. H. Chapin, D.D. The work of its preparation has been placed in the hands of Rev. Sumner Ellis, D.D. All parties who have letters of or can give incidents in the career of Dr. Chapin that will aid in the preparation of the volume are requested to send them to Dr. Ellis, care Universalist Publishing House.

LEE & SHEPARD are preparing for the Holidays, Jules Verne's "Tribulations of a Chinaman," with fifty full-page illustrations; "Our Little Ones," the first yearly volume of the very pretty magazine of this name, making a book of about 400 pages full of interesting reading and beautiful pictures; and "He Giveth His Beloved Sleep," a companion volume to the popular gift-books issued by Lee & Shepard for several years, with illustrations by Miss Humphrey.

Benziger Bros., have published in their Catholic National series, a "Primary Speller," which, although a little book, presents some novel features. They have also just issued "A Catechism of Familiar Things," "A Church History for Schools," and Father Konings' "Litteræ Apostolicæ," which latter has already reached a second edition. They are preparing an edition of Father Deharbe's popular catechisms. These have been translated by the Jesuit Fathers of St. Xavier College, Cincinnati, from the edition which was prepared expressly for this country, with the approval and help of the author.

It is probable, says the N. Y. Tribune, "that two new volumes of Mr. George Bancroft's 'History of the United States' will appear before the end of the coming publication season. Both volumes have been written and half of one of them is already in type at D. Appleton & Co.'s. Mr. Bancroft is a painstaking author and likes to have his manuscript and also the proof-sheets a long time on his writing-table. These additional volumes are of special interest, since they contain the history of the Federal Constitution, of which Mr. Bancroft has made an exhaustive study. They will bring his work down to the close of Washington's Administration."

OSCAR WILDE'S POEMS.—Attention has been called to the fact that the closing quotation of our extract in the Weekly Record relative to Oscar Wilde's poems, viz: "It is not easy to find a stanza that can be quoted in a family newspaper," conveys a false impression of the true character of the book. In justice to the author, as well as to the publisher, it is emphasized that the critic's remark applied only to that part of the book especially referred to; but in order to remove any false impression on this point, it is worthy of note that there are over three thousand lines in the book, and there may be, perhaps, in all not over one hundred of these, including the context of the objectionable lines, which might be called sensuous or erotic.

Porter & Coates announce as ready a new illustrated edition of "Tom Brown's Schooldays at Rugby," printed from entirely new electrotype plates; new editions of "Life of Robert Houdin, Ambassador, Author and Conjuror," written by himself, and edited by R. Shelton Mackenzie; "Memorable Scenes in French History," by Samuel M. Schmucker, A. M.; "Frontier Life; or, Tales of the Southwestern Border," by Francis Hardman; and a new illustrated edition of "The Ingoldsby Legends," by Richard Harris Barham, printed from entirely new plates. They have also ready a new illustrated edition of "Knight's Half Hours with the Best Authors," in 6 vols. at the low price of $7.50 per set.

BARNICOTT & SON, Taunton, England, have issued an index to that excellent Paper and Printing Trades Journals, published by Field & Truen, of London. The index is to the first thirty-two numbers, and was compiled by Mr. Edwin P. Pearce, who has done the work in a creditable and thorough manner.

An Authors' Co-operative and Mutual Publishing Company, limited, has been incorporated in England, with a capital of $50,000 in shares of $5 each, its purpose being to carry on the publishing business on strictly co-operative principles. Thirty per cent is promised to shareholders. The prospectus says that the large fortunes made by many of the publishing firms point to the profitable nature of the business.

For 1881 (Ninth Year)

Will contain over 2000 octavo pages, and include:

- 1. The Latest Trade-Lists of the publications of American publishers arranged alphabetically.
- 2. The Annual Reference-List, 1880-81. This list, forming the fifth provisional Supplement to the American Catalogue, and embracing all the books recorded in The Publishers' Weekly from July 1, 1880, to June 30, 1881, with additional titles, corrections, changes of price and publisher, etc., is compiled on what is known as the "dictionary plan," by which any book can be found, whether it is looked for under author, or title, or subject.
- 3. The Educational Catalogue for 1881 (twelfth year). This Catalogue, which is used by the entire trade and educational interest as the most reliable reference-list of School-Books, presents two essential improvements, viz.: (1) arrangement on the "dictionary plan," combining a Finding-List for the trade and a Subject Catalogue for the use of schools; (2) Trade-list or wholesale price, and mailing or retail price, in parallel columns.
- 4. The Annual Class-List, 1880-81. While in the regular Reference-list individual books are found under author, title, or subject, the Annual Class-List, on the plan of the monthly Class Synopsis in The Publishers' Weekly, gives references under such collective headings as Arts and Sciences, Biography, Education, Fiction, Juvenile, Law, Medicine, Poetry, Religion, Travel, etc., to all books of the year published in these departments.
- 5. The Order-List for 1881. This list, on the plan of the weekly Order-List of The Publishers' Weekly, presents, under the alphabetically-arranged names of the publishers, all the books (stating price) issued in 1881 by those publishing houses which are represented in the Annual. The practical object of this list, which will be compiled and printed at the very last moment, is twofold: (1) To save booksellers, as well as librarians, time and labor, in preparing their fall orders for the books of the season; (2) To give publishers who supply their lists at an early date an opportunity for adding any books issued later and not mentioned in their own list.

The above Lists, all requiring unusual labor and expense, present in their combination so perfect a working tool as has never been presented to the trade of any other country. It may be justly claimed that these special trade helps alone will make the Annual indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase and sale of books.

TERMS.

The price will be One Dollar per copy net, bound in cloth, or can be sent postpaid for One Dollar and a half net. The price of the volume will be raised after close of subscription.

No single subscriptions (unless by special agreement) can be taken into account that have not been paid up, as the small amounts will neither bear the trouble nor the expense or risk of numerous accounts, bills, statements, and subsequent collections.

Delayed or unpaid subscriptions are not entitled to the subscription price ($1).

Remittances should be made by money-order on New York, or registered letter, as we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

ILLUSIONS:

A Psychological Study. By JAMES SULLY, author of "Sensation and Intuition," etc. (International Scientific Series.) 12mo, cloth. Price, $1 50.

This volume takes a wide survey of the field of error, embracing in its view not only the illusions commonly regarded as of the nature of mental aberrations or hallucinations, but also other illusions arising from that capacity for error which belongs essentially to rational human nature. The author has endeavored to keep to a strictly scientific treatment—that is to say, the description and classification of acknowledged errors, and the exposition of them by a reference to their psychical and physical conditions.

WILD WORK;

The Story of the Red River Tragedy. By MARY E. BRYAN, Author of "Manch." One volume, 12mo, cloth. Price, $1.50.

"The reign of the carpet-bagger"—a troublous, transition period—was rich in dramatic featless. Abnormal conditions of government and society brought out unwonted lights and shades of character and gave rise to extraordinary incidents. Particularly was this true of the States, west of the Mississippi, where comparative freedom from social restraints fostered individuality and independence of character—too often to a lawless extent. There the Ku-klux proper, with its mask and mummery, was little known.

The author of "Wild Work" has sought to reproduce a few scenes of that time and region with an eye solely to their dramatic aspect, not distorted by sectional prejudice and not disturbed by political side-lights.

13 & 15 PARK ROW, N. Y.

NOTES IN SEASON.

FINCH & APGAR, Ithaca, N. Y., have just issued a new edition of their "Hand-book of Useful Tables." The work has been thoroughly revised and enlarged by the addition of tables of land measure, mitre tables, and several pages relating to painting, the mixing of paints, washes for outside work, cement, etc., making now altogether a book of 184 pages.

HENKY HOLT & Co. will issue next week, in the Leisure Hour series, "One of Three," a new novel, by the author of "The First Violin." They will also issue at once a new edition of "The Child's Catechism of Common Things," edited by J. D. Champlin, Jr. The work has been partly rewritten and the title changed to the "Young Folks' Catechism of Common Things," to make it uniform with the excellent "Young Folks' Astronomy" (by the same author), issued last week.

JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co. will issue early in September an illustrated edition of Owen Meredith's "Lucile." It will contain over 160 woodcuts from designs by Moran, Perkins, Waud, Sheppard, Mary Hallock Foote, and other famous American artists, engraved by the best American engravers. Mr. Anthony has had supervision of the artistic features of the work, which will be brought out in excellent typography and tasteful binding, and will undoubtedly be a leading holiday book.

R. Worthington will issue immediately two new editions of Martin Farquhar Tupper's poetical works, one in a handsome binding and redline border, the other plain. He has also nearly ready a new edition of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress." Among other books nearly ready may be mentioned " Brigand Captive; or, Gipby Queen," by Hugh de Normand; "The Dean's Daughter; or, The Days We Live In," by Mrs. Gore; "Six Hundred Dollars a Year: a Wise's Effort at Low Living Under High Prices;" and "Butterfly Hunters," by Helen S. Conant.

D. Appleton & Co. have just ready "A Selection from the Letters of Mme. de Rémusat, 1804-1814," edited by Paul de Rémusat. They have also issued, in the International Scientific series, "Illusions: a Psychological Study," by James Sully. This volume, as stated in the preface, "takes a wide survey of the field of error, embracing in its view not only the illusions of sense, dealt with in treatises on psychological optics, etc., but also other errors familiarly known as illusions, and resembling the former in their structure and mode of origin."

WM. WOOD & Co. will have ready early in September "Indigestion and Biliousness," by Milner Fothergill, M.D.; "Sympathetic Diseases of the Eye," by L. Mauthner, M.D., translated by Warren Webster, M.D., Surgeon in the U. S. Army; a translation from the German of Dr. Erl's "Electrotherapeutics;" "The Surgical Diseases of the Urinary Organs," by Reginald Harrison, M.D.; and "A Treatise on Diseases of the Nervous System," by James Ross, M.D. The latter three are fully illustrated, and some of them contain places and photographs. They have just issued the General Index to Ziemssen's Cyclopædia. which is now complete.

T. B. Peterson & Bros. will have ready in a few days the new book by Gustave Droz, "Monsieur, Madame, and the Baby," which has proved an eminent success in Paris, and which has now been translated for English readers. It is spoken of as a faithful picture of life, consisting of a series of studies, essays, or tales forming a complete history of a young bachelor, a husband, a wife, and a baby. The opportunity offered for vivacious description is fully availed of, and the book will doubtless find a large sale and many amused and interested readers. The publishers also announce a reduction in the retail price of some of their publications, and are including in the Dollar series and the Sterling series at $1 per volume, some popular books, formerly issued at $1.75 per volume. This house will not contribute to the Fall trade sale, but will extend special rates to buyers who order goods direct.

HENRY C. LEA'S SON & Co. have just issued a timely little work entitled "The Mother's Guide in the Management and Feeding of Infants," by John M. Keating, M.D., whose position as lecturer on the diseases of children at the University of Pennsylvania is sufficient guarantee of his ability to handle his subject in a satisfactory manner. The same firm has also ready the first volume of their recently announced Americanized edition of "Holmes' System of Surgery." For eighteen months thirtythree of the most eminent surgeons of this country have been busily engaged upon its revision. The work is sold only by subscription. New editions are also announced of "Smith on Diseases of Children;" "Hamilton on Nervous Diseases; "Hartshorne's "Essentials of Medicine; "Foster's "Physiology;" Ilolden's " Landmarks," the former issues of all of which are too well known to render necessary a description of them in their revised shapes.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE "timely" article in the September Atlantic will be a temperate but thoughtful and important paper on "The Attempt on the President's Life," by Mr. E. L. Godkin.

THE last literary work on which Dean Stanley was occupied was a short critical article on "Robertson of Brighton," which will appear in an early number of Scribner's Monthly. It is reported that the manuscript was so illegible that it had to be sent to England to be read by an expert. Dr. George E. Ellis, of Boston, is the only American who could decipher his inktracks.

The September Harper will contain a paper entitled "The German Empire," explaining the complex functions of the German Government in its various departments. It is similar in its purpose to the articles that have already appeared on the French and English Governments, and is by Mr. Herbert Tuttle, who was appointed recently non-resident Professor of International Law at Cornell University.

Youth and Pleasure is the name chosen by Mr. W. H. W. Lawrence, of Boston, for an illustrated weekly paper he proposes to issue, beginning the first of September. The "pleasure" promised by the title is not of the giddy but the sensible kind; it will be intended to er but not inebriate." The editor, who is no proprietor, hopes to enlist the best writers of short stories and sketches, and artists who can produce illustrations at once artistic and attractive.

"LE LIVER," says The Nation, "was never more true to its name than in its July issue, which opens with an article on the Plantin Museum at Antwerp, by Léon Degeorge, followed by a 'Bibliographical Study on the Fifth Book of Rabelais,' by Bibliophile Jacob. Neither of these important papers is entire, and the continuation of each will be awaited with much interest. Paul Lacroix defends the authenticity of the disputed Fifth Book. M. Degeorge, with good reason, upbraids the municipal authorities of Antwerp for their narrow sectusion of the bibliographical treasures of the Plantin Museum since they entered into possession of it in 1877. He then describes in detail the building, the disposition and contents of the rooms (of several of which he gives views), etc., in a way to make any lover of the art of printing long to inspect the noble relics of a famous house. The collection of type alone is so great 'that it would be possible to undertake works of the first importance." Under the head of 'Nouveltes Diverses,' the editor complains that the National Printingoffice has ceased to be a model and pioneer in typographic development, like the national textile and ceramic establishments of Beauvals and Sevres, and has become a subsidized competitor of private establishments at a great charge to the annual budget."

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT,

E. C. Stedman in Scribner's Monthly.

UNTIL a state of law shall exist that will induce American publishers, driven from their distant foraging-grounds, to seek for genius at bome and make it available, the support of our authors will not be so assured as to tend "in the end to the advancement of literature." International copyright at least would have made It feasible for the poet to earn his living by general literary work, and to reserve some heart and thought for his nobler calling. Now, when a serious movement at last seems under way toward copyright reform, it still has been to hampered with reservations and class-interests that many ask whether it were not better to have no change at all than to have one that is partial, and that may postpone indefinitely the one thing needful, to wit: honest recognition of an author's right of property in his own creations, without any more limits of space and time than those appertaining to other kinds of estate.

Literature verily has been almost the sole product of human labor that has not been rated the lasting property of the producer and his beits or assigns. This want of permanent copyright has borne severely upon authors in all countries, but more severely upon those of America, who have had to await the formation of public taste, to create their audiences, and who, while willing to suffer in their own persons, are less ready to devote life-times to the production of what will be valueless to those whom they hold most dear. The want of interbattonal copyright has been a grievous wrong to our brother-writers in Europe. Their com-Piaints are just; their cry has gone up for years. Great as the spoliations have been which they have endured, the effect upon our utive literature and authorship has been no less disastrous. Our authors themselves do not comprehend it. A few of the great pubishing houses, grown rich upon the system of free reprints, of late have felt this wrong, and the men of heart and culture who control them are generously atoning for it. We see them eaders in artistic and literary movements, the friends of authors and artists, receiving for their public and private humanities our warmest tibutes of honor and affection. It is said that truly wrong in this world is surely, if slowly righted; and the wrongs of authors doubtless will be set right. But who shall pick up water spilled to the ground? The writers of a new generation will never realize how bitter was the bread eaten by those who went before them and made their paths straight.

G. W. Smalley in N. Y. Tribune.

Mr. Oscar Browning, in to-day's Times, makes what he calls a contribution to the discussion of international copyright with America. A friend sent him, a few days ago, a little book published by an American house, neatly bound in blue cloth and lettered in gold, "History of Education: Payne." "On opening it," says Mr. Browning, "I found that it was nothing more than a verbatim reprint of an article which I had written some years ago on this subject in the 'Encyclopædia Britannica.'" The title stated accurately that it was a reprint, but omitted to mention Mr. Browning as the author.* Mr. Browning's name does not occur from cover to cover, but Mr. Payne is "exhibited in large type as Professor of the Science and Art of Education in the University of Michigan." It does not quite appear from Mr. Browning's letter whether Mr. Payne is expressly affirmed to be the author of Mr. Browning's article, but whether that be so or not, an explanation from Mr. Payne is clearly in order, and would be particularly acceptable, one would suppose, to the University of Michigan. The name of the publisher is not given. Meantime, there is a good deal of flavor in Mr. Oscar Browning's concluding observation, to the effect that the present conditions of America copyright greatly facilitate that "endowment of research" to, which as Mr. Browning understands, American universities devote a large portion of their rovenues.

A letter on this subject of copyright appeared lately from the pen of Miss Amelia B. Edwards, a writer of some position. Miss Edwards, despairing of an immediate reform of the admitted abuses in the existing state of the law, proposed an expedient for protecting writers from piracy. It was nothing less than to copyright half of each book in each country, so that in neith it England nor the United States could any unauthorized person reprint the complete work. The Times headed this "A New Idea in Copyright," but it is not new, and still less is it true If Miss Edwards. had written under any influence but that of feminine impulse she would have seen that if half her book could be copyrighted in America, the whole could be. Her suggestion is wholly without value. Lord Desart, the author of unread novels, answers Miss Edwards on the point of novelty, and does contribute, illtempered as his letter is, one fact to the discussion. The scheme of interjecting into an English book passages written by an American, and copyrighting these passages in America, was conceived some time ago. It failed, says Lord Desart, because it was found that an American republisher, upon an injunction or other legal process being put in force against him, had an easy means of evading this pitfall. He had only to administer interrogatories to the plaintiff, and so compel him to disclose on oath all the American passages. Having got this information, the pirating publisher could at once issue a fresh edition, omitting the copyright portion, and snap his fingers at author and authorized publisher, and as many of the ten commandments as may be supposed to touch his case. If this be not good law, it is, at any rate, according to Lord Desart, the opinion of a good lawyer.

The nobleman in whose company we are privileged to discuss this matter is the editor of what is perhaps the most acrimonious paper published in England - Vanity Fair. It would be odd if he did not manage to import some of the bitterness of that print into his letter on copyright, which ruffles the feathers of sweeternatured men than Lord Desart. Miss Edwards, he tells us, has missed one of the greatest grievances of English authors. It is one of the greatest grievances of English authors that Mr. Henry James "publishes his works over here and protects them in his own country while being protected in England by our laws."
Lord Desart doubtless means Mr. Henry James, Jr., but so great a nobleman cannot be expected to be exact in so little a matter as the distinction between the father who is not a novelist and the son who is. I am sure Mr. Henry James, Jr., whose affection for England is as undeniable as his popularity in England, will be distressed to learn that his method of publishing his novels constitutes one of the greatest grievances of English authors. It is a little difficult to see what injury he does them. The fact that his books are copyrighted in England does not, I suppose, increase their circulation or lessen the circulation of other books. In so far as he spoils anybody's market, the mischief he does has nothing to do with copyright. Even Lord Desart, if he had taken the trouble to rewrite his sentence and say what he really meant, would not have made his accusation so personal and so burdensome to poor Mr. James individually. Lord Desart intended to say that the state of the law under which such an advantage is possible to Mr. James living in England, and not possible to an English author living, or not living, in America, is a grievance. That is a proposition from which nobody but a publisher would dissent. It may gratify Lord Desart to know that even in these exceptional circumstances the English publisher has, in one or two instances, found means to turn these circumstances to his own profit. But that is a subject too delicate for publicity. It is well understood that a publisher, whether English or American, is entitled to deal as he pleases with authors, and to be exempt from all criticism in respect of such dealings.

THE International Literary Congress meets in Vienna in September next. Emil Augier will preside over the deliberations of the body, the session lasting from the 19th to the 24th of the month. . Among the topics which will be discussed are: the progress made toward the adoption of the Association's principles in recent international literary conventions; the uniformity of legislation concerning literary property by the several German states; Russian legislation as regards literary property; and copyright conventions between nations speaking the same tongue, such as Great Britain and the United States, and Portugal and Brazil.

PROF. PAYNE'S EXPLANATION.

In justice to Professor Payne we print herewith his letter to the Tribune, dated Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 5, in reply to Mr. Oscar Browning's charges (see page 163):

"Sig: I have noticed the remarks of your London correspondent relative to my connection with 'A Short History of Education,' and the only explanation I deem necessary is a simple statement of facts.

"Some six months ago I induced Mr. C. W. Bardeen, of Syracuse, N. Y., to reprint the article 'Education,' from the ninth edition of 'The Encyclopædia Britannica,' for the use of my classes in this university. The original matter consisted of two articles, one bearing the initials 'O. B,' and the other the initials ' ${f E}_{f c}$ R.' In the form in which it was reproduced this matter made sixty-five pages. To this I added thirty pages, in the form of an Introduction, Notes, and References, and a Bibliography, and to the whole I gave this title—'A Short History of Education; being a reprint of the article "Education," from the ninth edition of "The Encyclopædia Britannica;" Edited, with an Introduction, Notes, and References, and a Bibliography, by W. H. Payne.' This declaration, that the body of the publication is a reprint from 'The Encyclopædia Britannica,' is twice explicitly repeated in the Introduction (pp. 12, 13).

"I did not publish Mr. Browning's name because he did not attach his name to the original article. I assumed that he had good ressons for using only his initials, and I did not feel at liberty to meddle with the text. When it is said that ' Mr. Browning's name does not occur from cover to cover,' it should be recollected that the same thing is true of the article in 'The Encyclopædia Britannica.' At this point my whole responsibility ends. As to the form of the publication—its size, type, and binding—I had absolutely nothing to do, not even by way of suggestion. All I expected was a cheap pautphiet. When I saw that it was bound, I was surprised; and when I observed my name on the cover I was mortified. Knowing Mr. Browning's wishes as I do at this writing, I regret that his name does not occupy a very prominent place in the volume in question; and if a second edition shall be issued, I shall take a sincere pleasure in supplying this omission."

OBITUARY. WILLIAM LINDEMAKK.

Mr. W. Lindemann, wellknown to the trade as a dealer in works on arts and architecture, died in this city on August 3, from the effects of a painful and dangerous surgical operation. Mr. Lindemann was a native of Holstein and came to this county some 15 years ago. For several years he was engaged as a colporteur of German weekly and monthly periodicals and his intelligence and activity gained him a wide circle of customers and acquaintances. Eventually he devoted himself more exclusively to the sale of special books in the departments of architecture and the arts in which branch of business he was quite successful. The industry, honesty, and strict integrity of Mr. Lindemann gained him many business friends in and out of the trade and his death at the early ago of forty years is universally regretted. leaves a widow and several young children.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Mr. Edward Cook has become a member of the firm of Jansen, McClurg & Co., the copartnership dating from July 1, 1881. Mr. Cook's is a well-known name to the book-trade in the Northwest. His connection with the business commenced in 1859, and has continued almost uninterruptedly since that time. During the last thirteen years he has been the General Western Agent and representative of Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co., and he only severs this connection in order to become a partner in the house of Jansen, McClurg & Co. He has the best wishes of a large number of friends for success in this new departure.

DETROIT, MICH.—Mr. MacFarlane, formerly of the firm of E. B. Smith & Co., will establish himself in the book and stationery business about September 1st, at 135 Woodward Ave. He is at present in New York stocking up.

NEW YORK CITY.—J. F. Tapley has purchased the bookbindery of the late Joseph Glacel, No. 4 Great Jones Street. Mr. Tapley announces that he will continue to sustain the reputation for fine binding which the old firm so long and deservedly bore.

Mrs. Henriette Lindemann, widow of the late Wm. Lindemann, announces that she will continue the business at the old stand, 101 St. Mark's Place. She calls special attention to a full stock of the most valuable books on art, architecture, designs, etc.

D. & J. Sadlier & Co., the well-known Catholic publishers of this city, made an assignment on the 9th inst, for the benefit of their creditors, to John W. O'Shaughnessy of No. 97 Wall St. Mr. James Sadlier, in an interview with a Times reporter, said that "the event had come on him like a thunderbolt out of a clear sky. The tause of his being obliged to make an assign ment, was the greed or ill-will of one of his credstors, who persisted in pressing his claims. He was unable or unwilling to state what the ha-bilities of the firm were," continues the reporter, "and said that his clerks were busily engaged in examining the books, and a statement would be ready in a few days. He felt positive that the creditors would get at least seventy cents on the dollar, and he hopes that a compromise with them might be effected. He had been at least forty years in the business, and had never belote failed to meet his obligations. The business, he said, used to be worth $500,000." It was also learned by the Times that "the report made some time ago by Bradstreet's Agency stated that the firm was as old established one, whose trade-mark was considered a fortune, . . The business of the firm is said to have been worth between $200,000 and $300,000."

Tokonto, Can.—The Toronto Evening Globe notes that "Mr. N. Ure has taken possession of the business of the late firm of Hart & Rawlinson, which he will carry on in all its branches with vigor. Mr. Ure, who was educated in Totosto, is the son of the late Mr. G. P. Ure, a well-known member of the press of former years. He has had a good business training in Montreal, having been for many years a partner in the well-known firm of Dawson Bros., and there upon his new sphere of labor with the best prospects of success."

S. Hart, of the late firm of Hart & Rawlinson, says the correspondent of the American Stationer, "will open in a short time in the same line, a few doors west of the old premises, under the title of Hart & Co. Mr. Rawlinson has bought Chandler's business, of St. Thomas, and expects to be in possession at once."

PERSONAL NOTES

His numerous friends in the trade will be pleased to learn that Mr. Rudolph Berendsohn, after four years of indefatigable study, passed a very creditable examination, and received his degree as M.D. from the Long Island Medical College.

MR. E. C. SWAYNE, of E. P. Dutton & Co., has been seriously ill with inflammatory rheumatism, and is but just convalencent. He was confined to his bed for some time in Cincinnati, and was treated with the greatest kindness by members of the trade there, as also at Louisville and at Pittsburgh. But for their kind offices, he would have been in a most sorry plight, as he was at times entirely helpless.

THE reception of Hon. H. O. Houghton, says the Boston Traveller of August 9, "was carried out this morning about 9 o'clock. Under the marshalship of John Stone, the employees formed on the lawn fronting the Riverside Press building, and with the star spangled banner floating above, as Hon. H. O. Houghton, accompanied by his son and the marshal, proceeded up the walk, Mr. Whittier of the composing-room stepped forward and extended his hand (which was heartily shaken by Mr. Houghton), and made a brilliant speech of welcome, which was feelingly replied to by Mr. Houghton, who expressed himself as glad to get back to his home, and felt more contented after what he had seen abroad, with his own place of business. The hands subsequently resumed their labors."

STATIONERY NOTES.

MILTON BRADLEY & Co. have recently issued a new line of cards for the favorite game of "Old Maid." The pairs, instead of being two cards alike, are parts of one picture, which is cut in the centre. Each picture is so designed that one-half contains a man and the other a woman, and the two halves are numbered alike; and when matches are made complete pictures are formed

J. H. WILLIAMSON of the Williamson-Stewart Paper Co., St. Louis, has patented a handy contrivance for house and store use, which he calls the "Magic Pole." It is simply a strong thin blade fitted on the end of a long pole which by slipping in below the projecting lid of any light-weight wood or paper box, will enable such box to be lifted to or taken down from any shelf or pile of reasonable height.

BAKER, PRATT & Co. are manufacturing a new article of some practical benefit, in the shape of a patent self-adjustable book cover, which can be applied without clasps or fastenings to a book of any size or thickness. The covers are in three sizes, 16mo, 12mo, and 6vo, and are in cloth, leather, or calf as desired. The invention is admirably adapted for the protection of school or library books, keeping the volumes from being soiled, and increasing the durability of the binding.

THE ARMS POCKET-BOOK AND DIARY Co., Hartford, Conn., have placed on the market their Combination Pocket Record, which consists of a neat pouch or open-ended pocket book supplied with inner pockets for the ordinary use, and into which can be slipped or withdrawn as needed a thin and flexible pocket record, which can be made use of as desired, without disturbing the contents of the inner pockets of the pouch, which are covered by a flap. It is neatly made in a number of styles and sizes.

L. Prang & Co., announce the completion of their line of Christmas and New Year cards. No pains have been spared to secure the highest excellence possible. Among the artists whose services have been secured we notice such well-known names as Elihu Vedder, C. C. Coleman, Thomas Moran, Miss Rosina Emmett, Miss Dora Wheeler, Mrs. O. E. Whitney, W. H. Gibson, F. S. Church, and R. G. Birch. That a due regard has been paid for the quality of the literary matter in connection with these designs, is shown by the fact that many of the designs are accompanied by original poems from writers of note, such as Mrs. Celia Thaxter and Mrs. Emily Shaw Forman.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

JAMES POTT has just issued "The Gospel According to Satan," a protest against scientific sceptics, by Standish Gray.

THE next novel in Osgood's Round-Robin series will be "Homoselle," and will probably appear the latter part of August.

THE trade is requested to send hereafter their orders for Dr. Herrick Johnson's "Christianity's Challenge" to Jansen, McClurg & Co., Chicago.

ENGLISH critics call attention to the fact that the best book on Carlyle's work as a thinker and writer, is by an American — Mead's "Philosophy of Carlyle."

- A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. announce an addition to the New Testament literature in the shape of a little volume entitled "Where the Old and the New Versions Differ," the changes only being indicated in parallel columns.
- E. P. DUTTON & Co. announce that they are printing a first edition of 8000 copies of Rev. Phillips Brooks' new volume of sermons which will be issued September 22. It will also be published in London by Macmillan & Co.
- A. T. B. DE WITT has just issued a new and revised catalogue, in which important changes have been made in retail prices of many publications; for instance, octavo novels, in paper, heretofore retailed at 50 c. and 25 c., are reduced to 25 c. and 15 c. retail, with the usual liberal discounts to the trade.

HENRY A. SUMNER & Co. will issue in September a new story by Miss Douglas, entitled "We, von Arldens." The work will be a large 12mo, elegantly gotten up, and is promised to be "one of the brighter novels of the year." "No Gentlemen," issued early in the year, is unbounced as in its fourth edition.

- D. LOTHROP & Co. announce a book that bught to be both very interesting and popular. It is "A Family Flight," an account of a trip through France, Switzerland, Germany, and Norway, written by Rov. E. E. Hale and his sister, Miss Susan Hale, two of the brightest persons now living, and illustrated in Lothrop's most generous style.
- D. APPLETON & Co. have nearly ready "Wild Work: the Story of the Red River Tragedy," by Mary E. Bryan, the author of "Manch." The writer, it is announced, has sought to reproduce a few scenes from the reconstruction period and region, "with an eye solely to their dramatic aspect, not distorted by sectional prejudice and not disturbed by political side lights."

It is reported from St. Petersburg that a new order has been adopted, but not yet promulgated, which exempts all foreign newspapers, periodicals, and books, except those printed in German and French, from the foreign press censorship. This will be a great boon to Englishmen in Russia, who have been deprived of many of the London journals and had much of their mail matter defaced.

ROBERTS BROTHERS are nearly ready to bring out a new red-line household edition of Jean Ingelow's Poems, with a steel portrait of Miss Ingelow, and several poems not included in any American editions, except those brought out by her authorized American publishers, Roberts Brothers. A new holiday edition of her "Songs of Seven," with thirty-two illustrations, is in preparation by Roberts.

MRS. DIAZ, whose fun is always fresh and wholesome, has written for D. Lothrop & Co. "King Grimalkum and Pussyanita; or, The Cats'Arabian Nights." It is said to have brought business almost to a standstill in the composing-room, the compositors were so curious to know how the stories came out, and so convulsed when they learned. The illustrations are by Boz, Palmer Cox, and J. G. Francis, who can draw funnier cats than any other man living.

- T. B. Peterson & Bro. have in press, as readable summer books, "Sabine's Falsehood," reprinted, in translation, from the Revue des Deux Mondes; Emile Zola's new book, "La Curée;" a new book by the author of the "Earl of Mayfield," entitled "A Prince of Breffny;" a fresh love story by Daudet, "A Young Girl's Romance;" "The Hidden Peril" and "Genevieve's Victory," both by Henry Greville; "The Russian Princess," by Emanuel Gonzales; and a new society novel, "One for Another." They will also issue a new edition of "Peterson's Coin Book," a manual of the coins of the world.
- M. A. LANGLET has in preparation a "Dictionnaire-Manuel des Libraires et des Amateurs de Livres," which will be one of the greatest bibliographical works ever published. It will be in twenty-five volumes, and will contain biographies of all eminent publishers, booksellers, and bibliophiles from 1445 to 1881, but will have, too, a list of all MSS. in the public libraries of France.

THE "Memoirs of Barras" are in press; some extracts from them have already been published. His grandson recently died of fatigue on the roadside, near Antibes, in the South of France; he was driven by poverty to become letter-carrier. The "Memoirs of Talleyrand" will be published in 1888.

THE letters of M. de Bacourt, who was one of the literary executors of Talleyrand, and for some years French Minister at Washington, are in press. Some letters written while he was at Washington have been published.

CROSBY, LOCKWOOD & Co., London, have recently issued a work on "Electrotyping," by J. W. Urquhart. The Academy, in noticing it, says: "This is a better book than the 'Electroplating' of the same author. In the present work, which is really a practical manual, containing instructions derived from actual working of the processes described, we learn how to reproduce printing surfaces and works of art by means of the electro-deposition of metals.... We can speak favorably of many sections of the work before us, particularly the chapters treating of the electrotypic copying of works in metal."

A TECHNOLOGICAL, Industrial and Sanitary Museum is being formed in Sydney, New South Wales, which is intended to occupy a similar position and fulfil the same purpose in that Colony which the South Kensington Museum, the Bethnal Green Museum, the Museum of Practical Geology, the Patent Office Museum, and the Parkes Museum of Hygiene do in London. To this end, it is intended to collect together typical collections of all materials of economic value belonging to the animal, vegetable, and mineral kingdoms, from the raw material through the various stages of manufacture, to the final product or finished articles ready for use. Members of the trade who wish to interest themselves in this undertaking may obtain full particulars by addressing the acting Secretary, Charles R. Buckland, in care The Australian Museum, Sydney, New South Wales.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

For 1881 (Ninth Year)

Will contain over 2000 octavo pages, and include:

- 1. The Latest Trade-Lists of the publications of American publishers arranged alphabetically.
- 2. The Annual Reference-List, 1880-81. This list, forming the fifth provisional Supplement to the American Catalogue, and embracing all the books recorded in The Publishers' Weekly from July 1, 1880, to June 30, 1881, with additional titles, corrections, changes of price and publisher, etc., is compiled on what is known as the "dictionary plan," by which any book can be found, whether it is looked for under author, or title, or subject.
- 3. The Educational Catalogue for 1881 (twelfth year). This Catalogue, which is used by the entire trade and educational interest as the most reliable reference-list of School-Books, presents two essential improvements, viz.: (1) arrangement on the "dictionary plan," combining a Finding-List for the trade and a Subject Catalogue for the use of schools; (2) Trade-list or wholesale price, and mailing or retail price, in parallel columns.
- 4. The Annual Class-List, 1880-81. While in the regular Reference-list individual books are found under author, title, or subject, the Annual Class-List, on the plan of the monthly Class Synopsis in The Publishers' Weekly, gives references under such collective headings as Arts and Sciences, Biography, Education, Fiction, Juvenile, Law, Medicine, Poetry, Religion, Travel, etc., to all books of the year published in these departments.
- 5. The Order-List for 1881. This list, on the plan of the weekly Order-List of The Publishers' Weekly, presents, under the alphabetically-arranged names of the publishers, all the books (stating price) issued in 1881 by those publishing houses which are represented in the Annual. The practical object of this list, which will be compiled and printed at the very last moment, is twofold: (1) To save booksellers, as well as librarians, time and labor, in preparing their fall orders for the books of the season; (2) To give publishers who supply their lists at an early date an opportunity for adding any books issued later and not mentioned in their own list.

The above Lists, all requiring unusual labor and expense, present in their combination so perfect a working tool as has never been presented to the trade of any other country. It may be justly claimed that these special trade helps alone will make the ANNUAL indispensable to every one who has any interest in the purchase and sale of books.

TERMS.

The price will be One Dollar per copy net, bound in cloth, or can be sent postpaid for One Dollar and a half net. The price of the volume will be raised after close of subscription.

No single subscriptions (unless by special agreement) can be taken into account that have not been paid up, as the small amounts will neither bear the trouble nor the expense or risk of numerous accounts, bills, statements, and subsequent collections.

Delayed or unpaid subscriptions are not entitled to the subscription price ($1).

Remittances should be made by money-order on New York, or registered letter, as we cannot be responsible for any losses. Receipt for remittance will be sent by return mail.

THE REST COOK-ROOK IS BUCKRYE COOKERY.

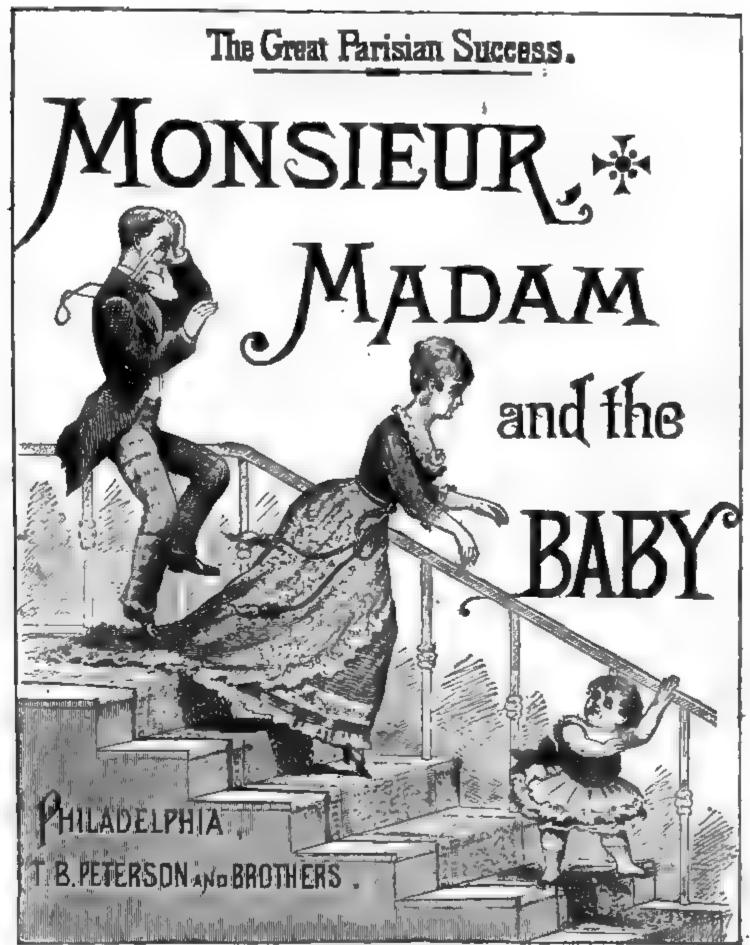

One volume, 536 pages, tinted paper, full alphabetical in-dex, substantial binding. Compiled to the most careful manner, chiefly from original sources.

It contains everything relating to Practical Housekeeping contained in any other book on Cookery an thousands of other choice bits of information and experience that can he found nowhere else

It has found its way into 120,000 homes since its publication, three years since, and the demapt if treases year, as the real helpfulness of the book becomes known. Its merit is in the practical, clear, common-sense treatment of all subjects pertaining to housekeeping. Most cookbooks are compiled by ladies who know more about bookmaking than housekeeping, or by those who have practical knowledge without the power of imparting it treatly. This book was evidently compiled by ladies who not only know kousekeeping to the ministest details, but his e a clear, direct way of telling what they know, that leaves no doubt as to what is meant. NOTES IN SEASON.

FINCH & APGAR have changed the retail price of the "Hand-Book of Useful Tables" from 30 to 25 cents.

By request the time for sending in the answers to the Prize Question on the 100 Best Books (see Publishers' Weekly, July 9) has been extended to October 1.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. send out this week the first four books of their new "Series of Readers." Full particulars concerning their scope and plan—which are entirely new—will be given in our next issue.

WILLIAM H. YOUNG, Troy, N. Y., issues this week the fifth edition of Spitzli's enlarged "Manual for Managers, Designers, and Weavers," the full descriptive title of which will be found in the Weekly Record.

MRS. ZELPHA H. SPOONER, of Plymouth, Mass., has gathered into a volume the various poems which have been written in praise and commemoration of the first settlers of Plymouth. It will be called "Poems of the Pilgrims," will have some illustrations, and will be published soon by A. Williams & Co., of Boston.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. have nearly ready a law-book which is of hardly more interest to lawyers than to manufacturers and business men generally. It is a treatise on "Trade-Marks," containing the cases and decisions of courts on a multitude of points, and embodies a vast amount of information, legal and historical, of great value. The work is prepared by Rowland Cox. of the New York bar, who has based it on Sebastian's "Digest."

T. B. Peterson & Bros. have nearly ready for admirers of Mrs. Southworth's novels a new and cheap edition of her popular book, "The Bridal Eve," which will be issued September 1, and will be retailed at the extremely low price of 75 cents. The book is classed among her most popular novels, and the issue of a cheap edition will be welcome news to the large circle of readers among whom the name of Mrs. Southworth has become a household word.

LINDSAY & BLAKISTON publish this week the third edition, thoroughly revised and rewritten, of "The Practice of Medicine and Surgery, Applied to the Diseases and Accidents Incident to Women," by Wm. H. Byford, A.M., M.D., Professor of Gynæcology in Rush Medical College, Chicago. This revision brings the work up to the present existing state of the subject on which it treats. It is published in one large octavo volume of 682 pages, with 164 illustrations.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD announce for this week "Memoirs of the Life and Writings of Thomas Carlyle, with Personal Reminiscences and Extracts from his Private Letters," edited by Richard Herne Shepherd and Charles N. Williamson. Next week they will offer the Hughenden edition of the novels and tales of the Earl of Beaconsfield, consisting of eleven volumes, printed from new type, with portraits and vignettes. The beauty and cheapness of this new edition will commend it to the popular taste.

AUTHORS AT WORK.

PROFESSOR WINCHELL is giving the finishing touches to a new book entitled "Chips from a Geologist's Hammer."

MRS. MARTHA J. LAMB has been engaged by Estes & Lauriat to prepare a "Young Folks' History of New York" for their series of Great Cities of the World.

MRS. FRANCES HODGSON BURNETT is at work on a new novel of Washington life. She has been for several months engaged with Mr. W. H. Gillette in making a play from his two short stories, "Esmeralda" and "Lodusky."

MR. O. B. FROTHINGHAM, according to Mr. Conway, "will hereafter make literature his profession, and will immediately enter upon it by undertaking a biography of the late literary critic of The Tribune, George Ripley."

MISS BLANCHE W. HOWARD, the author of "One Summer" (which will be pleasantly remembered by many readers), has arrived from Europe, bringing with her the manuscript of a new story, which she will publish with James R. Osgood & Co. in October next.

MR. J. C. HARRIS ("Uncle Remus") has written a story of Southern life, which will be ready for the printer in the fall. It will probably be published in The Century as a short serial, and appear in book-form later in the year. Mr. Harris has written two or three other short stories which will appear in the same volume.

DR. R. M. BUCKE, of Ontario, is engaged upon a life of Walt Whitman, the title of which will be "Walt Whitman: a Study." He has just returned from a trip with Mr. Whitman to the birthplace of the "good gray poet" on Long Island. The book will be illustrated with a picture of the birthplace and an etched portrait of the poet, and will be in two parts, biographical and critical.

Selections from the private letters lately published by M. Paul de Rémusat of his illustrious grandmother, written while at the court of Napoleon. The London Times, in speaking of them, says: "Indeed, in all the letters a kind of reticence is visible which is now cleared up by the memoirs already published, and which shows how the eye of a suspicious master restrained the thoughts of his subjects. This woman, gifted with such remarkable powers of observation, with such penetrating irony, who hit so straight at the weak spot when she spoke out her mind, drops into every letter some adroit compliment to the emperor and empress, or some naturally told little story flattering to the master's inexhaustible pride; 'Charles,' she once writes, speaking of her son, M. Thiers' future minister, who was then seven years of age, 'Charles had a rather funny idea a few days ago. He wanted to make a drawing representing the emperor getting up to perform his toilet, and each of the sovereigns of Europe bringing him some article of attire.'"

Part of the contents of this volume has already been given anonymously to the public under the title, "How we raised our baby." The author now publishes it under his own name, much enlarged and revised and rearranged; he has through years of private practice, and public work in nurseries, hospitals, homes, etc., become conversant with babies and their trials, and has given the result of his experience in this book, using the narrative of a young couple with "The first baby" as a thread on which to hang facts and to display to advantage real men, women and children.

THE GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS.

So little, comparatively, is known of the nature and extent of the government publications, that the issue of a book, by Mr. R. W. Kerr, treating in detail of the history and work of the Government Printing-Office, is at once timely and valuable. Originally designed as a guide for visitors to the printing-office, it has outgrown the first intention of Mr. Kerr (who is one of the assistant foremen in the document room), and presents, instead, a full and interesting account of the various departments of the office, together with the history of its growth and development, and a brief record of the public printing for a century. pho have no conception of the magnitude of the work done by the office, the book will prove a revelation, and will amply repay perusal. The title, with descriptive notice, will be found in our Weekly Record, and we content ourselves with extracting here such portions as are of especial interest to booksellers, librarians, and book-buyers.

Referring to the imperfect method of distributing the Government publications—a question which occupied the attention of the recent Conference of Librarians, at Washington, and which was reported on by a special committee, Mr. Kerr says:

"Congress has been very generous in its assistance to all laudable researches of a scientific character, and the production of ammerous valuable and interesting monographs and reports has been the result. Unfortunately, however, no proper provision has been made for the dissemination of these costly publications. Congress orders a few thousand copies of these books, and the Senators and Representatives distribute them to their constituents; but the probability is that the farmer, who would be most interested in the Agricultural Report, receives a work on Fossil Insects, or an Indian dictionary; while the scientific man, who could appreciate the real value of the books sent the farmer, is compelled to look for geological data in a treatise on Trichinæ in Pork. If a system of distribution could be devised whereby books issued from the Government Printing-Office could be sent to those, and those only, who are searchers in the special fields of science to which the books relate, the real value and importance of Government publications would be greatly increased.

"There is a law on the statute-books, however, which permits any person to subscribe for any Government publication issued under the authority of law. It is as follows:

"'If any person desiring extra copies of any document printed at the Government Printing-Office by authority of law shall, previous to its being put to press, notify the Congressional Printer of the number of copies wanted, and shall pay to him, in advance, the estimated cost thereof, and ten per centum thereon, the Congressional Printer may, under the direction of the Joint Committee on Public Printing, furnish the same.'—Sec. 3809 Rev. Stats.

"A later law specifies copies of bills, and reports, and other public documents, as coming within the meaning of the above section.

" This seems very generous on the part of the Government, in furnishing to its citizens these books at so trifling an advance upon the first cost; but how are those interested in such matters to find out what or when any public document will be put to press? There is no list of forthcoming Government publications in existence, with the exception of the impersect one here presented, and therefore it is impos sible for those wishing to subscribe to do so. In the case of some publications of marked peculiarity or interest, the information may be furnished through the daily press; but probably even this comes too late to enable the would-be purchaser to avail himself of the provisions of the law. This will probably be remedied, as it should be; and when proper provision is made, the Government Printing-Office will have entered upon a career of usefulness much in advance of its present importance."

It is incredible that such provision has not yet been made, and that, indeed, so little publicity has been given to the Government issues, that some of the most valuable and expensive works have not come to the notice of those who could best appreciate and put them to use. The Publishers' Weekly, taking little stock in the "probably" which (like the copyright) is dependent on the present Congress, will, as far as it is possible, supply the remedy. As formerly announced, it has made arrangements for giving a monthly or quarterly record of books, pamphlets, etc., published by the Government,* and will, in addition, endeavor to obtain all information that may be available concerning forthcoming issues. The importance of such information may be gauged from the reprint of what is considered only an imperfect list of forthcoming Government publications. This list, occupying several pages, solid nonpareil, will be reprinted in an early number of the Weekly.

^{*}A limited edition of a list of the Government publications received at the Smithsonian Institution from October, 1880, to March. 1881, has been issued separately, and will be supplied free on receipt of stamp by the office of the Publishers' Weekly.

LONDON CORRESPONDENCE.

London, August 2, 1881.

THE deaths of George Eliot, Thomas Carlyle, and the Earl of Beaconsfield have revived so great an interest in their writings that new editions of their most popular works have in some instances been issued to supply the demand. To this list must now be added the name of Arthur Penryhn Stanley, D.D., Dean of Westminster, whose writings, which include an admirable "Life of Dr. Arnold" of Rugby, "Historical Memorials of Canterbury," "Sinai and Palestine in Connection with their History," and "Historical Memorials of Westminster Abbey," not only won him many admirers by their historical accuracy and vivid portraiture, their intrinsic worth and beauty, but made for him many friends by their winsome tone, and if he had never succeeded to the chair of Abbot of Westminster, he would still have had an enduring fame in English literature.

The Times published on the 20th ulto., as the last contribution to literature from the pen of Dean Stanley, who was, it will be remembered, a member of the New Testament Company of Revisers, an article on the subject of the Revised Version. The Dean summarized the history of the circumstances under which this important work has been undertaken and, so far as the New Testament is concerned, completed, and then commented on the doctrinal significance of the changes made in the text. It is stated that Dean Stanley has left among his literary remains a diary which may possibly admit of publication.

Bentley & Son will publish immediately a new novel, in three volumes, by Lady Georgiana Fullerton, entitled "A Will and a Way." The same firm have in press the following additions to their series of Favorite Novels: "The Mystery in Palace Gardens," by Mrs. J. H. Riddell; "No Surrender" by E. Werner; "No Relations," by Hector Malot.

A new novel by Miss Owens Blackburne, author of "The Glen of Silver Birches," entitled "The Love that Loves Alway," is shortly to be published.

The amount realized by the sale of the pictures and MSS. of the late Earl of Beaconsfield, as mentioned in my last, was upward of £7000. The prices obtained for the manuscripts were as follows: "Young Duke," 220 guineas; "Contarini Fleming," 200 guineas; "Venetia," 90 guineas; "Alroy," 140 guineas; "Rise of Iskander," 47 guineas; and "Ixion in Heaven," 90 guineas. The stereotype plates of the edition of the works of Isaac D'Israeli, with a memoir and notes by the Earl of Beaconsfield, sold at the same time, fetched £250; and the copyright of the "Life of Lord George"

Bentinck," a political biography by the Earl of Beaconsfield, £26.

Lord Rowton is said to be far advanced in his "Life of Lord Beaconsfied," and I learn that Lord Derby intends very shortly to publish all the correspondence which Lord Beaconsfield had with himself and his father, and that the work may be looked for in the autumn. In addition to which Messrs. Longmans & Co. will publish "The Speeches of the Earl of Beaconsfield," selected and arranged, with explanatory notes, and a preface by T. E. Kebbell.

Eliezer Edwards, of Birmingham, has in preparation a work on which he has been engaged during the last three years, entitled "Words, Facts, and Phrases; a Dictionary of Curious, Quaint, and Out-of-the-way Matters." The book discusses the origin of many old English sayings and proverbs. Messrs. Chatto & Windus will be the publishers. The same firm have in press "Stories from the State Papers," by Alex. Charles Ewald; and "Hours with the Players," by Dutton Cook, author of "The Book of the Play," etc.

On the 25th inst. Messrs. Cassell, Petter, Galpin & Co. will issue the first monthly part of a new serial, entitled "The Peoples of the World," edited by Dr. Robert Brown, and profusely illustrated. The work is a new edition of the well-known "Races of Mankind," but so entirely recast and enlarged that it cannot justly continue to bear the old title. The same publishers have in preparation also a monthly serial, "Gleanings from Popular Authors in Prose and Verse;" embracing a choice selection of characteristic passages of English literature, with original illustrations by the best artists.

A new novel by Percy Greg, the author of "Errant," etc., entitled "Ivy: Cousin and Bride," will shortly be published by Hurst & Blackett.

G. H. Jenning and W. S. Johnstone, authors of "A Book of Parliamentary Anecdote," have nearly ready for publication a new work called "Half Hours with Greek and Latin Authors," from various English translations, with biographical notices.

Among the important fresh books announced by Macmillan & Co. will be "Science and Culture, and other Essays," by Prof. Huxley, F.R.S., and "Subject and Neighborlands of Venice;" being a Second Series of Historical and Architectural Sketches, by E. A. Freeman, the historian of the "Norman Conquest of England." Prof. Masson's "Life of De Quincey" in the English Men of Letters Series is in press, and will be published by the same firm during the month.

A new edition of Sir Leopold McClintock's "Voyage of the Fox" is being prepared. An account of the expedition of Captain Hall and Lieutenant Schwatka is to be included in the edition. The book will be published by John Murray, who will also publish in the autumn. "The White Sea Peninsula," by Mr. E. Rae—and Mr. Du Chaillu's "Land of the Midnigh.

Sun."

Messrs. Longmans will publish, in addition to the books named in my last, "The Life Giuseppe Garibaldi," by J. Theodore Bendauthor of "A Freak of Freedom; or, The Republic of San Marino." It will be a crown octavo volume, and will have a portrait of the Generalic

The same firm have in the press a "Treatise on Orthopædic Surgery," by J. Warrington Haward, F.R.C.S., and "Lessons on Form," for the use of pupils in schools of science and art, by Richard P. Wright, author of "Elements of Plane Geometry."

Some volumes containing accounts of early travel are to be published by the Hakluyt Society. The first is a collection of the voyages of Baffin, edited by Clements R. Markham; the other relates to the Portuguese mission of Alvarez to the Prester John, translated and edited by Lord Stanley of Alderley.

S. W. Partridge & Co. have in press the third volume of Hours with the Bible: "Samson to Solomon," by Cunningham Geikie, D.D.

Smith, Elder & Co. will issue immediately a volume entitled "Church and Chapel," consisting of a series of sermons preached in St. Botolph's, Bishopsgate, on the relation of the Church of England to Dissent. The sermon on the Church of England and an exhaustive introduction are by the late Dean Stanley, the revision of the sheets of his contribution having been one of his last acts before his fatal illness.

Mr. Talboys Wheeler is about to publish "Tales from Indian History, being the Annals of India retold in Narratives." The volume will form a history of India in the shape of "Tales," following the example set by Sir Walter Scott in his "Tales of a Grandfather." The book will be published by Messrs. Thacker & Co.

Vizetelly & Co. announce an entirely new work, by E. C. Grenville Murray, entitled "Side-Lights on English Society; or, Sketches from Life, Social and Satirical," to be fully illustrated with characteristic engravings from designs by well-known artists.

A PUBLISHING "YARN."

AMERICA need no longer trouble herself to spread the news of her enterprise in foreign lands, as that department of information appears to have found a proper representative in Europe, if we may judge from the following translation of a news item published in a recent number of Amerika, a German journal issued in Vienna, and "devoted exclusively to American news":

"The committee intrusted with the revision of the New Testament in London worked with the greatest caution in order that the result of their labors might be kept secret. They were aware that they had to deal with American publishers who would leave no expedient untried to obtain an early copy of their work. In justice to the houses with whom they had made arrangements, they determined to send simultaneously advance sheets to the English and American publishers—forgetting that by this arrangement the latter would be at a disadvantage by at least nine or ten days. The large publishing house of D. Appleton & Co., New York, however, were equal to the occasion. They obtained a complete plant for reprinting the Bible—cases. types, etc.—as well as a number of expert compositors, and shipped both material and men, to avoid suspicion, in several stamers to England. Passage for the compositors and space in which to work were engaged at Liverpool, on a fast-sailing steamer, which was to leave at the proper time. The purpose for which the space was wanted was kept secret. When the steamer was at sea, and telegraphic communication with either England or America impossible, the cases were opened, and the hired space transformed into a printingoffice. Upon the arrival at New York the Bible had been set up, the forms stereotyped, and the matter already distributed. Within 24 hours after their arrival, the dealers were supplied with complete Bibles by the Appletons, whose competitors had not yet begun setting type for it. The undertaking certainly cost considerable money, but undoubtedly a large amount was realized; and it is not at all improbable that copies of the American edition were sold in England before the English publishers had time to bind their Bibles."

AN OLD TESTAMENT REVISION.

Dr. Thomas J. Conant, of Brooklyn, one of the American Revisers, is engaged upon a complete revision of the Old Testament. He has already revised the Psalms and the Pentateuch, and expects to complete the Old Testament in about four years' time. Each book, says the N. Y. Tribune, "will contain an introduction, giving its object, its divine authority and inspiration, its composition, unity of plan, division and contents, and the writer. At the bottom of each page are explanatory notes designed to take the place of a condensed commentary. They are not intended to be exegetical, but only to furnish such occasional hints as seem necessary to the intelligent reading of the passage. The work is not intended to be an independent translation, but only a revision of the common English version. The familiar phraseology of the King James' version will be identical where the true sense of the Hebrew text does not seem to make necessary a change."

Dr. Conant, it is stated, has been retained for this work, for which he receives $25,000, by Captain Ebenezer Morgan, who will present the book with the plates and copyright, when completed, to the American and Foreign Bible Society, of which he is president

Society, of which he is president.

LOTHROP'S BOOK COVER DESIGNS.

From the New York Herald.

THE prize designs for covers for "Wide Awake" and other publications of D. Lothrop & Co. are now printing, and proofs of a few of them have been received. Miss Emmet's, for the bound volume of "Babyland," is made up of two scenes and a little medallion, grouped with conventionalized flowers in such a way as to form a very original whole. At the top, on a ground of dull blue-green, is a band of children so arranged as to have almost a processional effect, although they are really playing about a hammock, in which one of their number lies; at the foot smaller children—veritable babies sprawl and frolic, or gravely and solemnly devote themselves to their porringers, and the sostest of baby eyes look from under the arched brows of the face in the medallion. The coloring is very refined, and so unlike anything which has ever been put upon the cover of an American book before that it is rather remarkable. Another cover by Miss Emmet is intended for the "Wide Awake Pleasure Book," and represents a young girl in a mob cap and short-waisted gown, apparently arrayed for some rustic merry-making. The brightest color in this is the pale blue in the maiden's stockings. Miss Humphrey, who won the prize for the "Wide Awake" cover, indulged herself in stronger hues, and flung a few peacock feathers diagonally across the page beneath the picture of the bright-faced girl who is leaning on one arm and looking straight into one's face. Miss Emmet's young sister—one of the unsuccessful competitors for the prize—has made a design for the cover of "Outline Pictures for Little Paint Brushes;" C. H. Barnes has executed one in rather gay coloring for the "Little Folks" Reader," and Alfred Kappes has exhausted all possible quips and puns about cats on a Japanese cover, which, with its cat tails and pussy willow and clinging kittens, is meant for "The Cats' Arabian Nights," by Mrs. A. M. Diaz.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

MR. THOMAS HUGHES is writing out his personal reminiscences of Dean Stanley for the next number of Harper's Magazine.

REV. W. M. BAKER, author of "His Majesty, Myself," and "Blessed Saint Certainty," is presented to the readers of the Critic in a portrait and sketch in the issue for Aug. 13.

MR. Andrew Lang, author of the "Ballades in Blue China," is writing a sketch of Matthew Arnold for Scribner's Magazine, and editing Poe's poems for the dainty Parchment Library.

MRS. LESLIE has acquired the sole management of her deceased husband's Illustrated Paper. It is noteworthy that this journal and the Illustrated London News should be conducted by widows.

THE "INTERNATIONAL REVIEW" for September gives the first instalment of a series of studies on "Victor Hugo," by Auguste Langel, a French writer, whose studies of Chateaubriand and Lamennais were features of the Review in 1880.

ELLIOT STOCK, of London, intends to issue in the fall a magazine, to be entitled The Bibliographer. It is to be uniform in size and style with the Antiquary, now published by him, and will be devoted chiefly to rare and curious books.

"VANITY FAIR," which bails from San Francisco, and aims to make "a weekly show of political, theatrical, and social wares," starts off brightly enough in its first number. It is published weekly at 409 Washington Street, San Francisco, at a subscription price of $350 per annum.

DR. DE PRESSENSÉ has been paying his respects to M. Taine in a careful and profound study, published in the Revue Littéraire, of Paris M de Pressensé thinks that Taine has made use of entirely Jacobinistic historical processes in his work of branding and blackening Jacobinism.

"FICTION" is the name of a new venture in journalism inaugurated by the successful publishers of Puck, Messrs. Keppler and Schwarzwill be a smann. It will be a weekly of thirty-two pages, from a Cat."

devoted entirely to "original, refined, and entertaining short stories and serials written in this country, with special reference to the taste and habits of thought of our own people."

THE "TRAVELER'S WORLD" has met with so much success that the publishers have decided to break up the present journal into three papers, viz.: the Illustrated Railroad World, the Illustrated Hotel World, and the Illustrated Steamboat World. The first-named, devoted exclusively to railroad matters, will be issued on September 1, the others will follow in rapid succession.

"Le Liver" for June, 1881, contains a second article on American publishers, including the Harpers. Scribners, Houghtons, also a notice of some of Henry Holt & Co's educational publications, and an appreciative word on behalf of the valuable services rendered in America to the French book trade by Mr. Christern, of this city. The first article, which appeared in October, 1880, was devoted to the Appletons.

BUSINESS NOTES.

BAY CITY, MICH.—Hurley Bros., Bay City, Mich., have bought the stationery and blank-book stock of the Bay City Tribune Co. This firm have also a bookbindery and printing-office.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—Mr. Harry Watts has been admitted to the firm of George W. Reed & Co., 72 Wood Street.

PROVIDENCE, R. I.—Harry Gregory and Hunter C. White, having purchased the stock, fixtures, and business of N. Bangs Williams & Co., announce that they have formed a copartnership under the firm-name of Gregory & White, and will continue the business of booksellers, stationers, and printers, at the same place, No. 133 Westminster Street, with a full line of standard miscellaneous books, commercial and fine stationery. To their circulating library the new books will be added in liberal quantities as soon as published.

YARMOUTH, N. S.—Edward A. Flint, bookseller and stationer, Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, has made an assignment.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

PAUL B. DU CHAILLU's new book, "The Land of the Midnight Sun," will be published by the Harpers early in the fall.

BOSTON book-store clerks, calling for Mr. Hepworth's new novel with the three exclamation points for title, pronounce it "Rah! Rah! Rah."

Bundy's "Life of Garfield," published by A. S. Barnes & Co., has been brought down to date and includes an account of the attempted assassination.

EDGAR FAWCETT'S new story, "A Gentleman of Leisure," is one of the most popular novels of the season. It has already sold several thousand, and the demand is unabated.

MRS. HELEN HUNT JACKSON has a new book in press called "Mammy Tittleback and Her Family: a True Story of Seventeen Cats." It will be a small quarto of the size of "Letters from a Cat."

JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co. will issue in the fall a complete edition of Walt Whitman's poems, carefully revised, but without omissions. The earlier editions, the plates of which are owned by the poet, it is said, will be suppressed.

ROBERTS Bros.' holiday volume this year will be Jean Ingelow's "Songs of Seven;" it will have thirty-two illustrations. The same firm will bring out a red-line household edition of Miss Ingelow's poems, and a new edition of Miss Alcott's works.

Miss Lucy Ellen Guernsey's new historical story, now in press, is to be called "The Foster Sisters; or, Lucy Corbet's Chronicle." The scene is laid in England during the earlier reign of George III., John Wesley being the chief figure referred to historically. It will be published by Whittaker.

DR. MULFORD's book, "The Republic of God," has called forth so much praise for its mechanical execution that Houghton, Mifflin & Co. have brought out his earlier work, "The Nation," in the same style. The two volumes easily rank among the handsomest and most noteworthy books in American literature.

A. WILLIAMS & Co.'s recent success, "Cape Cod Folks," is, according to the Boston Travel-ler, "meeting with a high degree of favor, one usually conservative critic going so far as to compare it favorably with the works of Thomas Hardy. The author is a young woman in her twentieth year, and this is her first venture in literature."

H. V. & H. W. Poor, New York, have now ready the fourteenth annual number of their well-known "Manual of the Railroads of the U. S.," upon which more than the usual care and labor have been bestowed, and which, it is believed, presents in a compendious form a faithful summary of the reports of the several companies.

ALFRED WILLIAMS & Co., Raleigh, N. C., have in press a new, revised, and enlarged edition of Moore's "School History of North Carolina." The new edition, which may be expected in October, is announced as having been entirely rewritten with great care by the author, Major John W. Moore, and contains many valuable facts not before published, and the state's history is given to date of publication."

LEE & SHEPARD state that their annual holiday volume this year in the line of their former successes, "Home, Sweet Home," "Nearer, my God, to Thee," etc., will be Mrs. Browning's beautiful poem, "He Giveth His Beloved Sleep," illustrated, as were the previous volumes, by Miss L. B. Humphrey. The same house will have a large list of new publications this fall and winter, all of which will be duly chronicled in the Fall Announcement number.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. announce a new juvenile, entitled "Holly Berries," which bids fair to have a large sale. The illustrations, which are of the Kate Greenaway school, and made by Miss Ida Wauch, are all printed on wood by Messrs. Brain & Son, of London, the printers of "Afternoon Tea." Some of these illustrations have required thirteen impressions. The text is by Miss Ida E. Blanchard. One half the edition of 20,000 copies has been taken by a London louse.

A. S. BARNES & Co. have now nearly ready a new revision of Prof. W. G. Peck's American school edition of Ganot's popular "Physics." The revision is the work of Prof. James I. Hanson, Principal of the Woburn High School, and Levi S. Burbank, late Principal of the Warren Academy, of Woburn, Mass. Much of the book has been rewritten, many new paragraphs inserted, many fine illustrations added, and the whole work brought down to the scientific standards of the day. It will be suitable as a text-book in high schools, academies, or colleges, and as a work of reference and study for the private student.

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. announce for early publication their proposed series of American Men of Letters, which it was originally intended to issue under the editorial supervision of Mr. James T. Fields. Since the death of Mr. Fields, the publishers have induced Mr. Charles Dudley Warner, from whom the idea of the series emanated, to assume the editorship. The same house also announces the American Statesmen series, to be devoted to sketches of the lives of the earlier American Statesmen, issued under the editorial supervision of Mr. John T. Morse, Jr. Information as to titles and authors of the books in both series will be given in our Fall Announcement number.

Fords, Howard & Hulbert are temporarily withholding their "American Version of the Revised New Testament," so that Dr. Hitchcock may correct errors that crept into the first cast. The legal advisers of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge announce in The Academy that if this edition is offered for sale in England they will take steps to restrain an infringement of the rights of their clients. The Academy had previously said: "We apprehend that no copyright would be violated by its introduction into this country." adds: "In the interests of the public we can only repeat our regret that the American text of the Revised Version is not available to English readers."

A Mississippi correspondent of the Spring*field Republican* has been investigating the reading habits of the Southern people, and finds that seventy five per cent of the book-store trade at the South is in school-books, ten per cent in professional books, five per cent in cheaplybound fiction, leaving only ten per cent for general literature, such as poetry, travel, fiction, history, etc. Of the latter, women are the principal buyers. As a rule, when a man buys a book it is a technical or professional book. "Everywhere 'The Fool's Errand' has had a large sale, and it is bought yet. So far as is ascertainable, Jefferson Davis' 'Rise and Fall of the Confederate Government' has been bought almost exclusively by professional men, and not as largely as in the North or even in the West."

MR. H. O. HOUGHTON in his recent visit to England was cordially welcomed by the London publishers. He quickened their interest in American literature, a practical proof of which is the fact that his house, Houghton, Mittlin & Co., has recently sold to London houses a thousand volumes of the Household edition of American poets, Longfellow, Whittier, Lowell, and Holmes, and editions of the Longfellow and Emerson "Birthday Books," Parton's "Life of Voltaire," Burrough's "Pepacton," Fawcett's "A Gentlemen of Leisure," Miss Phelps' new story, "Friends," Aldrich's "Friar Jerome's Beautiful Book," and Mr. White's "England Without and Within." A duplicate order for this last was cabled almost immediately after publication. Messrs. Sampson Low & Co. also bought a set of plates of Björnson's novels, translated by Professor Anderson.

SANDS & McDougall, of Melbourne, Australia, send us a well-printed pamphlet of ninety-five pages, entitled "William Shakespeare in Romance and Reality," by William Thomson. The work is a valuable contribution to the literature of the Shakespeare Bacon controversy.

Dr. Thomson is evidently a Baconian enthusiast, but his views are stated with care and with much apparent originality, evincing careful and studious research into this much-discussed question of authorship.

The Association for the Reformation and Codification of the Law of Nations is now holding its ninth annual conference in Cologne. The American representatives will be the Hon. John Jay, who is associated with General James Grant Wilson in the Copyright Committee, David Dudley Field and Judge Charles A. Peabody. "The action," says the Tribune, "likely to be of the greatest interest to the United States will be that upon copyright, if any should be taken, but the conference in its general features will command attention everywhere."

The Bookseller's own Journal.

THE LITERARY NEWS.

hirty-two page Monthly Journal, with the Bookseller's own firm-name prominently printed on the front page.

The literary paper is one of the features of the day, and while directly benefiting the cause good literature as directly benefits the book trade by creating a demand for the books it tices.

Without taking into account the time and labor expended, and the painstaking discriminaon necessary for the compilation of a reliable literary journal, the cost entailed by such a pubcation necessarily deters booksellers from, themselves, editing and issuing such a medium.

The LITERARY NEWS, however, based on an experience of over twelve years' continuous issue, an acknowledged authority on current books and reading, and the plan upon which it is issued, nabling booksellers to circulate it among their customers under their own imprint, virtually makes it the recognized organ of each bookseller distributing it, and turns a direct trade in books into his own hands.

No better time than the present can be found for the adoption of the LITERARY NEWS by live booksellers as a personal medium. Especial attention is therefore invited to it, in the hope that booksellers who are not now using it will test its efficiency by ordering an imprint edition for the fall and winter months.

The book-notices of the LITERARY NEWS are always selected from leading papers, and are such as have weight with readers, while the other features of the paper make it a welcome monthly visitor in every home and establish pleasant and direct relations between booksellers and book-buyers.

(In the fall of 1880, one hundred and thirty-three booksellers made use of the LITERAR NEWS as their special journal, giving an aggregate monthly circulation of over 30,000 copie distributed freely among their own customers.)

THE BEST COOK-BOOK IS BUCKEYE COOKERY.

One volume, 536 pages, tinted paper, full alphabetical index, substantial binding. Compiled in the most careful manner, chiefly from original sources.

It contains everything relating to Practical Housekeeping contained in any other book on Cookery, and thousands of other choice bis of information and experience that can be found nowhere also be found nowhere else.

It has found its way into 120,000 homes since its publication, three years since, and the demand increases every year, as the real helpfulness of the book becomes known. Its merit is in the practical, clear, common-sense treatment of all subjects pertaining to housekeeping. Most cookbooks are compiled by ladies who know more about bookmaking than housekeeping, or by those who have practical knowledge without the power of imparting it clearly. This knowledge without the power of imparting it clearly. This book was evidently compiled by ladies who not only know kousekeeping to the minutest details, but have a c'ear, direct way of telling what they know, that leaves no doubt as to what is meant. Messrs. A. C. Armstrong & Son have the pleasure of announcing that the second (subject) volume of the American Catalogue is now ready for delivery in sheets, and that copies bound in half morocco can be obtained within a few days. They would remind booksellers and librarians who have not yet taken copies, that the balance of the edition unsubscribed for is so small that those who wish to secure the work at the present price ($25) in sheets; $29 in half morocco) should not delay their subscriptions, as the price will shortly be raised to $40. The work forms two large quarto volumes, aggregating about 1500 pages, and comprises all books in print and for sale (including reprints and importations) to July, 1876, with an appendix of the books issued since that date by most of the leading publishers, indexed in the two volumes respectively by authors and titles, and by subjects. The Subject Volume also contains a list of Bibliographical Aids to enable the reader and student to prosecute his researches be-30nd the province of the Catalogue. The complete work thus forms the only guide to the current literature in the American market.

THE LIBRARY JOURNAL

OFFICIAL ORGAN OF THE LIBRARY ASSOCIATIONS OF AMERICA AND THE UNITED KINGDOM.

Established and sustained by the co-operative efforts of the leading librarians on both sides of the Atlantic, this international JOURNAL aims to elevate the profession to the highest standard, and at the same time to effect a saving by enabling library work to be done in the best way, at the lowest cost.

Under its new management (Mr. C. A. CUTTER, General Editor, F. LEYPOLDT, Publisher), the only objections brought against the LIBRARY JOURNAL have been removed:

- 1. By confining it strictly to practical library matters with a special view to the wants of small libraries.
- 2. By reducing the subscription price to $3 per year, thus bringing it within the means of all.

The LIBRARY JOURNAL, among its new features, gives regularly a carefully compiled Library Purchase List, with notes of commendation or caution, on the leading books of the month.

It also gives occasional lists of books examined and approved by the reading commixtees of responsible bodies.

It continues the practical Reference Lists on special topics prepared by Mr. W. E. FOSTER. (The latest lists, for instance, comprise GEORGE ELIOT, CARLYLE, ALEXANDER II. AND NIHILISM, RUSKIN, Sir W. HAMILTON, etc. The August number contains a full bibliography of the Pre-Columbian Discoveries of America, by P. B. Watson.)

It also continues the departments of Anonyms and Pseudonyms, and Notes and

Reciper

Its Bibliographical department, while more restrictive in its mere title-record, we note space to the substance of library literature, by compendious notes and extracts from library catalogues, library reports, etc.

It aims to give librarians, trustees, and committees the benefit of the experience of the best managed libraries.

Its new, handy form, and its compact ready-reference material, make it an indispenble desk-companion for every librarian.

Sample copies of the LIBRARY JOURNAL sent free, on application.

PUBLICATION OFFICE.

13 & 15 PARK ROW, N. Y.

NOTES IN SEASON.

R. Worthington will have ready September 1, "Chatterbox Junior," a volume of original stories by Miss Alcott, Joshua Kendell, Miss Pollard and others.

HARPER & Bros. have just turned the second hundred in their Franklin Square Library in the publication, as No. 201 of the series, of "The Black Speck," a temperance tale, by F. W. Robinson.

THIS week's volume in the Leisure Hour Series of Henry Holt & Co. is entitled "One of Three," by Jessie Fothergill, author of "The First Violin." The new volume also contains another of Miss Fothergill's novelettes, "Made or Marred."

ROBT. CARTER & BROS. will issue September 15 "The Incarnate Saviour;" a life of Christ by Rev. W. R. Nicoll, of which the Independent says that "its simplicity, attractiveness, and spiritual richness make it an excellent volume for church or Sunday-school libraries.

A. S. BARNES & Co. have now ready "Points 10 History," a unique and interesting attempt to compress the salient points of the history of the world within less than two thousand brief guestions and answers. It is written by Dr. John Lord, author of "Modern History," "The Old Roman World," etc., and well known as a popular historical lecturer.

LEE & SHEPARD publish this week Part 1 of "New England Bird-Life," a manual of New England Ornithology, revised and edited from the manuscript of Winfrid A. Stearns by Dr. Ellion Coucs. The present volume, devoted to the large order Oscines, is issued in advance 20 part first, to be followed by another volume, completing the treatise as soon as possible. The book will undoubtedly take a first place cong the works descriptive of the birds of New England.

HARPER Bros. publish this week Westcott's & Hort's Greek New Testament, which the Saturday Review pronounces "probably the most important contribution to Biblical learning in our generation." It is formed exclusively on documentary evidence. The introduction to the American edition is by Dr. Schaff. A handsome octavo edition of the Revised Version of the New Testament is now ready, as is also the "Franklin Square Song Collection," containing 200 pieces, words and music, consisting of ballads, hymns, patriotic songs, carols, and children's melodies.

GINN, HEATH & Co. will publish, August 31, "Answers to Problems in Wentworth's Elementary Algebra," by Prof. G. A. Wentworth, and four additional volumes in the series of Hudson's School Edition of Shakespeare, viz.: "Antony and Cleopatra," " Othello," "Cymbeline," and "Coriolanus." These volumes complete the series, which now comprises twenty-three volumes in all. September 5, they will have ready "An Elementary Treatise on the Integral Calculus," by Prof. W. E. Byerly, Ph.D., of Harvard, and "The Germania of Tacitus," edited by Prof. W. F. Allen, of the University of Wisconsin. September 20, they will publish the nineteenth and twentieth volumes of Hudson's Harvard Edition of Shakespeare, completing the series.

D. Appleton & Co. have nearly ready a book which is likely to command a large sale—" The Wit and Wisdom of Benjamin Disraeli, K. G., Earl of Beaconsfield," collected from his writings and speeches, of which the London Daily News says, "the title for once is not a misnomer, and political opponents, as well as political friends, will probably admit, that few volumes have been published for the last halfcentury which contain so much wit." Another timely book in the "New Handy Volume Series," will be "Ralph Waldo Emerson; Poet and Philosopher," by A. H. Guernsey. Two strong novels, "Wild Work," the story of the Red River tragedy, by Mary E. Bryan, author of "Manch." and "The Bloody Chasm," by J. W. De Forest, author of "Overland," are nearly ready.

Fords, Howard, & Hulbert will issue Sept. I, the second edition of the "American Version of the Revised New Testament," mention of which has already been made in these columns. It has been subjected to the severest scrutiny by Dr. Hitchcock, the editor, with a view to making it irreproachably accurate—a distinction thus far enjoyed only by the special "presentation edition" of the English issue. All errors discoverable have been corrected, and very complete and elaborate appendices have been added, giving much information concerning the difference between the English and American readings and renderings. The three months of hard work devoted by Dr. Hitchcock to this labor will make the book, so its publishers claim, the Standard American Version. Early in September, "Shakespeare for the Young Folk," edited by Prof. Robt. R. Raymond, on an entirely new plan—combining the narrative form with the Shakespeare text—will be ready in handsomely illustrated form, as also the longexpected novel of Mormon life, "The Fate of Madame La Tour." This book, which is a searching arraignment of Mormonism, will be uniform in style with "A Fool's Errand," and will undoubtedly reach a large sale.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

In this list, the titles in brevier are direct transcriptions from books actually received, according to the rule of the American Library Association; those in nonpareil are from the best information available, and will be repeated in brevier when the book is received for registry.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; B: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J; John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard · S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.)

D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17% cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12% cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights. Where figure instead of letter symbols are used, the record is from publisher's designation, and not measurement.

Imported books are marked with an asterisk; authors' and subscription books, or books published at net prices, with two asterisks: educational books published at "wholesale" prices, with a dagger.

The Publishers' Weekly.

AUGUST 27, 1881.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, to insure correctsees in the final entry.

" Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

We have the pleasure of presenting in this issue the introductory section of Mr Solberg's timely bibliography of Literary Property and Copyright, vis., an index to the articles which have appeared on these and kindred subjects in the nineteen volumes of the Publishers' WEEKLY. Many, perhaps, will be surprised at the magnitude of a literature which the earnest struggle for the rights of authors has produced, particularly during the past ten years. And it would seem that the Publishers' Weekly has contributed as fair a mite to the good cause as can be expected from a journal of so limited a compass on this side of the Atlantic.

In the next issue of the WEEKLY will be given an interesting account of that exemplary trade organization, the French Publishers' and Printers' Club (" Cercie de la Librairie, de l'Imprimerie et de la Papeterie"), and its second successful exhibition. This will be followed by a programme of the forthcoming international exhibition of graphic arts and book trade interests, to be held in Leipzig, in 1882, under the auspices of the leading publishing houses of Germany. For this preparations are under way which promise to make it the most representalive trade exhibition ever held. It is to be hoped that the American publishers will not miss this great opportunity of entering the arena for the world's championship.

THERE still is a dearth of news in this, the dullest week of the dullest book-month. The notes of preparation, however, have already been sounded, and with September the signs of new life will be a welcome relief from the present monotony of stagnation. issue of the Weekly for September 10 will be the annual Fall Announcement number, and publishers are requested to bear this lact in mind, and send in their lists of announcebents in ample time for classification.

THE GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS.

In accordance with the introductory remarks on the Government publications, in our last issue, we print to-day, from Kerr's "History of the Government Printing-Office," the list of the most valuable annual and other reports authorized by law or ordered by resolutions of Congress. Some reports, considered of special value and interest to the general public, now in hand to be printed for the Executive Departments, are also included.

This list is designed to give the reader information concerning forthcoming publications.

A list of the publications issued and distributed during the month of July will be given in another number of the WEEKLY, and then be followed by regular monthly lists.

[There is a law on the statute-books which permits any person to subscribe for any Government publication issued under the authority of law. It is as follows:

" If any person desiring extra copies of any document printed at the Government Printing-Office by authority of law shall, previous to its being put to press, notify the Congressional Printer of the number of copies wanted, and shall pay to him, in advance, the estimated cost thereof, and ten per centum therein, the Congressional Printer may, under the direction of the Joint Committee on Public Printing, furnish the same."-Sec. 3809, Rev. Stats.

MEDICAL LITERATURE.

THE session of the recent International Medical Congress in London was rich in valuable papers on important medical topics. Of these none appear to have deserved or received higher praise than has been accorded to the exhaustive summary of Dr. John S. Billings, of the Surgeon-General's Office U.S.A., on "Our Medical Literature," of which the Lancet remarks editorially:

"Dr. Billings chose for the subject of his address 'Our Medical Literature,' and it was a matter of considerable speculation how he would treat it. Whether he would dwell upon the excellence of much that has passed out of sight and hardly read but by bookworms; whether he would remark on the change in style that has necessarily accompanied the advance of science; or whether possibly he might not be prepared to come forward with the statement that what deserves the name of medical literature has in the present day no real existence. But no one could have foreseen that out of the material at his disposal he would have compiled an address remarkable even among all those of the past week for its great ability, practical value, and wit. The large audience gathered to hear him was held charmed from beginning to end, both by his ever-recurring flashes of American humor and the striking nature of his facts and statistics. mous growth in numbers of medical writings during the last ten years, and the altered character of so many of them, were not new, but we believe he imparted considerable comfort when he was able to point out that signs are not wanting of the cessation of this increase in Europe and America. We commend his incisive remarks on the laboriousness and difficulty of 'reference' to all authors. None could system can be introduced and adopted with practical uniformity, one half the world will soon be engaged in looking for the facts and opinions recorded by the other half. But most of all would we urge intending authors to ponder well Dr. Billings' four golden rules before taking pen in hand. How large a number of our books would never see the light if only their writers had first of all tried to convince themselves that they had really something to say!"

The "four golden rules" of Dr. Billings which the Lancet so warmly commends are so pertinent, not only in connection with the heading of medical articles but with all journalistic writing that we transcribe them for the benefit and enlightenment of all contributors to periodical literature:

"The editors of Transactions of Societies, whether these are sent to journals or published in separate form, often commit numerous sins of omission in the matter of titles. The rule should be that every article which is worth printing is worth a distinct title, which should be as concise as a telegram, and be printed in a special type. If the author does not furnish such a title it is the editor's business to make it; and he should not be satisfied with such headings as 'Clinical Cases,' Difficult Labor,' 'A Remarkable Tumor,' 'Case of Wound, with Remarks.' The four rules for the preparation of an article for a journal will then be: I. Have something to say. 2. Say it. 3. Stop as soon as you have said it. 4. Give the paper a proper title."

The statistics of medical literature form a subject of much general interest, upon which no one is better qualified to speak than Dr. Billings himself, and we, therefore, reproduce that portion of his paper which makes a comparative exhibit of the medical authorship of the world:

"It is usual to estimate that about one thirtieth part of the whole mass of the world's literature belongs to medicine and its allied sciences. This corresponds very well to the results obtained from an examination of bibliographies and catalogues of the principal medical libraries. It appears from this that our medical literature now forms a little over 120,000 volumes properly so called, and about twice that number of pamphlets, and that this accumulation is now increasing at the rate of about 1500 volumes and 2500 pamphlets yearly. . . . There are at the present time scattered over the earth about 180,000 medical men, who, by a liberal construction of the phrase, may be said to be educated—that is, who have some kind of a diploma, and for whose edification this current medical literature is produced. Of this number about 11,600 are producers of, or contributors to, this literature, being divided as follows: United States, 2800; France and her Colonies, 2600: the German Empire and Austro-Hungary, 2300; Great Britain and her Colonies, 2000; Italy, 600; Spain, 300; all others, 1000. These figures should be considered in connection with the number of physicians in each country, but this I can only give approximately, as follows: United States, 65,000; Great Britain and her Colonies, 35,000; Germany and Austro-Hungary, 32,000; France and her Colonies, 26,000; Italy, 10,000; Spain, 5000; all others, 17,000.

"Excluding popular medicine, pathies, pharmacy, and dentistry, all of which were included in the figures for the annual product just given, we find that the contributions to medicine, properly so called, form a little over 1000 volumes and 1600 pamphlets yearly.

"For 1879 Rupprecht's 'Bibliotheca' gives as the total number of new medical books, excluding pamphlets, periodicals, and transactions, 419; divided as follows, viz.: France, 187; Germany, 110; England, 43; Italy, 32; United States, 21; all others, 26. These figures are, however, too small, and especially so as regards Great Britain and the United States. The Index Medicus for the same year shows by analysis that the total number of medical books and pamphlets, excluding periodicals and transactions, was 1643, divided as follows: France, 541; Germany, 364; United States, 310; Great Britain, 182; all others, 246. This does not include the inaugural theses, of which 693 were published in France alone."

THE AGE OF SCHOOL READERS.

THIS is certainly the golden era of schoolbooks. When we recall the hideous, depressing text-books of our childhood, we long almost to live over again our youth, merely for the pleasure of conquering our "3 Rs," from the beautiful specimens of bookmaking which are superseding our superannuated friends. That there is nothing so contagious as a good example, is proved by the Messrs. J. B. Lippincott & Co.'s announcement of a new series of readers of their own, which they claim as " the latest and the best." The first assertion is beyond dispute, the second we will only modify slightly, placing the series alongside of "the best," where without doubt it belongs. Typographically the books are all that can be desired. In their arrangement they have unique features, which may specially recommend them over those of other series. This however depends upon the wants and judgment of the teacher. Our province is simply to describe, and we do it, in this case, con amore. The title is "Lippincott's Popular Series of Readers," by Marcius Willson. Four books have already been issued, and a fifth, together with a supplementary volume designed both as a reader and speaker, are promised. The First and Second Readers are for very young pupils, and consist of simple exercises in conversational style, teaching the child to not only read, but to write and count. A prominent feature of the series is developed in the Second Reader, and carried through the Third, Fourth, and Fifth, in the nature of what is called a "continuous narrative, which is in fact, a pleasing story of some young people from childhood upwards, serving in its great variety of scenes and incidents as a pleasing avenue to knowledge. Although the chief interest centres in the characters, each chapter is devoted to some particular theme or subject and is complete in itself, so a pupil can begin anywhere in the series with interest and advantage; selections and adaptations in prose and verse from prominent writers are also interwoven with the story. The volumes are carefully graded, and have plenty of exercises, both oral and written, and a liberal display of first-class illustrations.

Another illustration of the force of example, and one of the "best" and most progressive of the many progressive readers is Monteith's " Popular Science Reader," for intermediate classes, just published by Messrs A. S. Barnes & Co., comprising most interesting lessons, and selections in natural philosophy, botany, and natural history from celebrated writers, with black-board drawings and written exercises. It is beautifully printed and in illustrations up to the age, and has many novel features of arrangement.

WALT WHITMAN IN BOSTON.

THE author of "Leaves of Grass," says the Besten Herald of Aug. 21, "arrived in Boston yesterday, and will stop here for a short time overseeing the composition and proof-reading of the new and complete one-volume edition of his poems to be issued by J. R. Osgood & Co. this fall. This forthcoming edition, while comprehending all the old poems, will not only contain many pieces never before printed, but will be essentially a new volume. The consecutiveness and relative order and proportion of the poems-the writer's most important points, which he has had in view from the beginning—will now for the first time be fulfilled, We understand that the poet has not seen his way clear to leave out any of his former pieces, but that all are to be included in this edition. It is said that he himself considers the whole collection as curiously turning on the secession war, 'as a wheel on its axle turns.' The 'old gray," now in his 63d year, is yet under the inbuence of the paralytic shocks that befell him to years since Still be gets around singularly well, having travelled many thousand miles the last three years, and during that time has explored the Rocky Mountains, the great plains, and the Canadian and St. Lawrence regions. He makes much of the kindness he everywhere ands in these travels, especially from transportation men and journalists. Mr. Whitman, though going out of town portions of the time, while attending to his book will, as we undersand, have his Boston headquarters at J. R. Osgood & Co.'s, Tremont Street, and may be addressed there.

SIR WILLIAM COLLINS, PUBLISHER.

"No event has ever given more general satisaction to the people of this city, and to the Scottish nation generally," reports the London Backseller, "than the bestowal of the honor of raighthood upon ex Provost Collins, head of the Ma of William Collins, Sons & Co., publishers  wholesale stationers. Sir William Collins Havery early age, entered the business of his lather, then Chalmers & Collins, and eventeally succeeded to it. The business was small, but about twenty-five years ago he went largely to stationery, and with the aid of his partwas, and more recently of his sons, has made the business the largest of its kind in Scotland, sot in the United Kingdom. But the present beser has not been bestowed upon Sir William merely as a successful man of business. He has all his life been engaged in works of education. A total abstainer himself, he has urged upon his fellow-citizens, the necessity of themselves setting the example if they wished to put down the most prominent and most demoralizing vice of the day. Consistently with these views, he, when appointed Lord Provost, determined that no wine or other intoxicating liquor should appear upon his table, whoever was present. At first the notion was sneered at and considered impossible, but soon it was discovered that a good dinner was possible, even without the wine. His term of office was marked by great hospitality, and in this he was greatly assisted by the geniality, tact, and good sense of Lady Collins, who won golden opinions from all who had the honor of meeting her. Another matter may possibly have assisted the worthy ex-Provost in obtaining the hunor of knighthood-political activity. Sir William has always been a warm supporter of Liberal opinions. The present members for the city owe much to his activity and to the sagacity of his advice. A strong desire has been frequently expressed to see him in Parliament, but hitherto be has declined to put himself forward."

AUTHORS AT WORK.

CHARLES T. CONGDON will soon publish a hand-book for young journalists,

Mr. Furnivall is compiling a bibliography of the poet Browning for the new Browning Society.

Mr. Edward Everett Hale has nearly ready for the press a new juvenile which will, of course, find ready welcome. The title is "Stories of Adventure Told by Adventurers."

Mr. Andrew McLean, of Brooklyn, is engaged upon a new study of the character and writings of the poet Burns which will be published in October. Mr. McLean maintains that Burns was not only the greatest poet born in the eighteenth century, but also "one of the best of men."

Mrs. James T. Fields is at work upon a memorial of her husband, the late James T. Fields, to be entitled "Biographical Notes and Personal Sketches of James T. Fields." Herself an authoress of acknowledged standing, she can hardly fail to make the volume one of much interest and value,

MR. LAURENCE HUTTON is spending the summer in Petersham, Mass., and is busying himself with the proof-sheets and indices of the first three or four volumes of the Osgood American Actors series, which he is editing. Mr. Lawrence Barrett's "Life of Edwin Forrest," the initial volume of the series, is nearly through the press, and will make its appearance in a few weeks.

MR. E. A. FREEMAN starts for America on September 27, and will deliver his first lecture in Boston on October 17. Meanwhile, he is engaged in passing through the press a companion volume to his "Historical and Architectural Sketches, chiefly Italian." This is the result of his recent visit to the head of the Adriatic, and will be entitled "Sketches from the Subject and Neighbor Lands of Venice." We believe that the illustrations will be found more satisfactory than those in the former volume. Mr. Freeman has also nearly ready his Philasthropy, especially in connection with work upon the reign of William Rufus, -Acad.

An excellent opportunity for investment worthy investigation by a practical book and stationery man will be found in the advertisement of G. C. in this number.

DAWSON BROTHERS.—The Montreal Gazette of August 20 devotes over a column to the house of Messrs. Dawson Bros., of Montreal, and to a description of their establishment, which recent improvements and alterations have materially enlarged. The firm is known as one of the most enterprising and reliable houses in the trade, and we are glad to note such evident signs of increasing prosperity as this extension of their business facilities implies. The house of Dawson Brothers was established in 1847, and in 1854 was removed to the present location on St. James Street. enlargement of premises just made gives spacious business quarters in the whole of two large four-story buildings, each 30 x 100. ground floors of each building are connected by archways, and are used as salesrooms, the book department in one section, and the stationery department in the other. The upper floors are devoted to the storing of the great stock of books, stationery, etc., which the requirements of the business render necessary, while a large bindery and blank-book manufactory, near at hand, afford facilities for extensive work in these branches. Map mounting and die stamping are also two specialties in which this firm is doing a very large and successful business. In the manufactory alone some sixty hands are constantly employed, while not less than one hundred hands are employed by the firm in its various branches.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

MR. W. DAVENPORT ADAMS will furnish a paper to an early number of Belgravia on "Mr. Gilbert the Dramatist."

"THE CRITIC" for this week gives its readers a portrait of Mr. Austin Dobson accompanied by a descriptive sketch, by Mr. E. W. Gosse.

D. LOTHRUP & CO., the enterprising publishers of Wide Awake, have organized a Reading Union for American and English young folks. The Reading Course for the Union will be given in an "Illustrated" supplement to the magazine, and has already been adopted by the Chautauqua Young Folks' Organization.

"The Pictorial War Record" is the title of a new weekly, published by Stearns & Co. It deals exclusively with events of the late war, and reprints the current illustrations of the press during the four years of the struggle. Seven pages are given to the prints, the eighth is devoted to letter-press, giving reports, letters and testimonials that were published at the time.

THE editor of St. Nicholas extends a novel invitation to the readers of that wonderful journal, asking for criticisms and opinions as to the general management of the magazine which is the best story, poem, picture or other feature, or what readers would like St. Nicholas to give them more of. The editor promises to try to adapt the magazine to the true needs and requirements of the largest number of its readers, so as to make the magazine in future, " not only as good as ever, but as much brighter, better and handsomer as possible."

Dr. L. DE COLANGE, well known as the editor of Zell's Encyclopadia, The Picturesque World and other important works, some months ago started a journal entitled The American Gastronomist. He has now changed the name to Home Life in America, retaining the former name as a sub-title. It is a semi-monthly, devoted to "the art of living with elegance and economy," two things to which every good housewife aspires. It covers not only the article of food, which it discusses in its relations to health as well as appetite, but also fashion. etiquette, and household needs generally. Among the practical features is a dinner-bill for every day in the fortnight.

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. have sent out the July numbers of those two venerable British reviews—the Quarterly and the Edinburgh—which they began in January to publish here by special arrangement with Mr. Murray and the Longmans. The New York Times finds the best Quarterly article in this number at the end of the volume and the best Edinburgh one at the beginning. The Quarterly's is on "English Trade and Foreign Competitions," and it sets forth in high colors and with many facts the causes which have led to the present agitation against free trade in England. The Edinburgh's article is on "Methodism," and a strong article it is, as well as a timely one, recalling the best days of the review.

CUES TO TIMELY TOPICS.

INDEXES.—The Library Journal for July gives a list of recently published indexes to prominent books and periodicals.

EGYPT AND ASSYRIA.—Trübner & Co., London, have published a "Catalogue of Works on Egypt and Egyptology and on Assyria and Assyriology." Price, one shilling.

ORNITHOLOGY. — A chronological catalogue raisonné of publications relating to the "Birds of New England," is given in the first part of Winfrid A. Stearns' "New England Bird Life," edited by E. Coues, just published by Lee & Shepard.

GOETHE'S FAUST.—A partial bibliography of English translations of Goethe's Faust appears in the Boston Literary World for August 13. The number of English translations must be now close upon forty-five, of which twenty-seven are given.

EDUCATIONAL JOURNALISM.—A fragmentary bibliography of "Educational Journalism" in this country is to be found in the address bearing this title delivered by C.W. Bardeen at Saratoga last month, and published at Syracuse by the author.

ENGLISH HISTORY.—"Introduction to the Study of English History," by S. Rawson Gardiner and J. B. Mullinger, just published by C. Kegan Paul & Co., London (95.), contains a comprehensive and valuable series of notes and references on the authorities for English history.

HALLIWELLIANA. — Mr. Justin Winsor, the Librarian of Harvard College, has completed in the Harvard Library Bulletin, a Bibliography of the publications of J. O. Halliwell-Phillipps, the English Shakespearian, which extends to 328 titles, covering the industrious work of over forty years.

BOTANY.—One of the most important contributions to scientific bibliography is a "Guide to the Literature of Botany," a classified selection of botanical works, including nearly 6000 titles not given in Pritzel's "Thesaurus," by Benj. Daydon Jackson, published by the Index Society, London. For practical purposes, a select bibliography is given in "The Botanical Collector's Hand-book," by W. W. Bailey, just published by G. A. Bates, Salem, Mass.

Punctuation.—The little book by Mr. Marshall T. Bigelow, corrector at the University Press, on "Punctuation, and other Typographical Matters, for the use of printers, authors, teachers, and scholars," which Lee & Shepard have recently published, has an especial value for publishers and printers, as its rules and suggestions bearing on typographical matters, and particularly on the often perplexing question of punctuation, come from one amply fitted by long experience to speak authoritatively on the subject. A reference to this little aid in the preparation of copy and the editing of Ms. would save much time and confusion in a printing-office.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co. report sales of "A Fair Barbarian" to the amount of 12,000 copies.

ROBERTS BROS. will publish shortly a new edition of "Theodore Parker's Prayers," with an introduction by Miss Louisa M. Alcott.

CRAWFORD & Co., Philadelphia, have nearly ready "The Lives and Travels of Livingstone and Stanley" and a new 12mo edition of Woods' "Illustrated Natural History."

In the Educational number of the Publishers' Weekly the "Manual of the Constitution," by Israel Ward Andrews, is erroneously placed under the name of E. B. Andrews.

J. P. Bell & Co., Lynchburgh, Va., have purchased the plates and copyright of Magill's "History of Virginia," and orders for the work should hereafter be addressed to them.

ESTES & LAURIAT will shortly issue as the first volume of a new series, "The Knockabout Club in the Woods," by C. A. Stephens, which will be fully illustrated and undoubtedly popular.

HARPER & Bros. will issue this fall, "The Heart of the White Mountains," by Samuel Adams Drake, fully illustrated by W. Hamilton Gibson, whose excellent and artistic work made his "Pastoral Days" so popular as a holiday book last year.

Porter & Coates state that they have printed nearly forty thousand copies of their excellent "Comparative Edition of the Authorized and Revised Versions of the New Testament," and that the demand for the work continues very steady.

THE pronouncing manual, "The Orthoëpist," recently published by D. Appleton & Co., is being adopted by some of our theatres as their standard of pronunciation; it is also being introduced into some of our higher educational institutions as a text-book.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish in the fall a translation of "Spain and the Spaniards," by Edmundo de Amicis. It is said that the picturesqueness of style, well approved in the case of this clever Italian, has suffered no diminution, while his subject offered him every chance to make a brilliant showing.

MR. EDWARD P. VINING, a railway freight agent of Omaha, has written a little monograph which the Lippincotts will shortly publish, entitled "The Mystery of Hamlet: An Attempt to Solve an Old Problem." Mr. Vining argues that Hamlet was a woman, who, for state purposes, had been disguised and brought up as a man.

LITTLE Brown & Co. have for sale a new edition of F. R. Elliott's "Hand-book of Practical Landscape Gardening," designed for city and suburban residences, and country school-houses, with designs for lots and grounds. It is adapted to the uses of small estates, as well as large ones, and to help the owners of them to do their own landscape decoration.

ROBERTS BROS. are preparing a second edition of Oscar Wilde's Poems and a third edition has been called for in London. In England the book has been both praised and condemned by leading critics and writers. It is said that the author received complimentary letters, after the appearance of his book, from William Morris, Mr. Swinburne, Robert Browning, Matthew Arnold, Mr. Gladstone, and others.

A. WILLIAMS & Co. have issued, in a neat octavo, the able centennial address of Dr Samuel A. Green on "The History of Medicine in Massachusetts," delivered before the Massachusetts Medical Society in June last. It is an instructive volume, and must be of especial interest to members of the medical profession, embodying, as it does, a history of medicine in Massachusetts for more than one hundred years.

D. APPLETON & Co. have nearly ready, among their new educational works, "Appletons' Elementary Reading Charts;" "Hark-ness's Revised Latin Grammar," edition of 1881; "Shepherd's Historical Reader;" Frieze's new editions of "Virgil," "Appletons' System of Penmanship;" De Graff's "School-room Exercise Books." Other important works are in preparation, and will be duly reported in the Fall Announcement number.

D. APPLETON & Co. have in press a new book by Mr. Alfred Ayres, author of "The Orthoëpist" Mr. Ayres' new book is entitled "The Verbalist," and is devoted chiefly to brief discussions of the right and the wrong use of words, and to other matters of interest to those who are ambitious to speak and write with propriety. "The Verbalist" is intended as a companion volume to "The Orthoëpist," and will be uniform in size and appearance.

MAX COHEN, of Washington, issue a timely little pamphlet entitled "Garfield Souvenirs," consisting of epigrams and courageous sayings reported as having been said by the President during his illness. It also contains poems and extracts from editorials and sermons, referring to the shooting and the President's endurance. And at the end there is a tabular statement showing the variations of the pulse, temperature, and respirations, drawn from the official bulletins.

A. Williams & Co., the publishers of "Cape Cod Folks," have issued a card in reference to the book in which they state that the imaginary personages in the story, as a matter of course, have Cape Cod names; but as complaint has been made in reference to one of these names, it will be changed in the next edition. They distinctly deny having knowingly or otherwise misrepresented or caricatured any real persons, and deeply regret that the feelings of any one should be injured by the innocent fun contained in the book.

JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co. will soon publish "The Poets and Poetry of Ireland," an anthology of Irish poetry, by Alfred M. Williams. Mr. Williams was the special correspondent of the

New York Tribune in Ireland at the collapse of the Fenian conspiracy in 1866-'67, and is now editorially connected with the Providence Journal. The collection of the material has been the work of years, and the book will include specimens not only of the bardic Jacobite Celtic poetry, but of the peculiar, characteristic, and original street ballads and peasant poetry in which Ireland is so rich, and of which no collection has ever been published.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD have just received the new Hughenden Edition of the novels and tales of Lord Beaconsfield, to which reference was made in our last number. The set consists of eleven volumes, handson ely printed and bound. and published at the low price of $12 for the set. The page has a red-line border, the cloth is olive, ornamented on the backs with a coronet, and on the cover by the late Earl's monogram, tastefully done in blue. Each volume has a vignette on the title-page, giving views of Hughenden Manor and its surroundings. Maclise's excellent portrait of the author of "Vivian Grey" ornaments the first volume, and a wellexecuted copy of a photograph of the plainly dressed author of "Endymion" is the frontispiece of the latter work, which completes the series.

M. Francisque Sarcey, the dramatic reporter of Le Temps, Paris, speaking of J. Brander Mathews' "Theatres of Paris," says. "I have read this book from beginning to end, especially the chapters which touch the French comedy. The author is thoroughly familiar with our theatres and has frequented them much more than many Parisians. He judges actors and actresses of the French comedy most judiciously. There is nothing of the foreigner in his criticisms. He rather seems to be a Parisian who writes in English to be eccentric."

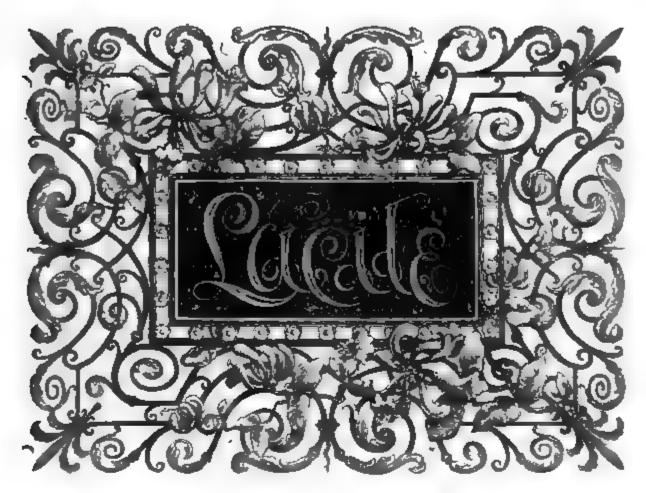

The sales of certain French books have been reported as follows: Bouvier, "La Grande Iza," 66,000, "Le Mouchard," 14,000, "Les Créanciers de l'Echafaud," 13,000, "Mile, Beau Sourire," 12,000, "La Femme du Mort," 26,000, "La Belle Grelee," 34,000; Henn Rochefort, "Mile Bismarck," 17,000, "De Noumea en Europe, 8000, "Les Naufrageurs," 6000; Princess Olga, "La Vie Galante en Russie," 11,000; "Mémoires de M. Will Publish early in September

AN ENTIRELY NEW EDITION OF THE FAMOUS POEM

By OWEN MEREDITH-(LORD LYTTON).

WITH MORE THAN 160 NEW AND BEAUTIFUL ILLUSTRATIONS ON WOOD.

FROM DRAWINGS BY

MARY HALLOCK FOOTE, THOMAS MORAN. F. HOPKINSON SMITH. E. H. GARRETT. GRANVILLE PERKINS, JAMES D. SMILLIE, A. R. WAUD, F. B. SCHELL, L. S. IPSEN, Price in cloth, $6. In full morocco or tree calf, $10.

This famous and favorite poem has never before been issued in the style that its merits and Popularity deserve. It is now produced in an elegant octave volume, from entirely new plates larishly illustrated by eminent American artists, and printed and bound with the utmost care

The publishers believe that in this form, and with this elegance of finish, the work will be widely welcomed on its merits as a Fine-Art Edition of Lucile, and become the leading matic," a new work on business culculations with reference tables, "designed for bankers, brokers, merchants, business men, accountants, farmers, mechanics, teachers and students, and specially arranged and adapted as a practical text-book for business colleges, high schools, academies and universities," by W. H. Sadler and A. J. Nugent.

JOHN WILEY & Sons have now ready, L. B. Carll's "Calculus of Variations." This book, which is for sale by subscription, has attracted great attention from mathematicians, not alone from its character, but from the almost marvelous work of its author, who was born blind. It has received high praise from eminent authorities, and as the subject has been written about but little, it is believed every mathematical library will seek to possess a copy for its intrinsic merit, and as a monument of the patient industry of its author.

"THE Americans," says the London Literary World, "are stealing a march on us. They not only reprint our extensive works in a cheap form on the other side of the Atlantic, but they are actually sending their cheap reprints over to the Continent. At Rotterdam, for instance, may now be purchased for a few pence all the cheap reprint of English authors of the Franklin Square Library of the Messrs. Harper, of New York. Among the latest reprints thus to be had cheap on the Continent are Froude's 'Carlyle's Reminiscences.' This competition will quite destroy the trade of Tauchnitz and other reprinters on the Continent of English books."

THE CELLULOID STEREOTYPE Co. of New York call the attention of publishers and others to their new process by which celluloid is successfully employed in stereotyping. The company claims that "celluloid is perfectly adapted for use in printing, because it is hard and tough as ivory, possesses great wearing qualities and powers of resistance, and is not affected by acids, alkalies, and other chemicals. Among its points of excellence are: Its freedom from corrosion by dampness; its lightness (eighty per cent lighter than metal); its capability of being moulded, under proper conditions, into any desired shape. The finest lines of a delicate cut, or the finest type, are reproduced with perfect accuracy in the celluloid stereotype. As compared with an electrotype, it is recommended by an imperceptible elasticity, which in the operation of printing saves horse-power, and produces admirable results."

SPEAKING of the "American Catalogue," The London Bookseller says that "within its appointed bounds it is, without question, the most perfect specimen of trade bibliography with which we are acquainted."

A Latin Grammar for Schools and Colleges.

Revised edition of 1881. By Albert Harkness, Ph.D., LL.D., Professor in Brown University. One vol., 12mo, half leather. Price, $1.40.

Extract from Preface: "The last quarter of a century has revealed many important facts in the development of language. During this period philological research has thrown new light upon Latin forms and inflections, upon the laws of phonetic change, upon the use of cases, moods, and tenses, and upon the origin and history of numerous constructions. The student of Latin grammar is now entitled to the full benefit of the important practical results which these labors in the field of linguistic study have brought within the proper sphere of the school. The volume now offered to the public has been prepared in view of these facts. It is the result of a thorough and complete revision of the author's Latin Grammar published in 1864."

Wild Work; The Story of the Red River Tragedy.

By MARY E. BRYAN, author of "Manch." One vol., 12mo, cloth. Price, $1.50.

"The reign of the carpet-bagger"—a troublous, transition period—was rich in dramatic features. Abnormal conditions of government and society brought out unwonted lights and shades of character and gave rise to extraordinary incidents. Particularly was this true of the States west of the Mississippi, where comparative freedom from social restraints fostered individuality and independence of character—too often to a lawless extent. The author of "Wild Work" has sought to reproduce a few scenes of that time and region with an eye solely to their dramatic aspect, not distorted by sectional prejudice and not disturbed by political side-lights.

THE BEST COOK-BOOK IS BUCKEYE COOKERY.

One volume, 536 pages, tinted paper, full alphabetical in-dex, substantial binding. Compiled in the most careful manner, chiefly from original sources.

It contains everything relating to Practical Housekeeping contained in any other book on Cookery, and thousands of other choice bits of information and experience that can be found nowhere else

It has found its way into 120,000 homes since its publica-tion, three years since, and the demand increases every year, as the real helpfulness of the book becomes known. Its ment is in the practical, clear, common-sense treat-ment of all subjects pertaining to housekeeping. Most cook-books are compiled by ladies who know more about bookmaking than housekeeping, or by those who have practical knowledge without the power of imparting it clearly. This book was evidently compiled by ladies who not only know konsekeeping to the minutest details, but have a clear, direct way of telling what they know, that leaves no doubt as to what is meant. The Publishers' Weekly.

The trade are invited to send "Communications" to the editor on any topic of interest to the trade, and as to which an interchange of opinion is desirable. Also, matter for "Notes and Queries." Notes from librarians will also be gratefully received.

If from time to time we give some editorial space to our own doings, it is not owing to any unseemly desire to appear in the foreground, but to the natural wish to render account, whenever opportunity offers, of any substantial progress toward our ends. Such account seems to be timely and proper in the face of the very handsome endorsement of our work, as exhibited in this issue. In what measure this practical recognition has grown, is strikingly shown by a comparison of the first Fall Announcement Number of the WEEKLY with the present, its tenth. The Fall Announcement Number dated September 12, 1872, contained in all thirty-two pages. It is true that this was supplemented by the number of Sept. 19, containing twenty-four pages; both numbers together, however, embracing only fifty-six pages. The announcement number proper comprised the one-page advertisements of the Appletons, Lee & Shepard, Osgood, Porter & Coates, Scribners, Widdleton, three pages of Dodd & Mead, and four pages of the Harpers, a total of Reventeen pages, inclusive of the miscellaneous advertisements, of which ten only contained announcements. The supplementary number of Sept. 19 contained only one new page of announcements, from the Putnams. Corre-⁸Ponding with the advertisements, the editorial account of the fall announcements was given within less than five pages, leaded brevier, spread over the two numbers. To-day we Present to our readers 136 pages, comprising 93 Avertising pages, of which 84 are mainly announcements; 22 pages of editorial accounts of announcements; and 14 pages of lists of anbouncements, the latter showing a corresponding increase over the lists of 1872. due allowance for the unusually promising season to which we may be indebted for many of the pages, the comparison still shows either a most wonderful development of the publishing trade in the United States or an almost unanimous recognition of the Publishers' Weekly as the organ of the book trade. Let us believe that both inferences are equally correct. We gratefully record the gratifying result. And if it be true that the advertising columns of a recognized trade journal are sure indicators of the condition of the trade it represents, the progress made during the past ten years will justify the prediction that the time cannot be far off when the American trade journals will exhibit on the part of the trade not less enterprise and prosperity than is exhibited by our contemporaries abroad. The present number, indeed, looked upon as a landmark of the literary demand and supply of a young country compared with that of the old country, is a credit to the American public as well as to the American publishers.

WHILE heretofore the advertising columns of the American trade journals have been far behind those of the trade journals in England, France and Germany, it may, on the other hand, be fairly claimed that the editorial and bibliographical departments of the Publishers' WEEKLY have always been rather ahead. Certainly in the discussion of trade events and trade questions, in the attack on trade grievances and defence of sound business, and particularly in the record-system of new publications, no trade journal in the world performs as much work for the publishers in giving publicity to their publications, or makes it so easy for the bookseller, librarian and bookbuyer to keep themselves posted, as does the WEEKLY. Every bookseller is so familiar with the various modes of the WEEKLY which put him in the way of obtaining and giving information on books, that it is unnecessary to repeat in detail the story of a title, from its first appearance as "announcement," through its various forms of entry, for finding purposes, in the monthly and annual reference lists, requiring some ten to twelve entries, before it finds its final and permanent record in the "American Catalogue." So often has this system been explained that, for any book that by oversight is left in the dark, publishers can blame nobody but them-Fortunately—and this is another indication of the development of the WEEKLYthe importance of the full title "Weekly Record" is becoming so generally recognized that the publishers who, either by neglect or from lack of judgment, prevent us from doing justice to their books, have been reduced to an insignificant minority, and such an anomalous "Weekly Record" as that of August 9, 1873, which presented in toto three books as reported by the publishers during a whole week, is likely to remain unique.

WE have above spoken only of the work done by the WEEKLY chiefly for the direct purpose of its constituency, which makes it so easy for a bookseller "to lay hand on a desired book and thus assure the publisher that sale." Yet it is justifiable, in this connection, to point out the further advantages derived from a proper record in the WEEKLY. For this record forms the official source of information also outside of the book trade and outside of this country. The literary notes, too, of the WEEKLY are freely drawn upon by the press and its lists are used for the preparation of select or special lists at home and abroad. The lists of the WEEKLY are united as a digested total for reference, under class, author, subject or title, in the "Trade List Annual." The notes and lists of the WEEKLY supply the material for the Literary News which goes beyond the trade directly to readers and bookbuyers in nearly as many thousands as the WEEKLY in hundreds, and in much larger numbers than any other purely literary journal in this country; and a selection of the best books again appears in the "Purchase List" of the Library Journal, which, with its more limited professional circulation, reaches those hard-working laborers and missionaries in the field of literature, the librarians, on whose choice of books depends the reading of hundreds of thousands. It is these ends which are not so well understood by all publishers as they deserve, that we wish better understood, particularly by those who still labor under the old-fashioned wrong impression that it is sufficient to send out to the trade their own circular or special medium, as if, in this age of ink-deluge, the bewildered bookseller could find time to sift and study individual and indigested matter. It has been the aim of our life so to perfect our system of communication, that our book news be promptly carried in every profitable direction. It should be borne in mind that all the issues mentioned above, the various factors in the same mission, are the outcome of this office, and that it cost many years of experimental labor, continual worry and heavy losses, ere we succeeded in accomplishing this end. It should be borne in mind also by the publisher, when he sometimes may feel importuned by the appeals of this one office for advertising support under such various forms, that each issue has its distinct mission, and that it would cost him much more for having the same services performed by several offices, while naturally they could not be performed as thoroughly and effectually. It is the system of co-operation and kindred relations between our various issues which enables this office to turn out so much work at so moderate remuneration for each individual service; while on the other hand it is the nominal price, which could not be upheld without the patronage of the publishers, that places them within the reach of just those who put them to best use. This use is the purchase and sale of books.

WE have dwelt so much on the bibliographical elements of our issues, because publishers cannot too often be reminded of the importance of an accurate title record of their books. Without it, the average book is consigned to oblivion before its time; with it, it has the chances of an extended life. We have shown how, based on the first record, a book is brought forward from position to position, so that it can be viewed from every point and at any time. Yet we have mentioned only the positions given it in the "Weekly Record," the "Monthly and Annual Reference Lists," the "American Catalogue," the Literary News, and the Library Journal, which means for every book some ten distinct records, without counting the duplication in the reference lists, and for a select class of books more than twelve. There still remain the special lists, such as the educational, holiday, and juvenile catalogues, in their numerous extra imprint editions. There is also the Monthly Book List, a reprint of the list of the Literary News, for those who cannot afford to buy editions of the News, but who nevertheless wish to keep their customers posted. Therewill be, shortly, the long-promised "Enclosures Catalogue," including a selection of books == which should form the basis of every well. stocked book-store and which will be supplied to booksellers for their own advertising purate poses at such terms as will make it profitabe to every one to use it in response to any inquir he may receive. Has it, then, too much of appearance of a boastful challenge to ask question, "Is there any article manufactu at home or abroad, that in equal measure brought before the trade and the people, asthe books of the American publishers through the medium of the office of the Publishers' WEEKLY?" We asked the question last year in referring to the conditions of a first title record, "Is it worth a book?" We now ask, "Is the book worth it?" and if it is, is, then, this offer not worth the encouragement of the publishers?

THE FALL TRADE.

THE monotony of stagnation of which we had occasion to speak in one of our recent midsummer numbers has broken "with a vengeance," and the flood-tide of business seems to have set in with a more than Bay-of-Fundy rush. The almost phenomenal Announcement Number sent out this week with its nearly 90 pages of advertised announcements may be taken as an indication of unusual activity on the part of our publishers and as a promise of a profitable fall and winter season for our booksellers. It is to be hoped that these "probabilities" may be verified and that the January balance-sheet of every house in the trade may show as tangible a profit as will the mental balance-sheet of the thousands of readers who will welcome and devour the harvest of new books heralded in this Fall Announcement Number.

One explanation of this rush of new books may be found in the fact that the last holiday season found many publishers not really prepared to supply the re-awakening demand from bookbuyers, and with a dearth of new stock they found themselves "left," as the saying is, by their more discerning brethren. This year's energy of preparation finds suitable reward, as in numerous instances we have had occasion to record the entire or partial disposal of large first editions in advance orders, one house in panicular having thus placed three of its new books. Another feature of the season's anhouncements to be noted is the evident leaning of public fancy toward the Greenaway-Caldecott style of illustrated juveniles, the majority of publishers showing on their lists One or more of this attractive class of picturebooks. Of similar significance too is the dis-Position of publishers to issue in disconnected Series or in a condensed form, for popular reading, important historical, biographical, or special works, showing that the pressure for time, which is so characteristically American, Causes the epitomes to find as full a measure public favor as the more extended and exhaustive works Is not this also an indication of a sure reaction from the flood of cheap reprints in favor of well-printed, wellbound, and more "ownable" books? And is it ⁸⁰ to be regarded as matter for congratulation that both booksellers and book-readers seem a last to have wearied of the grist of the cheap reprint mills, which has done so much toward lowering the standard of literature and increasthe spread of myopia? Note as a significant the virtual standstill of the self-styled "Revolution" and the selling-off at any price, trade-sales and by "clearing-out sales," of in "Books for the million."

As strongly indicative of the development of the æsthetic element in American taste may be cited the great preponderance this season of fine art publications, both in juvenile and adult literature, over other classes. It is peculiarly worthy of notice that as the artistic element rises to prominence the "utilitarian" falls to a minimum. A comparison of the two departments in the classified lists will repay investigation. The department of biography is also very large, the shorter biographies, however, far exceeding the more extended volumes.

The descriptive summary which here follows presents as usual in its alphabetical arrangement by publishers a survey of the entire field so far as the necessary information is at hand. Other books, not yet fully determined upon, will find mention in subsequent issues. In our announcement lists proper, the books will be found arranged by classes, while the advertising pages will afford further detailed information as to prices, sizes, styles, etc.

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SO-CIETY will very soon publish "The Baptist Principle in its application to Baptism and the Lord's Supper," by William Cleaves Wilkinson, D.D. They have also nearly ready an American revised edition of the New Testament, edited by Rev. Henry G. Weston, D.D., President of Crozer Theological Seminary. This edition is printed in long primer type, and is octavo in shape. It is anticipated that a large sale will follow its publication, on account of its special adaptation to the denomination. Immediately to be published will be some Sunday-school Readers, the first and second numbers of which are now about complete. They will be 12mo in size and bound in boards.

THE AMERICAN SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION has now ready a new edition of Dr. Philip Schaff's "Dictionary of the Bible," the first edition having been exhausted in less than a year from the date of its issue. This work has received the highest commendation from professors, pastors, teachers, and the religious press, and the new edition incorporates the results of the latest and most accurate biblical investigation and scholarship. They have also ready the "Teacher's Primer," by Rev. E. W. Rice; "Leaves of Life," by the late F. R. Havergal, choice poems, published in various styles of binding; "Through the Winter," by a new writer; "The Oath-Keeper of Forano," a story of Italy and the introduction of the gospel there, by Mrs. Julia McNair Wright; and "The Pocket Atlas of the Lands of the Bible," showing recent discoveries and explorations. In preparation for the International Lessons of 1882 is a commentary upon the Gospel according to St. Mark, exhibiting the authorized and revised versions in parallel columns. The comments will be brief, pointed, The criticisms of the most and practical. valued and scholarly of ancient and modern writers will be freely used, the aim being to bring the most reliable reflections on the word to the knowledge of the student and teacher. In November will be ready "The Scholar's Handbook," for 1882, in which the lesson text Nearly ready are Pilgrim Talks" for the little ones, by lla Rodman Church, in fourteen volumes, The Sprag Boy," by Helen B. Williams, d story for boys. "standards" now so well known as leading the staple productions of this house and which we proved so successful, viz.: Hallam, Lamb, D'Israeli, and Michaud, have been still further supplemented by a complete edition of Milman's Works, which should not be overlooked by book-buyers as one of the necessities in every well-regulated library.

WHITE & STOKES, the new and enterprising New York firm, mark their first appearance as purveyors to the holiday trade by an offering of some excellent books and novelties of much merit. Well-schooled in the requirements of public wants and fancies by their former connection with the house of Dodd, Mead & Co., they have given their new business venture an elegant home at 1152 Broadway, and in the fittings and appointments of their cosy place of business have one of the handsomest book-stores in the country. Attention has been paid to even the smallest details of store furniture, and the result is as satisfactory and attractive as good taste and judicious expenditure can make it. Their leading book for the season is the prize painting-book "Good Times," at once novel and beautiful, designed by Dora Wheeler, the winner of the second "Prang Prise" of 1881. The designs are in outline, and a scale of awards amounting to $150 is made, to be given to the three children who shall best color the outline pages. "The Christmas Owl," a holiday novelty in colors, with original and selected Christmas poems by Mrs. Marths. J. Lamb, will please the children's fancies. Stoddard, the author of "Dab Kinzer," known to all the boy readers of St. Nichelar, will issue through this house a new novel American life, entitled " Easu Hardery." This new material will undoubtedly prove of much interest, and it is the intention of the publishers to issue it also in the form of an appendix, so that the original subscribers to this now noted work on "Tunnelling" may be able to have the advantage of this timely addition. Searle's "Field Engineering," which had a remarkable sale, has gone to a second edition, and the sixth edition of Dana's "Manual of Mineralogy" is also ready. Johnson's "Integral Calculus," a manual for colleges and scientific schools, which is issued separately, is also bound up with Rice and Johnson's abridged edition of "Differential Calculus," making thus a complete manual of Calculus. The "Manual of Logarithmic Computations," by Prof. Alfred G. Compton, of the New York College, is a valuable text-book for high schools, academies, and colleges; and Baldwin's "Steam Heating for Dwellings" is a most timely and practical work of real value to steam-fitters and non-professional men, as well as to architects and sanitary engineers.

The work is offered in several styles and at various prices. Next to this should be mentioned a cheap edition of Dyce's "Shakespeare" illustrated, and containing the life of the poet by Alexander Dyce, a monograph of some 100 pages of matter, and of which it may be stated that it affords the only opportunity to purchase Dyce's excellent life of Shakespeare other than in the large and expensive English edition of his works. In poetry, Mr. Worthington announces his new edition of "Tupper" and new octavo editions of "Burns" and "By-10n." Arvine's "Cyclopædia of Moral and Religious Anecdotes" is prefaced with an introduction by Rev. Dr. Cheever, and bears the positive endorsement of Rev. A new library edition the Druid Library, with steel and colored illastrations, is also ready, as well as a re-issue of Dr. Griswold's edition of "D'Israeli's Curiosities of Literature," including the curiosities of American literature and for some time out of Good centre-table books, but books also to be read as well as fingered, are Dr. Sandhurst's "Table Book of Art" and Dr. John Hunt's "Grand Book of Scripture Illustration," while Vaughn's "Family Prayer and Sermon Book" will be found most excellent for religious service at home. Mr. Worthington now makes a specialty of the publications of Messrs, Longmans & Co., of London, and announces among other valuable books of the great English house the receipt of the second part of the third supplement, or in other words the ninth volume of Dr. Henry Watts' "Dictionary of Chemistry," completing that important and valuable work. Mr. Worthington has been hard at work in the interests of the little children, and will offer them this year a bewildering collection of picture-books, foremost among which is an attractive and entirely original American book by Edward Willett, of the N. Y. Sun, with colored illustrations by Chas. Kendrick, of the Puck's staff of artists. The volume is made up of jolly rhymes for children, with the title "Cat's Cradle," and will easily rank among the foremost children's books this Another prominent juvenile will be "Sugar and Spice, and All That's Nice," pictures and rhymes for the little ones, by J. K. and V. B. The Chatterboxes, who bid fair to rival the renowned old lady who lived in a shoe, will add to the Worthington branch of the family "The Royal Chatterbox," an imperial quarto, crowded with pictures; "Chatterbox Junior," an entirely new volume, edited by Edward Willett, Joshua Kendall, Miss Pollard. and others. This is claimed by the publisher to be one of the best juveniles of its kind ever published. The volume certainly is entertaining as well as instructive, and therefore a desirable book for children. The others of this series are "Chatterbox Book of Birds;" "Little Folks' Chatterbox;" and "Baby Chatterbox" for the nursery. For the nursery also "Wee Willie Winkie's Nursery Songs and Rhymes;" "Baby's Picture Primer:" "Baby Mine Picture-Book;" and "Little Prattlers," all bound in attractive colored cov-Aunt Charlotte's "Golden Gift of Fairy Tales," etc., her" Nursery," and her set of "Picture-Books," twelve beautifully illustrated nursery tales, will delight many little eyes. "Afternoon Tea" and "Trot's Journey" are wellremembered favorites. The "Horn of Plenty" is full of home poems and pictures by Miss Alcott, Miss Ingelow, Miss Muloch, and others; the "Little Folks' Play-Book" telling of many childish games, and "Frolich's Picture Book" with "Little Tommy Tiptoe" are all full of interest for the little eyes and ears. So also is "Young America's Picture-Book," an imperial quarto with over 600 illustrations, and "One Hundred Years Ago," a picturebook of American history, combining instruction and entertainment.

E. & J. B. Young & Co. have in preparation a devotional study of minor festivals by Christina Rossetti, entitled "Called to be Saints;" "Light of Life," by Rev. Knox-Little, and "Mystery of the Passion," by the same author; the second part of Rev. John Henry Blunt's "History of the Reformation," bringing the work down to 1662; "The Creed and Modern Thought," by Rev. Benjamin Franklin; and a volume of "Sermons to the People," by Canon Liddon. They call especial attention to their new "Variorum Bible for Teachers," which contains, in addition to the whole of the "aids" contained in the well-known "Bible for Bible Teachers," various readings and renderings selected from 17 versions, 142 commentators, 33 manuscripts, and 9 critical editions of the text, including the recent Greek text of the New Testament by Westcott and Hort. The novel design which is used in connection with their issue of a new edition of the poets, consisting of engraved borders of landscapes and sketches in subdued tints for each page of text, has proven quite taking, and will materially and the sale of the volumes thus far published. They have also a large stock of new juveniles, issued by the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge; and new lines of the artistic Christmas cards of Eyre & Spottiswoode, of London, and Thomas Stevens, of Coventry. They have also new designs in the pleasing "Stevengraphs," or silk-woven cards and pictures. The stock of this house in its various lines will well repay examination.

FALL TRADE SALE.

THE regular fall trade sale this year will open on Thursday morning, September 22, and will occupy probably seven or eight days. The catalogue just received shows offerings from ninety-nine contributors, comprising books, stationery, and stereotype plates. The sale will commence with the invoice of D. Appleton & Co., which will be followed by the lists of Phillips & Son, Hall & Whiting, Gebbie & Co., Jansen, McClurg & Co., Wm. S. Gottsberger, Call, Calkins & Co., and A. J. Holman & Co. The second day opens with Little, Brown & Co., sollowed by W. J. Widdleton, Roberts Bros., Clark & Maynard, James Miller, E. Claxton & Co., J. Fagan & Son, National Publishing Co., Sheldon & Co., and Andrew F. Graves. The third day will be devoted to the lists of Jas. R. Osgood & Co., Collins & Bro., G. P. Putnam's Sons, Schaeser & Koradi, the Orange Judd Co., the Sharps Publishing Co., Hurst & Co., and John E. Potter & Co. The fourth day opens with the offer of R. Worthington, followed by the invoices of Henry A. Summer & Co., Hubbard Bros., and Wm. T. Amies. The fifth day's sale will comprise the lists of Belford, Clarke & Co., A. C. Armstrong & Son, G. & C. Merriam, Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co., Lee & Shepard, C. A. B. Shepard, trustee, Shepard, Sanborn & Clark, trustees for Loring, Frederick Warne & Son, London, and Ward, Locke & Tyler, London. The sixth day will be devoted to the invoices of Chatto & Windus, Scribner & Welford, John Wurtell Lovell, the Arundel Book Co., Burlock & Co., and a number of small invoices and undesignated accounts, including also the entire remainder of Virtue & Yorston's stock. The seventh day is given up largely to foreign houses, including the invoices of John Grant, Edinburgh; John Hogg, London; Gall & Inglis, Edinburgh; Wm. P. Nimmo, Edinburgh; Thomas D. Morison, Glasgow; and Henry Sotheran & Co., London. The seventh day will be taken up by undesignated lists and miscellaneous invoices, the latter including offerings from Wm. L. Allison & Son, E. B. Treat, R. W. Bliss & Co., Francis & Loutrel, Wilbur & Hastings, Thorndike Nourse. The balance of the sale will be devoted to the stereotype plates of numerous estates and publishers, the largest lot being some of the best selling of Loring's publications. One of the marked features of this year's sale appears to be the disposal of publishers to offer only small lots of books, an indication that a good direct fall trade is anticipated which requires no sacrifice of stock at special rates. Among the large quantities offered may be mentioned 2500 sets of Mrs. Browning's Poems by James Miller; 1000 Tennyson, 1000 vols. Chambers's Encyclopædia and 5000 Chatterbox 1881-82, by R. Worthington; some 2000 copies of Webster's smaller dictionaries and 2000handy dictionaries, by Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co.; 1000 dictionaries, 5000 Chatterbox for 1880-81, 500 Ingelow's poems, and 1000 Tennyson, by J. W. Lovell; 2000 volumes of Nimmo's standard octavos, over 3000 of the Revised New Testament (nonpareil 18mo) by Call, Calkins & Co.; over 3000 dictionaries by Hurst & Co.; 500 sets of Macaulay's England, by Belford, Clarke & Co.; 500 copies of the Revised New Testament, by Lee & Shepard; and 250 of the Stratford edition of Irving's Sketch-Book, by G. P. Putnam's Sons. copies of the India-paper copies of Walter Crane's "First of May" are offered by Henry Sotheran & Co., and in the remainder offer of

Virtue & Yorston are included over 100,000 fine

pages and is as full and detailed as usual.

EDGAR FAWCETT'S new story, "A Gentleman of Leisure," is to be published in Germany, in English.

THE London Athenaum speaks in the highest terms of Routledge & Sons' new éaition de luxe of Shakespeare, with the illustrations by Sir John Gilbert, two volumes of which are just out from the press.

THE CAMBRIDGEPORT DIARY Co. present their Standard Diaries for 1882, in old and new styles, containing a large amount of valuable information for ready reference, wonderfully condensed. These diaries are favorites with the trade because of their removable insides, and because every diary is plainly numbered in gilt. "Perpetual Diaries," uniform in style, price, and number with the annual, meet the demand of the very cautious dealer.

J. FRED WAGGONER calls attention to his well-known "Home Cook-Book," now selling in its fourth thousand, to "On the Road to Riches," a guide for young business men which has already proved its value, and to his "Trade Hints," intended for those in the books stationery, and fancy goods trade. He also invites attention to the four periodicals published by him, the Western Paper Trade, the Bookseller and Stationer, the Educational Weekly, and the Western Educational Journal, all excepting the third monthlies; and to his school mottoes, progressive drawing cards, primary drawing cards and rulers, the last a substitute for reward cards.

Home Ballads.

By BAYARD TAYLOR. Beautifully illustrated, artistically stamped and bound, 8vo, in the same general style as "The Hanging of the Crane," etc.

A beautiful holiday book, containing five of Mr. Taylor's most popular ballads, illustrated with many designs by W. Hamilton Gibson, Hovenden, Murphy, Millet, Yewell, W. L. Taylor, Dielman, Church, Bolton Jones, J. N. Marble, and Edwards. The engraving was done by W. B. Closson and Geo. T. Andrew, of Boston, W. J. Linton, of New Haven, Gray, Orr, and Heineman, of New York. Both poems and illustrations are of the first excellence, and the mechanical execution of the book will be in the best style of the Riverside Press.

American Men of Letters.

Edited by Charles Dudley Warner.

A series of biographies of distinguished American authors, having all the special interest of biography, and the larger interest and value of illustrating the different phases of American literature, the social, political, and moral influences which have moulded these authors and the generations to which they belonged. A full statement of the programme of this series is not practicable at present, but we are able to announce as in press for early publication:—

Washington Irving. By Charles Dudley Warner. Noah Webster. By Horace E. Scudder.

In Preparation:

Nathaniel Hawthorne. By JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL

N. P. Willis. By Thomas Bailey Aldrich.

Henry D. Thoreau. By Frank B. Sanborn.

J. Fenimore Cooper. By Prof. T. R. Lounsbury.

William Gilmore Simms. By George W. Cable.

Others will be announced hereafter. The volumes will be 16mo, of 250 to 300 pages each.

American Statesmen.

Edited by John T. Morse, Jr., Esq.

The object of this series of lives of American statesmen is not to present merely a number of detached narratives, but rather to furnish volumes which shall embody the compact result of extensive study of the many influences which have combined to shape the political history of our country. The editor has secured in this enterprise the coöperation of persons who have made the study of our history a chief pursuit, who are familiar with all its facts, thoroughly instinct with its spirit, and able to trace hidden connections and to draw from the great undigested mass of material its true significance.

The following volumes are already arranged for, and will probably appear in the order indicated, the first volume in November or December:—

- Fohn Quincy Adams. By John T. Morse, Jr., author of a "Life of Alexander Hamilton."
- Alexander Hamilton. By Henry Cabot Lodge, author of the "Life of George Cabot," and of "A Short History of the English Colonies in America."
- Fohn Randolph of Roanoke. By Henry Adams, author of the "Life of Gallatin," and editor of "New England Federalism."
- Andrew Jackson. By Prof. W. G. Sumner, of Yale College.

- Albert Gallatin. By John Austin Stevens, editor of the "Magazine of American History."
- James Monroe. By Daniel C. Gilman, President of Johns Hopkins University.
- James Madison. By Sidney H. Gay, author of "Bryant's Popular History of the United States."
- John C. Calhoun. By Dr. H. von Holst, author of the "Constitutional History of the United States."
- Benjamin Franklin. By Col. T. WENTWORTH HIGGINSON, author of "Young Folks' History of the United States," etc., etc.
- Patrick Henry. By Prof. Moses Coit Tyler, author of the "History of American Literature."
- Henry Clay. By Hon. CARL SCHURZ.

Lives of Jefferson, Webster, and others are also expected from competent hands.

Each biography will occupy a single volume.

The Portrait of a Lady.

By Henry James, Jr., author of "The Europeans," "The American," etc.

This is beyond question the most important and the most engaging novel Mr. James has yet written. It has in a high degree the rare excellences of Mr. James's writings, — acute observation, close study of character, subtle reflection, and a charming style; and it is quite certain to be read with admiration and delight not only to-day but by coming generations of readers.

Country By-Ways.

By Sarah Orne Jewett, author of "Deephaven," "Old Friends and New," "Play Days." Little Classic style, 18mo, $1.25.

Another book of stories and sketches like those in Miss Jewett's previous volumes, which describe certain features of New England country life and character with a truthfulness, simplicity, sympathy, and pathos quite inimitable.

Whittier Birthday Book.

Cloth, $1.00; calf, morocco, or seal, $3.50.

This will be of the same general character as the Longfellow and Emerson Birthday Books, which have won so great popular favor. The left-hand pages will contain carefully-selected passages from Mr. Whittier's poems and prose works. The right-hand pages will indicate the birthdays of many persons of eminence, especially those referred to and commemorated in Mr. Whittier's writings; and there will be blank spaces for autographs and personal memoranda. The book will be embellished with a fine portrait of Mr. Whittier and twelve choice illustrations.

Memoirs and Correspondence of James T. Fields. 1 vol. 8vo.

A book of unusual interest, written by the one who knew Mr. Fields most intimately. It tells the story of his life, describes his social, business, and literary activity, his visits to England and the Continent, and weaves into the narrative a most engaging selection of letters, including some written by Mr. Fields' and more from his illustrious friends, of whom he had so many.

A Home Idyl and Other Poems.

By J. T. Trowbridge, author of "The Vagabonds," etc. 1 vol. 16mo.

This book will contain nearly all the poems Mr. Trowbridge has written since the publication of "The Emigrant's Story," in 1874. Mr. Trowbridge's ballads and poems of every-day life are so true to nature and reveal so warm a sympathy with the experiences of every-day people that they are deservedly popular. In his other poems he shows a thoughtfulness, a sensibility to beauty, and a power of poetic expression which will commend this book to all lovers of genuine poetry.

New Editions will be issued of Mr. Trowbridge's previous volumes—

THE VAGABONDS. 1 vol. 16mo, $1.50.

THE EMIGRANT'S STORY, AND OTHER POEMS. I vol. 16mo, $1.50.

The Children's Book.

Edited by Horace E. Scudder, author of the "Bodley Books." A handsome quarto volume, containing 450 double-column pages. Profusely and beautifully illustrated, and very attractively bound. The frontispiece is a very pretty colored picture designed by Rosina Emmet. $3.50.

The Children's Book is in itself a whole library. It contains generous selections from the best standard books ever written for children, under the following divisions:—

The Book of Fables,
The Book of Wonders,
A Few Songs,
The Book of Popular Tales,
The Book of Stories in Verse, Stories from Hans Christian Andersen,

The Book of Ancient Stories.

Tales from the Arabian Nights,

These have been chosen with great care, and with the numerous pictures and the attractive printing and binding, make a book of extraordinary value and interest, which ought to be in every family.

Yesterdays with Authors.

This charming book has passed through more than a score of editions, and is still in constant demand. It contains essays on Pope, Thackeray, Hawthorne, Dickens, Wordsworth, Miss Mitford, Barry Cornwall, and others. A Holiday Edition will shortly be issued, handsomely printed, embellished with ten fine steel portraits of the authors named, and forming a very desirable gift-book.

Bjornson's Novels.

The authorized American Edition of the works of Björnstjerne Björnson, already begun by the publication of "Synnöve Solbakken," will be continued. The translation is made by Prof. R. B. Anderson, of the University of Wisconsin, who undertoook it at the special request of Mr. Björnson, and who is peculiarly fitted for the task. During the autumn two additional novels will be published, namely:—

ARNE.
THE HAPPY BOY.

J. Lewis Diman. A Memorial. 1 vol. 8vo.

The important work on "The Theistic Argument as Affected by Recent Theories" has been received with so great favor that a new volume by Professor Diman will be published this autumn. It will contain some of his more important Essays and Addresses, with selections from his Sermons, and will be prefaced with an admirable Memorial Address by Prof. J. O. Murray, of Princeton, who edits the volume. A fine portrait of Professor Diman will be given in the book.

Boston Town.

By Horace E. Scudder. 1 vol. 12mo, fully illustrated.

In this book Mr. Scudder, with the skill and entertaining style which made the Bodley Books so widely popular, tells the story of Boston from its settlement to the present time. Its history, traditions, and legends make a most interesting volume, which the abundant pictures will render still more attractive. The book is intended primarily for young people, but will be found hardly less interesting to their elders.

Holmes Leaflets.

A new edition of a book which presents many of the salient facts of American history in a humorous style. The history is about as authentic as more sober histories, and the fun is entirely authentic.

The Common Sense, The Mathematics, and The Metaphysics of Money.

By J. B. Howe, author of "Political Economy," "Monetary and Industrial Fallacies," and "Monometalism and Bimetalism." I vol. 12mo.

The present volume completes the work which Judge Howe originally designed. He aimed to discuss the whole subject of Money, its intrinsic and its conventional values, its relation to commerce, industry, and political economy generally; to clear up the mystery which to most minds invests financial problems; and to aid in establishing the circulating medium of the United States on a philosophical and immovable basis. It is a book which challenges the careful study of all who are interested in the important subject of money.

William Lloyd Garrison and his Times.

Or, Sketches of the Anti-Slavery Movement in America, and of the Man who was its Founder and Moral Leader. By Oliver Johnson. With a Portrait, and an Introduction by John G. Whittier. New, revised and enlarged edition. I vol. 12mo.

This is beyond question the best account yet written of Mr. Garrison's life, of his heroic and persistent fight against Slavery, of his allies and his opponents, and of the influences that aided and those which impeded the great struggle for Freedom. Mr. Johnson writes from full knowledge, and with absolute admiration and sympathy. The remarkable eulogy pronounced by Wendell Phillips at the funeral of Mr. Garrison is given in an Appendix, and the volume, which was originally published by subscription, is now for the first time offered to the public through the regular channels of the trade.

The Globe De Quincey.

The Complete Works of Thomas De Quincey. New Globe Edition, uniform with the Globe Dickens, Cooper, Hawthorne, and Waverley. Complete in six volumes. Cloth, $10.00; half calf, $20.00.

This is a very desirable cheap edition of the complete writings of this great master of English prose.

The Diagnosis and Treatment of Diseases of the Eye.

By Henry W. Williams, A. M., M. D. With illustrations. I vol. 8vo.

A new and important work by one of the most distinguished of living oculists. It embodies the scientific researches and the practical knowledge gained from many years' devotion to the eye and its diseases.

Cox on Trade-Marks.

A Manual of Trade-Mark Cases, comprising Sebastian's Digest of Trade-Mark Cases, covering all the Cases reported prior to 1879, together with those of a leading character decided since that time. With Notes and References by Rowland Cox, Esq. 1 vol. 8vo, sheep, $6.50.

The subject of trade-marks is one that interests manufacturers and merchants as well as lawyers. Mr. Cox has borne in mind this fact in preparing his book. The cases are not digested, in a technical sense, but are rather reported in brief, so that they are in the nature of sharply defined precedents, which are as intelligible to the layman as to the lawyer. A copious and exhaustive index of the marks passed upon, as well as the subject considered, adds greatly to the value of the work for reference.

Benjamin on Sales. New Edition.

A Treatise on the Law of Sale of Personal Property; with references to the American Decisions and to the French Code and Civil Law, by J. P. Benjamin, Esq., Q. C., of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister at Law. Third American Edition. Carefully revised and edited by Hon. Edmund H. Bennett, Dean of the Law School, Boston University. I vol. 8vo, sheep, $6.50.

A new and greatly improved edition of a work which is recognized as a standard both in England and America.

Eastern Proverbs and Emblems,

Illustrating Old Truths. By the Rev. J. Long, Member ——the Bengal Asiatic Society, F. R. G. S. Vol. XXII. of the Philosophical Library." 8vo.

High praise is due to the industry and research which has placed be Western scholars the concentrated and compressed essence of the homely wisdom which has been for untold ages accumulating in the East. — The Scotsman.

The Essence of Christianity.

By Ludwig Feuerbach. Translated from the Second German Edition by Marian Evans (George Eliot), translator of Strauss's "Life of Jesus." Vol. XXIII. of the "Philosophical Library." 8vo.

I confess that to Feuerbach I owe a debt of inestimable gratitude. Feeling about in uncertainty for the ground, and finding everywhere shifting sands, Feuerbach cast a sudden blaze into the darkness, and disclosed to me the way. — From S. BARING-GOULD'S "The Origin and Development of Religious Belief," part II. Preface, page xii.

A Grammar of the Old Friesic Language.

By A. H. Cummins, A. M. Crown 8vo, cloth.

The importance to the English philologist of the study of the Friesic language can hardly be overrated. The Friesic language forms a connecting link between old Netherlandish and old Danish, and its affinity with the English is very marked and striking. This is the first Friesic Grammar which has ever been prepared for English students.

A History of Materialism.

By F. A. Lange. Vol. 3, completing the work. Forming Vol. III. of the "Philosophical Library." 8vo, gilt top, $3.50; the complete work, 3 vols., $10.50.

Lange's work has been heartily accepted, both in Germany and in England, as an authority in its department, and as a very important contribution to history, and to the study of philosophical opinions. The Pall Mall Gazette says of it:—

Although it is only a few years since Lange's book was originally published, it already ranks as a classic in the philosophical literature of Germany. He was not only a man of vast learning, but had a very rare power both of analysis and generalization; and his style is singularly clear, strong, and graceful. Nominally only a history of materialism, it is in reality very much more. It takes in the whole development of philosophical opinion, but with special reference to materialism.

Index to Neander's Church History.

The great value of Neander's history is recognized by all scholars. Although each of the five volumes has an index, it has been thought advisable to issue an index to the whole, for convenience of reference. This index has been carefully prepared, and furnishes an immediate clew to all the varied historical treasures of Neander's standard work.

Seven Little People and their Friends.

By Horace E. Scudder. Uniform with "Dream Children," etc. 16mo. $1.00.

A new edition, in a more attractive style, of a very charming book for children.

Boys at Chequasset.

By Mrs. A. D. T. Whitney, author of "Faith Gartney's Girlhood," "Leslie Goldthwaite," "Odd, or Even?" etc.

A new edition, in uniform style with Mrs. Whitney's others books. The story has been out of print, though in constant demand; and this new edition will be heartily welcomed by all who know how good a story it is, and by all who appreciate the wholesome influence of whatever Mrs. Whitney writes.

English Constitutional History.

From the Teutonic Conquest to the Present Time. By Thomas Pitt Taswell-Langmead, B. C. L., of Lincoln's Inn, Barrister at Law, late Tutor on Constitutional Law and Legal History to the Four Inns of Court. Second Edition, revised throughout, with additions. I vol. 8vo, 827 pages.

A revised edition of a work which has been received with marked favor in England.

Mr. Taswell-Langmead has thoroughly grasped the bearings of his subject. It is, however, in dealing with that chief subject of constitutional history — parliamentary government — that the work exhibits its great superiority over its rivals. — The Academy (London).

For conciseness, compactness, and clearness we do not know of a better modern book than Mr. Taswell-Langmead's English Constitutional History. — Notes and Queries (London).

Gynecological Transactions, Vol V.

Being the Transactions of the American Gynecological Society for the year 1880. 8vo.

No member of the profession who feels an interest in one of its most rapidly and ably developed specialties can fail to welcome this book. It is the annual record of the most important association in America devoted to gynecology, and American gynecology is confessedly the most advanced in the world. — Archives of Medicine (New York), August, 1880.

Poems.

By Harriet Prescott Spofford, author of "The Amber Gods," "Azarian," etc.

For many years Mrs. Spofford has been printing in magazines and literary journals poems which have attracted general attention, not only because they came from a lady who had written some of the most striking stories in American literature, but by virtue of the vigor, grace, and charm of the poems themselves. These and other poems Mrs. Spofford has collected, and they will be brought out in a tasteful book which cannot fail to be warmly welcomed by many readers.

Poems, Lyrics, Songs, and Sonnets.

By Francis Bennoch, F. S. A. With a Portrait of the author.

Mr. Francis Bennoch was one of the warmest friends Hawthorne won while in England, and was highly valued by him for both his personal qualities and his literary taste. Mr. Bennoch has published in England a volume of poems which have been received with cordial respect by English critics. These will be issued soon in an American edition.

Mr. Bennoch's collection of poems will be welcome to many friends. His songs and lyrics ring pleasantly, and occasionally there is a touch of humor and apt fancy, or a pathetic allusion, which is creditable to the writer. — Pall Mall Gazette.

He has bound up in it the enthusiasm of a long life-time, and to all who love enthusiasm and sincerity of poetic feeling we cordially recommend his volume. His "Bonnie Wee Wifie," a most tender Scotch ditty, is written with his whole heart. — Dundee Advertiser (George Gilfillan).

MESSRS. CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS

have much pleasure in announcing that an undertaking which they have had in progress for several years is now completed; and that they shall begin in October the publication of a work which they believe will prove the most important of recent contributions to American History.

Under the general title of THE

they will issue a series of volumes contributed at their solicitation by a number of leading actors in and students of the great conflict of 1861-'65, with a view to bringing together, for the first time, a full and authoritative military history of the suppression of the Rebellion.

The final and exhaustive form of this great narrative, in which every doubt shall be settled and every detail covered, may be a possibility only of the future. But it is a matter for surprise that twenty years after the beginning of the Rebellion, and when a whole generation has grown up needing such knowledge, there is no authority which is at the same time of the highest rank, intelligible and trustworthy, and to which a reader can turn for any general view of the field—for a strong, vivid, concise but truly-proportioned story of the great salient events.

The many reports, regimental histories, memoirs, and other materials of value for special passages, require, for their intelligent reading, an ability to combine and proportion them which the ordinary reader does not possess. There have been no attempts at general histories which have supplied this satisfactorily to any large part of the public. Undoubtedly there has been no such narrative as would be especially welcome to men of the new generation, and would be valued by a very great class of readers;—and there has seemed to be great danger that the time would be allowed to pass when it would be possible to give to such a work the vividness and accuracy that come from personal recollection.

These facts led to the conception of the present work. Its possibility depended first of and on the consent of the circle of authors to whom, only, the publishers could look to carry it own worthily:—but the cordial reception which the suggestion at once received from them and from all others consulted, speedily removed all doubt upon this subject.

The volumes of the series will be duodecimos of about 250 pages each, illustrated by maps and plans prepared under the direction of the authors. They will appear, as far as possible, in the chronological order of the Campaigns of which they treat; and by their preliminary and concluding chapters will be so far connected that the completed work will practically cover the entire field of the war.—The price of each volume will be $1.

REISSUE OF THE

Complete Writings of Dr. J. G. Holland,

WITH THE AUTHOR'S REVISION.

MESSRS. CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will begin in October the issue of a New Edition of Dr. Holland's Writings, all, with the exception of his later novels, printed from new plates in a very attractive style, in artistic binding, and at a greatly reduced price.

It is believed that the aggregate sale of Dr. Holland's books, amounting as it does to half a million volumes, exceeds the circulation of the writings of any other American author. There is not a single book of his which has not had an unquestionable success, and most of them have been in such constant and increasing demand that the plates are actually worn out. Since The Bay Path, Bittersweet, and the Titcomb Letters were first published, twenty millions of people have been added to our population, and an entire new generation of readers has come upon the stage. For these reasons a new edition has become imperatively necessary, and the publishers have done their best to make their part of the work correspond with the importance which the popular verdict has given to Dr. Holland's productions. Two of the novels, Miss Gilbert's Career and The Bay Path, will be illustrated from new designs; and it is believed that the whole work will compare favorably with the best issues of the American press.

Grandma's Attic Treasures. A Story of Old-Time Memories. By MARY D. BRINE. I vol., 8vo, $4.

The book will be ready for delivery October 25, and as a work of art will speak for itself.

JUNGS ANALYTICAL CONCORDANCE.

FOURTH REVISED EDITION.

2000 Corrections and Additions not to be found in the American re

Dr. PHILIP SCHAFF verifies these corrections.

American Bible Revision Committee, 42 Bible House, N. Y., June 22, 188

Messrs. I. K. Funk & Co.:

Dear Sirs—I have at your request examined personally myself, and had two lite friends examine, the proof-slips of corrections of Young's "Analytical Concordance to Bible," and a comparison of the fourth edition with the first has convinced us that all. corrections have been made in the plates of the fourth edition (1881). Some of these cha are corrections of typographical errors, or the errors of copyists, others are the insertion important references omitted from the first edition. It is no wonder that, in a work co. ing many thousands of references, there should have appeared in the first edition so me errors and defects; the wonder is rather that there are no more.

I am glad to bear this testimony as an act of justice to Dr. Young, who has spent so ma vears of self-denying labor upon this work, and has made it by far the most complete Cu Cordance in the English or any other language. PHILIP SCHAFF.

The New York Tribuge says: "This is the most im-ortant work in religious literature that has been produced or many years. It certainly will supersede and displace Il similar works which have preceded it. It is at once a concordance in Greek, Hebrew and English Lexicon of ible words, and a Scriptural Gazetteer, and will be as valble to students of the Holy Word as an Unabridged Dic-Canary is to the general public."

JOHN HALL, D.D., New York, says: "Dr. Robe Young's Analytical Concordance is worthy of the lifeting of labor he has spent upon it. I deeply regret that h natural and just expectation of some return from its sa. on this side of the ocean is not realized, and I hope th sense of justice to a most painstaking author will lead to the choice, by many purchasers, of the edition which Dr Young approves—that of Messrs. I. K. Funk & Co, with whom Dr. Young co-operates in bringing out here the best edition."

his fourth revision is the last that will, in all probability, be made for several years. This great Concordance is invaluable to the reader of the Old or New Version of the Scriptures. PRICES: cloth, $3.65; sheep, $4.40; French morocco, $4.65.

JOHN ADAMS APPLETON. IN MEMORIAM.

THE memory of a dead comrade in arms is alwas treasured by those left behind, however undemonstrative their nature or preoccupied their thoughts, and among business associates the remembrance of an honored member of their guild is one of the sentiments that rises superior to the competitions and rivalries that are the inevitable accompaniments of the rush and cares of trade. The death of Mr. John A. Appleton occurred in the midst of the vacation season, when many of the heads and representatives of our local book trade were out of town, and in view of this fact it was deemed expedient by the members of the standing committee of the trade to defer official action on his death until a later date, when a representative meeting of the trade could be held. In accordance with this suggestion, the following call was issued on Wednesday last:

New York, Sept. 14, 1881.

A meeting of the Publishing and Book Trade will be held at the Trade Sale Rooms on Friday, the 16th inst., at 2 o'clock P.M., to take action on the recent death of Mr. John A. Appleton.

J. HENRY HARPER, Committee.
Peter Carter,

In response to this summons representatives Inearly all the leading publishing houses of the Ity assembled, on Friday last, in the room of the Executive Committee of the Mercantile Library, located over the Trade Sale Rooms. Mr. A. S. Barnes, on motion of Mr. A. D. F. Randolph, eted as chairman of the meeting, and Mr. C. T. Dillingham as secretary. After a brief but feeling reference to Mr. Appleton, with whom he had been intimate during nearly forty years of busi-Dess life, the Chairman named as a committee to drast appropriate resolutions, Messrs. A. C. Armstrong, Geo. H. Putnam, and C. I. Mills, the American agent of Messrs. Longmans & Co., of London. After the committee had retired, Mr. Randolph presented the following letter from Mr. Robert Carter, which was read by the Secretary:

New York, Sept 16th, 1881.

DEAR SIR,—I have an engagement in the country this fernoon, which will prevent me from being present at the eting of the Trade, "to take action on the recent death Mr. J. A. Appleton." I regret this much. as he was one my oldest and most esteemed friends of the Trade. So atle, so kind, so true, so unpretending, so humble, so titual, I hardly expect to see his like again. My heart is hardly not say more.

Your affectionate friend, ROBERT CARTER.

The Chairman then communicated to the meeting the intelligence that had just reached him of the death, in the Adirondacks, of Mr. Joseph L. Taintor, late of the firm of Taintor Brothers, Merrill & Co., and referred in warm terms to the high character of Mr. Taintor, and the estimation in which he was held by all who knew him. The committee, having returned to the room, Mr. Armstrong presented the following resolutions:

trade of the country has experienced the loss of a not-

For more than two score years, Mr. Appleton was sely identified with the progressive development of an qualities publishing interest, in which his eminent busiqualities were exercised without ostentation, but with labitual earnestness which is essential to success. Net only had Mr. Appleton eminent business qualities, but he was alike known for his unswerving integrity and fidelity to every trust. He was, in all his relations, faithful, patient, conscientious, and true. Though undemonstrative, he was full of kindly feeling and always considerate of others, while still firm in requiring the fulfilment of every unquestioned obligation. He was honored by his associates and employees, who in their constant contact with him knew the warmth of his heart, the generous impulses of his nature, and the uprightness and wisdom which characterized his daily Christian life.

As publishers and booksellers, we desire to put on record our regret at his departure from us, and to express to his family, to the surviving members of his firm, and to his former business associates, our warmest sympathy in their bereavement.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted, and Mr. Randolph followed with an address full of warm appreciation and kindly feeling which we deem ourselves fortunate in being able to present here entire. Mr. Randolph said:

"Although our meeting, Mr. Chairman, has been unavoidably postponed until some two months after the death of Mr. Appleton, neither time nor circumstance can make inappropriate an assembly that seeks to do honor to the dead.

"When we last met it was to speak of one of the youngest of our number. That was scarcely three years ago. To-day we meet to honor the memory of one, who for nearly half a century, held a prominent position as a publisher.

"He entered upon his work when the publishing interest of the country moved within a narrow circle; he lived to see it assume vast proportions, and in its progressive and beneficent development, be bore a personal and commanding part.

"May I not say here and now, that there is no more honorable secular calling, or one of more value to a people, than that of our departed friend. If he who plants a tree where one grew not before, is a public benefactor, how much more he who has the sagacity to discern, and the enterprise to produce that which may touch, and nourish, and lift the springs of the intellect —the intellect of the scholar as well as that of the child. I do not overlook the indispensable relation of the author, but not one of us but knows how, after all, it is the publisher's judgment, and his risk and venture, that unfetters and sets at work the subtle forces, that else had lain dormant in the manuscript or wrought only within the circumscribed limits of the class room or the rostrum.

"Consider but for a moment the relations which the house of our friend has held in all these years to every department of literature and the arts. There is not a branch of education, nor an intellectual want to which it has not ministered. Count up the long line of scholars, and writers, aud artists, whose brain product it has generously and successfully transmitted to the multitudes the wide world over. And yet, who among those who make up the record of the world's benefactors, would place upon the roll the name of our friend, or the names of others who like him have performed a conspicuous service in making constant provision for the essential, higher wants of our race."

"But we need not ask such a recognition for him; he did not ask it for himself. He was content to be a simple man of affairs, justly proud of his heritage, which he sought to strengthen and enlarge by his own wise and diligent application. Not in the open glare of the world did he work, but rather apart. He

"NO GENTLEMEN."

"We are soon amused, interested, and charmed. Belonging to the class of steries popularly called "bright," and published judiciously at the opening of the season of hambooks and piezzas, it is far more readable than most of its kind. The plot is not too much of a plot for a legitimate New England story, and the conversation of 'Jabe' is racy though to make us forget that we were tired of Yankes dialect as treated by Mrs. Stowe and Mrs. Whitney. Indeed, the book is thoroughly enjoyable."—The Critic, N. Y.

"NO GENTLEMEN."

"It is a bright narrative of the summering of a half-doz-Boston girls just out of school at Red Farm, in Pineland, with Muss Hopeful Bounce, who advertuses for summer bounders, but 'no gentlemen.' In order to make a novel, course this prohibition must be broken down, and as the Eirls, particularly the heroine and her special friend, are pleasant company, the story is as readable as if it were a No Name '—as it is in fact.'—Springfield Republican.

A STORY OF TO-DAY.

ROSE O'CONNOR.

By TOLER KING. 16mo, fine cloth, black and gold side stamp, 75 cents.

An intensely interesting and dramatic story, illustrating the present deplorable condition of the Irish tenantry, vividly portraying the horrors of the land system as now existing in Ireland.

OFINIONS OF THE PRESS.

"This is a simple, touching story of Irish life. The tone of the book is highly moral. . . It lacks one fault which so many modern novels possess in an eminent degree—it is not too long. The book tells in a concise way, and portrays with wonderful clearness, all the horrors and heart-actions which the humble natives of the "martyr nation" have suffered so long."—Irish American. N. Y. suffered so long."-Irish-American, N. Y

". . . Rose O'Connor may be classed among the good ones. It is written to expose the horrors of the Irish land system, and the author has made a most interesting and well-written book." -Baston Pilot.

"Nothing is overdrawn; the story is simple and plain, showing that the writer belongs to the true old class of story-tellers, now so rare. There is in this tale enough of the comic, serious, pathetic, and dramatic, to make a play far superior to any Irish drama ever put upon the stage."—The Daily Inter-Ocean.

"The wrongs of Ireland have inspired the writer, who brings before the reader scenes of distress not dreamt of in The story is worked out with skill and much our own land feeling, and will awaken an interest among all who have an active sympathy with the wrongs of Ireland."-Chicago Tribune.

HICKEY'S CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

A NEW AND ENLARGED EDITION.

Revised by ALEXANDER CUMMINS, Esq.,

COUNSELLOR AT LAW.

In, one elegant vol., 700 pages, 12mo, cloth, $2.50. Containing two fine mezzotint engravings by Sartain.

From the Hon. JAMES G. BLAINE, Senator of the United States.

Hon. ALEXANDER CUMMINS.

SENATE CHAMBER, Dec. 21, 1876.

Dear Sir: Hickey's Constitution is the most interesting and most valuable manual of political information ever issued in this country. Besides containing, so far as I know, the only edition of the Constitution of the United States with absolutely accurate text, it embraces a large mass of information and of statistics of especial value to men in public life.

I am glad to know that a new edition of the book, brought down to date, is about to be issued under your supervision. The competence and care which you will bring to the work will insure its accuracy and its value. The lapse of thirty years, since the book was first issued, has rendered a new edition indispensable. I am sure it will be heartily welcomed by the public.

Very respectfully yours,

J. G. BLAINE.

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE.

The American Catalogue, which by the publication of the second volume is now completed, aims to present for the first time all the bibliographical features of the books in the American market, arranged in the first volume alphabetically by authors and titles, and in the second volume alphabetically by subjects. Over nine hundred publishers are represented, among whom are a great number of the smaller publishers and publication societies of whose books it has been hitherto almost impossible to keep track, and the two volumes aggregate 1500 large quarto double-column pages, containing over 125,000 entries. As it was impossible to bring the body of the work down to a later date than July, 1876, without further delaying its appearance, an appendix has been added to the first volume, comprising the books of most of the leading publishers issued subsequently to that time, and an index to this Appendix is given in each volume. As an additional aid a list of bibliographies is prefixed to the second volume to assist the student in prosecuting his researches beyond the province of the Catalogue proper. These two lists serve to bridge over the interval elapsing during the compilation and publication of the work, and thus practically remedy a defect inherent in all such publications.

The Catalogue thus forms the only approximately complete guide to the American books of the day, arranged so as to make reference easy from whatever direction the inquiry may come, whether from that of the author, or the title, or the subject. It not only furnishes the desired information about the particular book of which the consulter is in search, but also shows what others have been issued by the same author or on the same subject in which he is interested. To the bookseller, therefore, it is valuable in filling orders and in stimulating business: to the librarian, in supplying gaps and in proportioning his collection; and to all who are practically concerned with books, in furnishing information which is nowhere else obtainable by so convenient a method, if obtainable at all.

The price for the two volumes unbound (folded), is $25; and in half morocco, $29. No copies are supplied in cloth. This is the original subscription price and on the last hundred copies wast be raised to $40. As the volumes are too large to be sent by mail, shipping directions would accompany orders.

A. C. ARMSTRONG & SON,

The Bookseller's own Journal.

THE LITERARY NEWS.

thirty-two page Monthly Journal, with the Bookseller's own firm-name promit nently printed on the front page.

The literary paper is one of the features of the day, and while directly benefiting the causing good literature as directly benefits the book trade by creating a demand for the books i otices.

Without taking into account the time and labor expended, and the painstaking discrimina ion necessary for the compilation of a reliable literary journal, the cost entailed by such a publication necessarily deters booksellers from, themselves, editing and issuing such a medium.

The Literary News, however, based on an experience of over twelve years' continuous issue is an acknowledged authority on current books and reading, and the plan upon which it is issued enabling booksellers to circulate it among their customers under their own imprint, virtually makes it the recognized organ of each bookseller distributing it, and turns a direct trade it books into his own hands.

No better time than the present can be found for the adoption of the LITERARY NEWS by live booksellers as a personal medium. Especial attention is therefore invited to it, in the hope that booksellers who are not now using it will test its efficiency by ordering an imprint edition for the fall and winter months.

The book-notices of the Literary News are always selected from leading papers, and are such as have weight with readers, while the other features of the paper make it a welcome monthly visitor in every home and establish pleasant and direct relations between booksellers and book-buyers.

(In the fall of 1880, one hundred and thirty-three booksellers made use of the LITERAR. News as their special journal, giving an aggregate monthly circulation of over 30,000 copie: distributed freely among their own customers.)

Its bibliographical department includes a weekly full-title record of all new American publications, with notes after the title descriptive of the book—a new and most important feature, of practical value to all who use books; monthly finding lists, by authors, titles, and subjects, preceded by a classified summary; lists of the most prominent English and French publications; bibliographical cues to timely topics; and numerous special lists, as the Educational Catalogue. I write neither for scientific readers as such, nor, on the other hand, for the masses, but for that large class in the community who, without being themselves engaged in scientific pursuits, yet have sufficient education and intelligence to be interested in scientific subjects when presented in an unterhaical manner; who desire, and are perfectly competent, not only to know the results obtained, but to understand the principles and methods on which they depend, without caring to master all the details of the investigation."—Extract from Preface.

REMEMBER MICHIGAN!

IT may appear a presumption on the part of a little trade journal to make an appeal to public charity, which clearly is the province of the daily journal. But no one should leave a word unspoken in face of the sluggish help that so slowly is wending its way to Michigan. What is the cause of this phenomenon, as strange as was natural the vast sympathy of the long sad week? If our daily advisers would give but a fraction of that space to the sufferers which they daily waste for the gratification of morbid curiosity, there would be no cause for this question. That there is a general under-estimation of the awfulness of the Michigan calamity, and owing to it, a forgetfulness on the part of those who so promptly shone forth elsewhere with their thousands of dollars, is to a great extent a reproach to our metropolitan journals. turn public sympathy all into one channel is not in the spirit of the great dead, to whom are attributed, because so truly representing him, the beautiful words—"Oh the people, the people my trust !"

THE "Reading Diary of Modern Fiction" now nearly ready at this office, will be a neatly printed and bound 32mo of nearly 160 pages, containing a select list of over one thousand novels, with blanks for reading memoranda, and some twenty-four pages of introductory remarks and suggestions on novels and novel-reading. As the object of this little book plainly is to encourage the reading and buying of books, booksellers in their own interest should warmly recommend it to their customers. The list can also be used to advantage, by salesmen, as a recommendation or check list. The study of the hints will, moreover, enable them to answer many questions which they are daily asked concerning the new writers. It will retail at fifty cents.

The "Enclosure List of General Literature" with authoritative annotations, is now in active preparation, and is expected to be ready in time for use during this season. It should be understood that this is intended for booksellers to use for circulation among their customers.

POSTAL MATTERS.

The following opinion by the Attorney-General, upholding a former decision that secondclass matter cannot be mailed at the pound rate by the publisher or his agent from another postoffice back to the office of publication to evade the extra postage required by section 239 for delivery by carriers, will be read with a great deal of interest by those who have followed up the contest between the publisher of the Missionary Herald and the post-office authorities.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE, WASHINGTON, D. C., July 19, 1881.

HON. THOMAS L. JAMES, Postmaster-General:

SIR—Your letter of the 7th ultimo, directing attention to the opinion of my predecessor, dated December 19, 1878, in regard to the rate of postage chargeable on the Missionary Herald in the case there stated (16 Opin. 232), requests my views upon a point not considered in that opinion.

It was there held that the Herald—a paper issued less often than once a week, the publication office whereof is in Boston, Mass., but its subscription-list as to Boston and the adjacent towns was owned by a newsdealer in Brookline, Mass., from whence all copies intended for subscribers in Boston were mailed by him—was chargeable only with pound rates on the copies so mailed. It was also observed, in that connection, that there was no suggestion that the ownership of the subscription-list by the newsdealer was a mere pretence, or that he was simply an agent of the publishers of the paper; and as to what the law might be in such case (this is the point above referred to) no opinion was expressed.

In the case just adverted to, i.e., where there is a letter-carrier office at the place of publication of a paper, and a newsdealer at another place, within another postal district, is employed by the publishers to mail at the latter place copies of the paper intended for distribution to subscribers at the former place, I am of opinion that under the existing law the copies would not be entitled to transmission through the mail at the pound rates.

Under section 11 of the act of March 3, 1879, chapter 180, such copies would be entitled to transmission at pound rates if "sent from a news-agency to actual subscribers thereto, or to other news-agents."

But by "actual subscribers thereto," as there used, is meant those who have in fact subscribed for the paper, and who, in subscribing, have dealt directly with the agency, or whose subscriptions have been obtained for or in behalf of the agency, the subscription-list being in all cases owned by the newsdealer. To give this provision a more enlarged construction, and hold that it entitles a newsdealer to mail from his agency, at the pound rates, to actual subscribers to a paper where the subscription-list does not belong to him, and where he acts merely as an employee or agent of the publishers, would open the door to an evasion of the proviso in section 25 of same act, by which special rates are prescribed for newspapers (excepting weeklies) and periodicals, when the same are deposited in a letter-carrier office for delivery by its carriers. It would enable publishers of newspapers and periodicals, where the office of publication is at a place at which there is a letter-carrier office, to obtain delivery to their subscribers in such place by the lettercarriers without payment of the special rates, simply by employing a newsdealer in some adjacent town or village to do the mailing there.

I am, sir, very respectfully, WAYNE MACVEAGH, Atterney-General.

DECISIONS AFFECTING PUBLISHERS, FROM JULY 20 TO AUG. 20.

From U. S. Official Postal Guide, September,

575. Publishers at a letter-carrier office cannot mail publications to subscribers within the carrier delivery at the pound rate. See opinion of the Attorney-General, page 9 of this number of the Guide.

590. Old manuscript must not be used as wrappers for second-class matter. A publisher. renders himself liable to a penalty for so using manuscript.

592. If a postmaster should cause loss to a publisher because of failure to comply with a plain provision of law, his liability would have to be determined in the courts, and not by the Post-Office Department.

COMMUNICATIONS. WHO CAN ANSWER!

Baltimork, September 27, 1881.

Editor of Publishers' Weekly;

Can you inform me where the American substitute for Carter's reading stands can be procared? If you remember, some time ago I wished, through THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, to regrest to the booksellers that it would be well to keep the English stands for sale. But you ald not deem it worth while, saying that there was an American article on the market. This I here never seen, and therefore could not answer be when asked about it. Would it not be well if the stands were advertised in THE PUBlitters' WEEKLY, where the large heavy books are advertised?

I will call your attention to page 298 PUBLISHtas' WEEKLY, where you say that Mrs. Ewing nearly ready a fresh story entitled " Mrs.

Overtheway's Remembrances.

OBITUARY.

YOSEPH LORD TAINTOR.

JOSEPH LORD TAINTOR WAS born at Colchester, Conn., September 21st, 1835, and was the oldest of eight children. His parents were Ralph S. Taintor, of Colchester, Conn., and Phebe H. Taintor (Phebe H. Lord), of Lyme, Conn.

Having a frail constitution in his youth Joseph was never able to endure the hardship of a farmer's life. Nor did be have a strong inclination to agricultural pursuits. His taste seemed to be for literary life, and he was very fond of reading and study.

After attending the district school in Pomfret, Conn., where his father resided for some years, he entered Bacon Academy, at Colchester, Conn., and was there prepared to enter Yale College, which he did with the Class of 1858. His health soon falled and he was obliged to leave college for a season.

He engaged in the publishing of the New York State Map and Gazetteer in Northern New York, and two years later re-entered Yale in the Class of 1860. During his college life his health was a source of anxiety both to himself and his friends, and a scrious hindrance to his college ambitions, but by perseverance and frequent respites from college duties, he was able to graduate with high honor in the summer of 1860. His purpose was to study law, but for a while after graduation his health did not seem to permit of it, and he engaged in the business of publishing the celebrated Washington Map of the United States, forming a partnership with his uncle and brother under the firm-name of S. Taintor & Co.

The sales of this map in the years 1860 and 1861, throughout the Western States were very large, reaching several hundred thousand copies, but the breaking out of the civil war and the consequent turmoil seriously interfered with the publication of so valuable a work.

In 1863 Mr. Taintor purchased the entire interest in the firm, and continued the business in his own name on a smaller scale.

In 1863 he married Miss Isabella Comstock, of Avon, N. Y. His health having somewhat improved and his tastes still inclining him to more literary pursuits, he determined to study law, and in 1864 entered the law office of Mesars. Benedict & Martindale, of Rochester, N. Y.; but he soon found that his health would not permit him to follow the law, and in 1865 he reluctantly abandoned all hope of following the profession. In 1866 he formed a copartnership with his younger brother, Charles N. Taintor, under the firm-name of J. L. Taintor & Co., which continued the publication of the Washington Map until February, 1867, when the firm disposed of the plates and copyright and began the publication of books in the city of New York.

The first publications issued by the firm were the guide-books, now so successfully published by the successors of the original firm.

In 1868 the firm was changed to that of Taintor Brothers & Co., an uncle and former partner of Joseph L. Taintor becoming a member of the new firm.

This copartnership existed until 1869, when the uncle retired and the business was continued by the two brothers, Joseph L. and Charles N. Taintor, under the name of Taintor Brothers. which possibly others also may be unaware.] At this time the brothers determined to enter the difficult field of school-book publishing, and purchased from Messrs. Mason Brothers the Analytical Readers and Speller edited by Edwards & Webb, then but recently issued. new firm was organized under the name of Taintor & Co., consisting of the two brothers and John E. Gillette of Hudson, N. Y., as "special." For a time the firm met with formidable opposition from powerful rivals, but by prudent management, untiring industry, and perseverance, they succeeded in establishing themselves among the school-book publishing trade, and are now recognized as a successful and bonorable publishing house. In 1875 the firm was still further increased by the addition of Mr. Charles E. Merrill, and in 1876 Mr. Edward L. Gates and Judah L. Taintor, the youngest brother, were admitted to the copartnership, under the present name of Taintor Brothers, Merrill & Co.

In 1876 the firm purchased the celebrated Franklin Series and Hillard Series of Readers edited by the late George S. Hillard and Mr. L. J. Campbell, from the firm of Brewer & Tileston, of Boston, which was dissolved by death. The success and growth of the firm was largely due to the devotion, incessant labors, and the excellent judgment of Mr. Joseph L. Taintor, the oldest brother and senior partner. He was a man of sanguine temperament, of strict integrity, of remarkable tact and judgment, buoyant hope, and possessed a marked faculty for influencing and inspiring men around him. In November, 1879, he was attacked by pneumonia, and though he apparently recovered from the immediate attack, it was followed by a development of permanent affection of the lungs from which he never recovered.

He continued to attend to business a portion of the time, visiting the Adirondacks in the summer months, but the disease steadily encroached upon his constitution, and in August, 1880, he dissolved his connection with the publishing firm, and from that time to his death devoted all his time to the recovery of his health. But his disease had too firm a grasp, and on the 1st of September, 1881, he died at Bloomingdale, N. Y.

II days.

From 1867 until his death Mr. Taintor lived at South Orange, N. J., where his wife and family of five children now reside.

Mr. Taintor was a prominent citizen of his town, where he was much respected. He was an elder of the Presbyterian Church, and was a consistent, faithful Christian man, and died in full faith in Christ, facing death without a fear or a murmur, and with perfect resignation to the will of God. He leaves to his friends a noble Chris- learned; but it is simple and easy to learn. tian example, and the memory of a life distinguished by sincerity of purpose, noble aim, and purity of principle.

MME. EDMOND ADAM, says the New York Tribune, "has paid 10,000 francs for the last novel of M. Jules Valles, which she will print in the Nouvelle Revue. It is called 'l'Insurge,' and, it is said, deals almost undisguisedly with several noted people. The boldness of this, author is further shown in a novel nearly completed, the hero of which will be recognized as the portrait of a parvenu member of the Paris University. It is called 'Stanislas Riquet, Neveu de Leonidas.'''

AMERICAN BOOKS ABROAD.

England Without and Within.—Richard Grant White's "England Without and Within" is received with extraordinary favor in England. Three large orders have been shipped to supply the demand.

Co-operation as a Business.—The Alhenæum, in closing its review of Charles Barnard's "Co-operation as a Business," says: "Those interested in the subject of thrift and domestic economy may thank Mr. Barnard for a very useful and at the same time lively and interesting little book."

Butterflies.—The Academy says of Mr. Samuel H. Scudder's work: "Mr. Scudder describes his work as 'an application of the doctrine of descent to the study of butterflies," and as such it is by no means without considerable value of its own. Indeed, it contains many useful hints, many luminous aperqus, and not a little depth of insight in certain directions. . . The numerous woodcuts, too, are of that finished and delicate sort for which American engravers are beginning to be conspicuous; and they aid greatly in the comprehension of the text."

FARM FESTIVALS. — The London Literary World says of this work and its author, Mr. Carleton: "The book is as handsomely printed and as suitably illustrated as such books usually are by our friends in the United States. It is a pleasure to read such a book; the tint of the paper, the type, and the general appearance of the volume, are all that can be desired by the most particular lover of books. Carleton' has a wonderful faculty for rhyming about the life of the American farmer, so as to put you into immediate sympathy with all that is related in his effective and pleasing manner. This is not doggerel nor jingle; but very touching, humorous, witty, clever poetry of its own kind, full of real human interest and earnest lessons for all sorts of people. It is handsome, striking, and entertaining book.

MADAME DELPHINE.—Of George W. Cable == (Adirondacks), aged 45 years, 11 months and | last story the Saturday Review says: "He takes a series of idyllic scenes from the same une hausted source, and delights us with a strang old-world, timid civilization, of which it is same to say, that English readers know nothin . . Mr. Cable writes exceedingly we 1. with a rich and musical prose that suits subject." The Spectator says that in Mr. Cab Ic "we have gained a novelist with new powers, and of brilliant promise." Of the dialect reviewer remarks: "It is new and must be is merely an alteration of French corrupted by English, and English directly translated from French; a soft and languid speech, invented by the easy Creole for his needs." We find a favorable review in the London Daily News also. Evidently England is "waking up" to Mr. Cable. "The Grandissimes" has not been reprinted there. We believe the publishers were frightened by the dialect. Perhaps they will take courage now that "Madame Delphine" seems to be successful.

"Uncle Remus."—G. W. Smalley writes 10 the N. Y. Tribune: "Among the American successes of the English season must be reckoped Mr. Harris' 'Uncle Remus;' of which a Lon, don edition has been issued with the imprint of David Bogue, who has also the honor of being Mr. Oscar Wilde's publisher. Whether 'Uncle Remus' be a success in the commercial or popular sense I don't know. But it has been read with something like enthusiasm by people not given to enthusiasm. To mention but one instance, it so delighted one of the most cultivated and brilliant women of England—belonging, alas! to a past generation—that she had no sooner turned the last page than she hurried the book off by express to Mr. Tennyson, to whom it may possibly supply enough material for fresher verse than he has lately chosen to give us. By younger critics, and they are none the less critics because they are young, the book is praised with discriminating heartiness. Not the very youngest of these has been taken in by Mr. Harris' 'serious intention.' His work has not converted the most inexperienced or the most lukewarm Abolitionist into a partisan or apologist of the peculiar institution. But English and Americans and Anglo-Americans have all a tribute to offer to Mr. Harris' true and delicate sense of humor, to his literary skill, and to his deep sympathy with some of the better traits of the negro character."

EDGAR FAWCETT bids fair to achieve an enviable reputation in England. Sampson Low & Co., are going to reprint his popular story of this last summer, "A Gentleman of Leisure."

GEN. BADEAU'S "Military History of Ulysses S. Grant" has been favorably noticed by the London Athenaeum. In reviewing the second and third volumes it takes occasion to say: "General Badeau is always clear; his narrative is well co-ordinated, and his language is free from the slang of the journalist and the verbiage of the ready writers who abound on both sides of the Atlantic."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE CENTURY Co. has issued a supplement to Scribner's Monthly for October, in which the rise and work of that magazine is described.

The Boston Globe for September 27 printed a page of original poetry on the President's death, written expressly for the Globe by Oliver Wendell Holmes, John Boyle O'Reilly, Walt Whitman and other well-known poets.

The Youth's Companion offers a prize of $500 for the best short story for boys, and a like amount for the best story for girls. They must not exceed 3000 words, and must be handed in by December 20th at latest. The stories that fail of the prize will, if they have enough merit, be Peid for by the publishers.

THE PUBLISHERS of the Catholic World will issue an extra edition of 5000 copies for Great Britain and Ireland, beginning with the October number. The agents for the United Kingdom will be the well-known house of Burns & Oates. The subscription rate being 20s. per year, it will be the cheapest Catholic magazine in Europe, and its circulation will, no doubt, be all the larger that many of its writers are English Catholics.

Mas. Mary Mapes Dodge has written a serial story for St. Nicholas, to be called "Donald and Dorothy," which is said to be novel in plot and full of action. This is the first long story Mrs. Dodge has written since her "Hans Brinker; or, The Silver Skates" gave young Americans a glimpse of the life of boys and girls in Holland. The story was translated into Dutch and French. The Rev. Edward Eggleston, whose "Hoosier Schoolmaster" made his reputation as a novelist, has written a story called "The Hoosier School-Boy" for the St. Nicholas boys.

The London Academy pays the following handsome compliment to our contemporary, The Critic: "We are glad to be able to bear our tribute to the excellent manner in which the Critic is conducted. It is not quite so old as the present year; and it has already established its reputation as the first literary journal in America. We say this advisedly. For the Nation, although it maintains its character for learning, has distinctly developed in the direction of politics since it became the weekly edition of the New York Evening Post. The specialty of the Critic is short reviews, and many of them; but we do not observe that quality is sacrificed."

WIDE-AWAKE for October, besides its usual variety of contents, begins a new feature which will no doubt increase its popularity. The Chautauqua Young Folks' Reading Union has adopted Wide-Awake as its organ, and in consequence the magazine will print each month a "C. Y. F. R. U. supplement," sixteen pages of Required Readings in history, science and selfimprovement. These articles, which are to be from the pens of able writers, will be illustrated, and while dealing with subjects more serious than those treated in the body of the magazine, the supplement promises to be of equal interest to young readers. The first supplement opens with an article by the Rev. Dr. J. H. Vincent on "The Juvenile Side of Chautauqua," which explains the purpose of the Reading Union.

AUTHORS AT WORK.

MRS. J. H. RIDDELL, the author of "George Geith," has a new novel just ready, entitled "Alaric Spenceley; or, a High Ideal."

PROF. T. H. GREEN is making good progress with his translation of the late Prof. Lotze's System der Philosophie for the Clarendon Press.

THE author of "Baby Rue" is at work upon a new novel for the No Name series. It will be called "The Modern Hagar," and is a continuation of the story of Lucy, in the earlier work, though it brings Baby Rue upon the scene again.

THE Rev. Edward Judson, son of the Rev. Dr. Adoniram Judson, the founder of the Burmah Mission, is preparing a memoir of his father, which will contain the materials in the life written by Dr. Francis Wayland, and also a large number of unpublished letters.

MR. H. F. L. MEYER, the well-known authority on chess, and champion of what is known as the International Notation, has in preparation a work entitled "A Complete Guide to the Game of Chess," from the alphabet to the solution and construction of problems. It will contain the elements of the game, a series of games and problems, and some historical notes. The book will appear in the early autumn from the house of Griffith & Farran.

It is a complete miniature reproduction of the Oxford edition of the revised New Testament, including the preface by the revisers, and an appendix of the renderings preferred by the American translators. The type work on each page measures I x 1\frac{1}{4} inches, and the book is well proportioned, not being too thick for the size. The book comprises 446 pages, and is said to have been printed on a single sheet of superfine paper 24 x 38. Though the type work is of necessity very minute every letter is remarkably distinct and legible. It is put up in cloth, assorted colors, plain edges and black title, and also with gilt edges and gold title. The same firm has issued "The Guest Album," which is intended to constitute "an entertaining and instructive repository of the brightest and best thoughts of friends, and a permanent record of the most memorable and pleasing incidents of their visits." The book is an oblong demy quarto, printed and ruled in red on a pale rose-tinted paper, and provides spaces in which the name of each visiit the poems he has written during the last tor, his residence, the date of his arrival and together with remarks sentimental, humorous, witty or wise, opposite to selections from wellknown authors. The pages are headed with suitable quotations from celebrated authors, and also marginal selections. The album is put up in cloth at $2.50 and in morocco at $4.50.

BAKER, PRATT & Co., whose business as manufacturers and jobbers of plain and fancy stationery and school supplies has taxed their facilities to the utmost, have now ready for the holiday trade a fresh supply of novelties, and are adding to their immense stock by every steamer. The demand for new designs in the line of fancy goods is one which grows with the growth of public taste and fancy, and the trade in novelties is constantly on the increase. This house, which has always given especial attention to this line of goods, offer this season many new articles, such as odor cases in plush, satin, silk, velvet, and olive wood; nail sets, toilet sets, gilt goods, glove, handkerchief and jewel boxes, travellers' dressing cases, etc., all of which will find ready sale at the holiday season. Their ivory goods are also offered in great variety, special pains having been taken in the selection of paper knives, penholders, match boxes, etc. Their line of portfolios embraces some two hundred and fifty varieties. As the American agents of Herman Lehman, of Vienna, their stock of imported goods in leather is peculiarly attractive, and this line is further supplemented by a choice assortment of domestic goods in alligator and Russia. It seems almost unnecessary to direct the attention of dealers to the large business which is done by Baker, Pratt & Co. in school supplies, but as this is the season when schools are being refitted with new or necessary requisites, it should be remembered that dealers can satisfy themselves in almost every branch of the school supply trade by drawing upon the stock of this house.

MESSRS. LONGMANS have in press two octavovolumes of a selection of the speeches of Mr. Disraeli and Lord Beaconsfield, compiled by Mr. T. E. Kebbel, a Tory writer for the periodical press, who contributes also explanatory notes. and a preface.

Some grumblers, whose Allah is Routine, complain of the vest-pocket seaside handbook publications which serve up to the public literature in broken victuals. These grumblers forget that but for these fragments placed within their reach a great many people would never read anything except newspapers. Some time before his death, Michelet, speaking to a friend, said: "My 'History of France' is too heavy luggage to reach the masses. One must put thoughts into lighter vehicle if one would reach children and unlettered readers."

Mr. Low's "English Catalogue of Books for 1880" follows the same plan as its well-known annual predecessors—an alphabetical list (unde names of authors) of all the books publishe during the year in Great Britain and Irelan and of the principal books issued in this course try, followed by an index of subjects. The liss in the present issue exceeds that of last year : just one page, thus indicating a slight increase in the number of books published, a smaller an crease than in the previous year, when the list was over six pages longer than its predecessor. It is unnecessary to tell the trade that this is authority on recent English books, as all without have any dealings in English books have long since found it indispensable.

MARCUS WARD'S

"At Home."

THE NEW ART GIFT-BOOK for the Holiday Season bears this title. Its quaint, square pages represent children of all degrees—"At Home,"—with all the charms which the ideal of costume can add to the loveliness of childhood, as well as the beauty which the artist-eye finds in the combination of local color and natural grace, where rustic simplicity is still unspoiled by affectation.

Known all over America as originators and first introducers of Christmas Cards, Marcus Ward & Co. have been asked, on all sides, to bring out a book which should abound in the versatile fancy and quaint conceit of their Cards, combined with good drawing and harmonious color. The work now introduced is the response to this wide-spread demand. Determined that it should be as great a success in every way as their season issues of Cards, Marcus Ward & Co. have spared no pains on the production of "At Home," and they feel confident that the result will show the appreciation of the American people.

Every page of "At Home" is a picture, not in glowing, gaudy colors, but in the subdued and harmonizing tints now favored by the devotees of culture. The pictures not only give the perfection of juvenile costume, but also afford glimpses of English Interiors, with the proper coloring, decoration, and furniture of some of the most æsthetic of English homes.

The pictures have been drawn from nature by Mr. J. G. Sowerby, an artist of rare talent in his department, and already well known for his graceful and natural drawings of children, and his fine feeling for costume and artistic accessories. Mr. Thomas Crane, so long associated with Marcus Ward & Co. in Decorative Art, has designed the Title-page, Frontispiece, and Cover, and decorated the pages in most excellent taste. The Artistic staff of the Royal Ulster Works have also done their very best, being united in determination to carry the art of color-printing to a still higher level than has ever been reached.

The verses in "At Home" will be found to enhance its interest, and to be = in themselves worthy of the beautiful book of which they form part. Here are the Dedicatory Lines, which show how widely the volume appeals for notice.

To all who love the little folk,
Their little ways, their little talk;
Who love to watch the children's ring,
To see them laugh, to hear them sing:
Of high degree, of low degree;
At home, abroad, across the sea:
Where'er an English book may go,
Our English children's ways to show:
In mem'ry of their childish times,
We dedicate this book of rhymes.

The exterior appropriately bears portraits of perhaps the most charming —— the little women of the volume, in their Duchess of Devonshire hats, Mar—
Antoinette cross-overs, and embroidered skirts, seated on old Chippendale chair——

In the body of the book these "three little hostesses" appear again, but in the full scale of colors, and the lines which accompany are fairly representative of the tone of the whole book.

THREE LITTLE HOSTESSES.

Here are Cecily, Dolly, and Marjorie, Three little hostesses, as you see.

Said Cecily first, "How pretty we look— Like three little girls in a painted book."

Said Dolly, "'Tis hot, in the middle of June, To stay in the house all the afternoon."

Marjorie fluttered her fan; said she,

"But our friends are coming to afternoon tea."

"Then we'll take them," said Cecily, "if they please, A-walking and talking beneath the trees." Said Dolly, "As this is our own 'At Home,'

Let us wish whom we'd each like best to come." Said Marjorie, fanning, the words between, "The most of all—I should wish for—the Queen!"

"No, my fairy godmother," Cecily cried,

"To deck me with jewels, and make me a bride."

Said Dolly, "I think I should like to see The friend I love best, coming in to tea."

Cecily, Dolly, and Marjorie, Three little hostesses, here you see.

In its subdued tones of Salmon, Indian Red and Cream, and Yellow, the cover will be a most striking feature among other books in the bookseller's Store: to buyers it will be irresistible. On opening the book, the "End Papers" Present to the eye one of Crane's cunning patterns in yellow on white, which ladies will be apt to adapt on a larger scale for crewels.

We shall not attempt to describe the numerous pages of the book, all original, novel, and different, yet in a perfectly harmonious style; but conclude by Quoting the valedictory lines which appear, entwined with "Forget-me-nots," on final page, over a picture of a closed door of skilful workmanship, with a handsome iron railing, overhung with ivy.

> And now 'tis time to say Good-bye To all our friends, and, with a sigh, We shut the door. So, close the book— 'Tis the last page on which you look. We hope you've had a pleasant time With us, our pictures, and our rhyme; And, if you'll come another day, And bring your friends—of course you may— Whatever time you like to come, You are sure to find us here—" At Home."

The Bookseller's own Journal.

THE LITERARY NEWS.

The literary paper is one of the features of the day, and while directly benefiting the cause of good literature as directly benefits the book trade by creating a demand for the books it notices.

Without taking into account the time and labor expended, and the painstaking discrimination necessary for the compilation of a reliable literary journal, the cost entailed by such a publication necessarily deters booksellers from, themselves, editing and issuing such a medium.

The LITERARY News, however, based on an experience of over twelve years' continuous issue, is an acknowledged authority on current books and reading, and the plan upon which it is issued, enabling booksellers to circulate it among their customers under their own imprint, virtually makes it the recognized organ of each bookseller distributing it, and turns a direct trade in books into his own hands.

No better time than the present can be found for the adoption of the LITERARY NEWS by live booksellers as a personal medium. Especial attention is therefore invited to it, in the hope that booksellers who are not now using it will test its efficiency by ordering an imprint edition for the fall and winter months.

The book-notices of the Literary News are always selected from leading papers, and are such as have weight with readers, while the other features of the paper make it a welcome monthly visitor in every home and establish pleasant and direct relations between booksellers and book-buyers.

(In the fall of 1880, one hundred and thirty-three booksellers made use of the LITERARY NEWS as their special journal, giving an aggregate monthly circulation of over 30,000 copies, distributed freely among their own customers.)

For 1881 (Ninth Year)

Is now ready, and contains over 1800 octavo pages, and includes:

- 1. The Latest Trade-Lists of the publications of American publishers arranged alphabetically.
- 2. The Annual Reference-List, 1880-81. This list, forming the fifth provisional Supplement to the American Catalogue, and embracing all the books recorded in The Publishers' Weekly from July 1, 1880, to June 30, 1881, with additional titles, corrections, changes of price and publisher, etc., is compiled on what is known as the "dictionary plan," by which any book can be found, whether it is looked for under author, or title, or subject.
- 3. The Educational Catalogue for 1881 (twelfth year). This Catalogue, which is used by the entire trade and educational interest as the most reliable reference-list of School-Books, presents two essential improvements, viz.: (1) arrangement on the "dictionary plan," combining a Finding-List for the trade and a Subject Catalogue for the use of schools; (2) Trade-list or wholesale price, and mailing or retail price, in parallel columns.
- 4. The Annual Class-List, 1880-81. While in the regular Reference-list individual books are found under author, title, or subject, the Annual Class-List, on the plan of the monthly Class Synopsis in The Publishers' Weekly, gives references under such collective headings as Arts and Sciences, Biography, Education, Fiction, Juvenile, Law, Medicine, Poetry, Religion, Travel, etc., to all books of the year published in these departments.
- 7. The Order-List for 1881. This list, on the plan of the weekly Order-List of The Publishers' Weekly, presents, under the alphabetically-arranged names of the publishers, all the books (stating price) issued in 1881 by those publishing houses which are represented in the Annual. The practical object of this list, which will be compiled and printed at the very lament, is twofold: (1) To save booksellers, as well as librarians, time and labor, in preparition of their fall orders for the books of the season; (2) To give publishers who supply their lists at early date an opportunity for adding any books issued later and not mentioned in their own liments.

The above Lists, all requiring unusual labor and expense, present in their combination perfect a working tool as has never been presented to the trade of any other country. It may justly claimed that these special trade helps alone will make the Annual indispensable to ever one who has any interest in the purchase and sale of books.

TERMS.

As this story deals with love and marriage from the beginning, it might properly be called a novel; it is a novel, however, with a moral, and one young girls will profit by in reading; it contrasts two young girls who are cousins, and each left a fortune after growing to be young ladies; they had engaged themselves when poor to two young men, equally poor, but worthy of their affections in every way; their change of fortune causes them to be placed in charge of a new guardian, a woman of the world, who insists the engagements shall be given up till her wards have seen something of life; the one who makes the greatest show of her feelings succumbs to the ordeal and forgets the poor lover, but the "leal, light heart" is true to the end.

May, T: P. A prince of Breffny. Phil., T: B. Peterson & Bros., [1881]. 15-428 p. D. cl.,

A historical story, the action of which commences in the middle of the last century, with the departure of a young man, representing the princely house of Breffny O'Reilly, in West Meath, with the purpose of making his way as a soldier of fortune. Through the kindness of Gilbert Talbot, known as the Priest-Earl of Shrewsbury, who was a near friend of his mother, Alexander O'Reilly obtains a commission in the army at Naples, then under the sceptre of the prince, afterward Charles III., King of Spain, and, by loyalty and valor, renders important services to his grateful sovereign, who rapidly advances him to fortune and rank, so that he figures in the annals of Spain, to the present day, as General Count O'Reilty, and was successively Governor of Madrid and Cadiz, and Captain-General of Andalusia. A love story runs through the narrative. By the author of "The Earl of Mayfield."

In 1874 Mr. Selah Merrill was appointed archæologist of the American Palestine Exploration Society, and the next year he was placed in charge of the exploration work. During the two following years he made four different expeditions, of two of which a detailed account is given in this work. It is written in a popular form, giving interesting incidents of travel and personal experiences from day to day. No other American is so much at home in the East Jordan country as Mr. Merrill, and there does not exit in any other language so much fresh and valuable information respecting it. The illustrations are fresh and original, and the style of the narrative is graphic and entertaining. Professor Roswell D. Hitchcock, the President of the Palestine Exploration Society, introduces the book to the public in a preface in which he points out in the strongest terms the value of Mr. Merrill's work. Contains a list of authorities consulted. Index.

Bound volume, 1881, of a popular juvenile magazine; contains little stories and poems by the best American writers of juvenile literature and over 350 woodcuts, engraved by Andrew, from original designs by American artists, done expressly for the magazine. The design on the illuminated cover is one of the handsomest things we have seen; the dominant color is a sort of dead leaf and a band in dead gold encircles the back and both covers, having in panels nine children's heads, all differently posed, and all in colors.

Macquoid.

DODD, MEAD & Co. will issue next week E. P. Roe's new story entitled, "Without a Home." The author, in his preface, explains the work in its present form has been almost wholly recast, and much broadened in te scope since the first announcement of it two years ago. That while he touches upon several modern and very difficult problems, he has not in the remotest degree attempted to solve, but rather has sought to direct attention them. He sees in the morphia hunger and onsumption one of the greatest evils of the ture, and holds that "warnings against this vison of body and soul cannot be too solemn too strong." New editions of Mr. Roe's mer novels, in a new style of binding unim with the above, will also be issued next k. At the same time will be published ankee Doodle," an old friend in a new 18, with original colored illustrations deed by Howard Pyle, whose pictures of nial times are familiar to almost every tican home.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S Sons issue this week, in addition to the volumes announced last week, "East of the Jordan," a record of travel and observation in the countries of Moab, Gilead, and Bashan, during the years 1875-1877, by Selah Merrill, archæologist of the American Palestine Exploration Society. The volume is written in a popular form, and is fully illustrated. Professor Roswell D. Hitchcock, the President of the Palestine Exploration Society, has written an introduction to the volume, in which he points out in the strongest terms the value of Mr. Merrill's work. They will also have ready "The Theory of Preaching, or Lectures on Homiletics," by Professor Austin Phelps, D.D., of the Andover Theological Seminary. This volume, as now offered to the public, is the growth of more than thirty years' practical experience in teaching, and is probably the most thorough and masterly treatment of the preachers' art that exists.

E. P. Dutton & Co. will issue on the 15th inst. their pretty holiday book, "Grandma's Attic Treasures," by Mary D. Brine. The poem is spoken of as "a tender ballad, somewhat in the Will Carleton style, describing how an old lady in the country was besieged by two city speculators in search of antique furniture, and what were her emotions and the associations recalled by each piece which she sold." The arrangement of the artistic and mechanical details is the work of Mr. George T. Andrew, of Boston, who engraved all the illustrations, which were designed by the well-known Boston artists, Miss Northam, Edmund H. Garrett, J. Francis Murphy, W. A. Rogers, W. P. Snyder, and Mr. Halsall. The volume will easily rank among the foremost of the holiday books this season. At the same date, they expect to issue their beautiful colored book for children, "Holly Berries," illustrated by Ida Waugh, which was described in a former issue of the WEEKLY. "Who Did It?" a new book for boys, by W. H. D. Adams, is nearly ready.

R. Worthington issues this week a handsome and low-priced cheap edition of Dyce's "Shakespeare," illustrated with a number of steel engravings, and containing the life of the poet by Alexander Dyce, a monograph of some 100 pages of matter, and of which it may be stated that it affords the only opportunity to purchase Dyce's excellent life of Shakespeare other than in the large and expensive English edition of his works; a large type 12mo edition of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress;" new editions of Fox's "Book of Martyrs," and of Disraeli's "Curiosities of Literature," which includes the "Curiosities of American Literature," by Rufus W. Griswold, a work which has been for some time out of print; and two handsomely illustrated quarto juveniles, entitled "Adventures Round the World" and "Picturesque Science for the World." Mr. Worthington has also now ready his fine edition of the Holy Bible, illustrated by Dore, with 12 engravings on steel, and with 16 full page wood engravings. The peculiar feature of this new edition of the Bible is its presentation of the Old and New Testaments complete, and, in addition, the Revised Version of 1881, an Index, Concordance, metrical arrangement of the Psalms, and other useful accompaniments. The work is offered in several styles and at various prices.

"Arne" was written in 1838, and is thought by many to be the author's best story; like the rest of his novels, it deals with the life of the Norwegian peasantry; the plot is encodingly simple, the book owing its principal charm to the poetic and highly imaginative style in which it is written, and to the novel pictures it presents of a life little beauty. It is full of created norms and some, which come hown, and to the novel pictures it presents at a loss retrieved, it is full of original poems and songs, which come from the lips of young "Arme," who is represented as a restric genius. The action of this story grows mainly out of the hero's inventive faculty, which manifests itself in horizontal balloon ascensions and artificial comets, as well as in quieter and more useful mechanical problems. Other characters contribute their share—Isaac Holman, the learned boy, Jimmy Redmond, the poetical boy, and Ned Rogers, brother of the hero, the impulsive and blundering boy. The story is not without its moral, and is full of fun and humor.

An abridged history of England and condensed chronology, from the time of the ancient Britons to the reign of Queen Victoria; with a synopsis of England in the 19th century, its government, institutions, etc. N. Y., Trow's Printing and Bookbinding Co., 1880. 8+669 p. 1 il. and maps, O. cl., $5.

Mr. McCalman, himself a business man, has prepared a history especially designed to meet the wants of business men; he says in his preface: "The book will serve as an index, and perhaps lead to more extensive reading on the subject." With each king a brief history of the reign is presented, with the names of contemporary rulers. The sources of origin of the various families who have ruled over England, as the Plantagenets, Tudors, Stuarts and Brunswicks, are succinctly presented. Coming down to our own day, the Victorian era is quite exhaustively treated. In an appendix is given England in the 19th century, with details of population, and a good insight is presented of the political institutions and method of government. Also a complete list of the peerage creation, precedence, rank, family name and heir of each peer in the three kingdoms; the British empire and national debt; genealogical tables, etc.

THE NEW COPYRIGHT TREATY WITH AMERICA.

From the London Times.

SIR: The question of an international copyright treaty with America is again occupying the attention of our Government, and as it is a question of very great importance, not only to English authors, but to all those engaged in the manufacture and production of books in this country, I ask permission for space in your columns for a few remarks on the subject from n English publisher's point of view. As the uestion of an international copyright with merica has always been of vastly more imortance to English than American authors, ery attempt at legislative or diplomatic aragement has naturally emanated from this untry, and every bill or treaty hitherto prosed has failed, not, as has been asserted, beuse it was conceived "more in the interest of tish publishers than either of British or erican authors," but because it was palpably interest of American publishers that it ild fail. For many years past American ishers have for very modest considerations aglish authors enjoyed a monopoly equivato copyright, and as long as this monopoly 1 there certainly was no reason why they d desire any change. Latterly, however, ionopoly has been rudely interfered with ir own countrymen, and now suddenly ave become converts to the need of interal copyright, and with enlightened cons they quote Lord Mansfield and Dr. n in support of the doctrine of the less of literary property. They have convinced that copyright in America is ot only for English authors, but for the n people. They are satisfied that the ts of authors and publishers are ideneaning, of course, English authors and 1 publishers), and accordingly they ted a treaty by which English authors gain a copyright by playing into the American publishers. I do not believe sh publishers have any cause to fear | competition from American publishers, nor do I believe that American publishers need dread English competition, each on his own ground, and the laws being equal. What I should like to see is a simple law which should give copyright to authors on both sides untrammelled by any trade stipulations whatever, and I am fully convinced, in that case, that the buyers of books on either side of the Atlantic would naturally support those who could most easily and satisfactorily supply their needs—viz., their own countrymen. Now, with every respect to American publishers, I have no hesitation in characterising their present draft treaty as one utterly selfish and one-sided. I say this, notwithstanding the fact that a very small and select body of English authors and publishers, claiming, I suppose, to represent the great body of authors and book-producers of this country, have sat upon this treaty, and, if they have not pronounced it very good, have at least indorsed it as the best thing they are likely to get. Notwithstanding this verdict, however, I do not hesitate to say that the effect of the treaty as it stands will be to exclude nine-tenths of English authors from ever getting any copyright at all in America. It plays wholly into the hands of American publishers, and, worse than all, it creates for them a monopoly not only in their own country but in this, while it virtually excludes English manufacturers from both markets.

I will endeavor to justify these remarks by reference to articles of the draft treaty itself. Article I provides that an author shall gain copyright in either country by his book being re-manufactured and published within three months from the date of the original publica-This limited term is a matter of more consequence to authors than to publishers, but as authors do not seem to care much about it I will give them my view of it. An author can have no control over the time taken to remanufacture his book abroad, therefore his copyright should not be made dependent on the want of activity, or caprice, or design of a foreign publisher. There are many valuable books which it would only be worth the while of one special publisher to reproduce, who might well say, "Why should I arrange with the author now, seeing that in a few months I can take his book in spite of him? I will set the book up at once (as I know no one will oppose me), and the day after the three months have expired I will publish it, and take all the profits myself." Of course, this would not be an honorable proceeding, but it is not the less possible. Again, if the interim period is limited to three, or six, or even twelve months, nine tenths of English authors will be excluded from all chance of American copyright. In illustration of this I may quote, as I have often quoted before, the familiar instance of my firm's publication "Lorna Doone," by Mr. R. D. Blackmore, which was not "discovered" in the United States until nearly three years after it was published in England. Had the proposed limited law been in existence, Mr. Blackmore would have derived no benefit from his book, any more than he now does, and he is thus deprived of an annual income probably of £150 or £200. I do certainly hope that the Commissioners who will be intrusted with the negotiation of this treaty will see the absolute necessity of altering the three months to at least twelve months. Indeed, the only justifiable claim I can conceive for there being any limit is the possible obstinacy of some English authors who may otherwise refuse to have their books printed at all in the United States. Another motive, and perhaps a more plausible one, is the possibility that during the interim the author or his representatives may pour into the foreign markets floods of his own home edition, and so spoil the market for republication—in other words, he would "kill his own goose," and would pay the United States Government 25 per cent duty in doing it. It is, of course, possible that in solitary instances an author of an ephemeral publication may do this and reap a harvest while he may; but such solitary instances ought not to be allowed to weigh against the interests of authors of valuable works, who may reasonably look forward to an annual income from their copyright. The instances could only be few, because, as regards all known and appreciated authors, arrangements would most certainly be made beforehand for simultaneous publication in both countries. Unknown or new authors will be the greatest sufferers. Reverting to matters of more importance to publishers than to authors, I find the treaty requires re-manufacture as a necessity of copy-. right. It insists on it on the American side, and suggests it on the English. For my part to me to be unworkable, but I dare not intrude I would willingly concede these points. Let further on your valuable space. re-manufacture in America from American type or English stereotypes or electrotypes be the condition. I do not even care to insist upon the opposite condition that American authors must have their books printed here within the fixed period in order to get copyright; the remanufacture of American books here is a matter of not much importance to our manufacturing interests at present, though it may eventually become so; but what seems to me to be the greatest flaw in the treaty, and one to which I do not think English publishers have given the attention which it deserves, is this: According to present English law there is nothing to prevent an American publisher purchasing an English author's entire rights in his book, and publishing the work in England. All he has to do is to publish here first; he may print and bind the book in his own country, only taking care to send his English edition over here before he publishes there. This he can do now under the English copyright law, but he has never done it, simply because he has not hought it worth his while to compete with English publishers here, while he had no protection on his own ground; but give him copyright in his own country, and there is absolutely nothing to prevent him occupying both markets, to the injury of all engaged in the manufacture of books in this country. It cannot be said that an English publisher may retaliate (even if the American law permitted it) by going to Lowell or Longfellow, and purchasing from them their entire copyright, and so have the exclusive right to supply both markets with his English printed books; it is obvious that the cases are not equal, the comparative amount, and value of the literature of the two countries being quite unequal, besides the fact that the English publisher would be weighted with 25 per cent. duty to get into the United States, while the American could send his books here free. While in the present draft treaty the advantages are all in favor of the American publisher, and he is abundantly protected against any possible competition from England, there is no clause affording the slightest protection to English publishers in the case I have thus stated. This tree-trade nation condemns France for granting bounties to its own producers, but if this treaty passes as it now stands the effect will be thisanomaly—that free-trade England will be virtually granting a bounty to American publishers. to manufacture English books in their own country for sale in this market, and at the same time tying the hands of English manufacturers... who will have no chance of competing with American publishers will have two large copyright fields to work in; English publishers only one (if they can get that). The clause required to cover this difficulty shoul be to this effect—that no American printed edi. tion of an English author's work shall be permitted to be sold or in any way circulated in th. -British dominions, either with or without the author's sanction; and that no English print edition of an American author's work shall 🗁 permitted to be sold or in any way circulates in the United States, etc. I presume, however, that this could not be inserted in a treaty, as it would override our present Imperial law. It would possibly require an Act of Parliament. There are other points in the treaty which seem

I am, yours obediently, EDWARD MARSTON. 188 Fleet Street, London, Sept. 9.

Christmas and New-Year Cards for 1881-82.

Our line of Christmas and New-Year Cards is now complete, and our agents are soliciting orders. The extent of our list, the originality, and especially the American character of our designs, together with the great care taken in their execution, will no doubt secure for our goods the popularity which they have enjoyed heretofore. The names of the artists. whose designs have been reproduced are a guaranty of their excellence. We would only name

ELIHU VEDDER, C. C. COLEMAN, THOMAS MORAN, Miss ROSINA EMMET, Miss DORA WHEELER, Mrs. O. E. WHITNEY, W. H. GIBSON, F. S. CHURCH, R. G. BIRCH, etc.

Our silk-fringed cards will be in great demand this season. They are made with the best quality of silk fringes of new colors and style. A marked feature of our cards is the elegantly ornamented and attractive backs. All our fringed cardsare furnished with envelopes and protectors, so as to insure safe transportation in the mails.

Noyes' Dictionary Holder.

THE STYLES ARE AS FOLLOWS:

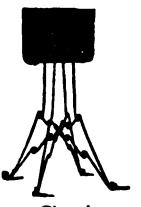

A Holder finished in hard, jet-black Japan, which is very beautiful.

A Lacquered White Holder, with finish more durable and brilliant than nickel, and having much the appearance of silver.

A Bress Holder, burnished, lacquered, and finished in the most elegant and artistic manner.

Regular make, open.

Tilting Top, open.

I also make, in the above styles, a Holder with Tilting Top, that places the Dictionary on an incline when open, but horizontally when closed. It handles the book as though it were alive.

The first Holders I ever manufactured had stationally inclined tops, but I soon ceased making them, as I found that a Dictionary kept permanently on a slanting surface will rack and settle all out of shape.

This difficulty is now overcome in the lilting Holder, as the book rests on an incline only when it is open.

I guarantee the wire of which the Holders are now made to be perfect. The finish of the various styles is also perfect, and challenges the admiration of every one.

Especial attention is called to the LACQUERED WHITE HOLDER, the finish of Which consists of a heavy metal plating that is exceedingly attractive, and will withstand any amount of rough usage. Circulars free. Send for them now.

Messrs. Dutton & Co. have also nearly ready the third volume of Blunt's "Annotated Bible," completing the work.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just issued "French Dramatists of the 19th Century," by J. Brander Matthews. The volume offers a large amount of information that could not be obtained elsewhere in English, concerning the great French dramatists of our day, accompanied with some incisive and most satisfactory criticism of their methods and work, and will be especially welcome to students of literature and lovers of the drama. M. Towle's excellent series, Heroes of History, with pictures; and two novels, "Nuna, the Bramin Girl," describing the life and love of a Hindu princess, by Harry W. INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT.

Mr. SMALLEY, in his communication on International Copyright, from which we give some extracts below, still shows the same unfriendly spirit toward the American publishers which he displayed in so indiscreet a manner in 1878. Then it was the question of the proposal of the English Copyright Commission. That Mr. Smalley commended as an unheard-of act of generosity, considering that "they do this in full knowledge of the unscrupulous piracy which American publishers have practised in the past on English authors; and in many cases continue to practice." To-day it is the question of the American "draft-treaty." This Mr. Smalley receives with the same offensive sneer with which, also, in 1878, he received the statement that "most publishers pay an equivalent royalty to foreign authors with whom they have permanent relations." Mr. Smalley seems, indeed, to look upon the American publisher as a sort of pick-pocket, compared with whom the English publisher is a model of virtue and the author a saint. He now actually suspects the American publishers of having resorted to some kind of legerdemain or magic "process by which what is known as the draft-treaty, now before the British Government, got itself drafted into the treaty form," and is anxious "to know in addition how the publishers got so far possession of the official mind as to secure that their views should be put before the British Government with the sanction of the American Government." Such talk is the quintessence of snobbery of which the most prejudiced British publisher could not be guilty. Mr. Smalley is, what could not be inferred from his attitude, an American; but is not, it must be inferred, one of those authors who "appear to be restrained partly by a feeling of delicacy from which the publisher, whose business is avowedly money-making, is free; partly by a certain timidity in approaching the commercial and practical side of the question." Mr. Smalley, on the main principle of international copyright, is sound, but he would better further the good cause by less "decisive tones" and "comments of a kind" less "surprising."

G. W. Smalley, in N. Y. Tribune, October 14.

Mr. Edward Marston, a partner in the English publishing firm of Sampson Low, Marston & Co., which does a considerable American business, has printed in The Times a letter on Anglo-American copyright which deserves attention. The letter is written, of course, from the publisher's point of view, but it is, at least in one respect, which I will notice presently, a very remarkable exception to the usual English publisher's view. As a whole, it is a valuable contribution to the discussion. It has been observed before now that the publishers on both sides take a more active part in this discussion than the authors do. Authors appear to be restrained partly by a feeling of delicacy from which the publisher, whose business is avowedly money-making, is free; partly by a certain timidity in approaching the commercial and practical side of the question. In time, however, the voice of the author will be heard; heard, if I mistake not, speaking in decisive tones on international copyright, and on domestic copyright as well, with some comments of a kind surprising to the general public on the nature of the relations between himself and the publisher. Meanwhile, it is well that the publishers should be heard. It is all the better when they differ among themselves; and best of all when conflicting interests array English publishers as a body against American publishers as a body. In the hurly-burly each uses against the other whatever weapon lies readiest to his hand; which sometimes happens to be a fact. Some truths have already been told which both author and public may profitably ponder. And Mr. Edward Marston now makes a fresh contribution to the limited stock of general knowledge about the business of publishing books, as well as about the warfare between two sets of publishers on copyright.

I have looked in vain through what has been lately written on this matter for a sufficient account of the process by which what is known as the draft-treaty now before the British Government got itself drafted into the treaty form. It expresses, as we all know, the present views of a few powerful publishing firms in Boston, New York, and Philadelphia. We know well enough, moreover, how these firms, once the bitterest opponents of an Anglo-American copyright, became the advocates of Anglo-American copyright of a certain sort; how, as Mr. Marston again reminds us, the lucrative monoply of a publishing ring was rudely interfered with by their own countrymen; and how with enlightened consciences they now quote Lord Mansfield and Dr. Johnson in support of that doctrine of the sacredness of literary property by violating which they accumulated great fortunes at the expense of the authors whose works they published. This and much more we know. What we should all like to know in addition is how the publishers got so far possession of the official mind as to secure that their views should be put before the British Government with the sanction of the American Government. The subject-matter the draft-treaty affects large numbers of people, and different classes with interests which are by no means the same. It affects the British author, the British publisher, the American author, the American publisher, and last but not least, the American public. How happens it that of these five different interests, all dealt with in the treaty, four are comparatively speaking, ignored, while the fifth, which is by no means the most important, has been considered and reflected in such a way as to make it paramount? It is an interesting question. Who will supply the answer?

Who will supply the answer? If we look at the matter a little more closely than Mr. Marston does, the result will be even more startling. In the example I have quoted he takes the case of an English book which only one publisher would care to reprint in America. It is a glaring case, and one may hope more or less confidently that American publishers would not avail themselves in such circumstances of their legal right to publish at the end of three months without payment. But if they do not mean to avail themselves of this right, why do they insert it in their drafttreaty? And what reason is there to suppose that in order to secure the right of reprinting without payment to the author they would not combine in the future as they have in the past? Except, perhaps, in the case of books by wellknown writers—of those books for which they have paid without law because it was to their interest to pay—there is no class of books which the three months' limit would protect. An author about to publish here opens communication with a firm in New York. It will be a month before he gets an answer, and if a publisher chooses he can make his answer very vague. A negotiation is entered upon. What so easy as to protract it till the three months are expired? Still more in the case of books where the author, for whatever reason, does not enter upon a negotiation till after publication. He is in the hands of the first American firm he applies to; or, which applies to him. He knows, and they know, that he must take what is offered, or run the risk of getting nothing. If he addresses himself to a second, how is he to ascertain whether the second does not belong to the same ring as the first? And what is there, I repeat, in the history of the American publishing business to make it unlikely that they will combine to take advantage of the necessities of the English author, and of the clause which they themselves have inserted in the draft-treaty? If American publishers are now, which I do not doubt, in earnest about a treaty, and if they really wish that the English author should be secure in his rights, a simple and sufficient measure lies ready to their hand. Let the English author stand in the position of the American; not requiring of him to publish, or to complete an agreement for publishing, within a brief fixed period, but only to register his copyright in America, or at an American agency in England. Secure to the American publisher, by all means, his right to manufacture the book, but, subject to that and to some such simple formality as the law imposes on the American author, let the English half of the Anglo-American community stand on a legal equality with the American half. If there be any objection to such a law as that, it must come from those who do not really want an international copyright. G. W. S.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & CO.'S NEW STORE.

THE opening on the 19th inst. of Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s new store, or rather parlors, at No. 11 East Seventeenth Street, was the occasion of a very pleasant gathering of bookmakers—authors and publishers—and of the trade generally. On entering, the visitors were ushered not into a book-store but rather into a luxurious private library, furnished with low cherry Eastlake bookcases that were filled with books published by the firm, and bound in elegant morocco, calf, and cloth bindings. The walls of the two front parlors are covered with an artistic paper of a fashionable blue tint relieved by a rich frieze in keeping with the whole outfit of the room. Broad tables, on which are exhibited the more prominent and artistic publications of the house, occupy the centre of floor space, and snug, comfortable arm-chairs complete the furniture of these rooms. retreat or sanctum, is a large-sized, quiet, cosy parlor in the rear, lighted perfectly by large windows on the side. Pompeian paper, of a light brown tint, with a green-colored frieze figured with leaves, cover the walls, a large open fireplace adding to the perfect home-like feeling which the room imparts. The furniture is of handsome cherry, with here and there a prettily carved writing-desk of the same material, and pictures of Bryant, Lowell, Holmes, Longfellow, and Whittier, the effect of the whole being decidedly inviting as well as artistic. Conspicuous among the publications exhibited on the centre-table in this room was a copy of their holiday edition of Bayard Taylor's "Home Ballads," bound in calf with birds-eye maplewood sides so finely polished and finished that the finest grain was distinctly brought out. Messrs. Houghton, Mifflin & Co. may well feel proud of their new departure, and we add ours. to the many well wishes for its success.

OBITUARY.

LAWRENCE R. FITZGERALD.

LAWRENCE R. FITZGERALD, the well-known member of the firm of Dick & Fitzgerald, died suddenly of hemorrhage at his residence in this city on the 10th inst. He had not been in robust health for two years, but was able to attend to business, and was preparing for a trip to Colorado with his brother, Wilson Fitzgerald. He was at his office at five o'clock Monday, and that evening, when about returning, remarked to a friend: "I am going to rest well to-night." In ten minutes he was a corpse. Mr. Fitzgerald was born in Philadelphia in 1826. He received a thorough training in the mercantile business when quite young, and in 1840 was a salesman with Burgess & Zieber. In 1842 Mr. Burgess came to New York and organized the firm of Burgess, Stringer & Co., booksellers and publishers, which for many years did business where the Herald building now stands. Mr. Fitzgerald accompanied him, and remained with that firm until Mr. Burgess retired from it in 1846. Mr. Burgess then formed a new copartnership with Ransom Garrett, under the firm-name of Burgess & Garrett, and Mr. Fitzgerald was engaged with this new firm until 1850, when Mr. Burgess retired. Mr. Garrett then associated himself with William B. Dick and Mr. Fitzgerald, under the firm-name of Garrett & Co. In 1857 Mr. Garrett retired, and the business has been carried on ever since by the firm of Dick & Fitzgerald. His funeral took place from the residence of his brother and only relative, Wilson Fitzgerald, at Camden, N. J.

ALICE MERBDITH McLAUGHLIN.

MISS ALICE MEREDITH McLaughlin, better known in literary circles and to the trade as Alice Meredith, died at Montelair, N. J., September 30. Miss McLaughlin began her literary life as a contributor to magazines and weeklies, and from that drifted into general editorial work. For some years past she had been engaged in literary criticism and book work, a line of occupation for which by training and natural bent she was especially fitted. She had been closely connected for four years, as a reviewer, with the American Bookseller and for some two years represented the Literary World in New York as a news collector. She was also a contributor to the Bookseller and Stationer, of Chicago, and literary editor of the Essex County Press, of Newark, N. J. An indelatigable and painstaking worker, eager and enthusiastic in her vocation, she overtaxed her strength, and during the past year has been gradually failing.

MOSES WARREN.

Moses Warren, a well-known publisher of Chicago, died of Bright's disease, September 8. He was born at East Lynn, Conn., in 1826. He was at one time the representative for the Northwest of D. Appleton & Co. He went to Chicago in 1868, and has since been identified with the publishing interests of it.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

Spielhagen's new novel, "Angela," will be published immediately.

MR. JOHN RICHARD GREEN, the historian, will issue a new work during the autumn through Macmillan & Co. Its title is "The Making of England."

Mr. Mallock intends issuing a second edition of "A Romance of the Nineteenth Century," the preface of which will contain his answer to the reviewers.

PROF. Moses Corr Tyler, of Cornell University, the author of the "History of American Literature," has been secured by Bishop Perry, of Iowa, as one of the contributors to "The Centennial History of the American Episcopal Church," a work which Bishop Perry expects to issue next year

MARK TWAIN'S new volume, "Prince and Pauper," which deals with English life and scenes in past periods, will be brought out in London by Chatto & Windus. This is done for the purpose of securing to the author the English copyright. It will be issued in this country by Jas. R. Osgood & Co.

PROF. SIDNEY COLVIN intends to follow up his biography of Landor in the series of English Men of Letters by a volume of selections from his writings, which will be published in Macmillan & Co.'s Golden Treasury series. In the same series will also shortly be issued an edition of Sir Thomas Browne's "Religio Medici," edited by Dr. W. A. Greenhill,

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The October number of the Magazine of American History is wholly devoted to Yorktown, with the usual supply of maps, portraits, and other engravings.

EUGENE L. DIDIER, the well-known Baltimore publisher and bookseller, editor of the "Madame Paterson-Bonaparte Letters," and recently publisher and editor of Styles, issues a prospectus announcing "a new departure in Southern journalism," viz., a "literary, social, and satirical weekly journal," to be called Timon. Mr. Didier is responsible for the following startling revelation; "It is time for the South to have its own literary journals. The press of the North, daily, weekly, and monthly, is in the hands of our bitter focs, to whom our sweetest, dearest, and most sacred memories afford only subjects for coarse sneers or cold indifference. . . Southern statesmen made our country what it was. Northern demagogues have made it what it is."

THE CENTURY Co. have now ready the portrait of Dr. Holland, by Wyatt Exton, which they offer on special terms to subscribers to The Century Magasine. The portrait is a bandsome life-size photograph from the original crayon drawing, showing nearly the full face and part of the shoulders. Considered only as an exceptionally fine specimen of the art of photography in America, this picture is of great interest. It has, moreover, an intrinsic artvalue as an exact reproduction of the work of one of the best portrait painters of America; and it will be welcomed for its subject in many homes where the writings of Dr. Holland are "familiar as household words." The portrait is sold mounted for $5, and handsomely framed for $10, special offers being made as above stated to subscribers to The Century Magasine.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

WARD, LOCK & Co. have secured the exclusive English copyright of the Rev. E. P. Roc's new story, "Without a Home,"

WM. T. COMSTOCK will issue November 15, "Practical Lessons in Architectural Drawing," by Wm. B. Tuthill. The volume will have 35 plates and 30 woodcuts.

THE paper and printing establishment of the Messrs. Jeffries, in Bristol, Eng., has been burned with a loss of $300,000. The firm traded largely with America.

THE forthcoming volumes in the English Men of Letters series are "De Quincey," by Prof. Masson; "Charles Lamb," by the Rev. Alfred Ainger; and "Bentley," by Prof. Jebb.

JORDAN BROTHERS, Philadelphia, will issue shortly, "Spirito-mania, a lively serio-comic satire on the many deflections, insane follies of media-dementia, and the ludicrous extremes resorted to in its defence," by Watts Ripon.

"GEYER'S STATIONERS' ILLUSTRATED CATA-LOGUE," recently issued, comprises 128 pages, devoted to price-lists, samples, illustrated catalogues and advertisements of stationers, paperdealers, etc., neatly printed and indexed.

J. C. McCLENAHAN & Co. add to the Garfield literature a "Poetical Life of the Illustrious James Abram Garfield, as Sung by the Muses of every Land and Clime." The volume contains, besides selections, a eulogy on the late President and a steel portrait.

H. N. MARTIN'S and A. Moale's "Hand-Book of Vertebrate Dissection," just issued in this country by Macmillan & Co., is noteworthy as being an entirely American production, and the first volume manufactured here by their representative, Mr. George P. Brett.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD expect to receive shortly seventy-five copies of a new work on "Bartolozzi," by Andrew W. Tuer. It is in two volumes, vellum, and is devoted to biography, anecdote, and description. Twenty-five of the copies imported are on large paper.

- I. K. FUNK & Co. have now ready the first part (German) of the lessons for non-resident students of the Meisterschaft System. This system, which has been remarkably successful in Germany and other parts of Europe, has been established in New York by Dr. Rosenthal, the author of the system.
- S. C. GRIGGS & Co. have just issued a volume of Sunday evening discourses by the Rev. George C. Lorimer. The volume bears the suggestive title, "Isms Old and New," and we are assured that the author "has treated them with the merciless logic and vigorous diction for which he is noted,"
- J. A. & R. A. REID, of Rhode Island, have in press a volume on "The Life and Public Services of the Late Senator Burnside." It is written by Major Benjamin Perley Poore, and will have a preface by Senator Anthony. It will make an octavo volume of about 450 pages, and will be ready for publication early in 1882.
- F. W. HELMICK, Cincinnati, has just issued a commercial ballad by Charlie Baker, entitled, "Never go back on a Travelling Man, or, The Boys on the Road." The author, Robert Lowell, dedicates his song to "the travelling men of America, the great fraternity who earn a livelihood by their constant 'grip.'"

Hodder & Stouditton announce a series of volumes under the general title of The Clerical Library, intended for the clergy of all denominations, with a view of furnishing them with stimulus and suggestion in their work. The series will probably extend to twelve volumes. The first will consist of three hundred outlines of sermons on the New Testament.

- A. WILLIAMS & Co. have just issued a new pamphlet. entitled, "A Poetical Epistle to George Washington, Esq., Commander-in-Chief, etc., by the Rev. Charles Henry Wharton, D.D., 1778," which is printed from the original Ms. in the possession of Mr. David Pulsifer. Mr Pulsifer has added an appendix containing an account of the author and various Washingtoniana,
- M. MURPHY, Philadelphia, has in preparation what promises to be an important addition to our legal literature in the "American Leading Cases in the Law of Real Property," with notes by the Hon. George Sharswood, Chief Justice of Pennsylvania, and Henry Budd, of the Philadelphia bar. The work will be completed in three octavo volumes, of which the first may be expected in April next.
- A. S. BARNES & Co. have issued in pamph | Sunday-school |

 Wilder's "Elementary Anatomy, Histology, Boyd, and "The Experimental Physiology," designed for S. M. I. Henry.

the use of classes in Cornell University, and to test the accuracy of the plates before issuing the complete work, which is in preparation. It will be fully illustrated, and is intended to serve as a complete guide for laboratory work.

- D. G. BRINTON, Philadelphia, has nearly ready the new edition of Atkinson's "Therapeutics of Gynsecology," which is not only thoroughly revised, but much enlarged. In a short time also he will have Schell's "Manual of Ophthalmic Practice," a two-dollar book, and also a new physician's hand-book, which will be a sort of clinical record of cases in all departments of practice.
- E. STRIGER & Co. have just issued Ahn-Henn's "First Latin Reader." The editor has selected from Livy's first book the Story of the Roman Kings, and, as is stated in the preface, "preserved not only the same order of clauses, but also the same words as in the original." The thread of the story has been kept intact, and only such portions have been omitted as may be better learned elsewhere. The volume contains notes, vocabulary, and references to Ahn-Henn's "Latin Grammar."

THE CENTURY Co. announce that they will act as the custodians of a fund to be contributed by the children toward the foundation of "The Children's Garfield Home," for poor and sick children. The suggestion originated with a little boy, Willie P. Herrick, and the details will be given in the November number of St Vicholas. The publishers believe that this suggestion of a generous childish impulse will be welcome to thousands of American children who would be glad to fitly honor the memory of the late President by helping to accomplish a practical good.

N. Tibials & Sons expect to issue shortly their "Columbian Oxford Double Testament," which will contain the Old and New Versions; the marginal readings of the old version and the notes of the new version, the Notes of the American Committee; the Chronology of the New Testament which has been universally adopted by Biblical scholars; full Index to subjects of every chapter, all on the page with the two Testaments; the History of the Revision, and the Principles and Rules by which the Committee were governed in their work; and the History of the three great authorities, the Vatican Codex, the Alexandrian Codex, and the Sinaitic Codex.

The National Temperance Society will soon publish "Pen Portraits of Illustrious Abstainers," by Geo. W. Bungay, giving life-like sketches of about forty of the most prominent temperance workers, living and dead. The society is also commencing the publication of a ten-cent series of new temperance tales written by popular authors for general distribution through the country. Four of these are now in press, as follows; "Fife and Drum," by Mary Dwinell Chellis; "A Tragedy by the Sea," by Mrs. J. McNair Wright; "The Quaker's Rule," by Ernest Gilmore; and "Drinking Jack," and other stories, by Mary Dwinell Chellis. The price of these will be only ten cents each. The following, adapted to Sunday-school libraries, are also in press: "Rex Ringgold's School," by Pliny Steele Boyd, and "The Voice of the Home," by Mrs., S. M. I. Henty.

FOR BOYS AND GIRLS.

BY MISS A. G. PLYMPTON,

Square 8vo. With illuminated covers. Price, $2.50.

A series of new poems, admirably adapted to please both young and old, quaint, original, and amusing.

Every page is adorned with fresh and spirited illustrations by a new artist, and these dainty pictures are richly and appropriately colored. The antique costumes and conventional landscapes shown in these designs are full of refreshing interest; and the sprays of flowers—daisies, clover-tops, marigolds, pussy-willows—all in their natural colors, thrown carelessly across the pages here and there, aptly illuminate the droll rhymes.

The pages are large and convenient to hold open.

The "Glad Year Round" is a successful venture in the field of art which has been made so popular by the works of Walter Crane and Kate Greenaway.

"A lovely book, illustrated in something of the general style of 'Under the Window,' but fresh in its designs and in its feeling."—Boston Courier.

AUNT SERENA.

BLANCHE WILLIS HOWARD.

One vol., 16mo, $1.25.

The many thousands of admirers of "One Summer" will rejoice to know that the author of that charming tale has at last broken her long silence, and will eagerly welcome her new story. Miss Howard's work has equal merit in its artistic and romantic aspects, and is full of piquant flavor and breezy life. For several years since the publication of "One Summer," she has been living at Stuttgart, in comparative seclusion; and now returns to America to resume that literary career which began so brilliantly. The delicate touches of nature, the dainty bits of humor, the charming pieces of description and of character-painting, which made her first novel so irresistibly popular, are fairly rivalled in the finished diction of the later book. The action of "Aunt Serena" takes place on both sides of the Atlantic, and includes a wide range of experience and observation.

AMERICAN MEN OF LETTERS.

This book is not only a most auspicious beginning of the series of "American Men of Letters," but a noble and most delightful work, complete in itself. As biography, it relates the story of Irving's successful and beautiful life with admirable fitness; as literary history, it indicates with rare discrimination the real value and charm of Irving's works, and their honorable place in American literature. Of the manner in which the book is written it is sufficient to say that Mr. Warner wrote it.

RECOLLECTIONS OF AUTON HOUSE.

A Book for Children. With Illustrations. By C. Auton. With a very attractive cover. 4to.

A fine translation of a book which tells the story of this admirable, right queenly woman with excellent simplicity, and with so just appreciation of her noble qualities as to produce upon the reader the effect which a character so equal to extraordinary demands, and a life so brave and beautiful, ought to produce.

It Pays to Circulate it.

ISSUED BY

[ALL ENTERPRISING BOOKSELLERS.]

The Illustrated Christmas Number of The Publishers' Weekly will be issued under date of November 19th, to give time for the imprint editions to reach all dealers not later than the first week in December.

Publishers are requested to send in their advertising favors (or notify us what space they desire) at the earliest moment, with information as to the books they have in preparation (especially illustrated books) for the holiday trade.

The Number will as usual present the finest specimen illustrations from the New Holi-DAY BOOKS, with special articles on the leading works, a full descriptive summary of books and stationery novelties, reference price-lists covering the Illustrated Works, Books for THE YOUNG, and other Choice Books published during 1881, etc., etc. Every endeavor will be made to surpass the issues of previous years, pronounced by the German "Book Trade Magazine" the most attractive publication of the kind issued in the book-producing countries.

The matter of this Number is issued simultaneously as the CHRISTMAS CATALOGUE, with dealer's imprint.

The local bookseller can add half as much again to his holiday trade by properly calling the attention of the public to his goods. For this purpose, the best means is the circulation of this handsome, interesting, and comprehensive Christmas Catalogue, which is received with pleasure by those to whom it is given or sent, as itself a picture-book of no little value; and its descriptions of, and illustrations from books, at once arouse the desire to purchase the books themselves.

No better investment can be made by the bookseller who wants to make the most of his holiday trade.

Orders filled in the order of size of edition, largest first, and then of receipt. As the paper is specially made for this issue, orders should be received at once, as the filling of later demands cannot be guaranteed.

Orders should be sent in at once, and in order to avoid delay, it is absolutely necessary that copy for imprint, together with full directions for forwarding, should accompany the remittance. All packages sent by express unpaid, unless other shipping directions are given.

The engravings, unlike the crude outlines that come to us in English juvenile books, are equal to the best work in Harper's Magazine, and the text is sufficiently guaranteed by the fact that it has all been edited by 'Oliver Optic,' who is evidently intolerant of literary rubbish, as nothing of the kind is ever given out with his sign-manual attached. THE MEMOIRS OF

Count Moit de Melito,

Minister, Ambassador, Councillor of State, and Member of the Institute of France, between the years 1788 and 1815. Edited by General Fleischmann. From the French, by Mrs. Cashel Hoey and Mr. John Lillie. 1 vol., crown 8vo, 720 pages, $2.

This is a work of extraordinary historical and biographical interest. The author takes up the history of the Empire at the point at which Madame de Rémusat drops it, and reveals the true story of the Spanish fiasco as it has never hitherto been exposed. His presence at Blois, when the news of the Emperor's abdication reached the Empress Marie Louise and the members of the Imperial family who had fled thither from Paris, enables him to describe in minute detail one of the suggestive episodes of a history that lacks nothing which the irony of fate could inflict in the way of contrast. He supplements and completes the historical narrative, for which we are indebted to the Memoirs and Letters of Prince Metternich and Madame de Rémusat.

II.

Schwatka's Search;

Sledging in the Arctic in Quest of the Franklin Records. By WILLIAM H. GILDER, second in command. I vol., 8vo, with maps and illustrations, $3.

The fascination that always hangs about a narrative of Arctic exploration will be felt in a more than ordinary degree by every reader of Col. Gilder's book. It is the first account of the expedition given to American readers; and, apart from its interest as an explorer's narrative, it must be regarded as finally settling the vexed question as to the Franklin party.

The numerous illustrations are from sketches by Mr.

Klutschak, the artist of the expedition.

III.

Lay Sermons.

By Professor John Stuart Blackie, i vol., 12mo, $2.

These are the Sermons of a layman, and, of course, are not written from a clerical standpoint; they are philosophical rather than theological, and although religious in their aim and tendency, they are as far as possible from sectarianism or narrowness. The author is distinguished for his poetical style, his fund of forcible illustration, and his wide culture.

IV.

The Boy's Mabinogion.

By SIDNEY LANIER. With 12 full-page illustrations by Alfred Fredericks. 1 vol., 8vo, $3.

The late Mr. Sidney Lanier performed a service of very great value in editing for young people the series of English chronicles and folk-lore, which receives an addition in this volume of prose romances, translated by Lady Charlotte Guest from the Welsh. These stories all centre about the court of King Arthur, and thus form a companion book to "The Boy's King Arthur," recently published.

The Letters of Charles Dickens.

Vol. III.

Edited by Miss Dickens and Miss Hogarth. 1 vol., 12mo, $1.50.

This final volume of Charles Dickens' letters comprises his correspondence with Lord Lytton and Sir Austin H. Layard, and many letters to intimates on both sides of the ocean, as well as to members of his family. The volume is in this last respect even more interesting than the two already published, and no lover of Dickens will rest content to be without these books, containing more of his personal history than any biography of him does, and giving a new conception of his genius and character.

VII.

A Floating Prince,

AND OTHER FAIRY TALES. By FRANK R. STOCKTON. 1 vol., 4to, beautifully illustrated, $2.50.

Mr. Stockton's remarkable faculty for imaginative and humorous narrative for younger readers has never shown itself to so great advantage as in the stories of this collection. The several tales which make up the volume are not all in the same vein, but have each its own motive and individuality.

VIII.

Books and Reading.

By Noah Porter, LL.D., President of Yale College. With an appendix giving valuable directions for courses of reading, prepared by James M. Hubbard, late of the Boston Public Library. I vol., crown 8vo, $2.

It would be difficult to name any American better qualified than President Porter to give advice upon the important question of "What to Read and How to Read." His acquaintance with the whole range of English literature is most thorough and exact, and his judgments are eminently candid and mature. The demand for the work having exhausted several editions, a new one has been prepared, containing valuable directions for courses of reading by a distinguished bibliographer.

NOTES IN SEASON.

HENRY A. SUMNER & Co. announce that the first edition of "Pioneer Life in the West," by J. B. Walker, has been exhausted, and that a revised and corrected edition is now in press. They issue this week a new novel by W. S. Balch, entitled "A Peculiar People."

ROBERT A. TRIPPLE, Philadelphia, has now ready the memorial edition of "The Book Hunter," by Dr. John Hill Burton, being a facsimile reprint of the original edition, with a memoir by Æ. J. G. Mackey, and other important additions. Barnard Shipp's "History of Hernando De Soto," with maps, etc., is also ready.

PRTER PAUL & BRO., Buffalo, N. Y., encouraged by the success of their "Christmas Stocking" last year, issue for this season a novelty entitled "Kriss Kringle's Greeting," containing original and selected poems in English, French, and German, and translations from the Swedish, with two Christmas carols set to music for solo and mixed voices, with piano accompaniment.

WHITE & STOKES announce that the first edition of "Esau Hardery," by W. O. Stoddard, was sold on the day of publication, and that they are preparing a second edition as speedily as possible. They have now ready the prize painting book, "Good Times," by Dora Wheeler, which while making a beautiful gift book for the children will also stimulate the efforts of young artists towards securing the prizes offered. Mrs. Lamb's "Christmas Owl," a quaint holiday device, is also ready for the Christmas trade.

ROBERT CLARKE & Co. will issue, November 10, a sketch of "Governor Thomas Corwin," by A. P. Russell, the author of "Library Notes," etc. The volume gives a free sketch of a great genius by an acquaintance and admirer. It is not a tedious recital of dry facts and uninteresting incidents, but is confined to such statements, references, and illustrations as give a fair idea of the eminent man's character and genius. The book will have a steel portrait of Gov. Corwin, engraved expressly for this book by J. A. J. Wilcox, of Boston, from a photograph by Brady.

D. APPLETON & Co. will shortly publish a work of great interest on "Suicide." contributed to the International Scientific Series by Dr. Morselli, of Turin. It is a scientific inquiry, on the basis of the statistical method, into the laws of suicidal phenomena. Dealing with the subject as a branch of social science, it considers the increase of suicide in different countries, and the comparison of nations, races, and periods in its manifestation. The influences of age, sex, constitution, climate, season, occupation, religion, prevailing ideas, the elements of character, and the tendencies of civilization, are comprehensively analyzed in their bearing upon the propensity to self-destruction. It will be accompanied by colored maps illustrating pictorially the results of statistical inquiries.

A. C. Armstrong & Co. announce as their leading work for the holiday season an artistic and valuable reproduction of noted masterpieces, under the title of "Raphael; his Life, his Works, and his Times," the text translated from the French of Eugene Muntz, and embellished with forty-three full-page plates and one hundred and fifty-five engravings, reproduced from paintings or fac-similes of drawings of Raphael by eminent European artists. especial feature of the work is the reproduction, as a frontispiece, of one of the most exquisite of Raphael's drawings, not found in any other collection of his works. It is a study for the heads of the Virgin and Child, reproduced from the original now in the British Museum. The volume is an imperial octavo, handsomely bound in half or full morocco.

S. C. GRIGGS & Co., Chicago, have just issued a neat holiday volume of poems entitled "Lyrics of Home Land," by Eugene J. Hall, already widely and popularly known as a writer of felicitous verse. Many of them are in the quaint dialect of New England, and abound in homely, good-natured wit and humor. volume contains nearly fifty appropriate illustrations, and is printed and bound in uniform style with "Songs of Yesterday" and "Old-Time Pictures and Sheaves of Rhyme," by Benj. F. Taylor, many of whose poems have already grown to be classics, and of which new editions have also just been published. The new volume by Dr. Winchell, "Sparks from a Geologist's Hammer," may be expected at once. It is a collection of more or less connected papers on scientific and semi-scientific themes. The authorship is a guarantee of learning and an entertaining style combined.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS issue this week "The Memoirs of Count de Melito," the celebrated minister, ambassador councillor of state, and member of the Institute of France, between the years 1782 and 1815, edited by General Fleischmann and translated from the French by Mrs. Cashel Hoey and Mr. John Lillie. This memoir will supplement and complete the historical data we already have of that period of French history from the memoirs and letters of Prince Metternich and Madame de Rémusat. They will also issue Col. Gilder's volume on "Schwatka's Search," with maps and illustrations; "Lay Sermons," by Prof. John Stuart Blackie; "The Boys' Mabinogion," by the late Sidney Lanier, whose "Froissart's Chronicles" and " King Arthur" have already become standards. This volume will have 12 illustrations by Alfred Fredericks. They have also issued "A Floating Prince," and other fairy tales, by Frank R. Stockton, whose faculty for imaginative and humorous narrative for younger readers shows to excellent advantage in this collection.

In this list, the titles in brevier are direct transcriptions from books actually received, according to the rule of the American Library Association; these in nonpareil are from the best information available, and will be repeated in brevier when the book is received for registry.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederic; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard · S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.)

D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17½ cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12½ cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl.,

nar., designate square, oblong, narrow books of these heights. Where figure instead of letter symbols are used, the record is from publisher's designation, and not measurement.

Imported books are marked with an asterisk; authors' and subscription books, or books published at net prices, with two asterisks; educational books published at "wholesale" prices, with a dagger.

Ahn-Henn's first Latin reader: De septem regibus Romanorum: extracts from the first book of Livy; with notes, vocabulary, and references to Ahn-Henn's Latin grammar. [Anon.] N. Y., E. Steiger & Co., 1881. 4+ 186 p, D. cl., 80 c.; bds., 70 c.

VOLCANOES: WHAT THEY ARE AND WHAT THEY TEACH. By J. W. Judd., Professor of Geology in the Royal School of Mines (London). With Ninety-six Illustrations. "International Scientific Series." 12mo, cloth. Price, $2.

"In no field has modern research been more fruitful than in that of which Professor Judd gives a popular account in the present volume. The great lines of dynamical, geological, and meteorological inquiry converge upon the grand problem of the interior constitution of the earth, and the vast influence of subterranean agencies. . . . His book is very far from being a mere dry description of volcanoes and their eruptions; it is rather a presentation of the terrestrial facts and laws with which volcanic phenomena are associated."—Popular Science Monthly.

FLORIDA FOR TOURISTS, INVALIDS, AND SETTLERS. Containing Practical Information regarding Climate, Soil, and Productions; Cities, Towns, and People; Scenery and Resorts; the Culture of the Orange and other Tropical Fruits; Farming and Gardening; Sports; Routes of Travel, etc., etc. By George M. Barbour. With Map and numerous Illustrations. 12mo, cloth. Price, $1.50.

This is the most comprehensive and authentic book on Florida that has been published. The following TESTIMONIAL is proof of its value and trustworthiness:

"It is known to the undersigned that the author, Mr. George Barbour, has travelled over almost the whole of Florida, under circumstances peculiarly advantageous for enabling him to acquaint himself with the varied resources of the State, and with the attractions which it offers to the three classes to whom his work is addressed—Tourists, Invalids, and Settlers. Our knowledge of his abilities as a writer on Florida subjects, and of the opportunities he has enjoyed in preparing his book, are such that we can commend it as at once trustworthy and comprehensive—greatly superior in these respects to anything hitherto published descriptive of the entire State and its soil and productions."

W. D. BLOXHAM, Governor of Florida; GEORGE F. DREW, ex-Governor of Florida; SETH FRENCH, ex-Commissioner of Immigration; Samuel Fairbanks, Assistant Commissioner of Immigration.

Much matter which has been put in type at least once, but is not to be found in Mr. Emerson's volumes, is here brought together, to illustrate critical passages in the career of this remarkable man, and the public will generally concede, on reading what Mr. Cooke has to say, that he is a most excellent Boswell."—New York Times.

A SOUVENIR OF THE ST. LAWRENCE. (Elegantly bound in gray and gold. Price, $1.25.)

The Cincinnati Commercial says: "As a love story in rhyme, with passion and feeling wrought into the verse, it is likely to be as extensively read as Dr. Holland's 'Kathrina' or 'Bitter Sweet,' or Owen Meredith's 'Lucile.'"

The Manchester Times says that: "Its pages fascinate the reader from the introduction to the close, and pearls of thought and gems of descriptive poetry are thickly scattered throughout."

The last number of The Critic echoed the sentiment of the religious press thus: "Geraldine is higher in its stern lessons of duty, stronger in its pure teachings of a gracious. Christianity than 'Lucile,' which is written from a wordly standpoint."

Damen's Ghost,

THE NEW ROUND-ROBIN NOVEL.

Concerning this very successful book, the St. Paul Pioneer Press speaks thus: "Were it possible for any one to be thoroughly conversant with the works of the great novelists, and yet retain no memory of names or events, he would say unhesitatingly that Chapter IV. of the new Round-Robin was written by Dickens in his happiest vein. . . . The library of fiction is enriched by the best of a good series."

Homoselle,

the fifth Round-Robin, is a charming picture of Virginia plantation life under the old régime. The style is pure and elegant, abounding in touches of pathos and poetry.

"The book would not be out of place next to 'Uncle Tom's Cabin,'" says the Literary World. "Homoselle" has been attributed to the Rev. W. M. Baker, the foremost author of Southern stories; and to Constance Fennimore Woolson, one of the most talented literary women of America.

A Nameless Nobleman.

A romance of ancient New England and France.

The Hartford Courant says: "The author has preserved for us in it the odors of both the rose of Provence and the May-flower of New England."

A Lesson in Love.

A brilliant story of modern society in New York.

The Alliance calls it "the novel of the year."

The Georgians.

A powerful study of Southern character.

"We think this book very close upon Hawthorne's best effort. . . . The grand and profound climax of the story lingers in the mind like the story of Hester Pryane."

Patty's Perversities.

"A charming story of quiet New-England life." NORA PERRY says: "It is the most original story that has appeared for years."

"The first edition had become old; it needed renovation.

The pathological views had changed so grievously since its appearance, that a re-statement of the same throughout the work became a necessity. Not so, however, the therapeutic hints. They are as true to-day as when they were written. What I had to do was to express their meaning still more accurately, to enlarge their spheres, and to add such new facts as the experience of others and my own would admit... The chapter on the eye has been everhanted in the Ms. by Dr. G. S. Norton and that on the ear by Drs. G. S. Norton and H. C. Houghton "—Preface.

$2. This edition of a valuable and indispensable book of referance to all literary workers, is printed from the latest Lon-don ed, which has been much enlarged and improved by Dr. Roger's son, from his father's notes—In the first place It is supplied with a new and elaborate index, much more complete than that appended to previous editions, which contains not only all the words in the book, but likewise the phrases (foreign and English), all of which were excluded phrases iforeign and English), all of which were excluded from previous indexes. Some changes in details have also been made; in previous eds, the phrases were in general placed in separate paragraphs, under the heading Phr., in each of the subdivisions assigned to the different grammatical parts of speech. In this ed words and phrases are placed together, and the latter are arranged as if the nouns, adjectives, etc., to which they are regarded as equivalent, were expressable in single words. Space has been saved and repetitions avoided by the use of lines and hyphens, where words or phrases in the same group have syllables or parts in common.

A history of each play is given, two sets of notes—one explaining the text, at the foot of the page, the other printed at the end of each play, is mostly occupied with textual comment and eriticisms; they are all fully up to the latest Shakespearean Fernanches. Shakespeare, W The Shakespeare phrase-book, by J. Bartlett. Boat., Little, Brown &

Co., 1881. 8+1034 p. D. cl., $3.

"This book is intended to be an index of the phraseology of Shakespeare; a concordance of phrases rather than of words. Its plan is to take every sentence from his dramatic works which contains an important thought, with so much of the context as preserves the sense, and to put each sentence under its principal words, arranged in alphabetical order... The text of Clark and Wright has been followed, with some slight changes. At the end of the book comparative readings are given from the texts of Dyce, Knight, Singer, Staunton and Richard Grant White."—

Bound volumes of the year just finished; this popular juvenile magazine has grown to such proportions that it is now issued in two volumes instead of one as formerly; it now assed in two volumes instead of one as formerly; is is too well known with its wealth of pictures, stories, poems, puzzles, etc., for us to go into any description. We need only call attention to a few of the attractions of these volumes: the story of "Phaeton Rogers," by Rossiter Johnson; William O. Stoddard's "Sahillo hoys;" "In nature's wonderland," by Felix L. Oswald; Mr. Frank Stockton's funny fairy tales; Mrs. Dodge's "Jingles," and the clever sketches contributed by Emily Huntington Muller, Lucretia P. Hule, Susan Coolidge and others. ler, Lucretia P. The Publishers' Weekly.

THE "GREAT SUCCESS."

MR. JOHN B. ALDEN, the affable manager of the "Literary Revolution," has taken rather kindly to the remarks concerning the practical collapse of the "Revolution" made in the Publishers' Weekly," the commonly acredited organ (or, as some might say, considering its size and tone, 'Jewsharp') of the publishers and booksellers of the United States." In his usual cheerful way of looking at things he makes capital of the very débris. He answers with figures. He always answers facts with figures as readily as the grammar school-boy puts down the "millions" on his slate, and as promptly is ready for any sort of an explanation. Referring to the "stand-still," he plausibly calls it a "temporary withdrawal" and in the same facetious manner announces:

"As soon as we can overtake this demand (of which there is no probability for many months to come), we shall resume the publication of our miscellaneous books, when it is our purpose to make them generally of quality superior to our average in the past, and, consequently, at higher prices. Therefore, if you wish to secure any of our miscellaneous books at the extremely low prices heretofore given, you will have to buy them at the coming auctionals in November."

The italics are our own. One of the big blasts of the Revolution was "you want no books more beautiful than ours."

The Bookseller and Stationer ("that Chicago fellow" and "good friend"), commenting on the same remarks turned to so good account by the clever "manager," takes this view of the matter:

"In explanation of the above it may be said that the American Book Exchange has achieved a 'second revolution,' which its manager claims to be a more wonderful success than his first, and we are inclined for once to agree with him. He has advertised to close out his entire stock of miscellaneous books at a discount of thirty-three per cent from previous prices, and what is left of them will be dumped into a New York auction house early in November. Thereafter the Exchange will discontinue all its miscellaneous publications, notwithstanding the enormous profits they have been unceasingly bringing into its treasury, according to its gifted manager's assertion, and devote its attention to the publication of an Encyclopedia."

COMMUNICATIONS.

AN ORDER AND A REPLY.

A Syracuse bookseller recently made this order on a New York publishing house:

"Gents: I have sold a good many of the books entitled 'Crumbs Swept Up,' 'Around the Tea-table,' etc., etc., by Talmage. I understand you publish his 'Abominations of Modern Society.' I could sell a good many if you would make the discount right. You may send me at 60 per cent off, same as I buy the others for, a dozen copies to start with."

To which this was the answer:

"When publishers become sick of a book they sell at 60 per cent off. As we publish books to make something out of the business we offer no retailer the temptation of such a huge profit as 60 per cent. It is simply saying to him, 'now put the book on your list at one-third off from publisher's price.' This is business, doubtless, for you, but it is merely murder for the publisher. . . Our terms for such an order as you make are 30 per cent off.

THE " REVOLUTION."

DEAR EDITOR—Something more than eighteen months ago our quiet community was set in commotion, by the startling announcement that Chambers's Cyclopædia, revised, enlarged and Americanized, by the addition of several thousand new articles on subjects pertaining to this country and at a price unthought of among the professional book butchers. Furthermore, persons subscribing and paying for the whole work in advance, received for a limited time an immense reduction from the said unheard of price; at the expiration of said time the price should be advanced at a regular monthly rate. I could not resist the inducement to secure a few subscribers and encourage so great a benefactor of the race. The work was positively to be completed in a very short time (about four months I think); and although the first volumes which were advertised as ready for delivery at the time did not reach us for a number of weeks, we accepted the excuses made, as the further volumes would be received at regular intervals. We received about four volumes more or less regularly, when there was a pause.

We wrote to headquarters, and although we repeatedly asked when we might expect another volume, we could get no reply. One of the subscribers being in New York called at the office, and was told there had been a delay on account of the overwhelming increase in business but soon everything would move in regular order. Six weeks passed and volume 6 came, where was volume 5? More correspondence; seven weeks brought volume 6; where is 5? Eight weeks, volumes 5 and 7 received, short thirteen copies of number required; correspondence; two months more brought the copies short on last invoice, henceforth they are coming promptly. on time. Volumes 8 and 9 received in (over) due time. In June the balance will be sent all at once. July 1, circulars received informing us that the whole work is now being delivered as rapidly as possible, also stating any one sending ten dollars (the price given by the earliest subscribers) would have the whole work delivered at once. Some of the neighbors who could not be induced to subscribe in advance send their money and received the complete work in two weeks. September 28 we are anxiously looking for the balance of the volumes, (one-third of the whole), for which we paid about tive hundred dollars nearly eighteen months ago, and for which we are unable to get any satisfactory answer from the "Revolution" for not sending. Meantime persons sending ten dollars get their orders filled in a few days. Some of our club paid as high as fourteen dollars, but are unable to get their sets completed. We heartily commend the "Revolution" to the readers of the weekly as a first-class ——. ONE OF THE AGENTS.

POSTAL MATTERS.

DECISIONS AFFECTING PUBLISHERS FROM
AUG. 20 TO SEPT. 20, 1881.

From the October Postal Guide.

603. The opinion of the Assistant Attorney-General, as printed on page 37, Guide," August, 1880, modified thereafter all rulings of the Department under it. tines" and fancy lithographed cards, even in quantities, are third-class matter. It is also therein stated that "bill-heads" and "letterheads" are not to be classed with printed matter, but as "merchandise." This is on the ground that the paper is not incidental to the main object, which, if the matter were third class, would be the reproduction of the letters, characters, etc. So of printed envelopes, which are fourth class. Of course, when upon the advice of the Assistant Attorney-General for the Post-Office Department a principle is announced that reverses a line of rulings, the publication of the opinion in the "Postal Guide" is intended to notify postmasters of the future rule to be acted upon, and it, in effect, reverses former inconsistent rulings.

604. When publishers state that their publication is furnished to subscribers for a year at no profit, they declare the subscription price to be "nominal," as referred to in section 185,

608. A paper distributed among the members of a society, association, or club, upon the payment by members of the regular dues, and with no further charge for said paper, is held to be intended for circulation at nominal rates, and must be treated as third-class matter.

609. The opinion of the Assistant Attorney-General for the Post-Office Department, as referred to in ruling 575, "Postal Guide," September, 1881, does not change the construction of the law under which weekly publications are delivered by carriers at the pound rate, nor is the ruling to be understood as changing section 240, P. L. & R.

618. A book and a letter presented for mailing, the same being tied or stuck together, are subject to letter postage.

FICTION AND CRIME.

From an article by L: Ulbach in the Revue politique.

"A CRIMINAL only fifteen years old has just been condemned for premeditated assassination. The public prosecutor repeated, according to the indictment, that the young Perousset had read too many romances and had been led astray by this bad reading.

"Justice ought to put an end to a contradiction which she makes more glaring every day. When she compiles statistics, she reports with grief, that among every one hundred condemned to death, there are ninety-five who have never learned to read and write; they evidently did not read romances to corrupt them.

"Either reading is a means of moralization, or it is a means of increasing crime. If the first, we ought to multiply schools and libraries; if the second, we ought to destroy them and propagate holy ignorance. To put the question thus is to resolve it. Those who are accused of having read too much, have not read enough. They have got intoxicated with a single book; if they had known others, their brains would have remained in equilibrium."

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

MR. SWINBURNE'S new tragedy, "Queen Mary"—the third part of the trilogy on the Scottish queen—will be published in a few weeks.

S. WADDINGTON, known to lovers of sonnet literature by his "English Sonnets by Living Writers," is about to publish a companion volume under the title of "English Sonnets by Poets of the Past."

KARL KNORTZ, of Johnstown, Pa., will issue through Bernhard Schlicke, of Leipsic, a series of essays on American topics entitled "Aus der transatlantischen Gesellschaft — Kulturbilder aus Nordamerika."

DISTRICT ATTORNEY Col. George B. Corkhill, of Washington, who has been engaged for several years in the preparation of a history of the assassination of Presidents, intends to extend the scope of his work so as to embrace a history of the assassination of President Garfield.

CHARLES REEMELIN, publishes through Trübner & Co., London, "A Critical Review of American Politics," in which, after the manner of comparative research, he takes the standpoint of comparing them as they actually are with what they ought to be. Mr. Reemelin is a native of Southern Germany, but has been a citizen of the United States since 1832, when he immigrated to this country.

ARCHIBALD FORRES, the English war correspondent, attended the Yorktown celebration, and proposes to write for the London press a series of article on the men and events of the time there commemorated. Mr. Forbes has projected also a literary work on "The South of To-day," which will be first printed as a newspaper serial in London. After leaving Yorktown, Mr. Forbes starts on a lecturing tour in the South.

PROF. J. M. HOPPIN, of Yale College, has been engaged for some years upon an enlarged edition of his well-known treatise on Homiletics, and it is now completed and is passing through the press of Dodd, Mead & Company. The work has already an established reputation in homiletical literature, and in preparing the new edition the author has so expanded and improved it that new stereotype plates were necessary. It is now practically a new work.

Miss Helen Zimmern, says the Boston Transcript, is engaged upon a work which is likely to attract attention from its novelty and the charm of its subject. She is refashioning the stories told by the Persian poet Firdusi in his famous epic. The only previous attempt to present any portion of the "Shah Nameh" to English readers was made by James Atkinson, of the East India Company's service, in 1832. Miss Zimmern's work, which will be entitled "Epic of Kings," will have etchings by Alma Tadema, and a prefatory poem by Mr. Edmund The publishers will be Marshall W. Gosse. Japp & Co., London.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

Le Français, the journal in French which M. Jules Levy is publishing once a month in Cambridge, in the interest of students of the French language, makes its appearance again after a summer vacation.

THE Magazin sur die Literatur des In- und Auslandes has been selected by the "General Association of German Authors" as its official organ, which fact cannot but considerably add to the interest of that well-conducted literary journal

A new international magazine is to be started at Leipzig, styled Auf der Höhe. It will be edited by the well-known chronicler of Galician life, Sacher-Masoch. Among the contributors are to be Madame Adam, M. Alphonse Daudet, M. Renan, M. Saint-Saëns, M. C. Vogt, Count A. de Gubernatis, Herr Vàmbery, S. Scanzoni, Prof. Bluntlschli, Prof. Kirchoff, and various Dutch, Danish, Polish, Servian, and Swedish writers.

THE ART INTERCHANGE PUBLISHING CO. has commenced publishing a new monthly magazine, Art-Work Manuals, edited by Mr. Charles G. Leland. Each number is devoted to a single topic, as Ceramic Painting, Tapestry Painting, Wood Carving, Art Needlework, etc., and will contain supplementary sheets of working designs, besides illustrations and full, clear instructions how to begin and continue the practice of some form of hand art work by which a livelihood may be carned. The designs in every number are generally applicable to all the arts.

THE CENTURY Co. announce that with the next number, the title of Scribner's Monthly becomes The Century Magazine. The first issue of The Century Magazine will have the general appearance of the old Scribner, but the page will be larger and without " rules," so that about fourteen pages of matter is added by the new arrangement. The publishers intend to emphasize the new series by a number (for November) of peculiar pictorial beauty and literary interest. One of the principal features of this number is the portrait of George Eliot, by Burton, which Mrs. Cross's family put forth through The Century Magazine as an authorized likeness of the great novelist. The portrait is accompanied by an account-also authorized-of her W. H. Myers.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. have in preparation "The Gospel of Christ," by the Bishop of Rochester, MRS. BURNETT'S "A Fair Barbarian," it is reported, has sold to the extent of 16,070 copies. in England.

J. H. Brown, for ten years with Willy Wallach, is now with Robert Gair & Co., 161 Chambers Street, New York.

Mrs. Lucretia R. Garfield has written a letter, expressing her intention of making an appropriate collection of the literary remains of the late President, which is to be published at the earliest practicable time.

SUBSCRIBERS to the "Encyclopædia Britannica" will learn with satisfaction, from the London Athenaum, the remarkable fact that, in the forthcoming volume, "there are several articles that promise to be of interest."

IT is positively stated that some of the parties aggrieved by mention of their names and usages in "Cape Cod Folks." have brought, or are just about to bring, suit, against the publishers, A. Williams & Co. If so a "boom" may easily be predicted for the book.

A WILLIAMS & Co. will soon issue three Juveniles—"The Deserted Ship," by George Cupples; "Driven to Sea," and "Troublesome Children," a series of amusing sketches by Francis G. Attwood, designer of the pictures in "Rollo's Trip to Cambridge."

THE Baltimore and Ohio R. R Co. have just issued for gratuitous distribution their new " B. and (). Red Book," for New York. It contains much interesting information, comprising full figures of the latest vote in this State on Congress, President, etc., with comparisons for previous years.

GINN, HEATH & Co have just completed their edition of the separate plays of Shakespeare, edited by Mr Hudson, for school and family use, and very carefully exputgated of lines that should be omitted. 83,771 volumes of thes edition of these plays have been sold in the last six years.

BRUNN & DERRY, 21 Park Place, N. Y. have issued a nearly-printed volume, entitled " Is there a Christian Sabbath?" a reprint of an anonymous work, entitled "A Scripture View of the Sabbath," edited, with copious notes and two supplementary chapters, by a churchman of Northern Ohio.

THE new illustrated edition of "Lucile," just published by James R Osgood & Co., is the first to give the correct name of the place in which the scene of the poem is laid-- Luchonall previous editions spell it Serction, a mistake which originally arose from a misinterpretation of the author's Ms., and which he overlooked in the proof

WILLIAMS BROS., Cleveland, have in preparation a "History of Cincinnati and Hamilton County, Ohio," by Capt. Henry A. Ford and Mrs. Kate B. Ford, of Detroit, Mich., who are also preparing "The History of Penobscot County, Maine," and are supervising the compilation of a history of Louisville and other citreligious and philosophic beliefs, by Frederick | ies about the Falls of the Ohio, to be issued early next year.

THOMAS WHITTAKER announces a third edition of Bishop Littlejohn's "Conciones ad Clerum," which will have a very full table of contents forming an epitome of each concio, which was lacking in the previous editions. Mr. Whittaker will also bring out Dr. Shelton's "Rector of St. Bardolph's," a book which has been out of print for some time.

Frances Power Cobbe's "Duties of Women," published by George H. Ellis, has run rapidly through three American editions, and has already had a much larger sale in this country than in England. The new cheap edition just issued in paper binding at twenty-five cents, seems likely to give the admirable little work the universal reading which it deserves.

PETER G. THOMSON, Cincinnati, has just issued by subscription, "King's Mountain and its Herocs," a history of the battle of King's Mountain, October 7, 1780, and the events which led to it, by Lyman C. Draper, LL.D. The volume is a handsome octavo, printed in the excellent style for which Mr. Thomson's publications are noted, and contains a number of steel portraits, maps, and plans.

G. P. Putnam's Sons again call the attention of the trade to their instructions to deliver no goods for their account to messengers unless they are provided with their imprinted passbooks, and request that messengers unprovided with such books, who attempt to obtain goods, should be detained. This is a commendable rule, and, if generally observed, would prevent considerable annoyance as well as loss.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY have just issued four "Tiny" books 2½x1½ inches. They are all written by Annie S. Frost, a well-known writer for the little ones, and are entitled: "Tiny's Casket of Jewels;" "The Pic-nic;" "Country Pets;" and "The Cousins." Notwithstanding their small size, the books are printed from readable type, and have a number of illustrations. They are put up in a box, and retail at 75 cents.

THOMAS NELSON & SONS issue two dainty volumes of Nursery Gems, one "Little Red Riding Hood," with original illustrations by M. E. Edwards, with vignettes by W. Gunston; the other, "Puss in Boots," with original illustrations by E. K. Johnston, with vignettes also by W. Gunston. In both volumes the text is printed in a tint, the full-page illustrations The volumes are attracbeing lithographs. tively bound and cannot fail in becoming favorites.

A. M. COLLINS, COPE & Co. have issued three new designs of folding cards etched in black, intended for holiday advertising. They are numbered 1110, 1111 and 1112. One of their most important novelties in folding cards is a series of four designs, Nos. 1100 to 1103 inclusive, of large size, suitable for menus, etc. The design consists of a combination of black etching with color, giving the effect of a fine steelplate card having the floral portions of its design colored by hand.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have in preparation for early publication the second edition of May on "Insurance;" the ninth edition of Story on "Agency;" Thatcher's "Digest of the Jurisdiction and Practice of the Supreme Court of the United States;" Morse on "Citizenship by Birth and by Naturalization;" Schouler on the "Law of Husband and Wife;" the second volume of Baldwin's "Connecticut Digest;" Morasvetz on the "Law of Private Corporations;" and the third edition of Perry on "Trusts and Trustces."

CHARLES L. WOODWARD, of New York, has now ready "Reports on the Estate of Sir Andrew Chadwick, and the recent proceedings of the Chadwick Association in reference thereto," by Edmund Chadwick, the chairman, and James Boardman, the secretary and treasurer of the association. The volume is prefaced with a "Life and History of Sir Andrew Chadwick," by John Oldfield Chadwick, and contains also a number of woodcuts, lithographed map, elaborate pedigrees, coats-of-arms, a portrait of Sir Andrew, and numerous notes and references. The volume, a handsome quarto, has been compiled with the greatest care and labor and is a most important addition to genealogical literature.

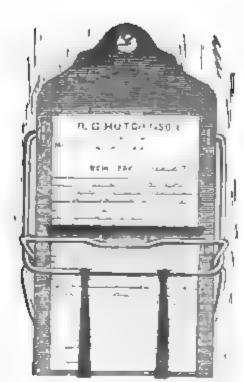

A. J. HOLMAN & Co, have their new Bible warehouse, Nos. 1222, 1224, and 1226 Arch Street, above Twelfth Street, about ready for occupancy. The building has a front of 60 feet on Arch Street, running back to Cuthbert Street, 175 feet and is five stories high. The front on Arch Street is of very handsome pressed brick with brown-stone trimmings, the ceilings are very high, and all the rooms well ventilated and lighted. The manufacturing department is built in the most substantial manner, iron columns supporting iron girders, and in fact the building may be considered fire-proof. About the first of November Messrs. A. J. H. & Co. will occupy their new quarters, and will be pleased to have their customers favor them with a call.

RAND, MCNALLY & Co., Chicago, are issuing an excellent series of indexed Maps. As far as issued the series comprises England and Wales, Ireland, Scotland, and Cuba. The maps, which are issued in handy pocketable size, give railroads, counties, islands, lakes, mountains, and rivers, together with every post-office, railroad station or town carefully indexed, referring to the exact location where each may be found on the map. They have also recently issued the first volume of their "Cyclopædia of Political Science, Political Economy, and of the History of the United States," a work which in scope and plan is something new in the English language, though similar works may be found in French and German. Among the articles in the first volume is a treatment of the subject of "Clearing and Clearing Houses," by Mr. H. D. Lloyd.

George H. Ellis, Boston, issues a new and enlarged edition of "Man's Origin and Destiny," a book of wide and high thought, and taking a nobly optimistic view of human nature and its future, by J. Peter Lesley; " Ecce Spiritus," a religious book, emphasizing the spirit of religion as vastly more important than the letter or any form, and lifting the reader above the din and doubt of dogma, is another important book nearly ready at Ellis'. In a different line, "Tender and True," a small book of love poems, to be issued soon, will perhaps be equally welcome and more popular. purity and wholesomeness of the collection are assured by the fact that it is edited by Mrs. Tileston, a lady of exquisite taste and refinement, who edited "Quiet Hours."

BORRICKE & TAFEL have just issued a second edition of Dr. C. G. Raue's important work on "Special Pathology and Diagnostics, with Therapeutic Hints." This edition has been rewrit ten and enlarged a re-statement throughout of the pathological views having become a necessity in view of the many changes which have taken place since the first appearance of the work; the therapeutic portion of the work has been made still more clear, its sphere has been enlarged, and to it has been added such new facts as the experience of the author and others would admit. The chapter on the eye has been revised by Dr. G. S. Norton, and that on the ear by Drs. G. S. Norton and H. C. Houghton. The publishers, too, have most liberally contributed their share toward making this a most acceptable volume. It is remarkable, as are all the publications of this house, for the beauty of its typography, print, paper, and bindingthe latter in this case being attractive as well as durable.

THE Novelty Letter and Note File manufactured by R. G. Hutchinson, 44 Maiden Lane, N. Y., is the latest and in some respects the best made, being suitable to use as a wellpocket, and is equally well adapted to use on a desk or in a drawer. Hav ing no large projection as in most other files, it takes up only the space in thickness required by the They papers. are simular in principle and style to the popular Novelty Bill Holders, but with the addition of rubber bands, extending from the lower brass wire to the bottom of the board, to prevent the papers from sliding out when the file is in a slanting or upright position. These bands may be readily replaced when necessary. The files are made in two sizes, letter and note. The Novelty Bill Holders are also made with the subber attachment, as well as in the old way.

Presery Blakiston, Philadelphia, has now ready Morton's "Refraction of the Eye: its Diagnosis, and the Correction of its Errors, with a chapter on Keratoscopy." This little book is of great value in determining the phenomena connected with the state of a patient's refraction. Mr. Blakiston has just imported the new, fifth, London edition of Heath's "Anatomy, or, Manual of Dissections." It has 24 colored plates, and 269 engravings on wood. There is a new edition also of Domville's "Manual for Hospital Nurses and others engaged in attending to the Sick." This has the celebrated recipes for sick-room cooking which have proved of so great importance.

Among the new books in preparation, Dr. Edwards' work on "Malaria" is nearly ready; and well into the press is an important handbook on "Physical Diagnosis," by Dr. Bruen, Demonstrator of Chinical Medicine at the University of Pennsylvania.

E. P. Roz has written the following letter, dated Cornwall-on-Hudson, October 18, to the N. Y. Tribune. "A few days since my publishers, Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Co., sent me a paper-covered book with this title-page, 'Robertson's Cheap Series. Popular Reading at Popular Prices. "Give Me Thine Heart!" A Novel by Rev. E. P. Roe, Author of "Barriers Burned Away," "Opening a Chestnut Burr," "What Can She Do?" etc. I. Ross Robertson, Torronto,' etc. The novel, 'Give me Thine Heart,' may be a much better one than I can write. If so, there is all the more reason that I should disclaim its authorship. I never wrote a word of the story, and I protest against the use of my name in connection with it. I know little of the lustory of this book. It was first published by Carleton in cloth, and was never sent to the press for review, it being part of a series designed exclusively for sale on the railroads. I first noticed the book on a news-stand with the name 'Roe' conspicuously printed on its back. Beyond this name there was nothing to indicate its origin. I cannot suppose that Mr. Carleton intended any misapprehension to occur, but that it was occasioned by the ambiguous title was clearly shown by numerous letters. and inquiries. The Canadian publisher's announcement, however, is not in the least doubtful. We thus have another proof of the need of an international copyright law; for not only may an author's books be stolen, but also his Carelessness or dishonesty of this nature should be punished so severely by the press as to render its repetition impossible."

The fourth part of Prof. Skeat's "Etymological Dictionary of the English Language," completing the work, is aunounced at the Clarendon Press.

THE English life of President Garfield, "From Log Cabin to White House," by W. M. Thayer, has reached a third edition, and is to be reprinted in Dutch by an Amsterdam House. The third edition has a new chapter, "From White House to the Grave,"

ELLIOT STOCK, of London, well known as the publisher of valuable antiquarian and bibliographical works, announces the early publication of a new series of books on antiquarian subjects under the title of The Antiquary's Library, to be issued in sets of three volumes at a subscription price of $\pounds 1$ 5s. The volumes will be uniform and issued in four style's, limited in quantity. The first will comprise 750 copies in handsome demy 8vo; the second is to be restricted to three sets, printed on vellum ; the third to 25 large paper copies, and the fourth is to be an issue of one large paper copy only printed on vellum and bound in antique polished morocco. The works selected for the first year's subscription, are "Folk Lore Relics of Early Village Life," by G. L. Gomme, "The Game and Playe of the Chesse," reprinted from Caxton's edition, with notes, etc., by W. E. A. Axon, and " Personal Ornaments and their as-

CHARLES DUDLEY WARNER'S

LIFE OF CAPTAIN JOHN SMITH.

In the New Series of

LIVES OF AMERICAN WORTHIES.

The subjects and authors thus far selected are: Christopher Columbus (1440–1506). By W. L. Alden (of the New York Times), author of "The Moral Pirates." etc.; Captain John Smith (1579–1631). By Charles Dudley Warner, author of "My Summer in a Garden," etc.; William Penn (1645–1715). By Robert J. Burdette (of the Burlington Hawkeye; Benjamin Franklin (1706–1790). By —; George Washington (1732–1799). By John Habberton, author of "Helen's Babies," etc.; Thomas Jefferson (1743–1826). By —; Andrew Jackson (1767–1845). By George T. Lanigan, author of "Fables out of the World."

If the names of the authors awaken a suspicion that there may be something humorous in the books, it should be known that despite anything of that kind, the truth of history is adhered to with most uncompromising rigidity—perhaps, in some cases, a little too uncompromising, or compromising: that depends on the point of view.

Recent announcements make it proper to state that this series was begun several years ago. This prospectus, and the volume now published, was in type in the spring of the current year.

The publishers congratulate themselves that they are able to inaugurate the series with a volume by one who is often called the most delicate of American humorists, and who is at the same time known as a painstaking scholar.

From the PRHTACE: "If my estimate of the character of Smith is not that which his biographers have entertained, and differs from his own candid opinion. I can only plead that contemporary evidence and a collation of his own stories show that he was mistaken. I am not aware that there has been any systematic effort to collate his different accounts of his exploits. If he had ever undertaken the task, he might have disturbed that serene opinion of himself which makes him a man who realized his own ideas."

The later volumes are in fields which, having been already more thoroughly explored, do not call for so much original research. The authors having less of the investigator's labor thrown upon them, have given freer rein to the humor which has made them celebrated.

THE SUCCESS OF THE YEAR.

HAMMOCK SERIES. - No. 1.

" NO GENTLEMEN."

The brightest, most readable, and entertaining novel of the season.

WHAT THE PRESS SAYS OF IT.

"We are soon amused, interested, and charmed. Belonging to the class of stories popularly called 'bright,' and published judiciously at the opening of the season of hammocks and piazzas, it is far more readable than most of its kind. The plot is not too much of a plot for a legitimate New England story, and the conversation of 'Jabe' is racy enough to make us forget that we were tired of Yankee dialect, as treated by Mrs. Stowe and Mrs. Whitney. Indeed, the book is thoroughly enjoyable."—The Critic, New York.

"No Gentlemen"

"Is a bright narrative of the summering of a half dozen Boston girls, just out from school, at Red Farm, in Pineland, with Miss Hopeful Bounce, who advertises for summer boarders, but 'No Gentlemen.' In order to make a novel, of course, this prohibition must be broken down, and, as the girls, particularly the heroine and her special friend, are pleasant company, the story is as readable as if it were a 'No Name,' as it is, in fact."—Springfield Republican.

"No Gentlemen"

Is issued in elegant style, being printed on fine tinted paper, making a book of 348 pages, bound in fine cloth, with unique side stamp in black and gold, and sold at the low price of $1, by the publishers.

BY GEORGE M. BARBOUR.

With Map and numerous Illustrations. 12mo, cloth. Price, $1.50.

This is the most comprehensive and authentic book on Florida that has been published. The following Testimonial is proof of its value and trust-worthiness:

"It is known to the undersigned that the author, Mr. George M. Barbour, has travelled over almost the whole of Florida, under circumstances peculiarly advantageous for enabling him to acquaint himself with the varied resources of the State, and with the attractions which it offers to the three classes to whom his work is addressed—Tourists, Invalids, and Settlers. Our knowledge of his abilities as a writer on Florida subjects, and of the opportunities he has enjoyed in preparing his book, are such that we can commend it as at once trustworthy and comprehensive—greatly superior in these respects to anything hitherto published descriptive of the entire State and its soil and productions.

SUICIDE: An Essay on Comparative Moral Statistics. By HENRY MORSELLI, M.D., Professor of Psychological Medicine in Royal University, Turin.

This work is a scientific inquiry, on the basis of the statistical method, into the laws of suicidal phenomena. Dealing with the subject as a branch of social science, it considers the increase of suicide in different countries, and the comparison of nations, races, and periods in its manifestation. The influences of age, sex, constitution, climate, season, occupation, religion, prevailing ideas, the elements of character, and the tendencies of civilization, are comprehensively analyzed in their bearing upon the propensity to self-destruction. Dr. Morselli is an eminent European authority on this subject, and the discussions that have latterly been prominent in the English journals upon this question have been largely drawn from the original Italian edition of this book. It will be accompanied by colored maps illustrating pictorially the results of statistical inquiries.

"All the drawings are effective, and many of them are HOWARD PYLE. of a high order of excellence, from the group of old soldiers fighting their battles o'er, which Mr. Frost has bathed in a flood of golden sunshine, to the tall guillotine which Mr. Pyle has set up in the black night with a fearful glint of a stray moonbeam on the sharp edge of its knife. And what poem is more worthy of such rich pictorial setting than this of Thackeray's? His stalwart stanzas, if they do not stir the blood like the blare of a trumpet, at least give it a start like the roll of the drum whose adventures they chronicle."

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

Address P. O. Box 943, N. Y.
Publication Office, 13 & 15 Park Row, N. Y.

THE next issue of the WEEKLY will be the llustrated Christmas number and on account of the great amount of work which its careful preparation entails, subscribers will bear with us should the issue be delayed somewhat beyond the prescribed date of publication.

Booksellers should not overlook the valuable assistance that can be rendered the holiday trade by the judicious use of copies of the mprint editions of the Illustrated Christmas number of the Publishers' Weekly or of the Literary News. Orders for quantities desired should not be delayed, as it is the intention to have both publications off the press in ample season for the holiday trade.

NOTES IN SEASON.

T. B. Peterson & Bros. will issue at once a new edition of the famous "Helen's Babies," by John Habberton. This edition will have a new illustrated cover with portraits of "Budge" and "Toddie."

HARPER & Bros. have just issued "The Heart of the White Mountains," by Samuel A. Drake, illustrated by W. Hamilton Gibson. The volume will certainly win great favor both as an art gift-book and as a souvenir of the great summer resort. They have also just ready "The Land of the Midnight Sun," by Paul du Chaillu, and the bound volume of Harper's Young People for 1881.

P. BLAKISTON, Philadelphia, has now ready, closely following Dr. Edwards' valuable little book on "Malaria," a new edition, in paper and cloth bindings, of "The Winter and its Dangers," by Hamilton Osgood, M.D., of Boston. This is the first of the well-known Health Primers to appear in paper covers, and the price has been fixed at 30 cents in that style. The second enlarged edition of Carter's "Eyesight, Good and Bad," is just ready, and in a few days will be published the new edition of "Health and Healthy Houses." In active preparation is a new work by T. Spencer Wells, on the "Diagnosis and Surgical Treatment of Ovarian and Uterine Tumors."

ROBERTS BROTHERS have just ready one of the most important books of the year, the "Life of Richard Cobden," by John Morley—an excellent subject and an admirable writer to treat it. A portrait of Cobden accompanies the book. With this will appear "My Wife and My Wife's Sister," the tenth volume in the second series of No Name novels, and said to be a true story, stranger than fiction; and a very tasteful little volume on "Gaspara Stampa," a Venetian Sappho in genius and fate, written by Eugene Benson, and supplemented with translations of some of her sonnets by the author of "Kismet" and "Mirage."

D. APPLETON & Co. have nearly ready a beautiful illustrated book which will make a charming souvenir of the season and of our favorite poets. It is entitled "Homes and Haunts of our Elder Poets," and consists of biographical and descriptive sketches of Bryant, Emerson, Longfellow, Whittier, Holmes, and Lowell, by R. H. Stoddard, F. B. Sanborn, and H. N. Powers. The volume is an imperial 8vo, well printed and bound, and illustrated with portraits and numerous engravings. New editions of Bryant's "Song of the Sower" and "Story of the Fountain"—both of them standard favorites among illustrated gift-books—. are issued for the holiday trade at reduced prices.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS will issue on the 15th inst. three further volumes of their tasteful new edition of Dr. Holland's works, comprising "Titcomb's Letters," "Gold Foil," and "Kathrina." On the same day they will also issue, under the title of "The Conflicts of the Age," the series of four articles which appeared in the North American Review signed by "An Evolutionist," "An Agnostic," "A New Light Moralist," and "A Yankee Farmer," and which by many were attributed to Dr. McCosh. On the 22d inst. they will issue at a reduced price a new edition of "The Mistress of the Manse," by Dr. J. G. Holland, illustrated by Mary H. Foot, Thomas Moran, and others; and their handsome holiday book, "The Chronicle of the Drum," by W. M. Thackeray, which has already been fully described in a former issue.

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will publish next week Mr. Warner's book on Irving, the initial volume of the American Men of Letters series; "James T. Fields: Biographical notes and personal sketches," a beautiful duodecimo, by Mrs. Fields, though her name does not appear on the title-page; Mr. Fields' popular "Yesterdays with Authors," endowed with holiday attractions, namely to fine steel portraits, and holiday binding; Henry James' "Portrait of a Lady," which is the greatest story he has yet written, and cannot fail to be in general demand; and the new trade edition of Oliver Johnson's "Life of William Lloyd Garrison," with an introduction by Mr. Whittier and a fine steel portrait. They hope to publish November 23: "Recollections of Anton House," a book of very entertaining pictures and reminiscences of childhood, and likely to be very popular; a volume of poems by Harriet Prescott Spofford; a new edition of Mrs. Whitney's "Boys at Chequasset," excellent of course; a new edition of "Chinese Classics-Confucius;" and an important work on the "Diagnosis and Treatment of Diseases of the Eye," by the distinguished Boston oculist, H. W. Williams.

The plays here given were selected for the double reason that they represent three distinct types of Shakespeare's dramas, and that, in different ways, they are peculiarly adapted to interest the youthful mind; the method of presenting them is novel, and commends itself specially to mothers and fathers desiring to make their children love the great poet; as much of the original text as wouldbe be

THE INTERNATIONAL LITERARY CONGRESS.

From the London Athenaum, Oct. 8.

THE subject of international copyright with the United States was placed in a new light before the International Literary Congress at Vienna, on September 27. Heretosore it has been considered almost exclusively as a question in which Great Britain has the chief interest. The truth is that English authors have companions in missortune; their German brethren complain as bitterly as they do that enterprising publishers in the United States reprint German works there without any consideration for the feelings or pockets of the authors. In like manner French books are translated without the French author reaping any reward.

Before referring in detail to the conclusions arrived at by the Congress with regard to international copyright between the United States and Great Britain, I may summarize the proceedings of the Central Committee of the International Literary Association relative to the draft of a proposed convention on the subject. That convention provided that if an English book were reproduced in the United States by a publisher there within three months after its appearance in England, and after the fulfilment of certain conditions as to registration, the English author would enjoy copyright in the United States on the same terms as a citizen of the country. The French committee of the Association objected to the conditions as to the limit of time and to registration, contending that a period of three months was far too short, and that a second registration was a mistake. Here it may be well to insist upon the principle which the Literary Association upholds, and which has been ratified in the Congress at Lisbon. This is that the recognition of the author's right of property in his work is contravened by any other formalities being required \ of him than registration in the country wherein it first appears. It is held that one registration ought to suffice, and that the author who has copyright, say in England, should enjoy as a matter of course copyright in all countries with which England may have a copyright conven-This arrangement has been adopted in a convention concluded a year ago between France and Spain. The first article of that convention is worded as follows: "From the day of this convention being carried into effect, the authors of literary, scientific, or artistic works, or their assigns, who can prove their right of property, or its partial or entire cession, in one of the two contracting states, conformably to the legislation of that state, shall enjoy corresponding rights in the other state, and shall be allowed to do so on the same terms as natives thereof, on this sole condition and without other formalities." The last clause has been emphasized as essential. The rule that holds good concerning a coat or a watch, ought, in the opinion of the International Literary Association, to hold good with regard to literary property also.

It is obvious that the proposed convention between the United States and Great Britain falls far short of the ideal of the International Literary Association. The discussion on the subject was begun by Mr. Edward King, a United States author of great merit, who is making his mark on his country's literature. Mr. King considered the subject from a trade rather than a theoretical point of view, setting forth the difficulties which the publishers of his country have raised to international copyright in any form, and contending that whatever they were disposed to grant ought to be thankfully accepted. Mr. Edward Jenkins maintained that, from the English author's point of view, the question at issue did not concern publishers at all, and that so far as the views of publishers in either country influenced negotiations the result would not be beneficial for authors. After considerable discussion, a resolution was adopted by the Congress to the effect that it was desirable a copyright convention should be concluded between Great Britain and the United States as speedily as possible, and that the interests of authors rather than the wishes of publishers should be considered in such a convention. In addition, a further resolution, moved by Dr. Weichel, of Berlin, and adopted, expressed the hope and desire of the Congress that a copyright convention should be concluded between Germany and the United States immediately after or at the same time as the one just referred to. Dr. Weichel stated many facts showing how urgent was the need for his countrymen being protected against the ap propriation of their literary labors. It appears that a publication has been started in the United States for reprinting all current German books which are in demand among the readers of German. Formerly the market for such books was supplied exclusively by German publishers, and the books thus sold yielded some return to their authors. Now, however, a German author sees his books popular in the United States, but obtains nothing from their sale there. The same thing applies to French authors whose works are translated by enterprising citizens of the United States.

It is significant and worthy of note that the demand of authors for justice at the hands of the people of the North American republic no longer proceeds from England alone. While England was chiefly affected by the reproduction of English books, the publishers and citizens of the United States turned a deaf ear to demands for redress. There has always been a stronger feeling across the Atlantic to listen to complaints from other countries than England. Should this feeling continue, the problem of international copyright may soon be solved. It might be advisable for English negotiators to act in concert with their brethren in France, Germany, and other countries, in order that the equitable principles of the International Literary Association may form the basis of a German international convention. If the discussions and resolutions of the International Literary Congress should lead to such a result a second Congress of Vienna may take a higher place in history than the first.

SIR: The letter of Mr. George W. Smalley in your issue of Friday, October 14, moves me to submit a few remarks on the English view of the proposed international copyright treaty. All the English objections and unfavorable comments upon the treaty which I have seen repose on two points: First, The selfish motive which induces the American publisher to propose it; Second, The three months' limit within which the foreign author must bring out an edition of his book. In pushing the first point, the English publisher seems to assume it as an axiom too obvious to be disputed that if the treaty is going to advance the interests of the American publisher, an insuperable objection is thus raised to it. It must be admitted, I think, that they find no serious difficulty in showing it to be a fact that the book trade of America will assume a more normal form if the treaty is agreed to. But it would be interesting to know how universal they regard the principle, which seems to be about this: That if it can be shown that any party proposing an agreement is actuated by motives of selfish interest, or is in any way to be benefited by it, a serious if not insuperable objection is raised to their accepting it. The persistence with which this argument is raised and repeated is certainly a curious and interesting phase in the discussion. Perhaps the English publishers can give us some instance in which a body of business men in England have expended money in promoting a national business treaty, the sole purpose of which was to benefit a body of foreigners which they never saw, and which was not in any way to promote their own interests.

The argument against the three months' limit has a much more valid basis, and the objections on that score are worthy of the most serious attention. But what is most striking in connection with this is that the opponents of the treaty in England do not seem fully to appreciate or understand the difficulty which that clause is designed to avoid. In the first place, I frankly and freely admit that the granting of an absolute and independent copyright to foreign authors, without imposing any restriction upon the choice of an agent through whom their works shall be circulated, is, in the abstract, quite feasible. Under such a plan the English author would have the right to refuse any arrangement looking to an American edition of his book, and could leave the American public to depend upon the English publisher. Now, however practicable this course may be in the abstract, it is politically inadmissible, for the simple reason that the American public will not enter into any treaty leading to such a result. The utterly selfish spirit which they thus display may be a subject of as much animadversion as they choose, but the fact is to be accepted as we accept any other unwelcome state of things. I especially note that Mr. Smalley says: "We ought not to consent to such a treaty as that, and certainly shall not." Now arises this difficulty: How are we to say that the English author shall have the exclusive right to print and circulate his book in America. and yet restrict his choice of an agent through which it shall be done? If no restriction is placed upon his choice, then the treaty will be the very one which Mr. Smalley says we should not enter into. It must, therefore, be provided in the treaty that the English author shall have his book manufactured within the United States. But suppose he fails to do this, what shall happen? Is he to lose his copyright? Then he is worse off than with the three months' limit. possible construction of the law would be that, having permitted English copies of his book to circulate in America before manufacturing the American edition required, he had given his book to the public. If, on the other hand, no restriction is placed upon the time within which the American edition shall be produced, then the author will have the option of letting the American public depend entirely upon his English publisher. Even if the necessity of an American edition is prescribed, this does not affect the matter, because to say that an individual must perform a certain act, while, however, giving him an indefinite time in which to perform it, amounts to nothing at all. Mr. Smalley's plan is: "Let the English author stand in the position of the American; not requiring of him to publish or to complete an agreement for publishing, within a brief fixed period, but only to register his copyright in America, or at an American agency in England. Secure to the American publisher, by all means, his right to manufacture the book, but subject to that, and to some such simple formality as the law imposes on the American author, let the English half of the Anglo-American community stand on a legal equality with the American half."

This does not appear sufficiently definite to cover the case, which may be something like the following: An English author brings out a popular book; has his copyright duly registered in America; circulates the English copies of his book in that country; but does not bring out an American edition for six months, a year, two years, or three years. What is the American public to do? Whoever answers this question will contribute something to the discussion.

In thus presenting the difficulty I am not actuated by any desire to sustain the three months' or any other prescribed limit. It may well be subject to all the objections urged against it. If the English publisher once gets a clear view of the difficulty which the three months' limit is intended to avoid, we may hope for some arrangement. I confess I have not seen or been able to devise any plan which seems to me absolutely free from objection; but the best one appears to me to be that of prescribing that, if the English author fails to bring out an American edition of his book within a specified period, any American publisher shall have the right to do so by paying him the usual percentage on the retail price of all copies sold.

There is another point of view from which the subject of English opposition is worth looking at. Mr. Smalley remarks that the publishers on both sides take a more active part in this discussion than the authors do. Now, as proposed by the Americans, the affair is one which does not in any way affect the English publisher. It is exclusively to be an arrangement with English authors, and, so far as England is concerned, for their benefit alone, provided they can get any benefit from it. Therefore, in order that weight may be given to the views of the English publishers, they should show that they are entirely disinterested, or, at least, should in some way relieve themselves from this suspicion that such a treaty as they would approve of would not promote their in-SIMON NEWCOMB. terests.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

Miss Howard's new story, "Aunt Serena," is reported to have reached already a sale of 10,000 copies.

LOCKWOOD, BROOKS & Co. have nearly ready the "Poets' Calendar for 1882," prepared with the same skill as their calendar for 1881, and printed in even more tasteful style. It will surely be one of the best and—to a literary person—the most attractive of the calendars.

W. J. WIDDLETON is now sending out his handsome red-line edition of the poetical works of Edgar A. Poe. The volume contains all the poems, with memoirs and illustrations, and will prove an acceptable holiday gift to lovers of Poe.

CHARLES REEMELIN'S "Critical Review of American Politics," which has recently been republished in London by the Trübners, was originally published and copyrighted in this country by Robert Clarke & Co., of Cincinnati. Such of our readers as may have been misled by our item in the WEEKLY of the 29th ult., will bear this in mind when ordering the work.

S. W. GREEN'S SON issues for the guidance of publishers and authors a neat pamphlet, giving specimens of type, directions for estimating, and a series of tables answering numbers of vexed questions as to the sizes to which paper will fold and trim, equivalent weights of paper for all sizes in common use, tables of signatures, etc. Its use will greatly simplify the work of estimating.

L. PRANG & Co. help to enliven the Thanks-giving festivities by issuing several series of Thanksgiving cards for friendly interchange. They are of course attractive both in design and coloring. One set of six shows apples, pears, peaches, grapes, blackberries, and cherries, respectively, in a centre panel with an arabesque border and an appropriate and "fruitful" quotation. Another set of twelve is default.

voted to the various good things of the Thanksgiving table, from roast turkey and cranberry sauce to pumpkin pie well capped with pertinent quotations. The set of four novel and humorous turkey designs would make even the dyspeptic's Thanksgiving enjoyable. The specimens of the new "Birth Announcement Cards" which we have seen certainly answer the purpose and clearly show their intent. The few designs thus far issued have been very favorably received by the trade and the public.

D. LOTHROP & Co. will publish on the 15th a volume of no little interest, by Rev. W. F. Bainbridge, of Rhode Island, who has recently been at all the mission stations of the world, and has made observations on their methods and achievements which cannot fail to enlist the attention of many. Mrs. Bainbridge, who accompanied her husband, has prepared a volume of travel and observation, which covers many a place little known and very unfrequently visited, and with its illustrations must be an attractive book. It is likened to "Unbeaten Tracks in Japan." They will publish next week "The Kingdom of Home," choice home poems selected by Arthur Gilman, and fully illustrated with albertypes, gravotypes, and woodcuts, a handsome octavo, which has direct relation to the holidays, but will doubtless prove a popular gift-book the whole year round; "The Story of Chief Joseph," a rendering in verse of the Nez Perce chief's speech, by Mrs. Martha Perry Lowe, with illustrations. Add to these a new edition of Josephus's "Wars of the Jews," in two styles, plain for $1, with many illustrations and gilt top, for $1.50; and "The History of Spain," by Prof. James Albert Harrison, author of "Spain in Profile," forming a volume in Lothrop's Library of Entertaining History, with 100 illustrations.

G. P. Putnam's Sons add to their previous announcements: "Opium Smoking in America and China," a careful study of the prevalence and spread of the vice, and of its immediate and remote effects, moral, physiological, and financial, upon the individual and the nation, by W. H. Kane, M.D., author of "Drugs that Enslave," etc. "The American Citizen's Manual," a practical treatise on the relations of the citizen to government, city, state, and national, and on his duties, responsibilities, and privileges. This volume, while issued in compact form convenient for reference, is planned to give a comprehensive summary of the nature of American administration, local and national, and to supply full information on all the details of the work of a citizen. A series entitled Science Ladders, edited by N. D'Anvers, author of "History of Art," etc., is also under way. The volumes will form a series of readers planned to teach the great laws of nature in language simple enough to be intelligible to every child who can read. While purely elementary, they aim at awakening the powers of observation and reasoning. The volumes in immediate preparation are: "Forms of Land and Water;" "A Story of Early Exploration;" "Vegetable Life;" "Flowerless Plants;" "Lowest Forms of Water Animals;" and "Lowly Metal- and Armor-Wearers." They will all be fully illus trated. They will also issue an illustrated edition of the popular poem, "Your Mission," by Ellen H. Gates, for which designs are being made by F. S. Church, W. St. John Harper, and J. W. Alexander.

THE "GEOFFREY CRAYON" EDITION OF IRVING.

In the rush of a growing literature, and in the rise of later lights on the literary horizon, some measure of popular neglect may have attached to Irving's charming works—a neglect which is the lot of all authors whose generations have given place to others, and who are for a time set aside by that love of noveity and of change that characterizes each new age; but it is matter for congratulation that within the past decade a reawakened interest in this conservator of pure literature has become manifest, and, in an age which perhaps leans too strongly toward condensation and encyclopædic style, it may be esteemed the developing of a broader and riper taste which enables us to note the growth of an appreciative love for the manly sentiment and true tenderness of the creator of Diedrich Knickerbocker, Ichabod Crane, and Rip Van Winkle,

No better indication of this increasing interest is needed than the appearance of the various editions of the works of one whose writings have been pronounced "an imperishable legacy of grace and beauty to his countrymen," and among the numerous editions of Irving which have appeared within the past few years the sumptuous Geoffrey Crayon edition which his authorized publishers, G. P. Putnam's Sons, have been issuing in monthly volumes during 1880-81, has claims to especial prominence as a fitting memorial of the genius and worth of the wordpainter of the Alhambra and the biographer of Washington. Attractive in appearance both inwardly and outwardly, it merits the good words that the Worcester Spy speaks for it: "The edition will satisfy the most fastidious. The binding is in plain olive green cloth, the type' clear and of a good size, the paper thick and handsome, the margins unusually wide, and the illustrations (of which the first volume contains eighteen) exceedingly good, both as to spirit and execution. The publishers undertake in this enterprise a public benefaction " 20 volumes of this new edition have now appeared, and at this genial Christmas season, which found so appreciative a chronicler in the author of the "Sketch-Book" and "Bracebridge Hall," no better or more appropriate gift can be selected than this new edition of his works. The introductory essay on Irving, by Charles Dudley Warner, which prefaces "Knickerbocker," the initial volume of the series, lends an additional value to the edition. In an age which clearly respects, however much it may fail in following the chivalric in thought and action, no better guide toward a refining and elevating literary taste can be taken than Washington Irving, of whom Mr. Warner has so truthfully said: "Irving's literature, walk around it and measure it by whatever critical instruments you will, is a beneficent literature. The author loved good women and little children and a pure life; he had faith in his fellow-men, a kindly sympathy with the lowest, without any subservience to the highest; he retained a belief in the possibility of chivalrous actions, and did not care to envelop them in a cynical suspicion; he was an author still capable of an enthusiasm. His books are wholesome, full of sweetness and charm, of humor without any sting, of amusement without any stain; and their more solid qualities are marred by neither pedantry nor pretension."

MYNHEER TEN BROEK,

THE ILLUSTRATED "LUCILE."

OWEN MEREDITH'S "Lucile" has for more than twenty years held the affections of readers. It possesses every quality to recommend it. It is romantic, dramatic, poetical, cynical and witty, and exceedingly pure in tone. It narrates in a rhyme full of melody a passionate love story, in which Lord Alfred Vargrave, the Duc de Luvois, and Lucile, the Comtesse de Nevers are the chief actors. And it offers a succession of gay and sarcastic pictures of fashionable life that still retain their freshness and piquancy. It is not strange that the Messrs. James R. Osgood & Co. should have selected it as a fine subject for illustration; it is only remarkable no one thought of doing so long ago. Its many and varied moods, its pen sketches of people and scenery, its digressions, grave, gay, and serene, offer innumerable opportunities, for the play of the artist's imagination, and for the realization of his finest ideas. The publishers have spared neither expense nor trouble in the artistic or mechanical details—hence the result is one of the handsomest works of the year.

It is both dainty and elegant, and embellished with many beautiful illustrations. These are from the designs of the best American artists of the day—Mary Hallock Foote, E. H. Garrett, E. P. Hayden, L. S. Ipsen, F. E. Lumis, Thomas Moran, J. E. Palmer, F. B. Schell, W. L. Sheppard, W. P. Snyder, A. R. Waud, James D. Smillie, and others—engraved in the very finest style by Anthony, Andrew & Son, Dana, Closson, Russell & Richardson. Scarcely a line in the text that offers any excuse for an illustration but has been taken advantage of—"fresh strawberries," "violets," a "scene at Bigorre," Matilda's bracelet, Lucile's "letters—a portrait—a ring," the cigar Lord Alfred Vargrave offers to the Duke, a portrait of Leonardo and Aristotle—all appear between the letterpress, in quite a novel and attractive style. Artistic head and tail pieces, carefully elaborated and sharply worked out, decorate the beginning and ending of the various parts of the poem. Specimens of two of the best are given upon this page, others will be found in various parts of the number.

The full-page pictures, of which there are twelve similar to the facing page, are the most ambitious efforts, and perhaps the most successful, in the book. They embrace portraits of all the various characters as they crystallized in the artist's imagination. Mrs. Mary Hallock Foote, we believe, is the artist of the page we have selected as one of the most characteristic, and which appears in the book as a frontispiece. It represents Lucile alone in the forest separated from the Duke's riding party.

HANNAH JANE.

In this poem the author has struck a vein that goes directly to the popular heart. He tells a little domestic story that is probably within the experience of many who read it. "Hannah Jane" is a noble and self-sacrificing wife, who almost effaces herself that her husband may rise to greatness and to fame.

" Far up the heights of life-she drudging at the base."

The husband is the speaker throughout the narrative, and his reminiscences go back to the happy days when he first courted Hannah Jane, "twenty years agone." We see him in the little picture at the top of the page recalling

"The wife I wedded as she was before my prosperous years,"

And here on the other page is Hannah Jane herself, of whom he tells us:

"No negro ever worked so hard: a servant's pay to save,
She made herself most willingly a household drudge and slave,
What wonder that she never read a magazine or book,
Combining as she did in one, nurse, housemand, seamstress, cook!"

This simple and tender story of womanly devotion, told in characteristic, homely verse, is from the pen of David Ross Locke, better known through his pseudonym of "Petroleum V. Nasby." It is American in thought and feeling and in scenes and characters. It is offered in its present illustrated form by the Messrs. Lee & Shepard as a gift-book that will at once claim the popular fancy. It is a small quarto, very handsomely printed on heavy tinted paper, and with full-page and letterpress illustrations designed by S. G. McCutcheon and E. H. Garrett, and arranged and engraved by George T. Andrew. The cover is rich and tasteful and in character with the spirit of the poem. We advise husbands or wives to buy it for each other, and ponder together over the lesson with which it concludes.

"There's another world beyond this; and on the final day
Will intellect and learning against such devotion weigh?
And when the one made of us two is torn apart again,
I'll kick the beam, for God is just, and He knows Hannah Jane."

HANNAH JANE.

JEAN INGELOW'S SONGS OF SEVEN.

"You bells in the steeple, ring, ring out your changes,
How many seever they be,
And let the brown meadow-lark's note as he ranges
Come over, come over to me."

JEAN INGELOW has written nothing more tender, or of more lasting merit, than her "Songs of Seven" issued in a beautiful illustrated form for the holiday season by the Messrs, Roberts Bros. Seven poems describe the various important stages in a child's, a young girl's, a wife's, and a widow's life. "Seven times one" is "Exultation;" "Seven times two, Romance;" "Seven times three, Love; " "Seven times four, Maternity; " "Seven times five, Widowhood; " "Seven times six, Giving in Marriage;" "Seven times seven, Longing for Home." They are characterized by a depth and purity of sentiment, and a poetical grace of expression, which leave no doubt of the causes which have made everything from Miss Ingelow's pen, whether prose or poetry, sell by the thousands in this country and England. In this little volume she strikes the keynote of a woman's heart. She enters into the girl's romance, the wife's love, and the mother's sorrows, with a sacred and beautiful sympathy that is as winning as it is graceful. Seven fullpage pictures, one of which, "Exultation," we offer, illustrate the seven typical phases of a woman's life. They are designed by Miss C. A. Northam and J. Francis Murphy. The titlepage and the symbolical head and tail pieces, of which the above is a characteristic example, are by Edmund II. Garrett The entire book was prepared and the illustrations engraved by Mr. George T. Andrew. The book is a beautiful typographical specimen, and will no doubt find all the appreciation it deserves among the most cultured class of readers. It must not be forgotten that Messrs. Roberts Bros. are the publishers of Jean Ingelow's complete works; that they have her charming novels, "Off the Skelligs," "Fated to be Free," "Sarah de Berenger," and "Don John," and her lovely stories for children, "Stories Told to a Child," "A Sister's Bye-Hours," and "Mopsa the Fairy." Any one of these volumes will give pleasure to the child or grown person for whom it is bought. Then they have a variety of editions of her poetical works, mostly with portraits, and in very attractive shape. To enumerate them—there are the Household edition, in three shapes, with portrait, with gilt edges and red line, full gilt; Blue and Gold edition; Cabinet edition; Diamond, Red-Line, and Home edition, this latter has in addition to the portrait a view of the author's home in Old Boston, England. richness of thought and beauty of form, certainly no one should be at a loss for a choice and dainty Christmas gift.

EXULTATION,
"I am seven times one to-day."

THE CHRONICLE OF THE DRUM.

WHETHER or not a poet was spoiled when a mighty novelist was made, is for the critics and not the admirers of Thackeray to determine, but certainly few who wear the poet's bays have met the popular taste or struck a sympathetic chord in the popular heart with more effect than did the great author of "The Newcomes," when he wrote the "Ballad of Bouillabuisse," the "End of the Play." the "Cane-Bottomed Chair," and the "Chronicle of the Drum," It is therefore fitting that one of our great publishing houses should use all the resources of artist, printer, and binder to properly present to the people one of the greatest of Thackeray's ballads, "The Chronicle of the Drum," In the holiday edition of this notable poem-half-glorification, half-satire-which Messrs. Charles Scribners

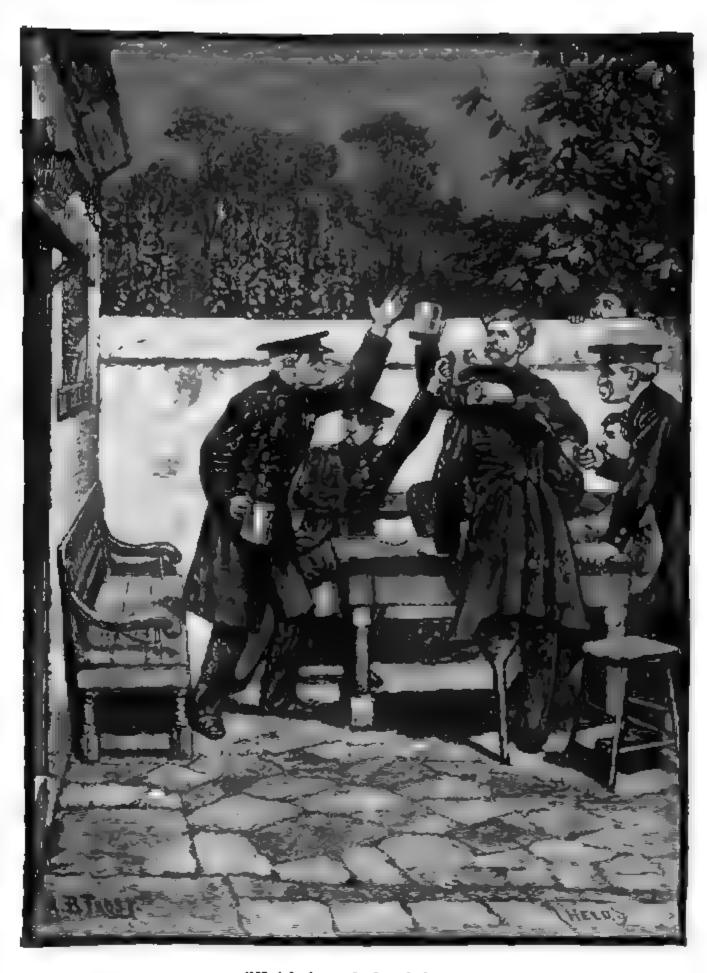

Sons issue this season, the striking illustrations partake so strongly of the spirit of the accompanying text, that we move from page to page with an irresistible enthusiasm, keeping step to the tap of the drum which, in the hands of old Pierre and his ancestors, leads us forward from the days of Henry of Navarre and the great Condé, across the fields of Blenheim and Malplaquet, along the heights of Abraham, and amidst the glories of Yorktown, through the stormy hours of the Bastile and the Terror to the blood of Mère Guillotine. We press on to victory with the Little Corporal at Milan, at Marengo, and at Austerlitz, or fall back in sad defeat from the flames of Moscow and the English line at Waterloo, until invalided with other "wooden-legged warriors" on the sunshiny bench of the old tavern, "hard by the Maine barrier," we rise to drink with old Pierre his hot toast of defiance, but pause as the keen and genial satire of the master repeats the vanitas vanitatum, and asks us what we find to admire

"In epaulets and scarlet coats— In men because they load and fire, And know the art of cutting throats?" ?

The noble ballad thus royally presented, with its wealth of illustrations by Fredericks, Pyle, Frost, Lungren, Laurence, Schell, Taber, and others of equal merit, is a suitable and peculiarly appropriate present at this season of good-will, and may prove more effective in its way than reams of sermons, or tons of Peace Society documents. For, as we close the beautiful volume, we repeat again and again the lines of its kindly author—a greater in genius than all the conquerors—as he muses above the dead Napoleon beneath the dome of the Invalider:

"He captured many thousand guns;
He wrote 'The Great,' before his name;
And dying, only left his sons
The recollection of his shame.

" He fought a thousand glorious wars,
And more than half the world was his,
And somewhere now, in yonder stars—
Can tell, maybap, what greatures is."

"Ho! fetch me a beaker of wine, And, comrades, I'll give you a toast:

TENNYSON'S LADY OF SHALOTT.

The gemmy bridle glittered free,
Like to some branch of stars we see
Hung in the golden galaxy.
The bridle bells rang merrily
As he rode down to Camelot.
And from his blazoned baldric slung
A mighty silver bugle hung,
And as he rode his armor rung,
Beside remote Shalott.

And in the blue unclouded weather
Thick-jewelled shone the saddle-leather,
The helmet and the helmet-feather
Burned like one burning flame together
As he rode down to Camelot,
As often through the purple night,
Below the starry clusters bright,
Some bearded meteor, trailing light,
Moves over still Shalott,

His broad clear brow in sunlight glowed,
On burnished hooves his war-horse trode
From underneath his helmet flowed
His coal-black curls as on he rode,
As he rode down to Camelot.
From the bank and from the river
He flashed into the crystal mirror
"Tirra lirra," by the river
Sang Sir Lancelot.

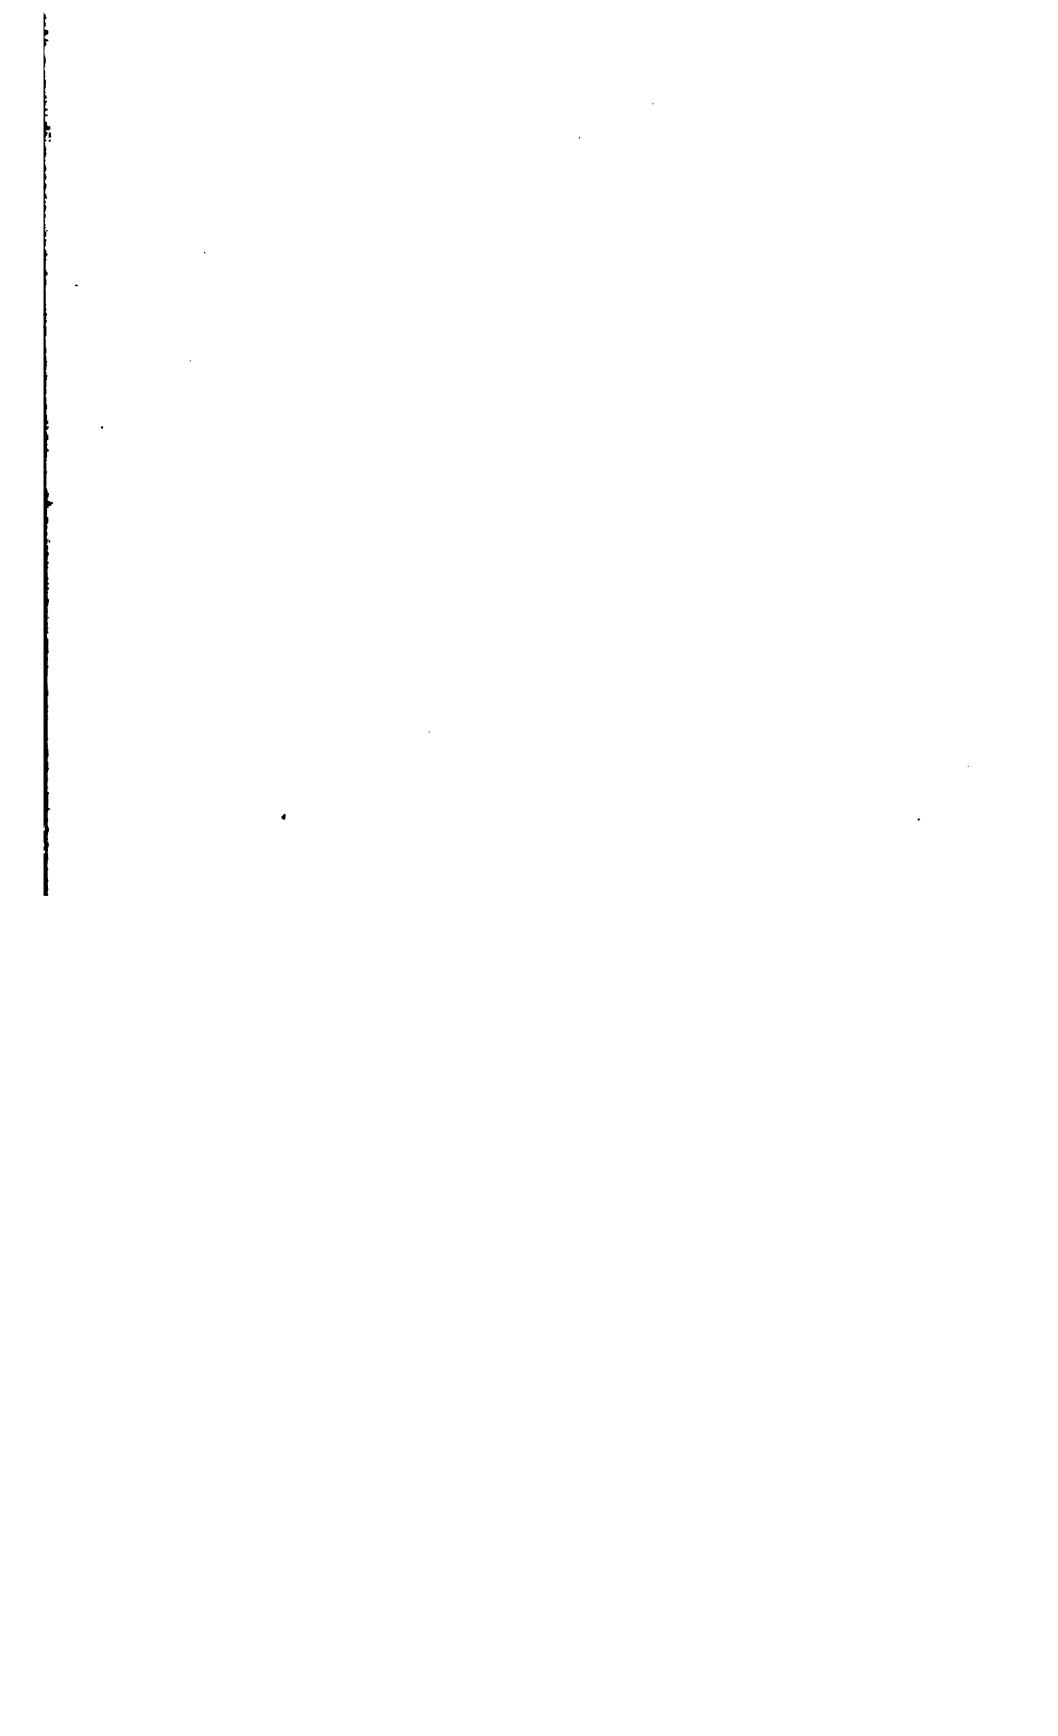

A quite unique interpretation of the spirit of Tennyson's charming Arthurean ballad of the Middle Ages has been made by Howard Pyle, in a series of colored designs, of which the cas presented on the opposite page, representing Sir Lancelot "as he rode down to Camelot," is a brilliant example. Some forty such pages, picturing the sad story of "the fairy Lady of Shalott," as she wove "by night and day a magic web with colors gay," or met her fate when, deserting her loom, she turned to look at the "bold Sir Lancelot," compose a work just issued by Messrs. Dodd, Mead & Co. as a holiday gift-book. The decoration is mediæval in treatment, thus according chronologically with the legend. The majority of the pages have the text woven into the design in Old English letters, and the verse is begun with a gorgeous initial composed of conventionalized dragons and birds which remind one of some quaint old missal. The rich color of all the pages is fairly dazzling, while the designs are as varied as the verses of the weird ballad. Few persons, we fancy, have any idea of the trouble and expense that belong to the printing of a book like this. The sheets of the ordinary holiday book go through the press twice, once for each side. "The Lady of Shalott" is printed in ten colors, hence each sheet has been through the press twenty times, with the risk of a slight fault in any one of the impressions spoiling it completely. It is one of the most perfect specimens of color printing we have seen, and promises to make a sensation. The Brett Lithographic Co., who printed "Pretty Peggy" last year, have the credit of this fine work. To Mr. Howard Pyle belongs the honor of having conceived this most novel, original, and brilliant Christmas gift.

Sir Cancelst. Kis brood clear brow in sunlight glow'd; On burnish'd hooves his war-horse trade; From underneath his helmet flow'd Kis coal-block curls as on he rode,

The Molfday Gift=Books.

The preceding pages describe and illustrate in detail several of the most notable of the holiday books. The following is a more complete descriptive summary, covering the general field, and noting the new books and some of the old standards of the several publishers, arranged in their alphabetical order. To them we are indebted for the many illustrations which adorn these pages and suggest more fully the books of the year. The decorative pieces and vignettes which have been used without credit of source are from the following works. The "Christmas Song" that precedes our illustrated pages is from "Our Little Ones" (Lee & Shepard); the initial cut to "A Christmas Council" is from "Homes and Haunts of Our Elder Poets" (Appleton); and the tail-piece to the same article is from the "Geoffrey Crayon Edition" of Irving (Putnam); the cut above is from the illustrated "Lucile" (Osgood); the vignette on our cover is from the "Longfellow Leaflets" (Houghton, Mifflin & Co.); and the "Holly Tree," which follows the reading matter in the imprint edition, is from Taylor's "Home Ballads" (Houghton, Mifflin & Co.).

The American News Company call especial attention to their excellent and complete edition the Excelsion edition—of Dickens, in 15 volumes, printed in clear and readable type, neatly bound, and copiously illustrated. The Excelsion editions of the leading British poets and also of special favorite poems are peculiarly adapted for purchase to those who wish to make a good show for their money. In this line they have four different styles—a red-line edition, in cloth bindings, with black and gold sides; a morocco edition, a tree calf edition, and a plain edition. All but the latter have gilt edges. Their royal octavo edition of the Excelsion " British Poets" includes the complete works of Shakespeare and Tennyson, the poetical works of Burns, Byron, Milton, Moore, and Scott, and a volume of choice selections of the poets, from Chaucer to Tennyson, in a volume entitled "Fireside Poetry." These volumes are all fully illustrated, attractively bound, and put up in neat paper box. In their Excelsior series of "Favorite Poems" they have now ready. Moore's "Irish Melodies and Sacred Songs, with a memoir and notes, Milton's "Paradise Lost;" Campbell's "Pleasures of Hope, and other Poems;" Moore's "Lalla Rookh;" and Coleridge's "Ancient Mariner." These are also fully illustrated. They have added to the Excelsion edition of "Standard British Poets" the poetical works of Browning, Ingelow, and Procter, and Keble's "Christian Year." Their Excelsion edition of standard twelvemos comprises "Vanity Fair;" "Last Days of Pom-peii;" "Tom Brown's School-Days;" William Carleton's "Willy Reilly;" Chavasse's "Advice to a Wife and Mother," and a new edition of Jennie June's "Practical Cook-Book."

THE AMERICAN SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION have a neat and pretty bound volume, issued at a moderate price, in which have been collected some of the choicest of Miss Havergal's poems under the title "Leaves of Life." The first edition was disposed of soon after publication. "Bruey" is the title of a sweet and graceful story also from the pen of Miss Havergal. In the "Three Great Revivals of the Eighteenth Century" Rev. E. P. Hood graphically records the progress of a century. Rev. Edwin W. Rice gives some excellent work in an octavo volume of 250 pages-a "Pictorial Commentary of the Gospel according to St. Mark," with many maps and illustrations, and presenting both the revised and the authorized versions in parallel columns. A second edition of Dr. Philip Schaff's standard "Dictionary of the Bible" is also published.

THE AMERICAN TRACT SOCIETY offer some valuable and interesting books, prominent among which may be mentioned, "Everyday Life in India," by Rev. A. D. Rowe, for many years a missionary in that country, and who writes in the most interesting manner of the appearance, dress, home-life, caste, religion, superstitions, and employments of the Hindus, which are illustrated with thirty cuts from original photographs; "Lectures on the New Testament," by the Rev. Drs. Storrs, Hall, Taylor, Weston, Bevan, and others, which were highly commended at the time they were de-livered before the N. Y. S. S. Association, and which in their permanent book-form will, no doubt, be welcome to the large number of atudents now interested in that subject; and "Opening Plain Paths," a book for those girls who are coming to the close of school-life and long to be and do something in the world, by Howe Beaning.

D. APPLETON & Co. present, in "Homes and Haunts of Our Elder Poets," a work of special interest to literary people. It consists of biographical and descriptive sketches, with pos-traits and illustrations of Bryant, Emerson, Longfellow, Whittier, Holmes, and Lowell. The letterpress is by R. H. Stoddard, F. B. Sanborn, and H. N. Powers; the portraits from drawings by Wyatt Eaton, in his finest manner; and the views or sketches are by R. Swain Gifford, Homer Martin, Francis Lathrop, C. A. Vanderhoof, A. R. Waud, and Appleton Brown. The volume is a handsome quarto, and noticeably interesting and artistic. It is exquisitely printed on toned paper, which shows the graceful lines and fine perspectives of the landscapes to the greatest advantage. They also issue new editions of the "Song of the Sower" and "The Story of the Fountain," by William Cullen Bryant, both illustrated on wood, from drawings by Fenn, Hows, Homer, Fredericks, Hennessy, and others. Although the great Italian painter yet published. The illustrations, which consist of full-page pictures and innumerable engravings in the letterpress, embrace nearly every work of great importance by the master. They have been reproduced by photography and engraving from paintings or fac-simile of drawings of Raphael by the first artists in Europe. The volume is an imperial octavo, bound in various styles and very elegant in all its details. "A Picturesque Tour in Picturesque Lands," by L. G. Seguin, is also an important illustrated work, and one that was in the market last season in an édition de luxe. The present edition is very handsomely printed on fine English paper from the same plates, and compares very favorably with the more expensive edition. The text describes and the designs illustrate a tour through France, Spain, Painters" and "British Painters" occupy such a high place, and most deservedly too, among seasonable art gift-books, that they must not be overlooked. We call attention to them for those desiring to purchase art-books of permanent value. They will adorn the drawing-room table, and add to the importance of the library. There are also a few other illustrated standard works that are looked for every season published by this house, as "The Homes of America," edited by Mrs. Martha J. Lamb; "Landscape in American Poetry," by Lucy Larcom; and F. Cooper's "Leather-Stocking Tales," illustrated by F. O. C. Darley.

A. C. Armstrong & Son offer in "Raphael, His Life, Works, and Times," one of the most noticeable and one of the most valuable and artistic books of the season. It is a work both for art-lovers and art-students. It is translated from the French of Eugene Muntz, and comprises one of the most complete biographies of Germany, Switzerland, Holland, Italy, and other countries. The pictures are mostly from the pencils of the most celebrated artists of the country described. The famous French land-scape painters Jules Breton and Corot, Israels, the chief of the modern Dutch school, Tidemand, the Norwegian, and many others equally well known will be found represented.

ROBERT CARTER & Bros. have no Christmas book proper, though they present to the consideration of lovers of good books an excellent list of publications to select from. First and foremost is "The Letter of Credit," by the author of "The Wide, Wide World," one of Miss Warner's semi-religious, semi worldly love stories that always have a most satisfactory and happy ending. No one but would be made glad in receiving a copy of this book. It is one of those volumes which should be on the shelf of every family library, and which no member of the household will fail to dip into. The same can be said of "From the Nile to Norway and Homeward," a volume of travel, by the Rev. T. L. Cuyler, of Brooklyn They have also published new editions of "Christian Retirement" and Dr. Macduff's "Gates of Prayer."

Cassell, Priter, Galets & Co.'s chief holiday book is their "Magazine of Art," a most exquisite collection of illustrations by the first artists of the day. It will be found fully described on one of the front pages. They also bring out new editions of "Pictures of Bird-Life in Pen and Pencil," illustrated by Giaco melli, and Milton's "Paradise Lost," with full-page drawings by Gustave Dorć. The firstnamed work was one of the most salable books of last season. It was generally accepted as one of the most artistic and graceful delineations of bird-life we have ever had from an artist's pencil. And the letterpress by the Rev. W. G. Watkins, was acknowledged to be equally charming and attractive. It will no doubt find many admirers again this year, as its merits are not of an ephemeral character. A work that recommends itself to artists or amateurs, as well as students of botany, is "European Ferns," an original and exhaustive work on the varieties, habit, growth, and propagation of the ferns of Europe, by James Britten. It is illustrated with thirty fac-simile colored plates, painted from nature, by D. Blair, F.L.S. It is a handsome quarto, very beautifully gotten up. Martin F. Tupper's famous "Proverbial Philosophy" has been thought worthy of illustration. The Cassells bring it out this year in a handsome quarto volume illustrated throughout, with the advantage of having been published under the personal supervision of the author. Art students, or those who desire to make them presents, will be glad to have their attention called to the number of instructive books on painting in oil and water-colors this house publishes. The most important is " A Course of Lessons in Landscape Painting in Oils," by A. F. Grace, Turner Medallist of the Royal Academy. It contains nine reproductions in color, after Turner, Constable, DeWint, F. Walker, Mason, Miller, and A. F. Grace, with numerous examples engraved on wood from well-known pictures, also practical instructions on the theory and practice of this branch of art. Books of the same character and equally valuable in their department, and not so expensive, are "Figure Painting in Water-Colors," with sixteen colored plates from original designs, by Blanche Macarthur and Jennie Moore, both Medallists of the Royal Academy; and "Flower Painting in Water-Colors," with twenty fac-simile colored plates of flowers, executed by F. E. Hulme,

S. E. CASSINO, Boston, publishes two very attractive large quartos, "Beautiful Wild Flowers of America" and "Beautiful Ferns of America," representing both the flowers and ferns natural size and colors, and drawn and printed with so great skill as to be beautiful indeed. The text is scientifically descriptive, the paper and printing are excellent, and the books are every way artistic.

THE CENTURY COMPANY have gleaned from the two former issues a revised portfolio of proof impressions of the choicest pictures from Scribner's Monthly and St. Nu holas. This new collection, as containing the cream of the two former portfolios, presents a striking selection of woodcuts of great artistic merit. The paper and presswork are worthy the praise of the most critical book lover. The cover is unique in design, the proofs, as in former years, being supplied either bound or unbound. As a specimen of high-class work, and as a careful selection from one of the most extraordinary successes in magazine publication, this new volume of Proof Impressions is a worthy and beautiful holiday book. The life-like portrait of the late Dr. Holland, already described in the WEEKLY, is of peculiar interest and value at this time. and will be welcomed by the many readers and admirers of the lamented author and editor.

ROBERT CLARKE & Co., Cincinnati, have in their "Book of the Black Bass," by Dr. James A. Henshall, an acceptable present to lovers of the sport, and especially for followers of Walton. The volume comprises a complete scientific and life history of the subject, and gives besides a large amount of practical information and hints. In selecting books for beginners in art, their practical manuals for "China Painting" and "Pottery Decoration," by M. Louise McLoughlin; "Charcoal Drawing without a Master," by Karl Robert, and "Modelling in Clay," by Benn Pitman, should not be overlooked.

E, CLAXTON & Co. make the Avon edition of the "Complete Works of William Shakespeare" their leading holiday book for this year. They issue it in all styles of binding, from plain cloth to the finest full turkey morocco and have it either in one or two volumes, and with or without the full-page illustrations. This edition contains a graphic life of the author, alphabetical and glossarial indexes, an index to thousand pages. Another work of value at this season is Dr. Henry A. Boardman's "Mottoes for the New Year," as given in texts of sermons preached in the Tenth Presbyterian Church, Pinladelphia. The author, whose age and remarkable experiences gave him a retrospective view accorded to few men. possessed the faculty of drawing marked lessons from each year of life as it passed, and these sermons, fifteen in all, represent practically fifteen eras in a man's life and the most important knowledge that they could give. In the line of fiction, Messrs. Claxton & Co. have just ready a charming love story from a new field. The author, with much tact, has seized the striking features of life in Texas, and made a thoroughly enjoyable book. The title is "Bob Dean; or, Our Other Boarder," and the scene is laid parily in the capital, and partly in other sections of the State. There is a quaint humor throughout the book, the result of seeing people as they are, and it is the power to catch this spirit of nature which stamps the ability of the author.

Thos. Y. Crowell & Co. have no regular gift-book or holiday publication for adult readers to offer, but they would be glad to have it remembered that they have a number of standard publications on their list suitable for preaents and acceptable at all times and under all circumstances, such as the "Red-Line British Poets," the "Star Series of Popular 12mos," formerly belonging to Cogswell & Co., and handsome sets at very reasonable prices of the works of Dickens, Lamb, Disraeli, Hallam, Hume, Gibbon, Macaulay, Thackeray, Shakespeare, and others.

Dopp, MEAD & Co. have added to their valuable art publications, "The Renaissance of Art in France," by Mrs. Mark Pattison, two elegant illustrated volumes, uniform with Burckhardt's "Renaissance in Italy." The work is a most valuable one, and one that may be bought with a certainty of pleasing a cultured and refined taste. It treats of the revival of art in France, in the 15th and 16th centuries, in all its branches—architecture, sculpture, painting; painting on glass, engraving on wood and metal, the enamellers of Lunoges, pottery, etc. Each chapter contains a monograph upon some special artist in the branch of art described. The work thus combines personal information about Goujon, Pilon, Fouquet, Palissy, and others with historical details in a way that makes it very delightful reading. They have also engaged one hundred copies out of the two hundred and fifty of the English edition of mention also as a concise and comprehensive work, copiously illustrated, and invaluable as an introductory to the study of art. It forms a gift that would be acceptable to all, young or old, interested in these matters. The student's edition of Lübke's "History of Art" condensed into two volumes with 600 illustrations is also an invaluable book for the same class of readers. To those desiring a work of permanent value for a library, nothing more acceptable can be named than this firm's handsome edition of Rawlinson's "Ancient Monarchies," generously illustrated with maps and engravings.

Not to ignore the popular demand of the day, they offer an illustrated edition, done in colors, of Tennyson's " Lady of Shalott," which we have fully described elsewhere. It is one of the most elaborate of the many decorative books offered. "A Short History of Art," by Julia B. de Forest, deserves

E. P. DUTTON & Co. call attention to a very elegant holiday gist-book, "Grandma's Attic Treasures," a story of old-time memories, by Mary D. Brine. Among the number of really beautiful books published this season this work stands out. The illustrations are characteristic, and are all connected with grandma's recollections of her young days, her first love, her husband and children, and the memories that centre around some old-fashioned furniture, her spinning-wheel, some quaint old chairs and tables, an old-time corner clock, etc. The story is told in dialect, and is tender and full of sentiment. The artists have caught its spirit, and made some little gems of pictures, which are carefully drawn, and full of grace and poetry. The designers' names are: Miss C. A. Northam, J. Francis Murphy, W. P. Snyder, Edmund H. Garrett, W. A. Rogers, and W. F. Halsall. The book is beautifully printed on heavy tinted paper, and the engravings made under the supervision of Mr. Geo. T. Andrew, the well-known wood-engraver of Boston.

ESTES & LAURIAT have two new holiday books proper, "Nature and Art," compiled by Louise Reid Estes, and containing poems illustrated with etchings by Rajon, Forberg, Gifford, Smillie, Farrar, Leibl, Moran, and also with woodcuts by the best artists, forming an unusually

GEORGE H. ELLIS, Boston, has a little book of love poems, "Tender and True," which may be of excellent service for holiday gifts between young men and women. They are genuine love poems, yet are so wholesome and genuine that one may speak of them without feeling that he ought to blush or apologize. Mrs. Tileston, author of "Quiet Hours," is the editor, and her name gives ample assurance of good taste and good poetry.

rich gift-book; and the "Song of the Brook," by Tennyson, with 2t illustrations by Bellows, Woodward, Miss Humphrey, and others. To these may well be added "Beautiful Wild Flowers of America," and "Beautiful Ferns of America," with colored plates, and the "Flowers," containing extracts from Longfellow, Whittier, Bryant, and Ho'mes. Excellent use may be made at holiday time of Estes & Lauriat's new editions of Thackersy. The Cambridge in 20 volumes, printed on fine tinted paper, from new plates, and having over 300 illustrations; the University, in 10 crown octavo volumes, from the same plates and with the same illustrations as the Cambridge; and the People's edition, likewise in 10 volumes. Macaulay's "History of England," with five steel plates and 40 illustrations, and his Essays and Poems, with illustrations, may easily come within the category of available gift-books; also Wilson of fine steel engravings as well as numerous woodcuts and several maps. For the children there are the popular Lane editions of "The Arabian Nights," both 12mo and 8vo in size, and both profusely illustrated. For lovers of the classics there is the illustrated "Scarlet Border" Shakespeare, with thirty excellent illustrations. Also a companion "Scarlet Border" volume of the poetical works of Walter Scott. In addition to these are presented the

J. FAGAN & SON, Philadelphia, have several books eminently adapted to the holiday trade. For students of the Bible there is, complete in one volume, a new illustrated edition of "Clarke's Commentary on the New Testament," the text carefully printed from the most correct copies of the New Testament, including the marginal readings and parallel texts. In the same line is Zell's "Illustrated Family Bible," with explanatory, critical, and devotional commentary, illustrated with a number

Enfield edition of Lamb's works, and the Hazhtt edition of Montaigne, both well known to the book trade.

GINN, HEATH & Co. are not alone in thinking that it would be no easy matter to find a richer or better gift than the Harvard edition of Shakespeare, just completed in twenty beautiful volumes, and also in ten. As for the critical and editorial excellence of the work, there can hardly be any question. Mr. Hudson has long enjoyed the reputation in England as well as America, of being one of the most acute, judicious, and trustworthy students and interpreters of Shakespeare; and this edition, with its new life, new introduction, and new notes, embodies and aggregates all the Shakespeare knowledge that Mr. Hudson has acquired during the many years which he has devoted to this study with almost religious enthusiasm.

S. C. GRIGGS & Co., Chicago, have a neat holiday volume of poems in their "Lyrics of Home Land," by Eugene J. Hall, well known they have Dr. Winchell's new volume, "Sparks from a Geologist's Hammer," a collection of more or less connected papers on scientific and semi-scientific themes.

L. R. HAMERSLEY & Co., Philadelphia, have a choice bit of sea-story for the holidays, entitled a "Christmas at Sea," edited by E. Shippen, of the U. S. Navy. The "yarns" in the volume as a writer of felicitous verse. Many of the poems in this collection are in the quaint dialect of New England, and abound in homely, good-natured wit and humor. The volume is handsomely illustrated and in every way attractively gotten up. Besides this they have also issued for lovers of verse new editions of "Songs of Yesterday," and "Old-Time Pictures and Sheaves of Rhyme," by Benj. F. Taylor, many of whose poems have already become classics. For the scientist and scholar were contributed by Rear-Admiral Murray, Commodore Wells, and others of the Navy, Capt. King of the Army, and by Mr. Hamersley, who was formerly lieutenant in the Marine Corps. It makes a very neat little volume, in paper covers.

George W. Harlan has concentrated upon "My Boy and I; or, On the Road to Slumberland," by Mary D. Brine, his one Christmas gift-book for the older folk, all the resources of artists, engravers, printers, and binders. He has aimed to make it the artbook of the season, and has certainly succeeded in producing something unique and different from anything yet seen in Christmas publications. Not only are the illustrations by Louis C. Tiffany and his corps of artists, but the whole design of the book is to be credited to them. Mr. Tiffany chose the paper, determined the size and shape of the pages, selected the leather for the binding, the silk with which it is stitched, and even designed the odd antique dies with which the cover is stamped. A single artistic purpose is thus seen in the work which is novel in bookmaking and most praiseworthy. Mrs. dedicated to John G. Whittier. "The Land of the Midnight Sun," by Paul B. Du Chaillu, the veteran traveller and author of "Explorations in Equatorial Africa, is one of those attractively illustrated and handsomely bound works of travel for which this house is famous. It has just been issued, and will, no doubt, have a large Christmas sale, with that immense constituency of readers who seem to have an insattable appetite for novelty and adventure. It is a record of a series of summer and winter journeys made at different times, from 1871 to 1878, through Sweden, Norway, Lapland, and Northern Finland, including an account of five years' residence in the country. Mr. Du Chailla Brine's poem describes a mother's day with her baby, from morn till bedtime; the little scenes of the day have been pictured by the artist, and made to encircle the text of the poem, which is printed in every variety of antique and mediæval lettering. A flavor of the olden days chings both to the inside and outside of this very odd-looking volume, with its rude, Old English text, its heavy leather cover, and rich hanging silk tassels. The engraving has been done by Mr. Geo. T. Andrew, and the presswork by the University Press, of Cambridge, Mass.

HARPER & Bros. have just published a beautiful new volume written by Samuel Adams Drake, the author of "Nooks and Corners of the New England Coast," and illustrated by W. Hamilton Gibson, the illustrator of "Pastoral Days." It is offered as their holiday gift book : it is almost perfect in its technical details, and is called. "The Heart of the White Mountains. Artistically it is one of the books of the season. One finds again in its illustrations the same grace and poetical charm that marked the designs of "Pastoral Days," without any sacrifice either in truthfulness to effect. Every well-known and celebrated view in the White Mountains lives again in its graphic pages, and finds in the charming descriptive narrative of Mr. Drake, an artist as happy in illustration with his pen as Mr. Gibson is with his pencil. The volume is gracefully and appropriately is always entertaining and instructive, but in these two large handsome volumes he is patticularly delightful. His descriptions of strange manners and customs, and the life of a people so little known, is interspersed with personal adventures, amusing anecdotes, and valuable observations on the phenomena of the midnight sun. The text is illustrated with 235 pictures, some full-page, but the majority small. They give one a capital idea of costumes, the interior life and scenery of Scandinavia.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have in Falke's " Greece and Rome" one of the most sumptuous artbooks of the holiday season. The author is Director of the Imperial Museums, Berlin, hence brought a wide experience and culture in art matters to aid him in the writing and arrangement of his work. It is descriptive of the art and literature, life and manners, and the history and political condition of ancient Greece and Kome. It is musitated with copies of ancient statuary, portraits of old Grecian or Roman heroes or writers, art objects found through recent excavations, and some fine specimens of modern art in the way of copies of paintings representing ancient places and occurrences, by Alma Tadema. Wagner, Hoffman, Bühlmann, Otto, Feuerbach, Thiersch, and other German artists. The paper, the binding, and the printing are superb, making with the novelty and elegance of the designs one of the finest publications admirable collection of more than three hundred standard songs of the English speaking race. They will also have in time for the holidays an exceedingly clever and humorous series of sketches by J. A Mitchell, a young and promising artist, entitled "The Summer School of Philosophy at Mt. Desert." Cupid is here the chief teacher, and love the chief thing taught—the methods of the school are both funny and familiar, as all will say who have witnessed or assisted at a flirtation at Mount Desert.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co's special holiday book is Bayard Taylor's "Home Ballads," which contains five ballads of Pennsylvania, which, if not the most poetic, were certainly among the most popular poems that Mr. Taylor ever wrote. These depict certain aspects

It is handsomely printed, with large margin, making a fine octavo volume, which will be very welcome to many as a gift-book. Mr. Wallace Bruce's poem on the Hudson, which describes some of the historical, legendary, and picturesque scenes along that beautiful river, has been illustrated with excellent skill and taste by Alfred Fredericks, and with the best of paper, printing, and tasteful binding, it makes an unusually attractive gift-book. Among other books which may very fully be included among the holiday volumes is the new Handy Volume edition of Dr. Holmes's poems, which embraces all that Dr. Holmes has yet written, including several poems not contained in any previous edition. The volumes are small and plain, yet exceedingly attractive to book-lovers. The Whittier, Longfellow, and Emerson birthday books easily come within the range of gift-books, inasmuch as they include, in addition to the gems of prose and poetry selected from these authors,

J. Lalor; and "Golden Thoughts," a selection of brief and striking passages from a wide range of authors, orators, statesmen, divines, etc., prepared by the Rev. S. P. Linn, of Cincinnati; with a companion volume of "Golden Poems," containing an entirely new selection from the best minor poems in the language and choice extracts from longer works—the range being from Chaucer to the poets of our day.

Christmas and New Year season a fine duodecimo edition of the poems of Schiller, complete, edited and translated by Henry D. Wireman. It contains a frontispiece portrait of the subject, together with fac-simile autograph. The poems are prefaced by a memoir of Schiller's life, written by Koerner, the Appellationsrath, who, as one of Schiller's oldest and dearest friends, vouches for its authenticity. So interesting and attractive is this sketch that the reader instinctively grasps the history and can readily imagine himself among the scenes described, in which the celebrated poet played the important part. The volume is excellently printed and illustrated throughout, and is one of the most desirable gift-books that can well They have also two German be obtained. works in handsome editions suitable for holiday gifts. The one is entitled "Das neue Testament in 80 Bildern," a pictorial history (with the English text also) of the New Testament, by Schnorr von Carolsfeld; the other is entitled "Palm-Blätter," a collection of religious and devotional poems by Karl Gerock. worked in sympathy with the spirit of this beautiful and tender poem. "Hannah Jane," by D. R. Locke ("Petroleum V. Nasby"), more fully described on our front pages, is something scarcely to be expected from that eminently practical parson of the Cross Roads, It is a domestic idyl of real life and true nature. The verse in which it is told is popular in style and excellent in construction, and the illustrations to the poem are spirited and characteristic. "Nuna: The Bramin Girl," is a handsomely illustrated story, telling the life and love of a Hindu princess, written by Harry W. French.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co., for their leading holiday gift-book this season, present T. Buchanan Read's poem entitled "Brushwood." It is uniform in style with "Drifting," which was published last year, and the beautiful illustrations are by Frederick Dielman. This poem the author felt he could consider one of his best efforts, and the delicate thought and perfect finish of his lines will undoubtedly gain many endorsers of this opinion. Another book of value at this season is the companion volume to Brewer's "Reader's Hand-book," edited by Eliezer Edwards, and bearing the title, "Words, Facts, and Phrases." It is a dictionary of curious, quaint, and out-of-the-way

There is also a fine octavo edition of Lamb's "Tales from Shakespeare," fully illustrated and handsomely bound. The new red-line edition of the "Ingoldsby Legends," is also ready, with the original illustrations. The size is small quarto, and the bindings range from cloth to the rich tree calf. Of the attractive Lane's edition of the Arabian Nights there are all styles, at all prices. The three volumes of this edition contain an almost countless number of illustrations. An interesting series comprises the picture sketches by Rev. S. Manning, in which are American Pictures, English Pictures, French Pictures, Italian Pictures, Spanish Pictures, Swiss Pictures, Land of the Pharaohs, German Fatherland, Those Holy Fields, and, the latest volume of all, India. All are in quarto size, richly bound in cloth, and at a very reasonable price. But one of the most acceptable presents that can be made is a Worcester's Unabridged Dictionary, and this the Messrs. Lippincott can furnish in any form desired. The new edition is profusely illustrated, and contains a supplement embracing two hundred and four additional pages, in which are over twelve thousand new words, and a vocabulary of synonyms of words in general use. Moreover the book contains full vocabularies of geographical and proper names, both ancient and modern, a complete collection of phrases and quotations from foreign languages, a key to the pronunciation of classical and scripture proper names, and a list of abbreviations used in writing and printing. The usual bindings in which it comes are full library leather, half russia, half morocco, and full russia.

LITTLE BROWN & Co. have no special holiday book, but admirable gifts may be found in Mr. Bartlett's "Shakespeare Phrase-Book" and "Plutarch's Essays," just published. The former is a dictionary to the phrases and sentences in Shakespeare which express any important thoughts, arranged alphabetically by the leading words. It is an excellent piece of scholarly and literary work, showing nice discrimination, and furnishing a ready key to Shakespeare and a reference-book of great value. Plutarch's Essays comprise about twenty of the best papers in his "Morals," selected by Rev. Dr. Peabody, who furnishes an introduction. The handsome volume has an essay on Plutarch by Mr. Emerson, and is a thoroughly good book to give or receive. The new uniform edition of Parkman's histories in eight volumes is so excellent in matter and so attractive in form as to be a noble gift.

D. LOTHROP & Co. have chosen for their leading holiday book "The Old Oaken Bucket," for which Miss Humphrey has drawn several charming designs, and these have been engraved by Closson, one of the most conscientious and successful of American engravers. The book is a very pretty gift-volume, uniform with "Ninety and Nine." Others of Lothrop's gift-books are "The Kingdom of House homely poems for home-lovers, selected by Arthur Gilman, and profusely illustrated with albertypes, gravotypes, and woodcuts, forming a handsome octavo; the second series of "Our American Artists," by S. Benjamin, describing the works of many living painters, and illustrating the descriptions with sketches of their studies and special works, and with portraits of several, drawn by the artists themselves. Lothrop publishes, jointly with Estes & Lauriat, the "Beautiful Wild Flowers," and "Beautiful Ferns," described above.

MACMILLAN & Co. have for lovers of that old "city of the sea," Dr. Edward A. Freeman's latest work, "Subject and Neighbor Lands of Venice." The volume is handsomely illustrated, and is considered one of the most important contributions to the subject. They will also

This gives first a sketch of the manufacture of a book, from its start to its completion, and then begins the encyclopædia proper, in which may be found almost everything that can come within the scope of the printer's art.

G. & C. MERRIAM have as usual their several editions of Webster's Dictionary—abridged and unabridged; a work which is classed among those standard holiday gifts that are always acceptable and valuable.

THOMAS NELSON & Sons have added a new volume to their Pen and Pencil Series, "Indian Pictures," drawn with pen and pencil, by the Rev. William Urwick. It is uniform with the previous volumes of the series. An imperial have in time for the holidays, "The Voyage of the Viga," by Adolf Erik Nordenskiöld, sumptuously gotten up, and illustrated with steel portraits, numerous illustrations and maps. For lovers of the poetical, their Ward's "English Poets" must not be overlooked. Hesides these, they have the handsome Eversley edition of Charles Kingsley's works, now complete in eleven volumes; besides a large and varied list of standard and substantial books for all seasons of the year

R. S. MENAMIN, Philadelphia, has two works, which, though not entirely new, are now ready for the gift season of this year, and are probably the most unique gift-books of their kind to be found. One is for those interested in numismatics, and bears the title of "Current Gold and Silver Coins of all Nations," the author be ing Ivan C. Michels. It contains fac-similes of a collection of one thousand four hundred octavo richly bound and profusely illustrated with pictures of the scenery, people, and costumes of the islands of the Indian Ocean. It is both an instructive and entertaining work. Among a number of other standard art giftbooks which this house publishes may be mentioned Michelet's books. They e mbrace five different works. "The Bird," "Nature," "The Mountain," "The Insect," and "The Sea." They are all exquisite in text and illustrations, the latter being engravings from the designs of the famous Giacomelli, Percival Skelton, a well known English artist, and others. "The Bird World Described with Pen and Pencil" is another of Giacomelli's finest efforts. He particularly excels in depicting the little feathered songsters and their haunts, and is seen to much advantage in this book. It is written by W H. Davenport Adams. They call attention also to three volumes of travel they have recently published, and which are adapted to interest either young or old, "The Eastern Archipelago," "Lake Regions of Central Africa," and "Recent Polar Voyages." As a Shakespeare is always timely for somebody in making up the Christmas budget, we mention that they have a very nice edition of his "Dramatic Works," called the Annotated Household edition, illustrated by the late Frank Howard and nicely bound.

JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co's, leading holiday book is a new illustrated edition of "Lucile," fully described elsewhere, printed from new plates, and embellished with 160 illustrations drawn and engraved expressly for this edition. The illustrations are varied in character and style, but harmonize in lending frosh and enduring attractions to Owen Meredith's exceedingly popular story-poem. The binding is tasteful and the book must be very acceptable as a gift-book. Thackeray's Ballads have been effectively illustrated and bound in holiday style, Miss Harriet W. Preston's excellent translation of "The Georgics of Vergil," has been printed with a red line border and red initials, which, with four full-page illustrations, give a holiday appearance to this dainty book inside, and the outside is equally tasteful, "Poets and Etchers" is a beautiful quarto volume with 20 full-page etchings, by Smillie, Coleman, Bellows, Farrer, and Gifford, which illustrate poems by Longfellow, Whittier, Bryant, Emerson, Lowell, and Aldrich, and many vignettes and tail-pieces by the same artists are The "Illustrated Birthday-Book of added. American Poets," is the birthday-book published by J. R. Oegood & Co. a year since, now illustrated with heliotype portraits of thirteen of the most eminent American poets. Mrs. Julia A. Shedd's two art-Looks, "Famous Painters and Paintings," in a new edition, and "Famous Sculptors and Sculpture," a new book, each containing thirteen fine hellotypes, may easily rank among gift-books. So may "Original Portraits of Washington," a fine quarto with toward 30 heliotypes, and a descriptive history of them by Elizabeth Bryant Johnston; Rev. George W. Cooke's excellent historical and critical book on "Ralph Waldo Emerson; His Life, Writings, and Philosophy," which is much the fullest, and, on the whole, the best account of Emerson yet published; "The Poets and Poetry of Ireland," containing the best poems written by Irishmen, with historical and critical essays and notes, by Alfred M. Williams; the new and complete edit on of Walt Whitman's Poems; Miss Howard's new story, "Aunt Serena," and Mr. Howells's latest, "Dr. Breen's Practice;" Dr. James Freeman Clarke's admirable lectures on "Events and Epochs in Religious History," which have many illustrations of the catacombs, monasteries, and cathedrals; any of the American Actor Series, Mr. Barrett's "Edwin Forrest," William Winter's "The Jeffersons," and if ready Mrs. Asia Booth Clarke's "Elder and Younger Booth," and Mrs. Clement's "Charlotte Cushman," as well as Henry Bacon's "Parisian Art and Artists," and Louis Gonses's "Eugène Fromentin, Painter and Writer," both in the style of the "Millet," published last year. Mark Twain's new Story "The Pauper and the Prince," published by subscription, is likely to have a great sale.

T. B. PETERSON & BROTHERS confine their lines chiefly to popular works of fiction from the pens of some of the best known authors of the day, both in this country and Europe, and have therefore but one book that can be considered strictly a holiday publication. This is the well-known "Beautiful Snow," a new edition of which has just been issued in various bindings and attractive styles.

PHILLIPS & HUNT have an important volume for those of the Methodist denomination who wish to remember their minister or friends, in their "Life of Edmund S. Janes, D.D., LL D.," late Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, by Dr. H. B. Ridgaway. The volume has an excellent portrait of Dr. Janes, who will be long and favorably remembered as one of the most prominent leaders in his denomination. They have also just ready the sixth volume of their Commentary on the Old Testament, containing the Book of Job, by Dr. J. K. Burr; Book of Proverbs, by Dr. W. Hunter; and the Books of Ecclesiastes and of Solomon's Song, by Dr. A. B. Hyde.

Porter & Coates have a handsome holiday book for the present season in "The Bells," by Edgar A. Poe. It is illustrated with twentytwo engravings from original designs, drawn expressly for this book by F. O. C. Darley, A. Fredericks, Granville Perkins, S. G. McCutcheon, R. Riordan, Charles P. King, and Miss C. A. Northam, and is printed on the finest plate paper, and bound in a variety of rich styles, ranging in price from $1.50 to $7. It is one of the handsomest illustrated books for the price offered, and will make a charming and at the same time inexpensive gift. The same firm has also issued "The Cotter's Saturday Night," by Burns, uniform with "The Bells," illustrated with fifty engravings from drawings by Chapman, engraved by Filmer. This immortal work of the great poet of Scotland has never been presented in a more beautiful form, or in one which will more delight the lovers of true poetry. "The Fireside Eucyclopædia of Poetry" will take a high place among the most prominent of the holiday books. The great success that has attended its publication has induced the editor to thoroughly revise and enlarge it. As a consequence, the present edition contains nearly two hundred additional poems, and represents four hundred and fifty authors. A new and attractive feature of the present edition is the insertion of portraits and autographs of prominent poets, with fac-similes of their handwriting. No more delightful, and at the same time useful, gift could be made than "The Fireside Encyclopædia of Poetry."

L. Prang & Co. call attention to their leading publications in the line of art-books, among which may be mentioned the large and copiously illustrated volume by Dr. J. von Falke, "Art in the House," the authorized American edition. "Illustrations of the History of Art," by S. R. Koehler, in five parts, with many large plates and over 2000 woodcuts. "The Theory of Color," by Dr. W. von Bezold, viewed in all its relations to art and art industry, and Prang's "Standard Alphabets," furnishing innumerable designs for artistic lettering, initials, borders, etc., embracing the best ancient and modern styles.

The Presbyterian Board of Publication has a new book by Rev. Dr. Dulles, which will be a welcome gift to many. It is a history of his recent journey throughout the Holy Land, and the illustrated descriptions of modern Palestine are of a character to be of very great aid in Sunday school and family study. The style is pleasant and popular, and the genial author possesses in an unusual degree the ability not only to observe but also to relate what he sees. Another book of interest to Bible students is "The Parables of Jesus," which is presented in an unusually attractive shape.

G. P. Putnam's Sons' new holiday book is "Pictures and Legends from Normandy and Brittany," written and illustrated by Thomas and Katherine Macquoid. It is a very attractive volume, and if it does not equal in show the numerous other expensive gift-books offered, it certainly possesses an intrinsic value both in its text and pictures, that will make it especially acceptable to bookish people. It is full of the legends, fantastic tales, and old stories that cling to the notable spots of Brittany and Normandy, and amusing episodes of travel. The designs form a part of the text which they illustrate and elucidate. The type is clear, the paper dainty, and the whole make-up excellent. The Messrs. Putnam call special attention this scason to their "Geoffrey Crayon Edition of Irving," which will be found fully described on one of the pages of the first part. Irving's works in any shape are an acceptable and substantial present; in this superb edition they are "a joy forever." New editions are also offered of Miss Bird's popular and valuable works of travel, "Unbeaten Tracks in Japan," "Six Months among the Palm Groves," and "A Lady's Life in the Rocky Mountains," and of de Amicis' brilliant pen-pictures of life and manners, "Spain and the Spaniards," "Holland," "Studies of Paris," and "Constantinople." A very attractive little gift-book is "Your Mission," just publishing, a popular poem, by Ellen H. Gates, which will be issued in small quarto form, with designs by Church, Harper, and Alexan ler.

Randolph & Co. have made arrangements to issue, with Messrs. John Walker & Co., of London, the new Elstow edition of "The Pilgrim's Progress," which is a genuine Bunyan memorial. The valuable feature of this edition is that the covers are Illustrated book, written by Miss Josephine Pollard, and designed by W. Walter Satterlee. It is a modern ballad, good-naturedly taking off the absurdities and excesses of modern decorative art. It is called "The Decorative Sisters," and contains sixteen elever designs in brilliant cotors, which are very amusing. It is reasonable in price, and eminently suitable as a made of the oak taken from Elstow Church, whose bells Bunyan loved to ring, previous to its restoration in 1880. On the cover is inserted as well a photographic copy of White's pencil-sketch portrait of Bunyan, now in the British Museum. The work is a very beautiful one otherwise, having many fine illustrations by Gunston and others, a carefully compiled memoir, and being very handsomely printed on fine paper. It will prove a Christmas gift of the most enduring character, to those who value good old John Bunyan's words of wisdom and warning. A few copies are also still to be had of the superb "Pilgrim's Progress," illustrated by Barnard, and engraved by the Daiziel Brothers, that this house imported last season. "Compensation, and other Devotional Poems," by Frances Ridley Havergal, is a carefully selected collection of this much-beloved and much-lamented authoress' poems.

ROBERTS BROTHERS offer as their special holiday book Jean Ingelow's charming poem "Songs of Seven," with 32 new illustrations which bring out very felicitously the picturesque and poetic beauties of the exquisite "Songs." This cannot fail to be a most ac-

Gilder, the second in command of the expedition of which this volume is an account, is one of the most important works yet published relative to Polar research. It settles beyond a doubt that the much sought after records of Sir John Franklin's expedition were destroyed, and sets at rest many conjectures about the final fate of several members of S r John's party. Rebellion," by John G. Nicolay; and "From Fort Henry to Corinth," by the Hon. M. F. Force. Both volumes have been highly praised by the press for their accuracy and graphic presentation of the early days of the civil war. Another work for libraries, and especially for a clergyman's library, is Selah Merrill's "East of the Jordan," a record of travel and observation in the countries of Moab, Gilead, and Bashan, during the years 1875-77. There does not exist a book in any language which contains so much fresh and valuable information relative to this country. It is popular in form too, and of interest to everybody.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD have had in preparation for a year past an exquisite Christmas book, a grand édition de luxe of "Rural England," by L. G. Seguin, "loiterings along the lanes, the common sides, and the meadowpaths, with peeps into the halls, farms, and cottages." It forms a magnificent imperial volume, printed by Dalziel Brothers on the finest hand-made paper. The illustrations, which are from designs by the very first English artists— Millais, Herkomer, Fraser-Tytler, Macquoid, and others—are engraved in the highest style of art, and are printed in proof on real china paper, and mounted with the letterpress of the The binding is in richly ornamented work. vellum The whole American edition will not exceed three hundred, copies, and no more will be printed. The price will be $40, which will not be considered high when this superb work is examined. It will give a most perfect idea of the natural scenery and picturesque beauty of England, and will be accepted as a worthy successor of the fine art publications issued by this house in past seasons. They also offer another unique work, a "royal" gift-book by a royal author, "A Birthday-Book "designed by H. R. H. the Princess Beatrice They have imported but a limited edition of this very beautiful work, so those who want to possess one of the most choice books of the season will have to be in advance with their orders. It is an impetial octavo with floral drawings in illustrations of the months, printed in colors on handmade paper. The designs are very elaborate and have taken much time and care to reproduce. They display a grace and fancy that would do honor to any name.

HENRY A. SUMNER & Co, have issued fresh editions, in attractive bindings, of their "Waiting at the Cross," a collection of prose and poetry, original and selected, by the Rev. Dr.

D. C. Eddy: "The Street Singer," a poem, by D. C. Addison; and "Madeline," a story in verse of Western life.

W. J. WIDDLETON has added to his various lines of Poe a new red-line edition of his poems which will doubtless find many appreciative purchasers among the admirers of this peculiar and injmitable poet.

R. Worthington's grand gift-book will be "Etudes in Modern French Art," now publishing, but which he will have in time for the holiday trade. It is a series of monographs on the best French artists of the present day, with between fifty and sixty beautiful initials, head and tail pieces, fac similes of original drawings and ten steel engravings, India proofs, unlet-tered, by masters of engraving. Cosmo Monkhouse; "Papyrus Leaves;" "Laurel Leaves of Poems:" Smith's " Examples of Household Taste," and the "Dore Gallery."

E. & J. B. Young & Co. have a number of publications which, without coming under the . heading of holiday books, are often found approprizte gifts at this season for special people, or for special occasions. They chiefly call attention to the Rev. H. P. Liddon's "Sermons to the People;" and "The Creed and Modern Thought," by the Rev. Benjamin Franklin. These are two works full of vigorous thought and sound theological wisdom, that every doctor or student of divinity will welcome to his bookshelf. They have issued recently in their Home Library several volumes, noticeably: "The Life of the Soul in the World," by Rev. F. C. Woodhouse, and "Constantine the Great," by Rev. E. L. Cutts. Another present for Sundayschool teachers is the "Variorum Bible," and their "Pearl 24mo Bibles," in rich and novel bindings. Their "Landscape Poets," a new edition with engraved borders of landscapes and sketches printed in subdued colors, should not be forgotten in selecting standard works. Books for the Young Folks.

Almost the first of the many packages that the little folks seem to hear tumbling down the chimney in the gray of the Christmas morning is "the book" they know they will enjoy so much. The volumes that issue from Santa Claus' wonderful printing-office are always welcome and delightful, and this year these books are many and distracting. Song, story, and picture will be found in the following summary (alphabetical by publishers), suitable for all tastes and ages—the toddler of two, the lassie of eleven, and the adventurous youth in his troublesome teens.

JOHN R. ANDERSON & Co. offer a timely giftbook for boys and youths, Horatio Alger's readable life of President Garfield, "From Canal Boy to President," which should find many purchasers at this time.

D. APPLETON & Co. have but one book that is at all of a juvenile or holiday nature, "A World of Wonders," and that is a book as much for fathers and mothers as for the children. It will lead the young people, however, by gentle of bird and beast life, and the phenomenal forces of nature. It is a handsome twelvemoun an illuminated cover, and with over 300 illustrations. "The Fairy-Land of Science" and "Life and Her Children," two popular instructive books for children, by Arabella B Buckley, are works that should be included in every juvenile library.

A. C. Armstrong & Son's most important book for the young people is "The May Blossom," a series of verses and pictures by Marion M. Wingrave and H. H. Emmerson, illustrating the childhood days of the Princess Victoria, from whose example the author trusts the "sweet little children" may learn "all good and noble ways." The book is a brilliantly colored quarto in the style of the Walter Crane of the "Tempest," "The Merchant of Venice," "Taming of the Shrew," and "A Winter's Tale." This is likewise a colored picture-book, with full-page designs by Andrè, which have

Conventional flowers and rich arabesque borders give variety to the pages, the whole offering a rich and striking commingling of figures and color. In Mrs Valentine's "Shakspearian Tales in Verse," the little ones will find in simple nursery rhymes, the stories

Trawl," which is the true history of a little boy who went to sea aboard a whaling ship. It abounds in thrilling episodes, such as a mutiny, a fight with pirates and the doubling of Cape Horn.

ROBERT CARTER & Bros. have quite a number of attractive stories for the children who are fond of reading. Many of them are semi religious and well adapted for Sunday-school presents. "Mabel's Stepmother," by the author of the Win and Wear series, is among the best. It sings the praise of a model stepmother, one who loved her stepchildren, and was beloved by them in return. She becomes their most trusted friend and adviser, and serves to relieve the false odium that has always attached to the name of stepmother. "Grandmamma's Recollections" is a collection of "true" stories, well illustrated and designed for little children. Then there are "Nobody's Neighbors," by L. T. Meade; "Joyce Morell's Harvest," a story of the reign of Queen Elizabeth, by Emily Sarah or fireside amusement. These two books will be prizes to the happy young people to whom they may be given. "Hazel-nut and her Brothers" is a bright and clever story for little boys and girls, by Ellen Haile, the author of "Three Brown Boys" and "Two Gray Girls," favorite books of previous seasons. It is profusely illustrated, and introduces again the "Brown boys" and "Gray girls" and a number of new friends and acquaintances. Joanna H. Matthews, the author of the "Bessie Books," has also written a new story for boys and girls, CASSELL, PETTER, GALPIN & Co. have a number of beautiful English juvenile works, in which grace of design and harmony of coloring are strikingly noticeable, "Old Proverbs with New Pictures," designed by Lizzie Lawson, is one of the most charming. It will please old or young. It evinces a dainty humor and an original fancy in its designs that make each page a study. Old saws are so quaintly rendered and so tellingly, through ornamental text, and pretty pictures of wee boys and girls, in delicate colors, that even the youngest readers may enjoy their fun. "Three Wise Old Couples" is a laughable series of pictures in chromo-lithography, portraying the adventures of three old women and three old men. Verses by Mrs. Corbett accompany the pictures, which are from the pencil of Hopkins. In Cassell's "Book of Sports and Pastimes" and "Book of Indoor Amusement," are offered two whole libraries of games—the one including every kind of outdoor sports—the other every sort of card game called "Bessie Bradford's Secret." For the little bits of children they have an almost uncountable list of picture-books in bright covers. Among the choicest are: "Happy Little People," by Olive Patch; "Familiar Friends;" "Bible Pictures and Stories for Little Folks," by Jenny B. Merrill; "Little Merrymakers" and "Little Companions," by Uncle Ned; See-Saw Stories," and "Rainbow Story-Book," with a number of new sets of stories, which are sold together or separately, as "The School-Girl's Library," "Notable Library," "Golden Library," etc. "The Little Folks' Album of Music" is a new publication that must not be forgotten. It is a collection of songs and rhymes, with music, that children can easily learn, and will delight to learn.

THE CENTURY COMPANY have for the young folks—and in this instance all of us are young—the customary volume of St. Nicholas for 1881, with the familiar red covers that are now so welcome a sight to every boy and girl. Crowded from cover to cover with pictures and stories that make it so attractive, the bound volumes of St. Nicholas are now recognized as standard gift-books, and merit the praise of the Baltimore Gazette to the effect that they are "about the best present that can be made to an intelligent child." "Baby Days," now a nursery classic, still holds its place among the books that every little one should know.

THOS. Y. CROWELL & Co.'s new and leading juvenile is "Rip Van Winkle's Travels in Foreign Lands," by a gentleman who writes under the pseudonym of Rupert Van Wert; it is a co-full of charming stories and pictures for the very little ones. It is written by Mary Abbott Rand, and has a characteristic cover, brilliant with sprays of holly and mistletoe, and a gay winter scene. The Messes Crowell & Co. also call attention to their favorite quarto juveniles piously illustrated quarto in gay boards, rich in instructive and entertaining matter, somewhat in the style of the "Zigzag" books, but with fewer personal anecdotes and adventures, the author, an experienced traveller, preferring to dwell upon the manners and customs, and objects and places of historical interest noticeable in illuminated covers, of past seasons, "Aunt Ethel's Picture Gallery," and "Sparkles for Bright Eyes."

DODD, MEAD & Co. offer another of Richard Markham's fascinating books for young people—an entirely new one—and new editions of those of previous years, "Around the Yule Log" and "Aboard the Mavis." The new book is called "On the Edge of Winter," has a richly illuminated cover by Kappes, and is generously illustrated. It is a book, as the author quaintly puts it, "wherein may be read how five boys and five girls ate their Thanksgiving dinner at an old farm-house in the Hudson Highlands," with further account of their doings, and a number of stories and ballads of the early days of our country. They call special attention to their quartos in color and in black and white, upon which they have bestowed no little labor and expense. The colored picture-books are spirited and brilliant. The most important are "King Christmas," from designs by Caldecott, Kate Greenaway, Miss Casella, and others; "Yankee Doodle," by life, and are full of spirit. Every page is printed in colors from wood-blocks, and each one is exceedingly artistic—the whole forming one of the most dashing and attractive juveniles in the market. "The Story of Prince Hildebrand and the Princess Ida," related in thyme by Major T. S. Seccombe, with one hundred illustrations by the author, is a large quarto, enclosing a delicious fairy tale. "Sunday for 1881" forms a lovely juvenile gift in its dainty cover in Kate Greenaway's best style, and presents an almost inexhaustible collection of stories and pictures of the best kind. For boys and girls who care more for the reading matter than the pictures, they have several charmingly interesting English story-books—"Who Did It," by Rev. H. C. Adams, "A Gem of an Aunt," by Mary

Howard Pyle, and two paper-covered books, by Dora Wheeler and Walter Satterlee, called "Mr. Crummels" and "When I was a Bachelor " These are both full of humor, and calculated to amuse the children vastly. Miss Emmet's "Pretty Peggy" is also out in a new edition—this, however, is a book whose artistic merits recommend it to the heads of families also. "Heigh Ho" "Jack Straws," " Hide and Seek," and " Nursery Days" are for very young children. They are in large type, full of pictures, and have gay covers designed by Dora Wheeler and Rosina Emmet. "Elsie Books" are always in order in selecting present for a little girl, and among the most popular of juvenile publications. A new volume, called " Mildred and Elsie," has recently been added to the Mildred series by the same author, which continues the fortunes of the heroines of the "Elsic Books."

E. P. Dutton & Co. fall into the ranks with an original colored picture-book of their own, gotten up especially for children, and designed by Ida Wangh. It is appropriately named "Holly Berries," and is a collection of Christmas rhymes and pictures by Miss Amy E. Blanchard. The designs are studies of childE. Gellie, and "We Four," by Mrs. Reginald ESTES & LAURIAT have an inviting list of new books for children: "The Knockabout Club in the Woods," by C. A. Stephens, a book of story and adventure in the forests of Maine and Canada, told in the interesting style which readers of the Camping-Out Series have found so engaging, and illustrated with nearly 200 pictures; "Zigzag Journeys in the Orient," by H. Butterworth, describing the adventures. and stories of the Zigzag Club on a tour from Vienna to Constantinople, Black Sea, Moscow, a great fair at Nijni-Novgorod, etc., in the style and with a multitude of such illustrations as have made the previous Zigzag books so widely popular; the "Young Folks' History of America," also by Mr. Butterworth, and possibly before Christmas the "Young Folks' History of the Netherlands," by Alexander Young, who is a good scholar and writer; and the "Young Folks' History of Boston," an account of the city from its settlement to the present time, by Mr. Butterworth, with many illustrations; "Chatterbox" for 1881, in the common style, and also an edition on thicker paper, tinted; the "Popular Chatterbox Packet," a book of over 200 Chatterbox illustrations from previous years; "Sketches and Scraps by Papa and Mamma," stories and pictures (in colors) by Laura E. and Henry Richards, a quite elaborate and beautiful book; and, for small children, "Our Baby's Lesson Book," "Our Baby's Favorite." plays are presented: "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "As You Like It," and "Julius Cæsar," The illustrations are profuse and artistic; the paper, printing, and binding all of the best quality. stories, and verses in large type, and attractive colored covers.

FORDS, HOWARD & HULBERT issue this year a charming book for the elder children and youths, "Shakespeare for the Young Folk," edited by Prof. Robert R. Raymond on an entirely new plan, by which as much of the dialogue as is easy of comprehension by young readers is retained, the rest of the story being reduced to prose narrative. Three typical

GEORGE W. HARLAN offers but one child's book—"Tutti-Frutti"—a book of child songs, by Laura Ledyard and W. T. Peters, designed and illustrated by Alfred Brennan and D. Clinton Peters. The designs are in white and black, and are specially noticeable for their oddity and quaintness. Illustrations and texts are woven together in an exceedingly happy manner, the one complementing the other. Little boys and girls of the Kate Greenaway type predominate. We find them shopping, visiting, boating, and telling fairy tales by the fireside. The book is altogether a very pretty one, and one that, no doubt, will be a favorite.

HARPER & BROS. present, in their bound volume of "Harper's Young People for 1881," one of the most captivating books for boys and girls that could be desired. With its hundreds of illustrations, and its many long and short stories by the best writers for the young, it is a whole library in itself, offering an almost inexhaustible fund of amusement for the long winter even-They have also just ready the third part of the "Boy Travellers in the Far East," by Thomas W. Knox. This volume will be devoted to an account of the adventures of two youths in a journey to Ceylon and India. It will be copiously illustrated, and richly bound, in a style uniform with the previous volumes of this attractive series. "The Cruise of the Ghost," by W. L. Alden, is a capital story for boys, in which the little heroes of "The Moral Pirates," by the same author, reappear. "Toby Tyler" must be kept in mind in selecting books for young people. It is one of the publications of the year, and a most felicitous recital of the troubles of a little boy who ran away with a CIFCUS.

HENRY HOLT & Co. present in "Young Folks' History of the War for the Union" a timely and aluable publication for the young. Somewhat more substantial probably than the majority of books looked for at this special season, but one that appeals to that large class of intelligent and inquiring youths who took so much pleasure in Mr. Champlin's "Young Folks' Cyclopædias." John D. Champlin, Jr., is also the editor of the present volume, and he displays in it his wellknown qualities of accuracy and thoroughness, and wonderful facility for putting facts in a style that is particularly fascinating to young minds. To these readers, the "War for the Union" seems almost as far distant as the Revolution, and they need just such a book to make its many heroic deeds, its romantic episodes, its soul-thrilling days of watching and waiting, its grand battles and wonderful sieges, its heroes and heroines, as familiar to them as "household words," It is full of illustrations, maps of battles and sieges, portraits, colored plates of Northern and Southern flags, and stirring war songs.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co., have published one book which covers almost the whole possible field of juvenile literature. It is "The Children's Book," edited by Mr. Scudder, author of the famous "Bodley Books," and contains in 450 double-column pages, fables, wonders, songs, popular tales, stories in verse, stories from Hans Christian Andersen, stories from the Arabian Nights, ballads, a voyage to Lilliput, poetry and ancient stories, all fully illustrated, tastefully bound, and having for frontispiece a beautiful colored picture by Rosina Emmet. "Boston Town," also by Mr. Scudder, describes the early history of Boston in a series of dialogues between an old gentleman and two boys, making a very entertaining book, and useful as well. "Recollections of Auton House, is an account of the amusing and grotesque performances of a large and very active family of boys and girls in Providence, with pictures that make the fun all the funnier, and that remind one very strongly of Hoppin. The only other juvenile issued by Houghton, and other eminent artists atrached to the designs, which are without exception graceful and beautiful. The elegant get-up of the book, its handsome page, paper, and binding, all recommend it to buyers of the very best class of Christmas publications.

Mifflin & Co. this season is a new edition of Mrs. Whitney's admirable book "Boys at Chequasset."

Ivison, Blakeman, Taylor & Co. are in the field this year, competing also for Christmas remembrance. They have a remarkably handsome book for young people, "The Golden Book of Tales," edited by William Swinton and George R. Cathcart, two names almost synonymous for good taste and excellent literary judgment. The book is a collection of readings, fairy tales, and folk-lore from the legendary treasures of all nations. The illustrations are numerous and highly artistic. We find the names of Gustave Doré, Cruikshank, Fredericks, Church, Hopkins, Moran, Sol. Eytinge, of the Caravan, Inn, and Palace," with the original illustrations.

IGNATIUS KOHLER, Philadelphia, has for the children at this season a Sunday school album, containing sixty-four texts from Holy Scripture, arranged after the German of Karl Gerok, with translations by Mary Welden. For the little ones it makes a very attractive little volume indeed, with its neat binding and gilt edges.

LEE & SHEPARD's new books for young people include "Young Americans in Japan," by Edmund Greey, describing the adventures of an American family in Japan and many curious customs and incidents, all illustrated with 175 pictures. This book is in size and style like Hall's "Drifting Round the World" which was so popular last year. "The Four-Footed Lovers," describes the exploits of calves, squirrels, a dog, and a cat, much as if they were children, with illustrative pictures by Miss Humphrey. Other books comprise a pruned and therefore improved "Young Folks' Robinson Crusoe," edited by Oliver Optic, with many illustrations, both full page and other; Oliver Optic's new story "Up the River," concluding

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. remember the children of all ages this year in a way to do their hearts good. For those who are old enough to appreciate travel and adventure, they have "Our Young Folks Abroad," in which is related the adventures of four American boys and girls in a journey through Europe to Constantinopie. The author, James D. McCabe, has been over the route a number of times, and his Great Western Series; "The Pocket Rifle," by J. T. Trowbridge, the fifth of the Silver Medal Stories, "Thorncliff Hall," by Rev Daniel Wise, D.D., the fourth and last book in the Winwood Cliff Series; "The Unseen Hand," Elijah Kellogg's new book, "The Double Runner Club," or the "Lively Boys of Rivertown," B. P. Shillaber's new story for boys, uniform with "Ike Partington," and "Ralegh," the fifth book in Geo. M. Towle's excellent series Heroes of History.

knows all about it, hence he is just the one to prepare the interesting volume before us. The plan of the volume is about the following: An American gentleman and his wife sail for Europe, taking with them their son and daughter, and their nephew and niece. They travel through England, France, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, and Italy, until they reach Geneva. From there, in a fast sailing yacht, they cruise in the Mediterranean, visiting Mentone, Monaco, Nice, and many other points, finally arriving at Constantinople. The places visited are described in a most entertaining manner, and every important point is illustrated. The external appearance of the book is well worth mentioning, the cover being descriptive of the subject. For lots more of the children Caballero's "Spanish Fairy Talea" will be a treat. It has so long been thought that there was no fairy literature in Spain, that very likely no one thinks at all of any fairies there, or of any "Grimm Brothers" to bring them to light. That there are many stories in the Spanish as attractive as those in the German, the lady who writes under the name of Fernan Caballero has proved in this collection, which has been excellently adapted to English readers by J. H. Ingram. The book is nicely illustrated, and the binding is very odd. Then, for both boys and girls, is the new Golden Acorn series of proverb stories, two volumes of which are now ready . "Every Man has his Golden Chance" and "A Brave Boy's Trials." For the little people a pretty gift is the Lambert series, in twelve small volumes, illustrated with pictures in colors. For still smaller people there is a "Treasury of Fairy Tales" in words of one syllable, by Harriet B. Audubon, and told in such a way as to be easily understood and enjoyed by them. Among the "Indestructible Books," while there is a new series illustrated by Kate Greenaway, and a number of new editions of the well-known Uncle Herbert's series, there is no one greater in demand or more appreciated by the wee ones than the "Picture Alphabet," by Cousin Daisy. This is probably the largest, as it is certainly the finest, specimen of printing on linen for books that there is, and well merits the approbation it has received.

D. LOTHROP & Co.'s new juvenile books are legion, all equipped with many attractive pictures, and tastefully bound. "A Family Flight through France, Germany, Norway, and Switzerland," is a charming book of adventures, sight-seeing, bits of history, and pictures, by Rev. E. E. Hale and Miss Susan Hale; "All Aboard for Sunrise Lands," by Edward A. Rand, describes a trip of several boys with their uncle over the Pacific to Japan, Australia, China, etc., with plenty of adventure, and 150 illustrations. "Wide Awake Pleasure Book, L" comprises the first six numbers of the excellent Wide Awake magazine for this year, with galore of stories, poems, travel sketches, and pictures, and a premium cover. books are, "On Board the Rocket," the story of a voyage to the East Indies, by Capt. "Christmas Carols and Midsummer Songs," is a very pretty book of poems and pictures by famous poets and artists; the "Autograph Birthday Book for Young People" has a poem for each month by a well-known poet, Longfellow, Whittier, Mrs. Whitney, Will Carleton, or some one of like celebrity, three hundred and sixty-five selections of poetry for the days of the year, 24 full-page illustrations, 12 illustraMACMILLAN & Co. have prepared this year a treat for the children in the shape of a new edition of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland," and "Through the Looking-Glass," in one volume. This edition contains all the illustrations contained in the original, and is bound in an attractive cloth cover. They will also have in time for the holidays another one of those charming stories, by Mrs. Molesworth, entitled "The Adventures of Herr Baby," with illustrations by Walter Crane; and "Milly and Olly; or, A Holiday among the Mountains," by Mrs. T. H. Ward, with a number of illustrations.

THE NATIONAL TEMPERANCE SOCIETY AND PUBLISHING HOUSE call attention to their many and various publications suitable for presents to Sunday-school scholars and others. The publications of this house are put up in neat and attractive bindings, are generally illustrated with one or more woodcuts, and sold separately and in sets.

Thos. Nelson & Sons have several of the most charming little gems of books printed in colors. As the children will say when they look at them, "They are just too sweet for anything." The largest is "Children Busy, Children Glad, Children Naughty, Children Sad," a book of child life, a small quarto, bound in fancy boards with an illuminated cover. The drawings are dainty in the extreme, and are from the pencil of T. Pym; they are accompanied by verses and stories by "L. C." Then there are "Puss in Hoots" and "Little Red

Written by Mary Seamer, and illustrated by the late Frank Howard. The Nelsons make a specialty of "box juveniles," and present this season a number of new ones, gotten up in very tasteful style, which make lovely Sunday school gifts, or acceptable additions to any juvenile library.

"The Giant of the North," a story of Polar adventure, is a new Ballantyne book for boys, as is also "The Redman's Revenge," a tale of the Red River thood. Kingston's last books which they offer are "Roger Willoughby" and "In the Wilds of Florida," both works that will charm boys. Besides these are books of adventure and travel, any one of which would be safe to purchase with a certainty of delighting any boy it is bestowed upon. The names alone are suggestive: "Stories of the Mountain and the Forest," "Berond the Himalayas," "Frank Powderhorn, a Story of Adventures in the JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co. have but two new juveniles, "Dimple Dopp," by Mrs. Laura S. H. Cooke, which has gained quite a large popularity for its story and the attractiveness of its style; and "The Glad Year Round," an exceedingly pretty Kale Greenaway book by Miss A. G. Plympton, who has succeeded in producing a thoroughly delightful gift-book, which cannot fail to be in great holiday demand.

PORTER & COATES publish " Dr Gilbert's Daughters," a new book for girls, by Margaret H. Mathews. It will be especially enjoyed by girls, for whom it is written, but the whole story has such a charming air of naturalness about it, and is told in such an entertaining way, that it cannot fail to interest even the older reader. In new and beautiful bindings the same publishers have just issued the famous Alger books, comprising the following well-known series. "Ragged Dick Series." "Tattered Tom Series," "Campaign Series," "Luck and Pluck Series," "Brave and Bold Series," and "Pacific Series." Horatio Alger, Jr., stands in the first rank of the writers of books for boys. His boys are real, and their counterparts are found in every large city, and the story of "how they rose in the world" is told with real pride. They are ambitious, energetic, truthful, daily resisting temptations and overcoming obstacles, and they push forward, win friends, and occupy honorable positions in society. There is a bright and healthy tone pervading Alger's books that makes them entertaining and at the same time elevating. "George at the Wheel; or, Life in a Pilot House," is a new book for the boys, by Harry Castlemon, author of the well-known "Boy Trapper Series" and other books popular with boys, who are always glad to hear of a new book by this favorite author. "Under the Dog-Star," a story for boys and girls, is by Margaret Vandegrift, one of the contributors to St. Nicholas, and the author of 'Clover Beach" The story is told by a dog, named "Jock," or rather "Englished" from the "Dog-Latin," which is, of course, the language spoken by the canine family. Every child who loves a dog will like it and will be interested in its many illustrations. "The Children's Book of Poetry," compiled and arranged by Henry T. Coates, editor of "The Fireside Encyclopædia of Poetry," though not new this year, must not be overlooked. It is fully il-Instrated and contains 555 poems, carefully se-lected from the works of the best and most

JOHN E. POTTER & Co., of Philadelphia, are publishing for the holidays finely and profusely illustrated editions of "Chatterbox for the Little Folks," "Chatterbox Good Stories," "Chatterbox Fairy Stories," and "Chatterbox Funny Animals" These editions will be printed on super calendered paper, and bound in very attractive illuminated covers.

L. Prang & Co. offer in their Natural History Series for Children an instructive as well as entertaining series of books, edited jointly by Mrs. A. M. Diaz, known to all the young folks as the author of the capital "William Henry Letters," and N. A. Calkins. The books are illustrated in colors, and comprise "Swimbeards with youthful hearts who can still find happy moments in the innocent pages of a fairy tale book,—and we are happy to say their name is legion.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have only one juvenile publication for this season—"Little Mook, and other Fairy Tales," viz.: "Long Nose the Dwarf;" "The Caliph Turned Stork;" "The Adventures of Said;" "The Stone-cold Heart," in two parts; and "The Story of the Silver Florin," by William Hauff—but that is a little gem both in reading matter and illustrations. Hauff is one of the standard writers in Germany for the young. His stones rank with those of the brothers Grimm, and they are equally as popular. They are not only rich in poetry and sentiment, but full of odd conceits and humorous situations and characters, which make them exceedingly popular even to the gray-the "Susy Books," said to be most interesting and delightful.

ROBERTS BROTHERS have several new juveniles, excellently available for gift purposes on holidays or birthdays. H. H. has a fresh cat story, "Mammy Tittleback and her Family," which is said to be "a true story of seventeen cats," and has illustrations by Addie Ledyard.
Susan Coolidge, a great favorite with young people, has skilfully adapted several myths of "Mother Goose," namely, "Cross Patch" (which gives name to the book), "Little Tommy Tucker," "Hark Hark," "Miss Jane,"
"The Old Woman who Lived in the Shoe," and "Simple Simon." These with 45 pictures make a book to gladden little folks with. Rev.
E, E. Hale has collected and arranged "Stories of Adventure," mostly as told by the adventwrers themselves, a book like his "Stories of War" and "Stories of the Sea," which have proved very popular. "Mrs. Overtheway's Remembrances," by Juliana Horatio Ewing, author of "Jan of the Windmill," "Six to Sixteen," with ten illustrations; "The Two Cabin Boys," a story of adventure by Louis Rousselet; and "Hector," by Flora L. Shaw, the author of "Castle Blair," are books to be examined before Christmas. One of the most inviting of Roberts' new books for young folks is "Around the Hub," a boys' book about Boston, by Samuel Adams Drake, who knows all there is to be known concerning the famous old city, and who has made a most instructive and entertaining volume of it, novel in plan and subject. "The History of a Ship from the Cradle to the Grave" will tell boys all about the building of that great mystery, a ship; "Things In-Doors and Out-Doors" tells by questions and answers everything one wants to know about common objects in everyday life—articles of food, industry, art, science, trees, flowers, buildings, and all trades and businesses or objects of interest found out-doors. Each subject too is elucidated by an illustration in the margin of the page. "Eminent Sailors," by W. H. Davenport Adams, is a series of biographies of great naval commanders, including an historical sketch of the British Navy from Drake to Collingswood. They have new editions of Prof. Hoffmann's

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & Sons have one book that child or grown person will covet just as soon as they get their eves upon it. This is "Mother Goose, or, The Old Nursery Rhymes," illustrated by Kate Greenaway. It is offered in an English and in an American edition, both equally desirable. It consists of little gems of pictures printed in colors, they are of exquisite delicacy and beauty of execution. and full of a charming humor. "Little Dignity" is a new book of pictures and thymes of olden times, by Virginia Gerson. Every page is a design, sometimes plain and sometimes in col-"Randolph Caldecott's Collection of Pictures and Songs" brings together in one volume Mr. Caldecott's popular series of eight picture-books. For boys and girls they have some new books by popular writers, very atretively illustrated and gotten up, and quite books, invaluable companions for reference for fireside amusements; they are called "Parlor Amusements and Evening Party Entertainments," "Modern Magic," and "Tricks with Cards." Of course "Little Wide-Awake for 1882" is in the market, with its wealth of illustrations and a bright colored frontispiece by Kate Greenaway. A tiny little book, unlform with Kate Greenaway's "Birthday-Book" of last season, and one that goes directly to the hearts of those who love the military and the marines, is Lieut.-Col. Seccombe's "Army and Navy Birthday-Book," with characteristic illustrations for every day in the year—and for each month in colors.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have added a new volume this year to the series of boy's classics of history and legend begun so auspiciously by the late Mr. Sidney Lanier with his "Boy's Froissart," and "Boy's King Arthur." It is called the "Boy's Mabinogion," and was also edited by Mr. Lanier. It is a collection of Welsh legends, which are supposed to contain the germ of the Arthurian romances, hence should be owned by every one interested in King Arthur and his court. It is illustrated by Alfred Fredericks and promises to be quite as popular a holiday book as its companion volumes. "The Floating Prince" embraces a number of fairy tales by Frank R. Stockton that have been delighting the young readers of plain, and illuminated illustrations, and "Margaret, the Moonbeam" is a story for the young, by Cecelia Lushington, as is also "The Three Frights," by Sarah Tytler. "Stories of the West," from Herodotus, by Rev. Alfred J. Church, author of "Stories from Home," is a book for boys classically inclined. It has illustrations in colors from ancient frescos and sculptures. The new Aunt Louisa book is entitled "Pinafores, Red Coats, and Blue

St. Nicholas during the past year. They are written in Mr. Stockton's happiest vein, and are imbued with a delicate irony and original fancy that make them very charming reading. They have full-page and letterpress illustrations, which are very humorous, and really embellish the book. "Phaeton Rogers" is a capital boy's book published recently. Rossiter Johnson is the author, and he has struck quite a new line in it a boy with an inventive genius whose experiments furnish both smiles and aighs for his friends and relatives. "The Quartet," by William O. Stoddard, is a sequel to "Dab Kinzer," and is full of fun and frolic, based upon the doings of "Dab" and his friends at college.

Scribner & Welford have a number of beautiful imported English juvenile books in colors: "The Cruise of the Walnut Shell," written and illustrated by André; "The Story of Androelus and the Lion;" "Eva's Mulberry Tree," and "A Winter Nosegay." These are all quartos with full-page illustrations. "Comic Insects" is an amusing book with colored,

HENRY A. SUMNER & Co., Chicago, call attention to their pretty fairy story, "Little Zee," by Julia Daniels Mosely, which, though not new this year, will no doubt be acceptable to the many who last year came too late. The volume, which is issued in two styles bound in cloth and in boards, has twelve unique and original illustrations, engraved especially for this book.

MARCUS WARD & Co., Philadelphia, offer the children this year a new and superbly printed art-book, entitled "At Home," which is admitted to be one of the most beautiful gift-books of the season. Its illustrations are of a character to bring delight to the heart of every boy or girl who may be fortunate enough to receive one.

It contains 60 splendid original illustrations in color by Charles Kendrick. "Sugar and Spice" is a London publication and one of the very finest of the kind we have seen. Specialties.

Dux acknowledgment should be made to the Burr Printing House for the successful issue of this Christmas number, which, in beauty of typography and presswork, surpasses even our best efforts of former years. No less praise should be accorded to their despatch in bringing the number out "on time"—an almost impossible task in view of the many difficulties that beset such a work. Further acknowledgment should be made to Messrs. W. D. Wilson & Co. for their share in the work. The superior ink with which this number is printed is from their well-known manufactory. And last, but not least, the paper is from Messrs. Jessup & Moore, whose name is a sufficient guarantee for its quality.

AIKIN, LAMBERT & Co. offer this year their usual attractive assortment of ornamental and plated goods, in the line of penholders, slide, telescopic, pen and pencil cases, pearl and ivory holders, pencils and their well-known sizes of gold pens. They have also many new patterns in pencil charms, which are suitable for holiday gifts.

THE NOVES DICTIONARY-HOLDER should not be overlooked in the crowd of suitable holiday gifts. It is so handy and is such a labor saving and time-saving device that countless blessings and orders innumerable have been showered upon the inventor. The holder has been further improved by the addition of receptacles for newspapers and periodicals.

WHITE & STOKES have a novelty for Christmas use in their "Christmas Owl," a book cut in the shape of an owl perched on a chimney top, the pages full of appropriate poems by Mrs. Martha J. Lamb, with quaint and taking outline illustrations. The appearance of the owl as he perches among the stockings by the fireplace is certain to delight the children.

LOCKWOOD BROOKS & Co., whose "American Poets' Calendar" was so well received last year, have issued a similar Calendar for 1882, handsomely lithographed and neatly printed, and giving bright and appropriate quotations for every day in the year, together with valuable postal information. The "Poets Calendar" will prove an attractive desk companion to all persons of literary tastes.

THE CENTURY COMPANY has added to its list of popular games "The Stratford Game of Char acters and Quotations," and "The Stratford Solitaire," the aim of which is to render the players familiar with leading characters and special passages in Shakespeare's plays. "The Protean Cards," still hold a favorite place in the list of games, and are always acceptable additions to the diversions of the home circle.

A GENTLE reminder is not amiss to the generous buyers of wedding and holiday presents that there is a new Rogers group in the market, "Fetching the Doctor," a spirited representation of a horse at full gallop, bearing two figures on his back—a small boy and a country doctor. Mr. John Rogers calls attention to his numerous other groups as among the most popular and reasonable art objects offered for sale.

A. J. Holman & Co., of Philadelphia, whose family and pulpit Bibles have attained so universal a reputation, and whose editions of the Revised New Testament have had such a flattering reception, are now occupying their new building at 1222 Arch Street, a description of which has already been given in the Werkly. Here they possess every possible facility for the production of their publications. For the holiday season of this year they present a most complete variety of photograph albums, embracing bindings of morocco, russia, levant, calf, and velvet. Their edition of the Revised New Testament, octavo in size, is illustrated with over one hundred new engravings, and the bindings are of the most attractive style for Christmas gifts to persons of all ages.

Peter Paul & Brother, Buffalo, whose novel publication of the "Christmas Stocking" proved very popular last year, send out an equally unique novelty for the holidays under the title of "Kriss Kringle's Greeting." Shaped something like the window of a gothic chapel or a minio-ball, it is a capital projectile to shoot into the waiting stocking, and consists of several clearly printed pages bound together with a silk ribbon, between covers which give the jolly saint on the front and the festive holly on the back. The text consists of choice original and selected poems in English, German, and French, and translations from the Swedish, with two Christmas carols set to music. A finer edition heavily bordered with old-gold silk fringe and tied with white allk ribbon and tassels is very rich and tasty.

BAKER, PRATT & Co. have for the holiday trade a bewildering supply of novelties, to which they are adding by every steamer. The demand for new designs in the line of fancy goods is one which grows with the growth of public tasts and fancy, and the trade in novelues is constantly on the increase. This house, which has always given especial attention to this line of goods, offers this season many new articles, such as odor cases in plush, satin, silk, velvet, and olive wood; nail sets, toilet sets, gilt goods, glove, handkerchief and jewel boxes, travellers' dressing cases, etc., all of which will find ready sale at the holiday season. A great variety of ivory goods is also offered, special pains having been taken in the selection of paper knives, penholders, match-boxes, etc. The line of portfolios embraces some two hundred and fifty varieties. As the American agents of Herman Lehman, of Offenbach, their stock of imported goods in leather is pocultarly attractive, and this line isofurther supplemented by a choice assortment of domestic goods in alligator and russia.

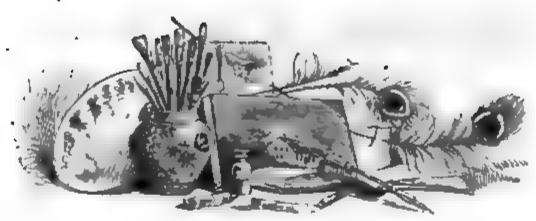

MILTON BRADLEY & Co. increase the already large debt of gratitude which the children owe them by the issue this year of several new and amusing games. Prominent among these is the "Historiscope Improved," or movable panorama, with accompanying lecture, poster, and tickets of admission. It is a vividly colored panorama of American history, and may be made a source of much amusement and instruction. In the same line is the "Menagerie and Aquarium," which will delight the heart of many an incipient showman and his entranced audience. The "Little Object Teacher" combines instruction with amusement, and by its colored tablets and movable letters is an attractive object-teacher for many an inquiring child. A new box of matched pictures, presenting "Scenes in the Far West," is accompanied with directions and diagrams which enable the children to represent many characteristic Western scenes. The games of "Old Maid Improved" and "Authors Improved" present new designs and novel features, and afford endless amusement in the home circle. Similar pleasure may be taken also in the new "Poetical Conversation Cards," while the "Visit to the Gypsies" and the "Excursion to Coney Island" are new adaptations of the old conversation games, where the introduction of irrelevant sentences and remarks in the course of the story affords much food for laughter and exclamation.

L. Pranc & Co. offer this year an unusually attractive line of Christmas and New Year's Cards. All of these new issues are pretty and presentable, some of them are exceptionally artistic. The finer styles require the greatest care in all the details of production, and it is not to be wondered at that in almost every home which is brightened by the annual receipt of these messengers of good-will, the Prang cards are carefully kept for household decoration or artistic adornment. The Prize Cards of the year are from designs by Elihu Vedder, Dora Wheeler. C. C. Coleman, and Rosina Emmet, with appropriate verses by Celia Thaxter while among the other artists who have furnished designs may be mentioned Thomas Moran, W. H. Gibson, F. S. Church, R. G. Birch, Mrs. O. E. Whitney, and others. As was the case last year, the cards are issued some with and some without the silk fringe, which was regarded as an especially attractive setting, and all fringed cards are furnished with protectors and envelopes, so as to insure safe transportation in the mails. Both single and double cards are issued, the folding ones having proved very acceptable to purchasers, and in many cases the backs of the cards are as finished in design and preparation as the fronts. The Prize Cards are elaborately set, mounted on panels or furnished with silk fringe and cord and tassels for hanging when desired, Very beautiful too are the "Goddess Fortune, a New Year's card by Elihu Vedder, and the "Christmas Dove," similar in style to the successful " Easter Dove," issued as an Easter Card last spring. They have also elegant and suitable holiday gifts in their easel mats and handpainted plaques,

"On the sunshing bench of a tavern He sits and he prates of old wars."

"All the drawings are effective, and many of them are of a high order of excellence, from the group of old soldiers fighting their battles o'er, which Mr. Frost has bathed in a flood of golden sunshine, to the tall guillotine which Mr. Pyle has set up in the black night with a fearful glint of a stray moonbeam on the sharp edge of its knife. And what poem is more worthy of such rich pictorial setting than this of Thackeray's? His stalwart stanzas, if they do not stir the blood like the blare of a trumpet, at least give it a start like the roll of the drum whose adventures they chronicle."—The Philadelphia Press.

This grand Edition de Luxe forms a magnificent imperial volume, printed by Messrs. Dalziel Brothers, on the finest hand-made paper. The illustrations are engraved in the highest style of art, and are printed in Proof, on real China Paper, and mounted with the Letter-press of the work. The Binding is in richly ornamented vellum, and is an excellent example of the best period of the bookbinder's art. The whole American Edition will not exceed Three Hundred copies, and no more will be printed. Each copy is numbered, and delivery will be made according to the dates on which the orders are received. The price is $40.00.

 This superb work is not only a worthy successor to the Fine Art Publications of past seasons, but it is confidently presented to the public as exhibiting a material advance in general interest, profusion and delicacy of the illustrations, exquisite design of the binding, and the artistic elegance which is lavished on its every detail. Those who would form a correct opinion of English Character and become acquainted with the Natural Scenery and Picturesque Beauty of the England which has been the theme of the greatest poets and painters, must, as Washington Irving says. "go forth into the country; he must sojourn in villages, and hamlets; he must visit castles, villas, farm-houses, cottages; he must wander through parks and gard ns, along hedges and green lanes; he must loiter about country churches, attend wakes and fairs and other rural festivals, and cope with the PEOPLE in all their conditions, and in all their habits and humors." To enable the reader to do this under the graphic guidance of the author of "Rural England," with the aid of modern artists whose eminence is world-wide, is the object of this noble volume, a ver table souvenir of much that is brightest and best in English life.

A BIRTHDAY BOOK

HER ROYAL HIGHNESS THE PRINCESS BEATRICE.

The Work is printed in Colors on hand-made paper, and is illustrated by 15 full-page Water-Color Drawings, reproduced in the highest style of Chromo-lithography.

One Elegant Volume, Imperial 4to, Cloth, Full Gilt, $13.50.

Book" by the Princess Beatrice. It is well known that the splendid education of the Royal Family enables its members to occupy a distinguished position among amateur artists. The Queen herself both draws and etches on copper with great freedom and spirit. Her teacher was the veteran artist, Richard Westall, so well known by his book illustrations. Her eldest daughter, the future Empress of Germany, has frequently contributed works of high character to the Water Color Exhibition; and the marble busts of her Mother and Brothers, by the Princess Louise, are worthy of advanced professional reputation. The youngest of the sisterhood, H. R. II. the Princess Beatrice, has not hitherto been so well known in an artistic capacity, and the appearance of a charming illustrated volume, with her name as designer on the title-page, marks an era in English society, and proclaims the equality of all classes in the great republic of art and letters. The floral drawings, in illustration of the months, are of a grace and fancy that would do honor to any name; while the care and elaboration requisite for their production is so great that it is found impossible to increase the number prepared for sale before Christmas, as no new supply can be get ready previous to the spring. That the volume will be one displaying exquisite taste in its embellishments and adornments it is unnecessary to insist upon, and its possession will be a boon highly coveted, from the number of competitors beyond the very limited supply that is attainable.

The clever adaptation of the old saws to the pictures, and the many clever conceits in this child's book, should make it a prime favorite."

The Revised Portfolio

OF

PROOF IMPRESSIONS

OF THE CHOICEST PICTURES FROM

SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY AND ST. NICHOLAS,

Selected from the two Portfolios already issued.

THE CENTURY Co. have issued a new portfolio of 'Selected Proofs,' which differs from the two others already published in being selected from those selections. Inside the covers of this book can be found perhaps a greater number and variety of high-class wood-engravings than in any volume ever issued in this country. But not only are the first American engravers represented here, but a number of our best-known artists, such as Vedder, Page, W. H. Chase, Wyatt Eaton, Homer Martin, T. Moran, Mary Hallock Foote, Geo. Inness, Jr., La Farge, Abbey, R. Swain Cifford, Blum, etc. Contemporary European art is represented by Millet's famous 'Sower,' and reproductions of the work of Fortuny, Whistler, Gabriel Max, Millais, Seymour Haden, and others. Exquisite copies can be found here of Leonardo and other old masters.

"But one of the most interesting features of the portfolio is the number of fine portraits it contains—those of Bryant, Savonarola, Modjeska, Seymour Haden, Peter the Great, Walt Whitman, Whistler, Duveneck, Whittier, Poe, the Countess Potocka, Joseph Jefferson, Lincoln, Whistler, Milton, Holmes, Ristori, and Gladstone.

"No one who has watched the progress of wood-engraving in America can fail to be interested in this extraordinary collection. All the modern styles and methods are here represented; and especially that manner of engraving for which 'Scribner's' (now THE CENTURY MAGAZINE) has gained such high reputation, both at home and abroad. But as a collection of beautiful and valuable pictures it has a still wider interest."

The un que cover of the "Selected Proofs" is from a design by the well-known architect, Mr. Stanford White.

The price of the bound book is $6.00, or, with the proofs unbound and laid in a box ready for framing, $5.00.

A PORTRAIT OF THE LATE DR. J. G. HOLLAND.

The publishers of THE CENTURY MAGAZINE, believing that an authentic and life-like portrait of the Editor-in-chief of that magazine would be welcomed by thousands of readers, had issued a large photograph of Dr. Holland (from a crayon portrait by Wyatt Eaton), just before his sudden and unexpected death. That sad event will lend an additional value and interest to this picture. The retail prices are as follows:

IN CONNECTION WITH A YEAR'S SUBSCRIPTION TO THE CENTURY MAGAZINE.

We will send THE CENTURY MAGAZINE (SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY) FOR ONE YEAR, with the portrait of Dr. Holland, mounted, for $6.50.

The Magazine for one year with the portrait framed, for $11.50.

The portrait and a two years' subscription, $10.00; or with the portrait framed, $15.00.

1.3" Book-sellers and news-dealers throughout the country will supply the portraits and reader and scription; on the above terms.

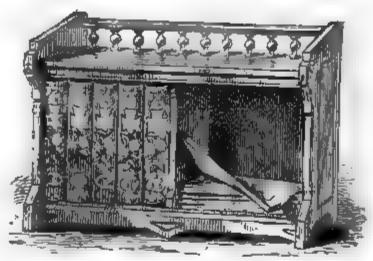

THE BOUND VOLUMES

OF

ST. NICHOLAS,

AN ILLUSTRATED MONTHLY MAGAZINE FOR YOUNG FOLKS.

Nearly 2000 pages and as many illustrations.

THESE volumes have taken their place as standard gift-books for boys and girls; they grow better and more popular with each succeeding year. The new volume, now ready, is an advance upon any of its predecessors in beauty of illustration and in special features.

The yearly numbers of the volumes are now bound in two parts—each complete in itself as a book, but being only half a volume. They can be handled in this divided shape much more readily, and with less injury to the binding, than could the bulkier volumes.

The price is $2.50 for each part, or $5.00 for the twelve months complete. The early volumes are sold for $4.00—the twelve months bound together. By this schedule of prices all buyers can be suited; for St. Nicholas can now be had at $2.50, $4.00, $5.00, or $6.00 (the last-named price is that of the two parts of the volumes in full gilt). For sale by all book-sellers.

The Baltimore Gazette said recently: "The bound volume of St. NICHOLAS is about the best present that can be made to an intelligent child?

Popular Games, by the Editor of St. Nicholas.

THE PROTEAN CARDS, OR THE BOX OF FIFTY GAMES.

"" * " The cards are not regular playing cards, such as are used in Whist, Euchre, Old Sledge, Vingt'un, and Poker; but they are moral cards—harmless cards—cards that may be played with propriety by church-members; cards that you can play with a party of ladies; cards that your children can take a hand at; and, withal, just as interesting to play with as the simonpure, and more suitable for a large party of ladies and gentlemen."—Charleston Daily News.

"One of the most ingenious games yet published."—Hartford Courant.

THE STRATFORD GAME of Characters and Quotations,

THE STRATFORD SOLITAIRE.

THE STRATFORD GAME renders the players familiar with the names of the principal characters and many of the finest passages in Shakespeare's plays, and, though children can readily participate in the game, may fitly interest a Shakespearean scholar. In fact, the more intelligent and cultivated the players, the more spirited the game.

THE STRATFORD SOLITAIRE has no superior as a single-handed diversion. At once functions, provoking, and patience-rewarding, it is just the thing to cheer the lonely, and give wings to an otherwise.

AN UNIQUE HOLIDAY BOOK.

Tennyson's "Lady of Shalott."

DECORATED BY HOWARD PYLE.

Elegant volume, small quarto, richly bound in cloth, $6; in full morocco. $

The art of color printing, which has been confined to books for children, is here for the first time applied to the illustration of a standard poem. The decoration is somewhat mediæval in character, thus according with the period in which the scene of the poem is laid. The conventionalized dragons and birds that form the gorgeous initials remind one of some quaint missal of the Middle Ages, while the full-page designs, in their rich color, are fairly dazzling.

 A Specimen Page from "The Lady of Shalott" will be found in this number of THE PUBLISHERS' WREKLY.

While giving clearly a survey of the main facts in the history of art, it is not a dry catalogue of names and dates, but interest and enthusiasm are awakened in the mind of the student.

Young Folks' Robinson Crusoe.

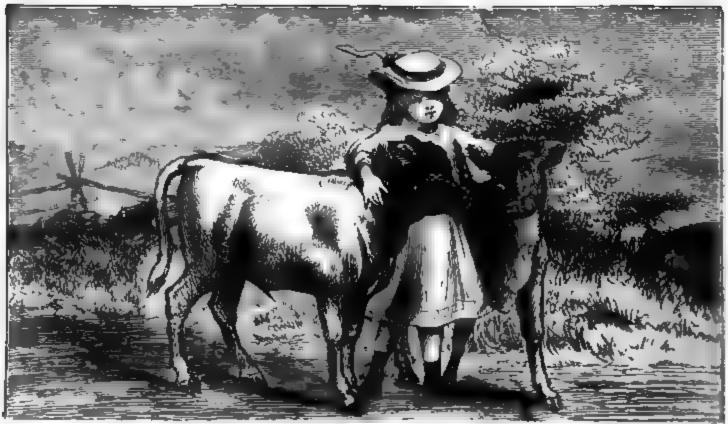

BY A LADY. EDITED BY OLIVER OFFIC.

With numerous full-page and letter-press (flustrations. Boards, Illuminated Sides, $1.45.

[Adapted for supplementary Reading in Schools.]

The great merit of DeFoe's work is its naturalness; it seems to be exactly what it purports to be, the narrative of a profane, ill-educated, runaway apprentice of the seventeenth century and; with perfect consistency of character, even his better feelings have a stamp of vulgarity and superstation. But can such a tale, though perfect in itself, be suited to children who have been carefully guarded from all profameness? It was written for grown persons, particularly for that class to which the hero is supposed to belong, and the very skilfal manner in which it was adapted to them makes it unfit for the perusal of children * * It occurred to the writer of the following story, that the fascination of DeFoe's hero might be enlisted on the side of industry, perseverance, resignation to the will of God, and numerous other good qualities of which he might be supposed to be an example. With this view, the Young Folks' Robinson Crusot is here represented as an annable, well-educated youth, trained to hab its of observation and reflection, and capable of pure and exalted feelings of religion-a hero, in short, whom children may safely love and admire, yet not faultless, or they could not sympathiae with ldm."-Preface.

The Life and Love of a Hindu Princess.

By HARRY W. FRENCH, Author of "Castle Foam," "Gems of Genius," "Ego," &c.

The author has endeavored not only to make an entertaining society novel, but also to weave the great principles of life everywhere into a thoroughly Oriental web, for which his intinate knowledge of the Hindons, and his life among them, in their homes and native cities, have particularly fitted him. At this early date it is impossible to give the opinions of the press; but the written comment of the literary critic, to whom the manuscript was submitted, was, "I have never in my life read ruch a strangely and intensely interesting story."

BY MARY D. BRINE.

Designed and Illustrated by LOUIS C. TIFFANY & CO.,
Associated Artists of New York.

Engraved by GEO. T. ANDREW, of Boston, Mass.

Presswork by the UNIVERSITY PRESS of Cambridge, Mass.

HIS book will be accepted on both sides of the ocean as the most noteworthy piece of art in book form that the year has produced. It has been Mr. Tiffany's idea to make the shape, size, and color of the pages so harmonize with the quaint lettering of the text and with the design in which the text is imbedded that the whole shall be a carrying out of a single artistic purpose. It is not often that a book is treated in this conscientious way; indeed, it is not often that a man like Tiffany designs a book at all, and we mistake the public mind if this work does not have a success as rare as its quality is."—The Liverpool [England] Mail.

"A marvel of sumptuous art."-The Home Yournal.

"Mrs. Mary D. Brine, whose contributions have often graced the columns of Harper's Weekly, has written a series of touching and beautiful poems, called 'My Boy and I; or, On the Road to Skumberland.' Every mother's heart will recognize their sweetness and pathos."—Harper's Weekly.

I. Church of the Civil Wars.

III. and IV. Church of the Restoration.

V. Church of the Revolution. II. Church of the Commonwealth.

VI. Church in the Georgian Era.

"There is no need to eulogize Dr. Stoughton's learned research, impartiality, thoughtfulness, picturesque style, and thorough appreciation of the religious, political, and social life of the 17th century. The monographs of individual lives are simply charming. The characters, sketched with discrimination and vigor, seem to live and move before us. The human actors and their surroundings can be realized as distinctly in these pages as in any of the brilliant climatic passages of the elegant Macaulay."—Christian World.

ARMSTRONG'S PRIMER OF UNITED STATES HISTORY.

For School and Family Use. 1 vol., square 16mo, with 6 beautifully colored maps, from original drawings, 50 cents.

"A modern historical primer, full in its statements, discriminating in its selection of events, clear and direct in its style, and comprehensive in its general outline of American affairs. The value of such a book is apparent at a glance. Of large histories of the United States there is no lack, but of shorter histories there is great need. A work of this character, thoroughly trustworthy in its statements, is of almost equal importance to the young student and to the general reader. It represents an amount of work of which its brief pages give no impression. To condense, and yet omit nothing essential to the complete statement of events, requires the fullest command of the subject and the most intelligent understanding of the mutual relations of all the facts involved."-N. Y. Christian Union.

Barth; and " A Manual of Hindu Pantheism."

WHO BREAKS? WHO PAYS?

THE careful reader of the Publishers' WEEKLY cannot be surprised at the bursting of the "revolution" bubble. It is simply the solution of that "arithmetical problem" which the manager so persistently evaded in his epistles to the WEEKLY. Nor will the student of human nature be surprised at the folly of the victims. It is an every-day's experience. It is the same reckless folly that places implicit trust in the sanctimonious bank-cashier; it is the same effrontery which is the open sesame where honesty and industry in vain may plead for a hearing. Mundus vult decipi! He who has faith in the simplicity of the world, combined with that "sanguine temperament" and unbending will which rule it, is fully equipped to sway the "millions." The following is the tale as published in the Sunday papers of New York:

"During the past two or three months rumors have been current in business circles of the financial unsoundness of the American Book Exchange, and yesterday the truthfulness of the rumors was demonstrated by the appointment of a receiver for that company. The exact amount of the liabilities is not stated and there are conflicting reports as to the ability of the managers of the company to extricate themselves from this financial embarrassment. It is conceded by those who are in a position to know all of the facts, that the Exchange has, since its organization, been doing a very large business on a comparatively small capital, and the fact that all of its numerous publications have been put upon the market at extraordinary low prices has not only aroused the animosity of many rival publishers, but has given !

rise to quite a general belief that no money was being made by the company. It was on the application of Mr. E. B. Mack to Judge Donahue, in Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday afternoon, that the receiver was appointed. The appointee was Mr. Sands F. Randall, a lawyer, of No. 158 Broadway, and he was required to give bonds to the amount of $50,000. The order of the court requires the receiver to take title for all parties in interest, so that there shall be no preferences nor priority allowed to any individual creditor."

"In the trade yesterday it was learned that the Exchange had been carried for several months past by a syndicate of creditors holding claims of over $80,000. They have endeavored to rescue the institution in order that their own interests might be protected. It is understood that the electrotype plates of many of the publications of the Exchange, together with other property, have been put up as collateral to secure the creditors as far as possible. It is claimed that it will be to their interest to come forward and provide means for the rescue of Mr. Alden's enterprise, as it is predicted that they will do. Further liabilities are quoted at upward of $50,000 in debts, and there are contingent liabilities to an amount unknown, there being a legal question as to their character."

In reference to the liability of the stockholders Mr. Alden is reported to have stated in a circular that "according to the laws of the State of New York, under which the company is organized, after the authorized capital of the company has been paid up, there is no liability whatever on the part of a stockholder. But until the entire amount of the authorized capital, $250,000, is paid up, each stockholder, in case of the failure of the company, is liable for an amount not exceeding the par value of the stock which he holds."

We learn from the N. Y. Tribune that "a meeting of the creditors of the American Book Exchange was held [November 30] at No. 764 Broadway. John B. Alden, the late manager, submitted a printed statement in reference to the best way to continue the business. He suggested that the receiver should wind up the affairs of the Book Exchange as a corporation as early as possible. The bindery has already been leased on favorable terms for a short period, and the printing office can also be leased. There are orders on the books for over 4000 Encyclopædias, which the receiver can sell at a profit. Mr. Alden purposes to form a new company to cooperate with the receiver. The new company proposes to lease the printing office and bindery and arrange with the owners of the plates heretofore used by the Book Exchange for their rental or purchase. The new company will undertake to pay to the creditors of the old concern a royalty of 10 per cent on the gross sales of all publications, until from this and other sources they are paid in full. The new company proposes to purchase the entire plant of the bindery and printing office. Provision is also to be made to continue the weekly newspaper, Good Literature, the new company to pay a commission of 25 cents for each annual subscription received until they reach the sum of $2000. Mr. Alden was asked for a statement of assets and liabilities, but stated that he had not had time to prepare one. The unsecured liabilities were inside of $60,000."

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT.

[The following letter should be read in connection with the extracts from the N Y Tribune, commenced in the issue of THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, Nov. 5, p. 577.]

VIEWS OF G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS. From the N. Y. Tribune, Oct. 31.

Sir. Your London correspondent devotes his letter of September 28 to the vexed question of international copyright, taking as his text a recent communication of Mr. Edward Marston to the Landon Times on the proposed treaty. Mr. Smalley speaks of this treaty as expressing the present views of "a few leading publishing firms in New York, Boston and Philadel phia, who. . . . while formerly the bitterest opponents of an Anglo-American copyright," are now "the advocates of Anglo-American copyright of a certain sort," and he comments at some length upon what appears to him to be the selfishness and unfairness of the provision in the treaty prescribing that a book, to secure protection in a foreign country, must be reprinted in such country within three months of its original publication.

We are ourselves among the publishers who have taken an active interest in the preparation of the proposed treaty, although we do not belong to the class your correspondent speaks of as so recently "bitter opponents" of any measure, as our firm has, ever since 1837, worked actively and consistently in behalf of the most liberal international copyright obtainable. We write now, however, more especially to place on record the fact that a number of the arms who signed the petition to the State Department in behalf of the treaty now under consideration did so under protest so far as this three months' clause was concerned, and three of them, Messrs Charles Scribner's Sons, Henry Holt & Company, and Roberts Brothers, united with us in an expression of dissent from this clause, which was printed in the Publishers' Weekly in December, 1880.

Their signatures were given to the measure as it stood because they would otherwise have apparently placed themselves outside of the movement in behalf of a treaty, and because stress was laid on the importance of the publishers uniting in support of a measure of some kind. But it was understood that there would doubtless be opportunity to give further consideration to all points of detail.

Our Mr. G. H. Putnam put into shape in October, 1880, a fuller consideration of the objections to this three months' limitation. The treaty, as now drafted, still contains this limitation, and you may therefore think it worth while to give space to this consideration of the objections to such limitation, from an American standpoint. As Mr Smalley takes the ground that this three months' clause expresses the views of American publishers, and that "the selfishness and short-sightedness" of those publishers stand in the way of the success of a treaty, it seems to us proper to make clear that a number of American publishers are, and always have been, in favor of a wider and more liberal policy, and are as well able "to come into court with clean hands" as is the distinguished London pubilisher to whose views Mr. Smalley gives his approval. Yours respectfully, G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20, 1881.

OBITUARY.

OSCAR HENRY HARPEL, a Western poet and printer of considerable reputation, died in Louisville on Sunday, Nov. 20. He published several books, among them his "Typograph; or, Book of Specimens," an elaborate typographical work, which was awarded a medal and diploma for merit and good taste at the Vienna Exposition in 1873.

DUNCAN M. ROBB, a well-known bookseller of Baltimore, where he has done an extensive business at 84 West Fayette St, died at his residence in that city on Sunday, November 13. Mr. Robb was a nephew of City Register Robb, of Baltimore, and was a member of the 5th Maryland Regiment. He was an energetic business man and was said to have the largest stock of new and second-hand books south of Philadelphia.

JOHN HYNES, well known to the trade in this city as having been for several years past in charge of the extensive outside business of the house of M. J. Hynes, of this city, died suddenly on Thursday, November 10, at the early age of 25. An efficient assistant of his brother, Mr. Michael J. Hynes, in the conduct of his large business, his knowledge of the trade and of the many details of the second-hand book business, his genial manner and kindly disposition made him a general favorite and gave him a large circle of acquaintances, who will regret his sudden and unexpected death. Mr. Hynes was a member of the 71st Regt., N. G. S. N. Y.

ROBERT SHELTON MACKENZIE, D.C.L., writer and journalist, died in Philadelphia on the moruing of Monday, Nov. 21. Dr. Mackenzie was born in Ireland in 1809, and most of his early life was passed in England as editor or writer in connection with various English newspapers. In 1852 he came to this country and in 1857 became literary and foreign editor of the Philadelphia Press. The name of Dr. Mackenzie was familiar to most of our American publishers as a friendly, but discriminating critic as well as a prolific author and compiler. His life was passed in intimacy and correspondence with the leading literary men and politicians of his time; his writings overflow with anecdotes of noted persons, which are chiefly found in his edition of the "Noctes Ambrosiana."

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE North American Review, beginning with next year, will be issued by its editor, who has always owned and controlled the publication.

By special arrangement with the London publishers of the Quarterly and the Edinburgh Reviews, Houghton, Mifflia and Co. will after this year have the exclusive sale of these periodicals in and for America.

POTTER'S MONTHLY for December will contain among others an article descriptive of the "Old North Church," Boston, illustrated from sketches by the artists, Mayer Brothers, and a biographical sketch of the late Dr. Holland, from the pen of a leading American writer. This will be accompanied by a portrait of the subject.

THE WYOMING MONTHLY is a new literary venture published monthly by Mr. C. Wells Moulton, Buffalo. It is "devoted to the study of literature, to original literature, current literature, and college life," and has modelled some of its special features after the Literary News, to which it gives due credit. It is an attractive, well-printed, and readable periodical, and while appealing for support to all who are interested in literature, aims especially to create a constituency among the live colleges of the land. It is published at $2 per year.

Wide Awaks for 1882 announces its coming in a prospectus crowded with the promise of good things—a promise which, as its host of readers know, will be fully and faithfully kept. The names of some of the best known of the popular authors appear as positive contributors, while the new educational feature (the reading course for young folks) includes numerous topics of interest. A special attraction will be the appearance during the year of the prize frontispieces, already selected by a prize competition.

PRESLEY BLAKISTON, Philadelphia, will publish, December 1, the initial number of a new journal which will be known as the Ophthalmic Review, and will be a complete monthly record of the latest material in ophthalmic science. The leading editors are Karl Grossman, of Liverpool, and Priestly Smith, of Birmingham, England, who will be assisted by able specialists, both in this country and elsewhere abroad. An especial feature of the journal is to be its provision for the publication of brief original articles. Among early prominent contributors may be mentioned Mr. Jonathan Hutchinson and Mr. George Critchett.

THE CENTURY COMPANY send out the bound volumes of Scribner's Monthly and St. Nicholas for the past year, constituting volumes 20 and 21, of the former magazine, and volume 8 (parts t and 2) of the latter. Volume 2t of Scribner's has Millet's "Sower" as a frontispiece, and volume 22 has Cole's head of Carlyle. The two volumes contain 1928 octavo pages, with 690 woodcuts, and in appearance and contents are a notable and significant proof of the great progress made in magazine work—a progress largely due to the efforts and successes of this very magazine. Of St. Nicholas what that is now can be said? As the N. Y. Tribune says: "It is very easy to praise this magazine which, from the initial to the last number, has supplied its own standard." These two latest volumes are handsomely bound and richly filled, and of themselves constitute one of the most acceptable gifts that can be made to any intelligent child.

BUSINESS NOTES.

NEW YORK CITY.—Dick & Fitzgerald, publishers, have dissolved partnership. William B. Dick continues under same style.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. are preparing a new uniform edition of Bret Harte's writings, including all he has yet published, in five volumes.

A LADY recently called at a Western bookstore for a book on Knitting, Embroidery, etc. The boy in attendance handed her a copy of "Mrs. Partington's Knitting Work."

The fourth edition of "Cape Cod Folks," just issued by A. Williams & Co., appears with the name of the author, Sally Pratt McLean, Simsbury, Conn., on the title-page,

The demand for the new edition of Miss Alcott's writings, in eight volumes, proves the wisdom of Roberts Brothers in bringing it out; upward of a thousand sets have been sold already.

A. S. BARNES & Co. have reprinted the papers on Verrazzano, the explorer, contributed by the Rev. B. F. De Costa to the Magazine of American History. The edition is limited to 50 copies.

ROSSITER JOHNSON has prepared a full index to Hawthorne's works, which Houghton, Mifflin & Co. will publish in a volume uniform with the Little Classic edition; also uniform with the 12mo edition.

D & J. SADLIER & Co have recently issued "Household Science; or, Practical Lessons in Home Life," by the author of "Golden Sands;" and "The Twelve Sisters," a box of twelve little books for very little children.

G. W. CARLETON & Co. have recently issued Dr. Isaac I. Hayes' recollections of a journey among the mountains and icebergs of Greenland; this is to be followed soon by similar volumes relating to Iceland and the Arctic sea.

D. VAN NOSTRAND has just issued two lectures on the "Kinematics of Machinery," by Prof. A. B. W. Kennedy, delivered at the South Kensington Museum, with an introduction by Prof. Thurston, of the Stevens Technological Institute.

George Barrie, of Philadelphia, announces an elaborate work on "Modern French Art," being a series of monographs on the best French artists of the present day, illustrated with a number of fine plates; it will be sold by subscription.

JOHN MURPHY & Co., Baltimore, have in press "The Sanctuary Boys' Illustrated Manual," prepared by Rev. Jas. A. McCallen, S.S., some time Master of Ceremonies at the Cathedral, Baltimore; and "The Holy Man of Tours; or, Life of Leon Papin Dupont."

ESTES & LAURIAT publish two editions of Hudson's "Shakespeare," the Student's and the University, the former in twelve volumes, the latter in six. These are good editions, but must not be confounded with Hudson's new Harvard edition just published by Ginn, Heath & Co.

ARTHUR HINDS, of Hempstead, L. I., has issued a text-book, entitled "Some Topics in English Grammar," in which he tries to give only such teachings as are free from rules that belong to Latin, Greek, or Anglo-Saxon rather than to the English tongue as now spoken. It is intended for teachers, pupils, and general readers.

- "WE are told," says the Critic, "by a person who had it on good authority, that Dean Stanley was the author of that much-talked-of book, 'Rabbi Jeshua,' which appeared not long ago in England. The 'authority' referred to is a prominent Jewish rabbi in London, who says that the dean came to him for some of his materials."
- G. P. PUTNAM'S Sons have sent out copies of the preface prepared by Mr. Mallock for the revised edition of his "Romance of the Nineteenth Century." The book has attracted so much attention, and has provoked so much discussion, that every reader of the volume will wish to have this explanation, by the author to his critics, as to its real purpose and character.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have in press a new story, entitled "Dick Netherby," by Mrs. L. B. Walford, the popular author of "Cousins," etc. It will be issued soon. It is said that the grace and spirit of Mrs. Walford's stories are reflected in her face, which is one of pure outlines, womanly softness, and refined intellectual strength. She is a young and prosperous Englishwoman.

- A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. will publish immediately, in a handsome form, a volume compiled and edited by Wm. Oland Bourne—"Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep"—the prayer of childhood in literature and song. It comprises a number of interesting incidents of the children's prayer, in the history of divines, statesmen, soldiers, as well as of the aged and the young.
 - J. W. Bradley & Co., Philadelphia, have issued a new and enlarged edition of "The Ladies of the White House," by Laura C. Holloway (one of the editors of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle). It contains a lengthy sketch of Mrs. Garfield's life and of Mother Garfield; the life of the President and his assassination and death are incidentally told in connection with his wife's career.
 - D. G. Brinton, Philadelphia, has just published a new edition of Atkinson's "Therapeutics of Gynæcology," which is very much larger than the former issue. The price has been increased to $4 in cloth and $5 in sheep. An entirely new book is "A Manual of Ophthalmic Practice," by Henry S. Schell, M.D., of Philadelphia, containing a number of illustrations, test types, etc.

OLIVER DITSON & Co., Boston, have published the "Herald of Praise," a collection of new church and singing school music for public and private worship, with a variety of light glees, choruses, duets, quartets, etc., for the singing school and for social use, compiled by L. O. Emerson, whose previous works—"The Harp of Judah," "Jubilate and Choral Tribute"—were very popular.

THE "Q. P. Index Annual," published by W. M. Griswold, Bangor, Me., will index the contents of the periodicals already indexed in this series (Scribner's, The Eclectic, The Living Age, Lippincott's, International Review, Atlantic, and The Nation) for the year 1881 (or since the completion of the general indexes to the same), and to Harper's Magazine, since the completion of Mr. Durfee's "Index."

Brown & Derby, of this city, have in press a novel by a new Southern authoress, Miss Ellen Martin, entitled "The Feet of Clay;" also a book by Colonel C. W. Hubner, of Atlanta, "Poems and Essays," and a book for the family, entitled "Home Topics." "The Carcanet," a new music collection for home use, and Colonel I. W. Avery's "History of Georgia," are also announced by this house.

JOHN WILEY & Sons have now ready an important new practical as well as timely work, entitled "Steam Heating for Buildings; or, Hints to Steam-Fitters," by Wm. J. Baldwin. The volume contains a description of steam-heating apparatus for warming and ventilating private houses and large buildings, with remarks on steam, water, and air in their relation to heating. A number of useful and miscellaneous tables and plates are also included.

THE CATHOLIC PUBLICATION Soc. Co. has just issued a neat illustrated quarto, entitled "The Twit-Twats: a Christmas Allegorical Story of Birds, connected with the Introduction of Sparrows into the New World," by Rev. Aug. J. Thébaud, S.J.; also the first volume of "Leaves from the Annals of the Sisters of Mercy." This volume contains sketches of the convents established by the holy founders in Ireland, and their earlier developments.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. will publish at an early day an autobiographical sketch entitled "Life in Hawaii," by the Rev. Titus Coan. Besides the story of the veteran's labors for forty-five years (1835–1880) in his own field, chapters 13 and 14 describe his visits to the cannibal Marquesans, and other chapters contain graphic descriptions of the Hawaiian volcanoes, and of their great eruptions. The book is a record of an unusually varied and successful life-work.

Benziger Brothers have issued "Irish Faith in America," translated from the French by Miss McMahon; a "Sure Way to a Happy Marriage," which Rev. Edward I. Taylor, of Wilmington, has translated from the German; and new editions of "The True Spouse of Christ," "Counsels of a Catholic Mother," and "The Papist Misrepresented and Represented." They have also published a Prayerbook by the author of "Golden Sands," entitled "The Young Girl's Book of Piety."

Townsend MacCoun, of Chicago, formerly with Jansen, McClurg & Co., has established himself at 34 and 36 Madison Street, Chicago, for the purpose of devoting himself to the purchase and supply of books for public and private libraries. Mr. MacCoun's experience in this special line peculiarly fits him for the successful conduct of the department of the book trade in which he is now engaged. He will issue a monthly bulletin of choice books for libraries, with date of editions and price attached.

Presley Blakiston, Philadelphia, has now ready Dr. Edwards' new book on "Malaria: What it Means." It is written in the author's usual clear, interesting style, and in it he first defines the subject, then shows where malaria is found, gives the symptoms or signs of its presence, and then advises how to avoid it. Another work of great interest is the new and enlarged edition of Teale's "Dangers to Health," which is a pictorial guide to domestic defects. It contains seventy plates, carefully colored, and prepared in such a manner that they show in detail the defects in the drainage arrangements of houses.

HENRY C. LEA'S SON & Co., Philadelphia, have now ready "A Complete Practical Treatise on the Diseases of Children," by J. Lewis Smith, M.D., of New York City, making the fifth edition of this standard work. It is extensively illustrated. The new edition, also the fifth, of Hartshorne's "Essentials of the Principles and Practice of Medicine" is also ready. This well known handy book for students and practitioners contains 145 illustrations and has been thoroughly revised and much improved. The third book in the present list of publications is a new American edition of Foster's "Text Book of Physiology," edited by Edward T. Reichert, of Philadelphia.

J. W. Bouton has just ready "A Treatise on Wood-Engraving, Historical and Practical," by William A. Chatto and John Jackson, with an additional chapter by Henry G. Bohn. This is a reprint of the last revised edition and contains 450 fine illustrations. Mr. Bouton has also issued in two volumes "Evenings with the Skeptics; or, Free Discussions on Free-Thinkers," by Dr. John Owen. The first volume treats on Pre-Christian skepticism, the second volume discusses Christian skepticism. He has nearly ready the second edition of "Monumental Christianity; or, The Art and Symbolism of the Christian Church," by John P. Lundy, D.D., with 200 illustrations.

Houghton, Mifflin & Co. have recently pub-Hahed a volume of poems, by Harriet Prescott Spofford, who has written many excellent poems, but never before gathered them into a book. It is a tasteful sixteenmo. They have also issued "Recollections of Auton House," whose pictures and anecdotes of child adventures and performances will afford entertainment to old and young alike; a new edition of Mrs Whitney's "Boys at Chequasset," a capital book that has been out of print, and now that the plates have come into Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s hands, has been reissued in uniform style with Mrs. Whitney's other books. They will also issue a new edition of Hauff's "Arabian Days' Entertainment," translated from the German by Herbert Pelham Curtis, and for some time out of print; and an important treatise on "Diagnosis and Treatment of Diseases of the Eye," by Dr. Henry W. Willlams, the eminent Boston oculist.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. have just issued "Julian Karslake's Secret," by Mrs. John Hodder Needell, in both cloth and paper bindings; and "Sabbath Home Readings," a series of meditations for the Lord's day, by J. W. Cornelius. They have almost ready Joel Cook's new book, entitled "Brief Summer Rambles." Mr. Cook, one of the most important of the editors of the Philadelphia Public Ledger, is already well known to the general public through his "Holiday Tour" of a few years ago, and this new volume, which is devoted to brief rambles about the country near Philadelphia, cannot fail to meet with a hearty welcome. Other works nearly ready are "The Unity of the Faith," by William R. Hunt, author of the "Eternal Purpose," and "Operas: their Writers and their Plots." They have in preparation a new novel by the comparatively new author, whose "Molly Bawn," "Phyllis," "Mrs. Geoffrey," etc., have made for her so enviable a reputation. The title will be "Faith and Unfaith," and from present indications an unusually large sale may be expected.

S. C. Gategs & Co. have in preparation a work of especial interest to scholars. It is a translation of Frederic Winkel Horn's "History of the Literature of the Scandinavian North, from the Most Ancient Times to the Present, lately published at Leipsic. The American edition is to be the joint work of the original author and Prof. R. B. Anderson, of the University of Wisconsin. It will be an octavo volume of over 500 pages. They have just published "The League of the Iroquois," a new poem by Benj. Hathaway, author of "Art Life and other Poems." The purpose is to embody the traditions concerning the origin of the famous Indian confederation known as the "Five Nations," and especially in their mythological aspects, as offering the truest key and standard of Indian character. They also promise a new edition of Prof. R. B. Anderson's "Viking Tales of the North," carefully revised and corrected by the author. This is a book of singular interest, containing the Swedish Tegner's, famous poem "Fridthjol's poet, Tegner's, famous poem "Fridthjot's Saga," and also the two prose sagas upon which that Northern epic was based. Messrs. Griggs report that they have just issued the soth thousand of Dr. Mathew's famous book, "Getting On in the World."

THE London Athensum contradicts the announcement that Mr. Daldy has been sent to Washington by the British Government to assist in negotiating an international copyright treaty. Mr. Daldy is honorary secretary to the Copyright Association, which is largely composed of publishers, and as secretary to that body he has been for some time at Washington. The entire charge of the negotiations is confided to the British Minister, the Hon. Sackville West, who is instructed how to deal with any proposals on the subject of international copyright which may be made by the United States Government.

Enclosure Catalogue.

The first section of the "Enclosure CATA-LOGUE" is now ready for press, so that editions can be supplied dealers in time for use in the Christmas trade. It will be published under the title of

BOOKS OF ALL TIME,

A Guide for the Purchase of Books,

and consists of the works, with their sizes and prices (but not names of publishers), of such standard English and American writers as are most in demand by private buyers. To the works of each writer are appended notes by the best critical authorities of England and America, descriptive of the author and his writings, pointing out their characteristics, influences, excellences, etc. The Catalogue thus forms a compact and novel manual of classical English literature, which must stimulate the sale of such books as dealers generally carry in stock.

It will be a 32mo of about 80 pages, and will be supplied dealers folded for them to bind with covers and imprints to suit their own taste or special wants. This will give them an opportunity to use the covers or some extra pages for their own card, or partly for local advertisements, which might be made to more than cover the expense of an edition. The publisher cannot at this season undertake to fill any orders for imprints or advertisements.]

As only an edition of 10,000 copies can be printed in time for the Christmas trade, booksellers should apply at once for sample copies and terms to

NOTES IN SEASON.

ROBERT CARTER & BROS. will issue shortly "The World's Foundations; or, Geology for Beginners," by Agnes Giberne; and "Sweetbrier," by the same author.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have just ready a volume of "Swiss Letters," by Miss Frances Ridley Havergal. They have also received a second edition of "Who Did It?" a very popular book for boys.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S Sons issue this week three more volumes in their new edition of Dr. J. G. Holland's works, viz.: "The Jones Family;" "Mistress of the Manse," and the "Puritan's Guest, and other poems."

ROBERT CARTER & BROS. issue this week "The Lyon's Den and its Eight Young Lyons," by Yotty Osborn; "Hilda; or, Seeketh not Her Own," by Catharine Shaw; "Uncle Fred's Shilling; its Travels and Adventures," by Emily Brodie, and "Olive's Story," by Mrs. O. F. Walton.

- MA. C. Armstrong & Son announce that their entire first large edition of "May Blossom" has been sold and that a new edition has just been received from London. They also call attention to the fact that their editions of "Raphael," and of "Picturesque Tour in Picturesque Lands," will soon be exhausted, and that no more can be imported in time for the holiday season.
- "R. Worthington will immediately issue "Etudes in Modern French Art," a series of monographs on the best French artists of the present day, with between fifty and sixty beautiful initials, head and tail-pieces, and fac-similes of original drawings by the artists. It will be further illustrated with ten steel engravings, India proofs, by masters of engravings, the text and illustrations in the text printed on tint, with border, and the work bound in vellum, illuminated. He will also issue at once Swinburne's new volume, "Mary Stuart." This poem completes the trilogy of which "Chastalard" and "Bothwell" were the first parts.
- A. S. BARNES & Co. have just issued a treatise on "The Opium Habit," by Dr. Fred Heman Hubbard. The volume describes the habits of opium and its compounds, alcohol, chloral-hydrate, chloroform, bromide potassium, and Cannabis Indica; it also gives their therapeutical indications, with suggestions for treatment. They have also ready "Precept and Praise," a manual intended for concerted exercises in Sunday-schools, embracing responsive Scripture readings.

SCRIBNER & WELFORD announce that their edition of Princess Beatrice's "Birthday-Book" is very nearly exhausted, and that no more can be imported this season. The volume has sold to such an extent in England, that the royal author has been enabled to give out of her share of the proceeds $2000 to a children's hospital in London. Messrs. Scribner & Welford also call attention to their édition de luxe of L. G. Seguin's "Rural England," and to "Royal Characters from the Works of Sir Walter Scott," both handsome holiday gift-books.

G. P. Putnam's Sons have now ready their elegant holiday book, "Your Mission," by Ellen M. H. Gates, with illustrations by F. S. Church, W. St. John Harper, and J. W. Alex-They have also ready a little manual entitled "Authors and Authorship," by William Shepard, which will be found of special interest to the literary beginner. It treats of the profession of literature, its struggles, temptations, drawbacks, and advantages; discusses the relations of authors, editors, and publishers, the reasons for the acceptance or rejection of MSS., the conditions of success, etc., and gives statistics of the sales of popular books, of the prices paid for literary labor, and of fortunes won by the pen. A number of anecdotes are collected of famous works which were rejected by publishers, or which had a long struggle against the indifference of the public, and there are also chapters upon "The First Appearance in Print," "Literary Heroes and Heroworship," "Literary Society," etc., the whole illustrated by copious selections from the writings of successful men of letters.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE BIBLIOGRAPHER, a new monthly journal devoted to book-lore, will be issued shortly by Elliot Stock, London. It will treat of all matters bibliographical, and aim to foster a taste for bibliography among those who have hitherto been merely readers of books. Mr. J. W. Bouton will receive the names of American subscribers.

THE CENTURY Co. announces that Mr. Elihu Vedder, the well-known American artist, lately returned from Rome, has been working since last summer upon a permanent cover for The Century Magazine. The new cover, which is just completed, is to consist, not of one design, but really of five — four of them for the different seasons of the year. Surrounding each are appropriate emblems for every month in the year, and in each will appear an emblematical female figure of great dignity. The midwinter cover will, perhaps, be the most striking of all, as in the background is seen the Aurora Borealis. The general color of the paper of the present cover will be preserved, whilst the ink will be of a somewhat deeper tine, and the general massing of the letters will also be retained; otherwise, the design is entirely fresh and original.

WEEKLY RECORD OF NEW PUBLICATIONS.

In this list, the titles in brevier are direct transcriptions from books actually received, according to the rule of the American Library Association; those in nonpareil are from the best information available, and will be repeated in brevier when the book is received for registry.

The abbreviations are usually self-explanatory. A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as : A: Augustus ; B: Benjamin ; C; Charles ; D: David ; E: Edward ; F: Frederic ; G: George ; H: Henry ; I: Isaac; J. John; L.: Louis; N.: Nicholas; P.: Peter; R.: Richard · S.: Samuel; T.: Thomas; W.: William.

Sizes are designated as follows: F. (folio: over 30 centimeters high); Q. (4to: under 30 cm.); O. (8vo: 25 cm.)
D. (12mo: 20 cm.); S. (16mo: 17 /2 cm.); T. (24mo: 15 cm.); Tl. (32mo: 12 /2 cm.); Fe. (48mo: 10 cm.). Sq., obl., nar., designate square, colong, narrow books of these heights. Where figure instead of letter symbols are used, the record is from publisher's designation, and not measurement.

Imported books are marked with an asterisk; authors' and subscription books, or books published at net prices, with two asterisks; educational books published at "wholesale" prices, with a dagger.

Alden, W. L. Christopher Columbus (1440-1506); the first American citizen (by adoption). N. Y., H: Holt & Co., 1881. 2+287 p. S. (Lives of American worthies.) cl., $1.25.

A humorous presentation of the life of Christopher Columbus, by the funny man of the New York Times; it adheres strictly to facts, but is written in Mr. Alden's wellknown style. The second volume of the series; in very legible type. Both this and the first volume are in very odd bindings, apparently the distinguishing dress of the series; the letters all seem to be dancing a jig, and are interspersed with sharp-pointed looking objects in black and gold, which are probably typical of the styles of the writers.

As the author says, "The title-page sufficiently sets forth the end this little book is intended to serve." We can add that the information is valuable and interesting, presented in an attractive manner, and is in a great measure culled from the highest authorities on the subject. It is a little book all literary workers will find convenient to have on the desk. Arranged alphabetically. A very handsome book typographically, and uniform with "The orthoepist," by the same author.

Besant, Wa., and Rice, Ja. Sir Richard Whittington, Lord Mayor of London. N. Y., G: \ temains, and in the preparation of the soil for vegetation.

P. Putnam's Sons, 1881. 222 p. S. (New Plutarch ser.) cl., $1.

Forms v. 7 of the "New Plutarch series." The materials for the life were collected by Mr. Rice, but owing to his sickness, the book is written by Mr. Besant. The familiar legend of the cat is accepted and the evidence in its substantiation given and shown to be the foundation of Whittington's fortune. The first venture in the field of fiction of the well-known author of some very successful works on art. It is a German-American story, of which the scenes are laid at Washington, on the Hudson and in Berlin. The principal characters are a U.S. Senator, his niece, Eleanor Maitland (a widow), who is the heroine, and a German count. The play of the tale is on American and German prejudices of rank, wealth and customs, which for a time interrupt and check love's current, but which are successfully overcome in the end.

Darwin, C: The formation of vegetable mould through the action of worms, with observations of their habits. N. Y., Appleton, 1882 [1881]. 10+326 p. D. cl., $1.50.

In the year 1837 Mr. Darwin first gave his views on the formation of mould by worms, in a paper read before the Geological Society of London; he has for a long time made their habits a study, by observing them in pots filled with earth kept for this purpose; he says, he wished to learn "how far they acted consciously, and how much mental power they displayed." This volume gives the author's observations in full in regard to worms, their capacities, habits, accomplishments and achievements. His conclusion is that they play an important part in modifying the condition of the surface of the earth, aiding in the disintegration of rocks, in the denudation of the land, in the preservation of ancient Diokens, C. The special feature of the series is that the subjects will all be treated humorously, although the truth of history will be adhered to with "most uncompromising rigidity." In the present volume the author has not given rein in any marked manner to his well known spirit of fun-for the reason that upon tavestigation of a great deal of new material, and a careful collating of Capt. John Smith's own narratives, so much new light was thrown upon the character and adventures of the adventurer, that it was concluded to treat the subject seriously. Even so it will be found exceedingly amusing, while it is of considerable value to his-torical students of this period. It shows that much of the accepted romance about Pocahontas is entirely false, and that Capt. Smith was a great boaster and rather unreliable narvator,

The Publishers' Weekly.

DECEMBER 10, 1881.

The trade are invited to send "Communications" to the edutor on any topic of interest to the trade, and as to which an interchange of opinion is desirable. Also, matter for "Notes and Queries." Notes from librarians will also be gratefully received.

In case of business changes, notification or card should be summediately sent to this office for entry under "Business Notes." Now catalogues issued will also be mentioned when forwarded.

"Every man is a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help thereunto."—LORD BACON.

It is a satisfaction when work, honestly and perseveringly devoted to one useful purpose, finally meets with that practical recognition without which the most genuine enthusiasm and energy would die from sheer want of bread. It is still more encouraging when that work is noticed beyond the circle whom it serves directly, and when words of cheer come from abroad. No one is more fit to judge the character of our work than the accomplished editor of the London Bookseller and of the "English Reference Catalogue." And his frank expression of good opinion is heaping coals of fire on our head, in recollection of the perhaps too sweeping exceptions taken to the Bookseller on questions, not of its merit, which was established long before the WEEKLY existed, but of editorial opinion. Yet exception must again be taken to the judgment pronounced upon the American publishers. The paragraph referred to reads ·

"The trade in the United States seem to be enjoying a season of unusual prosperity, to judge by the advertisements which crowd the pages of the Publishers' Werkly of September 17. More than ninety pages are filled with publishers' announcements of books to be issued during the ensuing season. Considering the reputation which American publishers have of being wide-awake and progressive men of business. we have often wondered at the grudging, beggaily way in which they support their representative trade journal. We cordially hope that they are beginning to recognize merits which we, perhaps, have been keener to note, than some of those who should be more interested observers."

Now the very number of the WEEKLY which discovery gave cause to this kindly-meant remark should thing a have proved the writer wrong in his inferences.

But if that was not enough, it is to be hoped view."

that the Christmas number will do the rest of vindication. It is true that these numbers are extraordinary instances, but it is true, nevertheless, that what may have applied to our publishers during the first years of the WEEKLY's hardships and struggles for existence, does no more apply to day. With scarcely an exception—and the exception proves the rule—the American publishers are doing justice to the WEEKLY; and if financially the result is less satisfactory than that which our foreign contemporaries are enjoying, it is simply a numerical reason, which is a matter of time and opportunity.

THE " Enclosure Catalogue," smal! as it may look, proved to be a bigger and longer job than anticipated—an opinion equally shared by editors and printer. The latter promised, however, to let us have copies in "a day or two," and possibly the samples ordered may be under way before this number of the WEEKLY is mailed. Booksellers should by prompt order secure a number of copies, even at the risk of being unable to distribute them all during the holidays. This first section of the Enclosure Catalogue being confined to the "Books of all Time" (our standard authors), can be used to advantage all the year round. And we venture to claim that this "Little Classic" pioneer will meet with a more responsive reception at the homes of bookbuyers than the most affable and eloquent salesman or book-agent. In connection with this, booksellers cannot show a more profitable attention to their pet customers than by discriminately placing a few neatly bound copies of the "Reading Diary" as a holiday remembrance.

It should be stated in explanation and to forestall possible inquiries, that the etching from Messrs. Estes & Lauriat's "Nature and Art," which was bound up with the trade edition of the Christmas Weekly, appears only in that edition and not in the imprint edition, for the reason that the publishers simply sent a sufficient number of plates for use in the trade edition, and it was not intended that it should form a part of the imprint edition.

MR. SMALLBY closes some remarks on Conway's "Thomas Carlyle" (quoted in another column) with the following conundrum. "We hear, furthermore, that Mr. Conway's work is interesting as supplying us with an 'American' view of Carlyle, whatever that may mean." Of course Mr. Smalley cannot guess what that may mean. Nous autres, in America, have long discovered that an "American view" is something quite beyond the comprehension of the "American abroad." This is an "American view."

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT.

S. S. CONANT IN REPLY TO G. W. SMALLEY.

To the Editor of The Tribune:

Six: In Mr. Smalley's letter on International Copyright, published in The Tribune this morning, your correspondent says: "How a treaty notoriously drawn up by a publisher, and in publishers interests, came to be accepted by the State Department in Washington, transmitted to the American Legation in London, communicated to the British Government, and finally published as a draft treaty submitted by the American to the British Government-how all this bappened, is a point on which I have before asked for information; which nobody seems in a hurry to give." Further on he expresses his surprise that "the American Government should have laid the basis for negotiation by a treaty in which the views of publishers, and publishers only, were put forward."

Mr. Smalley writes under an entire misapprehension of the facts in the case. In the summer of 1880 one of the leading authors of New England wrote to Harper & Brothers requesting their cooperation in negotiating an equitable copyright treaty between the United States and Great Britain. In reply the Messrs. Harper sent the draft of such a treaty which they had held for several months under consideration. Copies of it were submitted to the leading authors of the United States, and In-August, 1880, the following petition, signed by Henry W. Longfellow, Oliver Wendell Holmes, R. Waldo Emerson, John G. Whittier, W. D. Howells, George Bancroft, George William Curtis, Charles Ellot Norton, James Parton, E. P. Whipple, George Ticknor Curtis, Donald G. Mitchell, and many others, was forwarded to Washington:

The Hon, WM, M. EVARTS, Secretary of State, Washington, D. C.

"The undersigned American authors approve the international copyright treaty proposed by Mesers. Harper & Brothers, representing the American publishers, and reappetfully petution that such action may be taken by the Department of State as will lead to the early negotiation of the treaty."

The above authors' petition was sent to Secretary Evarts in August, 1850, and it was not until the following November that the publishers' petition was sent. It was signed by the leading publishers of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Cincinnati, and San Francisco. It will hardly be claimed that a treaty thus approved by authors can be said to be drawn in the interests of publishers alone. The pamphlet in which this approval is conspicuously printed, together with the draft of the treaty, was largely circulated in England, and it is strange that Mr. Smalley should have failed to see it. It would have given him the very information for which he has been secking.

The draft of the treaty appended to the foregoing petitions of American authors was sent to the Secretary of State, and was by him forwarded to the American Minister in London, in order that British opinion on the subject might be elicited. It was also communicated for the same purpose to the British Foreign Office. A large number of British authors gave it an unqualified approval; and eventually Lord Granville, under date of March 1, 1881, wrote to Mr. Lowell that Her Majesty's Government would "consent to negotiate on the basis" of that draft. This is the way in which the suggested treaty came before the British public and government. There is no mystery whatever about it. It was accepted by most authors in America and England, and recognized by Her Majesty's Government as an equitable basis of negotiation.

VIEWS OF AN ENGLISH WRITER.

In connection with Mr. Smalley's letter, permit me to call attention to a temperate and, on the whole, judicious and impartial article on the aubject from the pen of Mr. W. Fraser Ras, printed in the November number of The Nineteenth Century. Like most English writers on this subject, however, Mr. Rae occupies himself mainly with the past rather than with the present aspects of the case, and quite overlooks the fact that opposition to the movement toward international copyright now proceeds not from America, but from England. Until within recent times, opinion was nearly evenly divided in this country upon the question. No English authors have written more strenuously in favor of international copyright than have American authors ; and to such writers as H. C. Carey and Dr. Leavitt (whose utterances have been a dead letter for years) may be opposed English authors of note, who have held the same views.

It may be noted, in passing, that Mr. Rae discountenances the use of the term "pirates," which English authors and publishers have delighted to apply to American publishers who have printed the works of foreign authors. Not only, as Mr. Rae justly observes, can no law be broken where no law exists; not only have American publishers the same right to reprint an English book of which the English copyright has not expired that English publighers have to reprint the works of Chaucer, Bunyan, Milton, or Shakespeare (and he might have added those of recent authors whose copyright has expired by legal limitation); but he might have admitted more frankly than he has done that for that many years no reputable American publisher has habitually reprinted English works without making an equitable arrangement with their authors, representatives, or publishers. It is well known, in fact, that for more than a quarter of a century there has been perfect accord between American publishers and English authors, and that the chief grumblers and complainants have been British publishers, who were itching to lay hands on the American market. That their motives were purely selfish, and entirely disconnected with authors' interests, will be made apparent further on. So long as the rule of " trade courtesy " was observed in this country, amply securing payment to alien authors, American publishers wished to avoid the business complications that might arise under the operations of an international copyright law. The system was at once just and simple. The English author had only to arrange with the American publisher in advance to secure the publication of his work in this country on terms advantageous and satisfactory to himself; and, with rare exceptions, arising out of exceptional circumstances, the arrangement was respected by all reputable publishers. It is not at all to the discredit of American publishers that they wished to keep the home market to themselves, or that they benefiting British authors, would have given British publishers a monopoly in the business of supplying American readers with the works of those authors.

"TRADE COUETESY."

Mr. Rae appears to be surprised at finding among the advocates of international copyright an American publishing house which, under the old regime of "trade courtesy," had strensously opposed the forms of the measure that had been presented to Congress, and accredits the conversion to the business disturbances introduced by the operations of certain publishing houses in New York and Chicago, which have recently taken up the business of reprinting in cheap form, and generally without compensation to the author, all foreign works that had the promise or the reality of popularity in this country. It has already been admitted that so long as the observance of the rule of "trade courtesy" secured to authors and publishers the substantial benefits of legal enactments, American publishers were willing to allow matters to remain on that basis; and, had it rested with American publishers, that observance would still have been the unwritten law of procedent in their dealings with foreign authors. It was left to the compatriots of British authors to break over that observance. Parties from the British provinces started in New York. Chicago, and elsewhere, the business of reprinting English books in disregard of the arrangements which had been made for them between their authors and American publishers. Just on the border-line a printing establishment was put in operation for the same purpose. The chief sufferers by this procedure of their fellow-subjects were the English authors. It was no longer leasible (except in the case of long serial etories) for American publishers to pay large sums for English books which would be thrown upon the market at an almost nominal price before the ink of the authorized editions was dry . In the absence of legal or , moral means to remedy the evil a resort to International copyright became necessary. The situation was frankly accepted by American publishing houses which had hitherto opposed international copyright in the form in which it had been presented by British publishers—not by British authors. Under this head must be classed the proposed Clarendon treaty, which Sir Edward Thornton admitted in the writer's hearing to be an instrument mainly for the benefit of British publishers in America. In reference to numerous and pressing appeals from English authors, the draft of a new treaty. based on the Clarendon, but without its objectionable features, was drawn up and circulated for criticism among the authors of England and America. It was printed side by side with the Clarendon treaty, for the purpose of ready comparison, and was approved, as already stated, almost without exception, by the leading authors of both countries.

CHANGE OF TONE IN ENGLAND.

But suddenly a not unexpected obstacle was encountered. British publishers who for years had been declaiming against American "pirates," that the draft made no provision for extending that British publishers do not follow his exam-their business in the United States, and at once proclaimed their hostility to any form of treaty which did not admit them as well as the authors to the American market. Not content with their own lucrative market, they want to control their authors in that of this country also , and because this grasping and avaricious demand is firmly withstood, they offensively stigmatize the position of American publishers as "seläsh !" It would be difficult to discern wherein consists the "generosity" of their own. Virtually, they say to British authors, "You shall have no American profits in which we do not share." The treaty proposed by American publishers, and recognized as just and liberal by British authors, grants to those authors the same measure of protection which is enjoyed by Americans, within the restrictions which copyright laws create in every country. Much objection has been made to the "three months clause" in that draft; but only because its design has been entirely misapprehended. Instead of being a limitation on the author in the matter of arranging with American publishers, its effect is simply to afford the British publisher the advantage of three months' priority in his own market. The British author who desires to publish in the United States can take all the time he chooses, prior to and for three months after publication in his own country. He may run his negotiations through months or years, if he see lit to do so, until he has made antisfactory terms; and no author to whom the American market would be of any value will ever go begging for an American publisher. But after he has made his arrangsments with an American publisher, in the same way that he may have done with an English publisher, it is hardly fair to American readers that the book should be issued elsewhere more than three months in advance. In this view of the case, some American houses have begun to consider whether any priority whatever should be allowed, and if it would not be more just to require simultaneous publication in both coun-

Mr. Rae admits that "it matters nothing to an author where his book is printed, provided the workmanship is good; nor where it is sold, provided be get an adequate return for his labor;" but he suggests a singular and wholly impracticable mode of settlement for the question in dispute. He proposes that Congress should "impose such a duty upon books imported from Europe as would compel the alien authors to arrange with a United States publisher for the reproduction of his work." The impracticability of this proposition need not be pointed out; but Mr. Rac overlooks a very serious objection, which would affect an important class of foreign works. There are certain books, chiefly of a scientific or scholastic character, for which the American demand would justify a limited importation, but not republication. To shut works of this character out of the country by the imposition of a prohibitory duty would be an injustice both to the author and the American purchaser to which the public would not submit.

UNWORTHY TREATMENT BY BRITISH PUBLISHERS.

Mr. Rae treats his subject with the fairness in the most offensive manner, and ostensibly and consideration which become the discussion in the interest of British authors, discovered of an important public measure. It is a pity

ple. Years ago a prominent American publisher predicted in a letter to The London Times that if the question of international copyright ever came before the public in a practicable form, its foremost opponents would be found among British publishers. The event has justi-! fied his prediction. The negotiations were in a fair way to become a treaty. The drast was, as already stated, acceptable to most authors in both countries. Its provisions were acknowledged to be equitable. But British publishers, who had shouted "piracy" so loudly and so long, threw the weight of their influence against it, and in a manner so offensive and insulting that, for the time, American publishers, from sheer disgust, allowed the matter to drop. One prominent London publisher so far forgot the claims of decency and his own long-time relations with American publishers as to insinuate in a published letter that the insertion of the "three months" clause was a trick to enable the American publishers to steal the books of British authors by simply refraining from reprinting them until the expiration of the limit. With only one exception, American publishers met this vile insinuation with the silent contempt which it merited.

Mr. Rae, in common with American publishers, desires to see the question of international copyright settled in a just and practicable manner, by which authors may reap an adequate reward for their labors in whatever country their works may be printed. He may rest assured that the American people are ready to discuss the question in a fair and liberal spirit, and to accept that settlement which shall extend the protection of equitable laws to all interests Concerned. He need not address argument or appeal to the people of the United The opponents of the measure are close to his own door. When he shall have converted them to his views, which are also the views of the great body of British authors, he may consider the controversy settled and international copyright an accomplished fact.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

MR. BARTLETT'S excellent "Shakespeare Phrase-Book" has already reached a sale of 4000 copies, and has only begun its prosperous career.

WE understand that although 150,000 copies of "Helen's Babies" have already been printed and sold, the demand for the editions just issued by T. B. Peterson & Bros. is as lively as ever.

GINN & HEATH wish it understood that their Harvard edition of Shakespeare is put up in 10 and 20 volumes, not in 6 and 12 volumes as we inadvertently made their advertisement read in the last issue of the WEEKLY.

THE AMERICAN TRACT Soc. have bought the plates of "Christianity's Challenge," by Dr. Herrick Johnson, and will issue a new edition at once, upon better paper and more attractive in style, at the same price as formerly.

PROF. SCHELL, of New York City, is preparing for the press a school-book embracing the principal arguments against evolution, materialism, and the current theory of sound, condensed from Wilford's "Problem of Human Life." It is to be a small work for the use of schools and families, with questions, definitions of prominent words, etc., and will be issued some time about the holidays.

PROF. WM. RIPLEY NICHOLS, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has in preparation a work on "Water and Water-Supply." The work is written from a chemical and sanitary point of view, and is intended to meet the wants of engineers, chemists, sanitarians, and all who have to do with water-supply.

The publication of the history of the Pacific States, on which Mr. Hubert H. Bancrost has been engaged for the past twelve years, will begin in 1882. It aims at complete histories of Central America, Mexico, New Mexico and Arizona, California, Utah, Nevada and Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana, British Columbia, and Alaska. A new building, 40 by 60 feet, has been built in San Francisco to accommodate Mr. Bancrost's library of Pacific coast books. He has already 35,000 on this specialty and owns many manuscripts of original history.

THE UNITED BRETHREN PUBLISHING HOUSE, Dayton, O., have just ready "Seneca and Kant; or, An Exposition of Stoic and Rationalistic Ethics," by Rev. W. T. Jackson, Ph.D. The work contains a concise statement of the ethical doctrines of Stoicism and Rationalism as expounded by Seneca and Kant respectively. This statement is believed to be impartial and amply verified from the authors' works. It is followed by a discussion and criticism of the two systems, as compared with each other and with Christianity.

H. H. Morgan, 338 9th St., Brooklyn, N. Y., has just brought out a novelty in the shape of a "Student's Portable Book-Rest." The "book-rest" is made in two sizes, and will be found a convenience to students, book-keepers, and others having to do with books. No. 1, the smallest size, is suitable for all ordinary school or reading books. No. 2 can be used for larger books, atlases, etc., will sit on the desk or table in different positions and is readily adjusted to any angle. This "Book-rest" will be found of especial value to those having copying to do, and will greatly facilitate their labors, as by its use the copyist will not be obliged to hold his book with one hand while he tries to write with the other.

MR. SMALLEY writes to the N. Y. Tribune: "Mr. Conway's 'Thomas Carlyle' has had a good success with the book-buying public, and with the book-reading critics. The first edition was speedily sold out, and the book became difficult to get within a few days of its appearance. This was the more remarkable, or perhaps not more remarkable, from the number of books, so-called, about Carlyle which had preceded Mr. Conway's—most of them very rank The Speciator specimens of book-making. speaks of Mr. Conway's work as 'the recollections of one who loved Carlyle, who has power to unveil some part of the lovable nature that was in the man;' adding: 'The glimpses of the home at Chelsea given here are more vivid and liselike than almost anything else that has been published in that kind, though everything of the kind is a little disappointing."

THE REPRESENTATIVE

EUROPEAN ART JOURNALS.

L'ART.

Revue Hebdomadaire Illustrée. Handsomely printed on heavy toned paper, and illustrated with several hundred engravings on wood from drawings and pictures by celebrated contemporary artists, examples of antique and modern sculpture, objects of Art Industry in all branches, and a series of superbly executed etchings by the best living etchers, executed expressly for this work; being principally from the more noticeable pictures exhibited in the Salons of Europe. Published quarterly, in folio volumes. In paper covers, $32 per annum, or in cloth, gilt top, $40. Payable on delivery of each volume.

EDITION DE LUXE.

Another Edition, printed throughout on heavy Holland paper, in the most careful manner. The etchings in two states, Artist proof on Japan paper, and ordinary print on Holland paper. The edition is strictly limited to one hundred copies, numbered, forming four thick volumes, folio. $125 per annum.

From " The Critic."

We are far from holding that L'Art is an ideal art periodical. But at present there is none other so full, so hand some, so discriminate, and so generally fair, to be had. If a better art journal exists, we have yet to know of it.

From "The Art Amateur."

It comes to hand too late for detailed notice; but we may say that it is not below the high standard of this important publication, which we have more than once expressed the opinion is unequalled in the realm of periodical art-literature. The etchings, as a collection of three months, are of unapproachable excellence; the illustrations in the text—mostly reproductions in fac-simile of the drawings of artists—are often roughly executed, but always with power; and the numerous examples of what is best in old and modern industrial art make each volume of great value to the designer and art worker.

THE PORTFOLIO.

An Artistic Periodical, edited by Philip Gilbert Hamerton. Now in its twelfth year. Illustrated with etchings, autotypes, woodcuts, fac-similes, engravings, heliogravures, etc. Published monthly. $10 per annum.

From " The Nation."

Among a number of worthy artistic journals, THE PORTFOLIO, edited by Mr. Hamerton, is still the best issued in our language. The editor is the first who has written in English with absolute dispassionateness and competent appreciation when the claims of English and Continental art were to be pitted together, and he has employed etchers without living superiors to furnish the plates which form so exquisite a cabinet in the collected numbers.

THE ETCHER.

A Magazine containing the original Etched-work of Artists, accompanied by descriptive letterpress. Published monthly. Imperial 4to. $12 per annum.

This Magazine has been instituted for the purpose of offering to lovers of art an opportunity of indulging in the acquisition of some of the best productions of the etching needle at a moderate cost, and the works of many well-known etchers have already appeared in this publication, including: Robert W. Macbeth, Edwin Edwards, J. P. Heseltine, C. P. Slocombe, R. S. Chattock, Axel Herman Haig, Arthur Evershed, Anna Lea Merritt, E. L. Montefiore, W. H. Urwick, C. J. Watson, C. N. Storm Vans' Gravesande, and many others.

ENGLISH ETCHINGS.

A monthy publication of original Etchings by English Artists. Each number illustrated with four superb examples $15 per annum.

GAZETTE DES BEAUX-ARTS.

COURRIER EUROPÉEN DE L'ART ET DE LA CURIOSITÉ. A monthly Illustrated and Critical Journal of the Fine Arts. Yearly subscription (including the Chronique des Arts, weekly), $15. Sent, postage free, to any part of the United States. Payable strictly in advance.

The book contains much genuine poetry, and some of the more serious verses are really admirable. THE Enclosure Catalogue.

The first section of the "ENCLOSURE CATA-LOGUE" is now ready for press, so that editions can be supplied dealers in time for use in the Christmas trade. It will be published under the title of

BOOKS OF ALL TIME,

A Guide for the Purchase of Books,

and consists of the works, with their sizes and prices (but not names of publishers), of such standard English and American writers as are most in demand by private buyers. To the works of each writer are appended notes by the best critical authorities of England and America, descriptive of the author and his writings, pointing out their characteristics, influences, excellences, etc. The Catalogue thus forms a compact and novel manual of classical English literature, which must stimulate the sale of such books as dealers generally carry in stock.

It will be a 32mo of about 80 pages, and will be supplied dealers folded for them to bind with covers and imprints to suit their own taste or special wants. This will give them an opportunity to use the covers or some extra pages for their own card, or partly for local advertisements, which might be made to more than cover the expense of an edition. [The publisher cannot at this season undertake to fill any orders for imprints or advertisements.]

As only an edition of 10,000 copies can be printed in time for the Christmas trade, booksellers should apply at once for sample copies and terms to

READY THIS MONTH.

A Reading Diary of Modern Fiction.

Containing a representative List of the Novels of the Nineteenth Century, preceded by suggestive Remarks on Novels and Novel Reading.

The attention of Librarians is invited to this novel and suggestive little book as one which will be found of great benefit to their readers, and which can be safely recommended as a practical aid in the selection and reading of novels. "The Reading Diary," in the hands of those who frequent the libraries, will guide them in their choice of novels, and save the librarian the answering of many unnecessary questions.

It contains a list of over one thousand select novels, compiled at the office of THR LIBRARY JOURNAL, and presented in the form of a diary, with blank pages facing the list, systematically ruled for additions and memoranda. The main object of the Diary is to present a survey of all that is considered worth reading in the domain of modern fiction, and thus to make easy a daily record of what has been read, and what to read next, with a view to comparing notes and a mutual exchange of recommendations among congenial friends. The list is preceded by such suggestive matter as: Hints for the Use of the Reading Diary; The Value of Keeping a Record; On the Selection of Novels; Fiction in Public Libraries; Guides for the Reading of Fiction; A Reading Course in Fiction; On the Reading of Novels; Notes on a few Popular Novelists of the Day; A Symposium on Novel Reading

NOTES IN SEASON.

Thos. Y. Crowell & Co. have issued "What About Fred?" by P. B. Chamberlain, author of "A Rare Piece of Work," etc.

PRINCIPAL SHAIRP'S new book, "Aspects of Poetry," is in press, and will be published at an early day by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. will publish early in January "The Gospel of Christ," by Dr. Anthony W. Thorold, Bishop of Rochester.

MR. SCUDDER'S "Noah Webster," the second volume in the series of American Men of Letters, although ready, will not be issued until January.

WM. T. COMSTOCK will issue early in January next a new revised and enlarged edition of F. T. Comp's "Drastsman's Manual; or, How Can I Learn Architecture?"

MACMILLAN & Co. expect to receive, late this month or early in January, "The Voyage of the Vega," by Adolf Erik Nordenskiöld, and "The Graphic Arts," by P. G. Hamerton.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have published in pamphlet form an account of the celebrated attempt to rescue General Lafayette from imprisonment in Austria, prepared from the personal narrative and conversations of the late Col. F. K. Huger, of South Carolina.

JAMES R. OSGOOD & Co. announce for publication this week a book by President Hinsdale, devoted to President Garfield's work as an educator, and including his speeches and addresses on educational subjects. Mary Ashley Townsend, whose pen-name is Xarisa, has in press a volume of poems, entitled "Down the Bayou," which James R. Osgood & Co. will soon publish.

W. G. CORTHELL, of Boston, has just issued "From Darkness to Light," a book written by Mr. Clough, a missionary among the Telugus in Burmah, describing their birth and wedding ceremonies, their festivals to the gods, and many customs peculiar to them. It contains, as frontispiece, a portrait of Sukshmiah, a Telugu convert of note. The popular interest in this book has already exhausted the first edition, and a second will be published very soon.

PRESLEY BLAKISTON, Philadelphia, has in preparation, and will shortly publish, the new edition of "A Treatise on Aural Surgery," by H. MacNaughton Jones. The entire book is re-arranged and practically rewritten. New chapters have been added, and the work has been brought up to the present standard of aural therapeutics, the experience on which it is based having been derived from the examination and treatment of upward of 5000 aural patients.

POSTAL MATTERS.

From the November Postal Guide.

622. Failure to print the words "Entered at the post-office as second-class matter," in the columns of a publication of the second class of mail matter, does not affect its right to be mailed at the second-class rates.

624. There is no regulation prohibiting the use of old newspapers as wrappers on printed matter.

626. Circular 1163 (see Postal Guide, April, 1881, par. 4) declares that the rule excluding "printers' publications" from the pound rates where the exchange list compared with the paid list authorizes the presumption of their being for free circulation, or that advertising is their primary object, is to be applied as well to "amateur" publications. It is also required that such amateur publications shall be self-sustaining, and be "devoted to literature, sciences, arts, or some special industry, or published for the dissemination of information of a public character," and should have an office open during business hours to transact the business of the publication.

627. A "greenback" is fourth-class matter, as it contains no writing. Greenbacks and silver may be mailed together in registered packages as fourth-class matter. National bank notes, being partly written, are subject to letter rates, and a registered package containing national bank notes and silver would be subject to letter rates.

628. Publishers are no longer required to take an oath before being allowed to enter their publications at the pound rates.

634. When a publisher places matter in the mail, not addressed to a post-office, it is a post-master's duty to return it for better direction. It such matter by inadvertence leaves the mailing office, it should be stopped in transit wherever found, and returned to the publisher for better direction, and when remailed it is not subject to additional postage. When the error is in addressing the person at a wrong office, or the address of the person is insufficient, the matter can only be readdressed and forwarded or returned upon payment of postage at third-class rates. This ruling corrects ruling 523, July Postal Guide, 1881.

637. No second class publication can be sent free to a person living outside of the county where the same is "printed in whole or in

In this novel Mr. Hardy departs from his usual custom by dealing with people and scenes of to-day; the heroine is the daughter of an English railroad contractor, lately deceased; she is immensely wealthy, and resides in an old castle formerly belonging to an ancient county family; here she is wooed by two suitors, Captain de Stancey, an impoverished scion of the former owners of the castle, and George Somerset, a young architect; the usual love complications occur—all turning out right finally. The story is written with the usual care Mr. Hardy gives to detail, especially in his descriptions of the old castle.

18+340; 8+359 p. O. cl., $5. In this book, which is full of new letters and new characters, of wit and cleverness, Felix Mendelssohn is, of course, the principal character. . . . Felix's letters, however, though the main feature of the "Mendelssohn family," are by no means its only one. Not to speak of the early and more historical portion of these volumes, to the majority of readers Felix's father will be a new and unexpected character. His letters from Paris and London abound in humor, shrewdness and amusing gossip of that now remote date. The mother, too, is a new and very attractive personality. The two sisters are entirely distinct, and each paints herself in unmistakable colors. Their journals are full of observation and ability, and bring a number of distinguished persons, in various walks of life—painters, statesmen, musicians, princes, men of business—favorably and characteristically before us. This work deserves a warm welcome from the reader, to whom it is now for the first time introduced. -Extracts from Mr. Grove's notice.

HOSPITAL SATURDAY AND SUNDAY.

THE accompanying appeal to the trade in behalf of a worthy charity will, it is hoped, find at this Christmas season a prompt and generous response, particularly among our city trade, both in the hearts and pockets of those to whom it is specially addressed.

TO THE BOOK TRADE.

The Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association of New York City have decided to start branch organizations, if possible, in all the different trades of the city. These are to be known as Auxiliary Hospital Saturday and Sunday Associations, each to be under an independent constitution and by laws similar to their own. These auxiliary organizations will probably be empowered to designate for free treatment, at any of the hospitals of the Association, sick persons needing hospital care, whose diseases render them eligible for admission, but who lack means to pay for their own board and treatment.

In accordance with this plan, there will be formed a "Book Trade Auxiliary Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association." The undersigned agree to become members, and cordially recommend the object and work of the organization to the attention of their fellow-tradesmen. All booksellers in the city are cordially invited to join the Book Trade Auxiliary Hospital Saturday and Sunday Association. A blank postal card application for membership is herewith enclosed, which may be forwarded with signature to Mr. Henry B. Barnes, 111 and 113 William Street.

Please state whether you would like to place upon your premises an association box, that your employees may have an opportunity to contribute.

Any subscription you may be willing to make the Canadian Parliament passed a copyright for the hospitals this year may be sent any time before Jan. 10, 1882, to Mr. Henry B. Barnes, who consents to act as treasurer for the Book Trade Association. Circulars and other documents giving a history of the movement will be forwarded on application.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT.

THE INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION.

THE formation of the International Musical, Dramatical, and Literary Association is announced, with a capital of £20,000 in £1 shares. Miss Emily Faithfull is the general secretary, and among the directors are the names of Henry Byron and Blanchard Jerrold. Among the members of the International Council are included George Augustus Sala, Sir Julius Benedict, Henry Irving, John Hollingshead, Victor Hugo, etc. The association constitutes a copyright and general agency for literature, the drama, music, and art between England and the nations of Europe and America. It undertakes all arrangements for the translation, adaptation, publication, and performance of literary, dramatic, and musical productions, as also for the reproduction and sale of works of art. It takes charge of all legal measures to secure, protect, or vindicate the rights of authors and artists, British and foreign. It already represents several important French publishing houses, and will act in co-operation with the principal literary, musical, dramatic, and art societies of the Continent. The company, whose headquarters are 251 Regent Street, expects to realize handsome profits.

THE CAUSE IN CANADA.

SIR LEONARD TILLEY, who has gone to Washington relative to the international copyright question, has the sanction of the government and will protect Canadian interests. Dr. Tache, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, in the course of an interview, expressed himself that the Americans always refused to enter into an international copyright treaty. English copyright extends to all the colonies, and every book copyrighted in England is prohibited in the colonies. The colonies represented to the mother country that the price of English books placed them beyond the reach of the colonies, and that if English authors wished to be read in the colonies they must allow the importation of foreign reprints. On the strength of these representations a law was passed in England in 1852 to the effect that when any colony passed a law allowing royalty for the benefit of authors to be collected by the Customs service, foreign reprints could be brought in. Subsequently the Canadian publishers represented that foreigners had greater rights and privileges than British subjects, inasmuch as they could produce British copyright forms, while Canadians are prohibited from doing so. In 1872 bill, to which royal assent was withheld, as it conflicted with English laws, and in 1875 passed the law which is now in force. During the progress of the Royal Copyright Commission, in 1879, this act was accepted, and a proposal was made that it should form the basis of a treaty with the United States. The Colonial Office informed the Canadian Government that Minister West would enter into negotiantions with the United States in regard to the matter.

COMMUNICATIONS.

SIZES OF BOOKS AND INDEXES.

Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

DEAR MR. EDITOR: Please request publishers, and other booksellers, to state the number of pages in each book advertised, and to specify sizes by inches: viz., 8°. 6 × 8, pp.xvi, 425.

As for the monster, in form of a man, who publishes an indexless book, let him be hanged, banished, or condemned to imprisonment for life, on bread and water, with hard labor, and reading books without indexes. Of course confiscation of goods, excepting said worthless indexless books, which he may keep.

Bashfully yours, L. Austin Allibone.

PAMPHLETS IN STIFF PAPER COVERS.

Editor of the l'ublishers' Weekly:

In common with the majority of librarians, I cannot afford to bind miscellaneous pamphlets separately, but I should like to place them on the shelves without binding, provided they are received in stiff paper covers and lettered lengthwise on their backs.

The publishers that will send out their pamphlets so bound and lettered will receive the grateful thanks of all book collectors and librarians.

I have been led to these remarks from having recently received Mr. Winthrop's "Yorktown Address." It has stiff covers and needs only the lettering. Stevens' "Magazine of American History" is received in stiff paper covers and lettered also, and this may serve as a model for publishers. Yours, respectfully, H. W. B.

PORTLAND, ME., Dec., 1881.

A WORD TO MESSRS. ---, ---,

A. B. C. & CO.

THE condition of the bookseller to-day is much like that of the Italian prisoner of traditional fame. Confined in a cell, he speedily found that by a diabolical invention it was so framed that each succeeding day it suffered the loss of a window, by the slow contraction of the stone walls about him. Steadily, surely it slowly crawled along, until the iron bedstead was the size of the room. Then the sequel!

So our good publishers are, with a smile in the eye, and with face aglow with benevolent intent, steadily crushing the life out of their less fortunate brothers, the retailer and the jobber.

Poor innocent publishers, they allow themselves to be imposed upon by all sorts of pleas, or else, with malicious intent, they ignore entirely the honest dealer, educated from boyhood to the business of aiding in the circulation of their wares. The latest ruse is for a schoolteacher, who buys books for his pupils, to represent himself as a legitimate bookseller, entitled to as large a discount as if he was in the trade. Of course, with no rent, taxes, interest, and clerk-hire to pay, he can and will undersell the bookseller, and his pupils who buy three dollars' worth of books a year can buy as low as the man who buys $30,000 yearly. Public and private libraries, with the same advantages of having absolutely no expenses of business, are allowed the heaviest discounts, and under the wing of the Library Committee, uncle, aunts, cousins, to the remotest generation, swing in and get all the books they need at the same rate. Unscrupulous dealers placard their wares at fifty percent discount, retail, thereby seducing the unwary, who suppose that all books can thus be bought if one "knows the ropes."

Gentlemen publishers, the remedy is in your hands. You can so meet all outside the regular trade, as will prove to them that they can "buy at home" as low as at the manufactory. You will sell as large editions as now, and raise the bookseller to the honorable position occupied in by-gone years, and win for yourselves the respect of not only the bookselling, but the book-buying public, who now look upon publisher and booksellers alike as "cut-throats."

AN OLD BOOKSELLER.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CHICAGO.—W. W. Brown has opened a store for the holidays in Central Music Hall, corner State and Randolph Streets.

New York CITY.—E. J. Hale & Son, publishers and booksellers, have removed from No. 17 Murray Street to No. 55 Chambers Street.

New York City.—The N. Y. Tribune is responsible for the statement that "John B. Alden, the manager of the American Book Exchange, is endeavoring to reorganize the business by the formation of a new company, and he has filed articles of incorporation for it, under the style of the Useful Knowledge Publishing Company, with an authorized capital of $10,000, in shares at $10 each; the incorporators are F. Tracy, H. W. Bartlett, E. M. Dudley, O. B. Bois, F. E. Grady, and J. B. Alden.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

BEGINNING with the January issue The International Review will be published by the International Review Co. (Limited), at 279 Broadway, N. Y.

WHILE in this country The Library Journal was compelled to abandon the seature of antiquarian bibliography and to confine itself to modern and practical bibliography, England has now sour journals devoted to "ancient lore," viz.: Notes and Queries, The Antiquary, The Bibliographer, of which the first number has just appeared, and The Antiquarian Magazine and Bibliographer. The latter will be published by W. Reeves, of Fleet Street. The past is well provided for, but with what a future?

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

W. W. WATKINS, Cazenovia, N. Y., sends out a very neat little folder with his business card.

HALL & Co., 139 East 8th St., N. Y., have in press Rev. M. N. Olmsted's new "Harmony of the Four Evangelists."

H. B. BURNHAM & Co., Washington, D. C., have published "The Child of Promise," a defence of homeopathy, by Dr. W. M. Cate.

FRED. TREADWELL, Brooklyn, has issued a new edition, bound in cloth, of D. B. Treadwell's "Monograph: a Plea for Bibliomania."

E. L. AKEHURST, Utica, N. Y., favors his customers with a handsome souvenir in the shape of a handsome folder containing, besides his business card, a miniature calendar for the year, postal and other information.

G. W. HARLAN offers to ambitious young colorists under twenty years of age three cash prizes, aggregating $400, for the three best colorings of one or more pictures in the popular juvenile, "Tutti Frutti." The prizes are to be awarded in March, 1882.

PRESIDENT HINSDALE, of Hiram College, O., has been commissioned by Mrs. Garfield to collect, edit, and carry through the press, the speeches, addresses, and published papers of President Garfield. This volume, the editor announces, "has nothing to do with the Life. When the time comes, information touching the Life will be given to the public."

THE agents for "Lincrusta-Walton," 31 Nassau Street, N. Y., have issued two pamphlets describing the commercial features and art value of the invention, and one pamphlet containing extracts from opinions of the press. The name Lincrusta-Walton is described as being "derived from linum, flax, the chief ingredient of Lincrusta being solidified linseed oil, and crusta, relief; the inventor's name being added to identify the manufacture as under the immediate auspices and counsel of the inventor and to secure his name as a perpetual trade-mark." Publishers may find it of interest to investigate the merits of the article, inasmuch as it is claimed that in bookbindings "'Lincrusta Walton' advantageously takes the place of carton-pierre and papier-maché, and even excels leather in its capability of receiving fine and incisive ornament."

M. Benedetti, the well-known Ambassador of France at the Prussian Court in 1870, has just completed a work that will be entitled "Revelations d'un Diplomate."

It is stated that the memoirs which the Empress Eugenie has been preparing at her Swiss chateau, Ahrenenberg, with the assistance of M. Rouher, will be published in Edinburgh during November.

MESSRS. J. & J. M. FAWN, well-known publishers and booksellers, formerly doing business under the firm-name of Thomas Kerslake & Co., in Bristol, Eng., have changed the style of the concern to James Fawn & Son.

GEORG EBERS' latest work, "Die Frau Bürgermeisterin," is not, like his former novels, an Egyptian study. The scene is laid in Holland in the 16th century, and the groundwork of the story is one of the most interesting periods in the history of the Netherlands.

A CONTINUATION is announced of Mrs. Frances Anne Kemble's "Records of a Girlhood," under the title of "Records of a Womanhood." In it Mrs. Kemble will give letters from and anecdotes of many of the leading literary and theatrical lights of the past thirty years.

HERMANN GREVEL announces that after January 1, 1882, he will cease to be a partner in the firm of Asher & Co., publishers and foreign booksellers, London, Eng., and that he will commence a business of his own at 33 King St., London, similar to the one with which he has been conected since 1864.

THE BRITISH "CHAUCER SOCIETY" pays American scholarship a handsome compliment. In the last report of that body it is said of the Riverside edition of the complete works of Chaucer, edited by Mr. Arthur Gilman, that the "States have now the best edition of Chaucer; that most nearly posted up to the present date."

THE Academy remarks: "Apparently the bitter complaints that the Magazin für die Literatur des In- und Auslandes has for some time been pouring forth week after week concerning the systematic piracy practised by Dutch publishers have reached influential quarters, for we learn from the Cologne Gazette that negotiations have been opened for the conclusion of a copyright treaty between Germany and Holland."

HERR OTTO VON LEIXNER, says the London Academy, "is steadily working upon his comprehensive history of the literature of non-German countries, now being published by Spamer, of Leipzig, under the title of 'Illustrirte Geschichte der fremden Literaturen.' In the opinion of competent German critics, Herr Leixner is to be commended for the industry which he has brought to bear upon the collection of his materials, not less than for the possession of that critical faculty without the help of which no literary historian can succeed."

HERR MOHR, of Freiburg, has published, or rather republished, a book which ought to be worth translation into English. It consists of the "Letters of Gen. Riedesel and his Wife during the American War of Independence, 1776-83." Riedesel then commanded a brigade of Hessian troops in the British service; and his wife accompanied him, and shared all his hardships. He was taken prisoner at Saratoga (1777), was not released until 1780, and afterward held a command in Long Island and Canada. These letters were first published by Count von Reuss-Koestritz in 1800."

"We are able to announce," says the Academy, "that the important historical work upon which the Rev. M. Creighton has been engaged for some years past is approaching publication. It will be entitled 'A History of the Papacy during the Period of the Reformation; and its general object is to deal with the Reformation period in its widest sense, by investigating the operation of the causes which brought about the change from mediæval to modern times. With a view to this investigation, the Papacy has been taken as offering the largest field for combining ecclesiastical, political, and intellectual causes. The two first volumes, which are now in the press, deal with the period from 1378 to 1464—the Great Schism. the Reforming Councils, and the Papal Restoration. The work will be published by Messrs. Longmans."

Faith and unfaith: a novel; by the author of "Phyllis," etc. Phil., J. B. Lippincott & Co., 1882 [1881]. 3-302 p. D. cl., $1.25.

This novel of English country life has many of the strong points that made "Mrs. Geoffry," the author's last novel, so popular; it is noticeably good in character-sketching, displays considerable humor, and is full of bright conversations; the plot is not specially new, turning on the old story of love.

Forrester, Mrs. —. My lord and my lady. Phil., J. B. Lippincott & Co., 1882 [1881]. 3

-335 p. S. cl., $1.25.

By the author of "Viva," "Mignon," etc.; an English society novel, very much in the style of the author's previous books; treats of love and marriage, and gives many and varied scenes from London fashionable life; the heroines are two beautiful sisters—one without a particle of heart in her, and the other full of sensibility and feeling; the first one sells herself to "my lord" for his title and breaks his heart with her coquetries; the second has her heart almost broken by a frivolous male flirt, but recovers, and had her true love in one "Duke" Vereker, who figures all through the story.

It is in six chapters, which deny respectively that the reform is undemocratic, unconstitutional, impracticable, unbusinesslike, indefinite, unnecessary, destructive, or opposed to public sentiment, and it is fortified with a wealth of references to the literature of the subject. Appendix contains the Pendleton bill. Index.

Linton, Mrs. E. Lynn. Under which lord? N. Y., G: Munro, 1881. 87 p. Q. (Seaside lib., no. 1165) pap., 20 c.

Agnosticism and ritualism are here placed in strong contrast, as illustrated in the home life of several families; the book is a novel in form, with scenes and characters from fashionable English life, but it is really a strong plea for purely ethical culture against the forms and doctrines of the English High Church; the chief character is a celibate minister of the evangelical school, who wrecks the happiness of several families in his efforts to make converts and gain power.

McGarvey, J. W. Lands of the Bible! a geographical and topographical description of Palestine, with letters of travel in Egypt, Syria, Asia Minor and Greece. 16th thousand. Phil., J. B. Lippincott & Co., 1882 [1881]. 624 p. O. cl.. $3.

Author is professor of sacred history in the College of the Bible, Lexington, Ky.; the journey described in this volume was made in 1879 through the desire and with the help of a number of his former pupils, so that he might more theroughly qualify himself for his special line of instruction, by personal observation. He visited Egypt, Palestine, Syria, Asia Minor and Greece, a personal narrative of which is given in pt. 3, the other 2 pts. being devoted to the geography and topography of the entire country. Copious topographical index.

My wise and my wise's sister. Bost., Roletts Bros., 18°1. 319 p. S. (No name [second] ser.) cl., $1.

Mr. Paul Duchesne, a venerable merchant of Boston, of French extraction, is the person who tells this story, based chiefly upon his own youthful experience, when, as supercargo of one of his uncle's ships, he made a voyage in 1808 from Bordeaux to the West Indies; on board the vessel were two French exiles—an old nobleman and his charming daughter, whom Paul loved; out of this acquaintance sprang the events of the story. When ten years afterward Duchesne visits Paris and finds the daughter married to another, but with a sister equally as beautiful as herself, whom she offers him to console him. Paul marries the sister, and is the sharer in a secret of his wife's sister that is full of dramatic and tragic interest.

Needell, Mrs. J. Hodder. Julian Karslake's secret: a novel. Phil., J. B. Lippincott & Co.. 1882 [1881]. 3-331 p. D. cl., $1.25.

This is a somewhat sensational story, the scene of which is laid in England; the principal character is an obstinate Scotch clergym in who had a brother who had committed a crime. To protect that brother he tenaciously keeps the secret of his misdoings when he could have straightened many matters by telling it. But at last the jealously-guarded secret is divulged.

INTERNATIONAL COPYRIGHT. MARK TWAIN'S COPYRIGHT.

From the New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Dec. 28.—There has been some fearful blundering over the interpretation of the Canadian Copyright law within the past few weeks, and no one appears to have fallen into greater error than Mark Twain himself. He claims that when his book was issued in London, England, he acquired both an imperial and Canadian copyright, and although his application for local copyright had been refused, he knew his Canadian copyright was perfect without it. Mark Twain, to obtain an imperial copyright, had to submit to the conditions of the imperial act, which provides that the work must first be published in the United Kingdom, after which the copyright, so obtained, extends to all British possessions. Such copyright protects him against any Canadian reprint being made of his work, but does not save him, per se, from the importation into Canada of foreign reprints, having paid 121 per cent royalty at entering; whereas, a Canadian copyright would have secured him from the introduction into Canada of any such foreign reprints. Mr. Clemens has fallen into error in supposing that he secures the same protection in the Dominion from an imperial copyright as he would from a copyright issued in Canada. Any person domiciled in Canada or in any part of the British possessions, or being a citizen of any country having an international copyright treaty with the United Kingdom, who is the author of any book, map, chart, or musical composition, etc., and legal representatives of such person, shall have the sole right and liberty of printing, reprinting, publishing, reproducing, and vending such literary or scientific works or compositions in whole or part, and of allowing translations to be printed or reprinted and sold of such literary works from one language into another language, for a term of 28 years from the time of recording the copyright. The Canada Official \ an injurious judgment against a man, the

Gazette of December 3 contained the following

"Copyright Notice.—Notice is hereby given that an interim copyright has been taken out for a work entitled "The Prince and the Pauper," by Mark Twain. The Canadian edition will be published by Dawson Brothers, Montreal."

Although an interim registration was granted. the copyright was refused. In his application for an interim copyright, Mark Twain stated he was domiciled in Canada, whereas in his subsequent application for a full copyright he stated that he had an elective domicile in Canada, and consequently the second application was refused. In the eyes of the department here there is a wide difference between being domiciled in the country and electing to domicile in the same country. It is held that a person is domiciled in a country who resides in said country, with the animus manendi, while in law an elective domicile is an address or place where it has been agreed that delivery will be accepted, although it does not follow that the person so electing his domicile there shall ever visit it. Another condition under which a Canadian copyright is granted is that the work be printed and published or reprinted and republished in Canada, whether published for the first time or contemporaneously with or subsequently to publication elsewhere, provided that in no case the exclusive privilege in Canada shall continue to exist after it has expired anywhere else.

Following closely upon the appointment of Mr. West as Commissioner of the British Government to confer with the authorities at Washington on the subject of international copyright law, the case of Mark Twain has additional interest. During his recent visit to Washington it is understood that the Minister of Finance has conferred with Mr. West regarding the subject of an international copyright treaty. Mr. West was instructed by the Imperial Government to confer with the Canadian Government and obtain such assistance as would enable the British Government to protect the interests of Canada in the event of an international copyright treaty being arranged between Great Britain and the United States. The result of Sir Leonard Tilley's interview with Mr. West has not been made public, although it is understood that the Dominion Government will afford Mr. West every facility to enable him to report at an early date to his Government. The Canadian Publishers' Association is now moving in the direction of petitioning the imperial Government for absolute power for the Dominion Parliament over copyright laws. The present Copyright act, which was passed by the Dominion Parliament in 1875, is also an imperial act, having been passed subsequently by the British Parliament and the House of Lords.

MARK TWAIN EXPLAINS.

To the Editor of the Springfield (Mass.) Republican:

If you will glance at the first article in your second editorial column of to-day's issue you may find two things forcibly illustrated there: that the less a man knows about his subject the more glibly he can reel off his paragraph, and that the difference between the ordinary court and the high court of journalism is, that the former requires facts upon which to base other requires suspicions only. You have not caught me in any divergence from the truth, nor in any incompatibility. But a truce to that; under the pretext of rising to defend myself, I have really risen for a more respectable purpose. Your remarks have, of course, disseminated the impression that in my humble person a greater was defeated in Canada and got its quietus, viz, Copyright; now, I think the fact is of public and general importance—and, therefore, worth printing—that the exact opposite was the case.

I applied formally for Canadian copyright and failed to get it. But this did not cripple my case, because by being in Canada (and submitting to certain legal forms) when my book issued in London I acquired both imperial and Canadian copyright. I did know several hours before I lest Montreal—as heretosore stated in my name —that my application for legal copyright had been refused, but I also knew that my Canadian copyright was perfect without it, and that it would not have been (absolutely) perfect if I had not sojourned in Canada while the book was published in England and printed and published in Canada. Curious as it seems to seem to you, I did leave in Canada perfected arrangements for the prosecution of any who might pirate the book, although I had hardly the ghost of a fear that any attempt would be made to pirate it. Please do not laugh at me any more for this, for the act was not ridiculous. I was not protecting myself against an expectation, but only against a possibility. Perhaps you do not catch the idea. I will put it in another form: If you were going to stop over night with me I should not expect you to set fire to the place; still, I would step down and get the house insured just the same.

Have you ever read the Dominion copyright laws? And if so, do you think you understand them? Undeceive yourself; it is ten thousand to one that you are mistaken. I went to Canada armed to the teeth with both Canadian and American legal opinions. They were the result of a couple of months of inquiry and correpondence between trained Canadian and American lawyers. These men agreed upon but one single thing—that a perfect, imperial and provincial copyright was obtainable through a brief sojourn in Canada and the observance of certain specified forms.

They were pretty uncertain (under one form of procedure) as to the possibility of acquiring a copyright from the Dominion Government itself; well, as before remarked, I tried that form; it failed, but no harm was done. Some little good was done, however; the experiment established the fact, as tar as it can be established without the decision of a court, that "elective domicile" is not sufficient in a copyright matter. There was one other mode of procedure whi h promised considerably better —in fact, I was told that it had been tried already by a couple of American clergymen, and with This is to kind of sort of let on, in a general way, in your written declaration to the Dominion Government, that you haven't come to Canada merely to sojourn, but to stay. My friend, there are reputations that can stand a strain like that; but you know, yourself, that it would not answer for you or me to take any such risk. I declined to try that mode.

MARK TWAIN. HARTFORD, Conn., Sunday, Dec. 18, 1881.

DUTCH BOOK-TRADE EXHIBITION.

From the (London) Bookseller.

In August, this year, there was held, at Amsterdam, an exhibition of the various machines and materials employed in the different branches of trade associated with the production of books, together with finished specimens of work. There were more than ninety exhibitors from the principal towns in Holland. About fifty first and second class Certificates of Merit were awarded for excellence in various depart-In these were included awards for paper, printing, engraving, lithography, zincography, photolithography, globes, typefounding, bookbinding, account-books, paper-cutting machines, binders' materials, etc. The Exhibition itself had a wider range. There were specimens of earlier paper-making, and official maps. The state archives furnished accounts of the booksellers' guilds in former times. There were stereotype plates of 180 years ago : specimens of bookbinding reaching back as far; a series of books beginning at the end of the fifteenth century, and some English works relating to the book trade. The catalogue, a handsome quarto, is itself a kind of exhibition. The title-page is a sample of the finest illuminated printing; to it are attached the names of the designer, printer, and paper-maker. The forty-eight pages of the catalogue have also prefixed to them the names of printer, papermaker, and printing-ink manufacturer. Thisis followed by 128 pages of advertisements, assigned in twenty-one sets of eight pages each to different firms of printers, whose names are given. In this portion of the book individual firms have striven to produce their best work. The result is a collection of specimens, both of printing and engraving, which alone makes the volume worth purchasing. The firm of papermakers most in request is, apparently, H. F. de Charro & Sons, of the Hague, and the printing ink is from Ch. Lorilleux & Co., of Paris.

THE AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE FAILURE.

From the Critic.

THE failure of the American Book Exchange can hardly be attributed to the graspingness of American authors. Its managers cannot railon the high-priced poet, the hard-fisted novelist or historian. They have not perished in trying to succor the down-trodden and obscure in the world of authorship, nor in a patriotic endeavor to elevate the tone of American letters. On the contrary, they have ignored the aspiring native writer and paid court to the standard authors of the mother country. It is not to be supposed that the Englishman has profited by their attentions. Far from it. He has only had the melancholy satisfaction of seeing his. popularity on this side of the water increase, while his receipts from the "regular" publisher of his works here have become smaller than they were before. Taxed with "irregularity" by the established publishers, the managers of the Exchange may retort that it is no less regular to reprint a foreign work for ten cents than to reprint it for twenty dollars. If so, they must overlook the fact that the American publisher usually pays something, no matter how little, to the English author, and that he does not pay more simply because, in the absence of a copyright treaty, he cannot afford to do so. If the Exchange has been of no further service, it deserves credit for having put in the plainest light the absurdity of the present lack of an international agreement. That the cheapest editions of popular books would be profitable despite the necessity of paying copyright, is shown by the success of Lady Brassey's sixpenny "Voyage of the Sunbeam," which has been so great as to induce Sir Theodore Martin to issue an edition of his "Life of the Prince Consort" for sixty cents instead of twenty dollars.

THE Literary World, alluding to the report that Mr. John B. Alden, late of "The Literary Revolution" and some other concerns of like history, proposes to start one or more new ones after the same plan, is reminded of "the Irish councilman who proposed, first, that a new jail be built; second, that the materials be taken from the old one; and third, that the old one be used till the new one was ready."

COMMUNICATIONS. A $200 PRIZE.

A PRIBND, deeply interested in the prosperity of the book trade, wishes to offer a premium of $200 for the best essay on the "Art of Bookselling," with special reference to the transaction of business at a cost of 20 per cent on a 15 per cent profit. No MS, will be accepted unless this point is made clear to the humblest reader. Address "Minus," New York.

CAUTION.

Editor of the Publishers' Weekly:

HAVING been victimized in a small way by a scoundrel having. I understand, several aliases, hailing from Mineral Point, Mo., I desire to warn the trade against him and his manner of operating, which is to advise partles who have advertised for scarce books that he can supply them and will mail on receipt of amount, etc. Not thinking at the time, but that any party who took the WEEKLY and Bookseller would be honest, as they certainly ought to be from reading such good literature, I trusted my money to him, and, failing to get any return, have inquired about the party and find "he is a scoundrel of the worst kind, and a forger"

He has since moved to Lathrop, Mo., so I am informed.

Trusting this may serve to prevent others in the trade from being imposed upon in like manner, I am Yours, respectfully,

T. D. WOODRUFF.

QUINCY, ILL., Dec. 21, 1881.

JOURNALISTIC.

LADY BRASSEY will contribute an article on the decoration of a yacht to the January number of the Magazine of Art.

THE COTTAGE HEARTH, now in its seventh volume, will appear with a new cover and an increased number of pages, commencing with the February number, and will include, among its other attractions, a new serial story by George Macdonald—"Weighed and Wanting"—written especially for its columns.

"Even Ouida," says the Literary World, "is the author has prefixed a surve to have her hit at the sham sestheticism of the day. A bright little comedy from her pen called Cloth of Gold and Cloth of Frieze' will and well supplied with maps.

run through the January and February numbers of Belgravia. The bero is an English nobleman, an admirer of art and a collector of curios, whose actions in real life do not correspond with his ideal dreamings."

THE PENN MONTHLY enters upon its twelfth year with some new features, and with consequent expectations of increased usefulness. It is to have the co-operation of the University of Pennsylvania, and has a new department, "University Items." Its scientific and literary departments will be kept to the usual standard of excellence. The Monthly is issued under the auspices of the Penn Monthly Association, by Edward Stern & Co., Philadelphia.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

GEO. W. HARLAN will publish in January a novel translated from the German by Mary J, Safford, entitled "Count Silvius." Competent critics pronounce it "charming, equal to the best of Marlitt's."

Fowler & Wells have just off the press "Phrenological Miscellany," a volume of some 450 pages, profusely illustrated. They will have ready for the new year their "Illustrated Health Almanac and Annual."

VAN NOSTRAND has recently issued a new edition of "New System of Ventilation," by Henry A. Gouge, a book for the household which has long been out of print, and which is claimed to have been thoroughly tested and found successful. A number of plates show various modifications of the plan.

D. APPLETON & Co. will issue shortly, in their International Scientific series, a volume entitled "The Concepts and Theories of Modern Physics," by J. B. Stallo, of Cincinnati. Though a leading and widely known lawyer in active practice. Judge Stallo is also a student of science who has kept sharply up to its progress.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT & Co. will issue early next year Prof. C. J. Stillé's lecture upon "Mediæval History;" a new novel by "Ouida," the title of which has not yet been determined upon; and Catherine Fox's "Memorials of Old Friends," personal reminiscences of Carlyle, Wordsworth, the Coleridges, Mill, Bunsen, Tennyson, and other famous people of the present century.

A. D. F. RANDOLPH & Co. have issued "The Legend of Baboushka," a Christmas ballad, by Julia C. R. Door. It is exquisitely gotten up and bound in vellum. They have also recently issued a compilation of interest to parents and children, by William Oland Bourne, entitled "Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep." It deals with the child's prayer in prose and verse, and is animated with a religious spirit.

PROF. NORDENSKIÖLD'S narrative of the voyage of the "Vega" round Asia and Europe, to be published by Macmillan & Co. almost immediately, will be in all respects, says the Academy, "one of the most important books of travel that has appeared for a long time. Besides a full account of all the incidents of the voyage, the natural conditions, the inhabitants, and the fauna and flora of the countries visited, the author has prefixed a survey of all previous arctic voyages, which will be of permanent value." The book will be profusely illustrated and well supplied with maps.

A LIFE-SIZE portrait of Ralph Waldo Emerson, uniform with the Atlantic portraits previously 'published by Longsellow, Bryant, Whittier. Lowell, and Holmes, has just been published. It represents Mr. Emerson not in his old age but in the full vigor of his manhood. It cannot fail to be very heartily welcomed by all those who have ever heard Mr. Emerson lecture, and by those who have read his remarkable writings, and must also be acceptable to those who, without personal knowledge of him or intimate acquaintance with his books, yet know that he is an honor to American literature, and sheds lustre upon the American name throughout the world. The portrait was prepared for subscribers to the Atlantic Monthly, to whom it is furnished for one dollar by the publishers, Houghton, Mifflin & Co., Boston.

EMIL FRANZOS' new novel, "Ein Kampf uns Recht," has already reached a second edition.

A UNIFORM edition of the principal writings of the late Mr. W. R. Greg will be published before long by Mr. Trübner. It will fill some eight or nine volumes.

SEELEY & Co., London, announce the immediate publication of a portrait of George Eliot, etched by M. Paul Rajon, from the picture by Mr. Frederick William Burton.

As the "Leopold Shakspere," with Mr. Furnivall's Introduction, has got to its "twenty-second thousand," the revisions that Mr. Furnivall made in that Introduction for Messrs. Cassell's "Royal Shakspere" will now be put as additional Notes to the "Leopold Shakspere."

Messes. Longmans & Co., says the Athenaum, "will shortly extend the experiment of issuing standard copyright books at sixpence each, which was commenced by them with the publication of Lady Brassey's 'Voyage in the Sunbeam.' In January they will issue the Rev. J. G. Wood's popular natural history work, "Strange Dwellings: a Description of the Habitations of Animals." Over sixty wood engravings will be given in this volume, "This will be followed in February by Major Whyte Melville's novel, 'Kate Coventry.' The price in each case will be sixpence."

The new volume (the fifth) of the "Metternich Memoirs," says the London Athenaum, "will be published about the middle of this month. It opens with the revolution of July, 1830, and its consequences in Europe, including the revolution in the Netherlands; the accession of Leopold as King of the Belgians; the Greek disturbances and the election of King Otho; Palmerston's intervention in the internal affairs of the Confederation; the revolt of Mehemet Ali; the fall of the Reform Government of Earl Grey; and the death of Emperor Francis in 1835, which last event concludes the present volume.

George Routledge & Sons, says the Athenaum, "have sent us copies of a sixpenny edition of a number of the best works of Dickens, Lord Lytton, Marryat, etc. They are astonishingly cheap, and it is difficult to understand how they can be produced at the price But while they amply sustain the claim of the publishers to have done at least as much as any other English firm for the diffusion of literature of a high class, they cannot be said to throw any light on the problem that seems to be at present exciting interest, viz., whether it is possible to break down the English system of hiring new books. They are, however, none the less deserving of high commendation."

"It is singularly appropriate," says the London Bookseller, "that Thackeray's publishers, Messrs. Smith, Elder & Co., should undertake the publication of an edition of Henry Fielding's works, such as would have satisfied the author of the "The English Humorists." An edition is announced by the firm in ten royal 8vo volumes, to be edited by Mr. Leslie Stephen. It will be printed on the finest quality of Dickinson's paper by Messrs. Clay, and each volume will contain eight original illustrations by William Small, on China paper. The edition will be limited to 1000 copies for England and 250 for America, and will be sold exclusively through the trade."
